Seventy-two matches are on today's schedule and 56 players drew a bye.

The Canadians taking part are members of the teams which finished a close second to the U.S. in the Americas Cup matches last week. Members of the Mexican team which took part in the three-way tournament are also in the amateur.

Prominent among the participants are Ken Venturi, 21-year-old California champion, who played a major part in the U.S. Americas Cup victory; Harvie Ward of Tarbore, N.C., recently-crowned British amateur champion; Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., twice British amateur king but never U.S. champion; Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N.Y., 1950 winner; Ray Billows, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., three-time runner-up for the national title, and Charlie Coe, 1949 champion from Oklahoma City. Coe was captain of the U.S. Americas Cup team.

Edean Anderson, Montana Girl Star Wins Canadian Ladies Open Title

EDMONTON (CP)—The Canadian women's Open golf championship rests today with a 22-year-old Montana girl, the fifth American winner since the Open resumed in 1947.

Edean Anderson of Helena chopped down Edmonton Mayfair's elusive par Saturday for a 9-and-8 victory over Mary Gay of Kitchener, Ont., to take the title held last year by Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont. Some 4,000 golf fans saw the final.

The young Montanan shot nine birdies to win without difficulty. Her sub-par pace in the semi-finals knocked out Miss Stewart one up.

Miss Gay, tired after defeating the 1951 runner-up, Grace Lenczyk of Hartford, Conn., in a 23-hole semi-final, went behind to stay at the fourth hole. The 20-year-old Ontario champion faltered on the greens and was off on many approach shots.

Not since 1947 when Miss Lenczyk won the 36-hole final 12 and 11 has anyone taken the Open by such a margin. Miss Anderson went nine up after 18 holes and never lost that lead.

Miss Anderson hooked her tee shot to the rough on the fourth hole but the ball hit a tree and bounced to the fairway. She parred the hole in four and Miss Gay lost out when she three-putted from 30 feet.

The Ontario girl took three putts on the sixth to go two down and fell farther behind at the 160-yard seventh when Miss Anderson drove to within 10 feet from the pin and dropped the putt for a birdie two.

At the 10th the birdie almost got Miss Anderson. Her tee shot attracted a gull and the bird picked up the ball, dropping it about a foot closer to the green. Miss Anderson won the hole with a birdie four.

Miss Gay won the 11th when Miss Anderson was trapped but the 12th was won by the Montana champion. Two birdies and three pars on the last five holes gave Miss Anderson a nine-up lead.

The afternoon round was split. Both won two holes and the rest were halved, leaving Miss Anderson the winner on the 28th hole.

Miss Anderson, six-times Montana state champion and winner of several other U.S. titles, won the Canadian Open on her second attempt. In 1950 she lost out in the semi-finals. Miss Gay won her first major title this year in taking the Ontario chapionship.

Mrs. W. D. Edey of Winnipeg went all the way in the championship consolation flight, defeating Mrs. Graeme Pyke of Montreal two up in an 18-hole final.

Minor Baseball, Softball Dates, Are Announced

Softball and baseball playoffs were announced today by Recreational Director "Red" Doran.

The Paul's Motels and Reid's Service Station baseball peewees will play their fifth game of the best-of-five series tonight at the CNR Field starting 6.15. The next game is slated for Wednesday night.

In the bantam division, Robbs Royals and Houstons tangle tonight at Pine Street School.

In the OBA playdowns Trudeau Motors and Kingston rained out on Friday meet for the first time tomorrow night at the Fair Grounds starting at 6.15.

Victoria Church and Robbs Royals meet Tuesday and Thursday nights at Pine Street School in a best-of-three series for the city midget baseball championship.

In softball circles four teams will see action in the series for the Dr. R. T. Potter Trophy. On Tuesday Rotary meets Boyces; Thursday Kinsmen meet Booths while the first two teams clash again on Friday with the latter pair meeting next Monday, Aug. 25th. All games will be played at the Firemens' Park. Crests will be presented to the champions as well as the trophy.

Glen Roys and Brooklin, rained out over the weekend, are scheduled to play here next Saturday. The postponed game will likely be played at Brooklin some time this week.

Officer-Training Class Enlarged Due to Interest

OTTAWA (CP)—Interest in Canada's third and newest officer-training college has been so enlarged and its scope of training broadened, Defence Minister Claxton announced today.

He said College Militaire Royal de St. Jean at St. Johns, Que., will open Sept. 15 with 125 cadets in attendance instead of the 100 originally announced. Applications close Aug. 31 and there already have been 1,200 inquiries and more than 220 firm applications, he said, with more coming in daily.

The second change means that the cadets will be trained at Fort St. John not for one year as originally announced but for two or three, putting it on much the same basis as the other two services colleges, Royal Military College at Kingston and Royal Roads on Vancouver Island.

Thus it now will be possible for a young man to take entirely at Fort St. John the two-year course now required to fit him for a commission in the so-called line or executive branches of the forces.

5 H	6 S

The north opening of a club before showing spades said he had one card more in the first suit. The diamond one-jump shift in the south was forcing to at least a game.

The three spade assist by south was not yet game. So, north was forced to keep it open again. When north did and showed a sixth trick by his raise, south could count 12 tricks in the pair.

If a player has doubts as to whether a slam should be probed he should review what his partnership pair has revealed up to the moment. It is surprising how much they tell each other.

When south learns of 12 tricks in the pair, he needs only two more items of information for slam safety. One is to know what will be their final trump suit. The other is enough aces and kings.

Four no-trump by south was the aces and kings asker. Response of five hearts by north showed one ace and one king. Therefore, his other four tricks must be queens and side suit shorts.

Thus does south learn that opponents have an ace and a king of some kind. This means a grand slam should not be tried. But enough has been learned to warrant a small slam bid. Go to it.

Movie Column

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Everybody's getting into the act! Now William Lundigan has abandoned his grey flannel suit for a Roman officer's skirt.

Bill joins a distinguished list of actors who have exposed their knees for the sake of art and box office. Others include Gregory Peck ("David and Bathsheba"), Victor Mature ("Samson and Delilah") and Robert Taylor ("Quo Vadis").

Lundigan also follows the trend cited by Fred MacMurray recently. Like MacMurray, Bill has largely been identified with genteel, modern stories and now is having his first fling at sword play and adventure.

"In most of my pictures, I've been the pleasant young fellow from a nice Boston family," he laughed. "I'm generally holding the hand of the heroine."

Hand-holding is nice work but Bill has other ambitions. They are being realized in "Serpent of the Nile." He plays a Roman officer who romances Cleopatra, portrayed by Rhonda Fleming.

Capsule review; "The Quiet Man" is a splendid comedy, full of warmth and wonderful color. The color is provided by the lush Irish countryside and the rich native characters. The story is slight and often slow-moving. Briefly, it's the tale of an Irish-American prizefighter who returns to his old home and woos his bride. He runs right into the Irish courting customs, an that provides bounteous laughter. Heading a rollicking cast are John Wayne, Maureen O'Hara and Barry Fitzgerald. Sole objection; many of the lines get lost in the brogue.

WHAT MAKES A GREAT MOTION PICTURE?

Some of the Most exciting movies are made, not in Hollywood, but on the actual scene of the story. Remember "King Solomon's Mines"? M-G-M went to the rugged North country to film its latest production, "The Wild North," starring Stewart Granger, Wendell Corey and Cyd Charisse. It is in New Exciting Ansco Color. "The Wild North" opened last Friday at the Belle Theatre and the raves can still be heard wherever you go. Have you seen it? As you thrilled to "King Solomon's Mines," so will you, too, thrill to the wolf pack attacks, the avalanche and the raging rapids in "The Wild North." There are countless other moments that you will long remember.

"The Wild North" is a great picture. We urge you to see it Today or Tuesday on the screen of the Belle Theatre.

AT THE McCARTHY—Stewart Granger co-stars with Valerie Hobson in the technicolor production "Blanche Fury" now playing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. 2nd feature is the comedy hit "Passport To Pimlico", starring Stanley Holloway and Margaret Rutherford.

BURLINGTON SPAN OPENED

BURLINGTON (CP) — Bridgemaster Bert Hockridge, anxious to get back to work, opened the new span across the canal here Saturday, one hour ahead of schedule. The new bridge, replacing one knocked down by a freighter in April, was slated for opening at 6 p.m. Traffic, detoured through Hamilton during the last four months, was soon back to normal on the bridge.

Movie Column

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Everybody's getting into the act! Now William Lundigan has abandoned his grey flannel suit for a Roman officer's skirt.

Bill joins a distinguished list of actors who have exposed their knees for the sake of art and box office. Others include Gregory Peck ("David and Bathsheba"), Victor Mature ("Samson and Delilah") and Robert Taylor ("Quo Vadis").

Lundigan also follows the trend cited by Fred MacMurray recently. Like MacMurray, Bill has largely been identified with genteel, modern stories and now is having his first fling at sword play and adventure.

"In most of my pictures, I've been the pleasant young fellow from a nice Boston family,' he laughed. "I'm generally holding the hand of the heroine."

Hand-holding is nice work but Bill has other ambitions. They are being realized in "Serpent of the Nile." He plays a Roman officer who romances Cleopatra, portrayed by Rhonda Fleming.

Capsule review; "The Quiet Man" is a splendid comedy, full of warmth and wonderful color. The color is provided by the lush Irish countryside and the rich native characters. The story is slight and often slow-moving. Briefly, it's the tale of an Irish-American prizefighter who returns to his old home and woos his bride. He runs right into the Irish courting customs, an that provides bounteous laughter. Heading a rollicking cast are John Wayne, Maureen O'Hara and Barry Fitzgerald. Sole objection; many of the lines get lost in the brogue.

AT NEW BELLE—Romance, Adventure, thrills pack "The Wild North", M.G.M.'s intrepid drama of a trapper hunted down by a member of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, Continuing Today and Tuesday, at the Belle Theatre, matinee daily. Stewart Granger, plays the fugitive, Wendell Corey the Mountie, and Cyd Charisse, shown above with Granger, the Indian girl with whom he falls in love.

AT THE McCARTHY—Stewart Granger co-stars with Valerie Hobson in the technicolor production "Blanche Fury" now playing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. 2nd feature is the comedy hit "Passport To Pimlico", starring Stanley Holloway and Margaret Rutherford.

BURLINGTON SPAN OPENED

BURLINGTON (CP) — Bridgemaster Bert Hockridge, anxious to get back to work, opened the new span across the canal here Saturday, one hour ahead of schedule. The new bridge, replacing one knocked down by a freighter in April, was slated for opening at 6 p.m. Traffic, detoured through Hamilton during the last four months, was soon back to normal on the bridge.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE—"Wild North", Stewart Granger, Wendell Corry, Cyd Charisse. (In Color). 2.25; 7.25; 9.45.

AT THE CAPITOL—"Macao", Robert Mitchum, Jane Russell, William Bendix, 7.20, 10.10. "Woman In The Dark", Penny Edwards, 8.55.

AT THE McCARTHY — "Passport to Pimlico", Stanley Holloway, Margaret Rutherford at 2 p.m., 7 p.m., 10.15. "Blanche Fury", color by Technicolor. Stewart Granger, Valerie Hobson at 3.40, 8.40.

AT THE TRENT—"People Will Talk", Cary Grant, Jeanne Crain at 2.20, 7.20, 9.25.

WHAT
MOTION PICTURE?

Some of the Most exciting movies are made, not in Hollywood, but on the actual scene of the story. Remember "King Solomon's Mines"? M-G-M went to the rugged North country to film its latest production, "The Wild North," starring Stewart Granger, Wendell Corey and Cyd Charisse. It is in New Exciting Ansco Color. "The Wild North" opened last Friday at the Belle Theatre and the raves can still be heard wherever you go. Have you seen it? As you thrilled to "King Solomon's Mines," so will you, too, thrill to the wolf pack attacks, the avalanche and the raging rapids in "The Wild North." There are countless other moments that you will long remember.

"The Wild North" is a great picture. We urge you to see it Today or Tuesday on the screen of the Belle Theatre.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, AUG. 19, 1952.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Don't put yourself in compromising position through thoughtlessness. The diplomat will go further today, so be extra careful and you will really achieve.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Very definite trend to assist you in business transactions if you are alert, open to co-operation from right sources. Your basic plans are truly right.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Sell your personality but not in too forceful a manner this mixed period. Influences predict generous possibilities from regular activities. Romance favored.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—May take a few hours to get started but when you get into high gear you can make headway. Concentrate your efforts to get maixmum benefits.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Look for encouragement and possibly help from unexpected sources. Live-and-let-live, give-and-take and you won't have too much contention or worry.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Fine gains to be made if you think twice before acting or speaking. Employ well your sound sense of deduction. Extra progress in some financial undertakings.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Suggest a check on past performances. Study what you did, then attack problems with improved methods and fresh confidence. Keep trying.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—With clear vision and cheerful disposition you may make this a very good day. Take on tasks like a true Scorpio native can.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Aspects rate high personal affairs, business close to you and your family. Your day should wind up successfully. Heart interests favcred.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Step up activities in work, general business, science, civic and charity matters. You can achieve with astute management but will have to watch your disposition.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Be cautious with money, signing papers, valuables. Don't lose through carelessness. Consult elders, superiors, or younger people who also know. Avoid a hit-and-miss attitude.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—By having a calculating eye for the future this stimulating day you should come upon fine advantages. Tend to all necessary matters early.

YOU BORN TODAY: You Leo-ites are leaders, salesmen, make excellent doctors, teachers, public speakers, actors. Are usually cheerful, fun-loving companions. Beware of imposters. Don't spend hard earned money foolishly; don't fall for flattery or schemes. Birthdate of: Orville Wright, pioneer in aviation; Bernard Baruch, philosopher, financier; Colleen Moore, actress.

24 New Cardinals Likely Will Be Named Soon

VATICAN CITY (CP)—A new report that the Pope is nearing a decision on renewing the membership of the Roman Catholic church's badly depleted College of Cardinals appeared yesterday in the Roman press.

Il Tempo said the pontiff "is carrying to completion his studies for the grand reform of the Sacred College and the high hierarchy of the church."

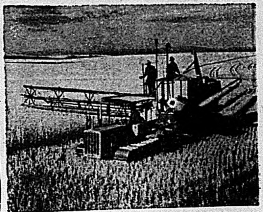
According to these reports, the newspaper said, the Pontiff's studies consider giving all countries a seat in "the Senate of the church." It "is not to be excluded," the newspaper added, "that even the prelates of the church behind the Iron Curtain would be elevated to the purple."

There was no immediate comment from Vatican circles.

The 70-member College of Cardinals as constituted after the great consistory of 1946 now has 24 vacancies.

James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, is Canada's only cardinal. There has been speculation that Most Rev. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec, might get a red hat. French-Canadians have been without a cardinal since the death five years ago of Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve.

Canadian Wheat Output Hits Record



In a report from Ottawa it was revealed the wheat crop now ripening is largest Canada has ever known. The current estimate is that the yield will be 656,000,000 bushels, almost 100,000,000 more than Canada has produced in any other year. The prairies are expected to account for all but about 24,000,000 bushels of this staggering crop as growing conditions in the three provinces have been nearly ideal. This year's record crop is growing on 26,000,000 acres, less than a record number, as compared to 28,700,000, the largest number of acres sown to wheat in 1940. — Central Press Canadian.

Most Important Things Come First

Unempressed by the fixed bayonets and the solemn expressions of the military guard at Petawawa, Ont., little Michael Gander goes after his ball and retrieves it, too. The occasion was the unveiling of a cairn to commemorate the first military aircraft flight in Canada and it was attended by Hon. J. A. D. McCurdy, lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia, who made the historic flight in 1909. — Central Press Canadian.

Underneath The Bough

By Edna G. Robins

"Vincent will be here about 6 o'clock, Louise. I told him we'd have dinner about that time." Harry Weston was addressing his wife.

"Yes, I'll be ready. But it seems strange, Harry, that you should have had a cousin all these years and never mentioned him," Louise said.

"I've not seen him since we were boys. He went to Paris and I never expected to see him again. I really had forgotten all about him."

"But how did he come to go to Paris?"

"It happened that we were both orphaned at 15. Uncle Daniel took us in, one after the other, and brought us up and supervised our education. When we finished the course at the Academy, he gave us our choice of going on with our education or starting in business. Vincent said he wanted to study art and I decided to go into business. Uncle Daniel sent him to Paris and got me well started in an office. Vincent never came back."

"I wonder why he's coming now."

"He didn't say. He'll probably tell us tonight. Give him a good dinner anyway."

Louise thought about Vincent all day, thrilled at the idea of meeting a man who must certainly be sophisticated after so many years in Paris.

She wondered about Vincent's appearance. Would be be handsome? Wold he wear a beret?

She dressed with care in her best party dress. She looked in the mirror anxiously to see the final result and laughed at herself for worrying.

"Anybody'd think you were a girl dressing for her first ball, instead of being an old woman, married 17 years." She gave her head a saucy toss and added, "Well, I must say, my dear, you don't look your age."

She was busy in the kitchen when the doorbell rang at 6 o'clock. Eleanor went to the door and soon ran down to tell her that Vincent Weston was in the parlor.

Louise threw off her apron and cast a hasty glance at herself in the mirror over the dining room mantel. She had felt all day that this visit was important—that it would open to her an avenue of escape. She was wide-eyed and expectant as she entered the parlor.

She immediately felt a shock of disappointment. Her cousin-in-law was not tall and handsome but decidedly stubby. He was staring up at her mother's portrait and turned on her rather fiercely.

"They're all wrong, these shadows. The flesh tints are good—very good. The background—a little too flat. There's power here. It should never have been left un-finished."

"It was my first portrait. I was working on it just before my marriage. I never was able to do any more to it after that."

"You must learn to draw," Vincent said bruskly. "And study your shadows."

"I'm afraid I'll never do any more painting," Louise said sorrowfully.

Vincent grunted. "I suppose Cousin Harry's just the same as he used to be. No imagination. Why did you ever marry him? You didn't need to marry when you could paint like that."

"Well, I suppose every woman wants to marry," said Louise, feeling the weakness of her argument.

Vincent grunted again and stared at her disconcertingly. She was relievad to hear Harry's key in the door and called him in.

At first Louise was afraid that during the dinner Vincent would bring up the subject of art in general and of her painting in particular, but apparently he knew his cousin in spite of many years' separation. He spoke of Paris with a brittle humor that fascinated the young people and caused Louise no embarrassment whatever.

Harry, coming home at 6 o'clock the next evening, was surprised and startled to find Eleanor presiding over the kitchen.

"Mother? Oh, she went out with Uncle Vincent. We were so surprised when he appeared at about 2 o'clock."

"And where did they go?" asked her father without enthusiasm.

"Why, it seems that Uncle Vincent has a picture in some museum in New York—a gallery he called it. He was anxious to have Mother see it. She didn't want to go at first, but I told her I could start the dinner. I knew she was really dying to go."

They had nearly finished dinner when Louise came in with Vincent. Harry was not a bit happy. He had found a dinner alone with his children quite an ordeal. It was the first time that such a situation had arisen. The children had treated him like an honored guest, with the aloof courtesy they would reserve for strangers. He was feeling much abused when Louise entered, glowing joyous.

"Well, Eleanor, dear," she said ignoring her husband, "did you save anything for us? We're a little late, but I knew you'd get along all right." She turned to smile sweetly at Harry's unhappy face. "We had tea in such a wonderful place. I hope Vincent stays a long time. He's promised to show me all around New York."

Eleanor hurried in with plates of hot soup, and Harry did not need to make any comment. Louise knew that to please Harry she should have come in like a culprit, full of apologies. But she had had a new experience that had thrilled her, excited her—best of all, had restored her self-respect. Vincent had shown her delicately but unmistakably that he found her de-

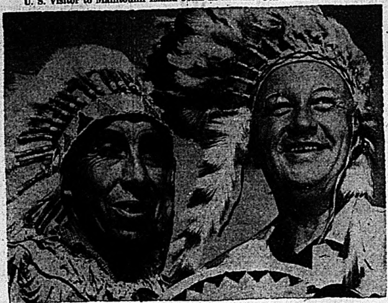
U. S. Visitor to Manitoulin Island Joins in Indians' Centennial Celebration



Joining in centennial celebration on Manitoulin Island, Ont., U. S. visitor John Coulter is seen wearing flowing white headdress presented to him by Joe Peter Pangowich, left, better known as War Cloud. For the 3,000 Indians on the Wikemikong 1952 marks 100th birthday of their tribe and they are making the best of it. As celebrations are in order most of the year on this reserve the centennial festivities are just a little bigger, a little better than previous get-togethers.—Central Press Canadian.

100,000 Pounds in Gold Bars Hidden in Battered Wreck

LONDON (CP)—The 14,000-ton cruiser Laurentic was torpedoed 12 miles north of Lough Swilly in 1917. She was carrying £4,997,000 in gold bullion to New York.

Between 1918 and 1924, admiralty operations salvaged most of the treasure despite vicious tides and bad weather conditions. But £100,000 in 20 gold bars still lies amid the battered wreck, now 35 years old and 120 feet straight down.

New equipment has been developed which makes location of the wreck an easier task though conditions in which the divers must work are still dangerous. They must operate head down, under great pressure, often attacked by giant dog-fish and never sure when a surge of water may trap them in the twisted steel.

The salvage ship Topmast 15 is on the spot now. Other treasure has been recovered in the form of two eight-ton bronze propellors worth £1,500 each.

The Laurentic hulk has long been a great challenge to salvage experts. Now the treasury has made a deal with a London firm to search for the balance of the gold.

Among the problems will be reaching the strong room of the sunken ship and eliminating the high-voltage sting of enormous jellyfish called "Medusa."

Six Cars Derailed

CALEDONIA (CP)—A caboose and six other cars were derailed last night on the Canadian National Railways line two miles east of here. No one was injured.

A Hamilton-bound freight train crashed into the rear of a string of freight cars standing on a bridge over Seneca Creek. Two tankers filled with kerosene were tossed into the creek 60 feet below and four other freight cars were piled on an embankment.

MUCH WHEAT FOR ITALY

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Gennaro A. Iesulauro, Italian vice-consul here, announced yesterday that the Committee of Canada Flood Relief for Italy has about $91,000 worth of wheat for shipment to the Po River valley, Calabria and Sicily areas flooded last winter. The grain will leave Montreal early next month for Genoa.

State Department Releases Study Of Red Tactics

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department yesterday released a study of the tactics by which Communist governments are capturing youth and chaining churches to the state in their drive to kill all religion.

The report asserts that the ultimate aim of Communist policy toward religion "is its extinction."

In one of the primary drives, the study says, religious education for the young has generally been removed from the schedule of church activities and "youth organizations, including those of Catholic youths, have been reorganized into federations which wage a crusade against religion."

Another such step is to make churches subservient to the Communist state, the review states, in the pattern of relations between the Russian orthodox church and the government of the Soviet Union.

MONTREAL OUSTS TORONTO

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Stelco came through with two victories during the week-end against Italo-Canadians of Toronto, Ontario representatives in the Dominion challenge trophy soccer playoffs. Stelco won 1-0 Saturday and 3-0 Sunday. Stelco now goes to Winnipeg to take on the winner of a Manitoba-Saskatchewan series in the Canadian playoffs.

ESKS WALLOP ALS

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos, after a shaky start, Saturday night came from behind to wallop Montreal Alouettes 29-11 in an exhibition football game before a crowd of about 13,500. Montreal held a 6-0 lead after the first quarter but Eskimos roared from behind to go ahead 12-11 at the half. Edmonton added an unconverted touchdown in the third quarter and two converted majors in the final quarter to win going away.

Japan-Based Forts Bomb Huge Red Grenade Factory

Plant Located Three Miles South Manchurian Border

By WILLIAM C. Barnard

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Fourteen Japan-based United States Superforts last night bombed a huge Communist grenade factory employing 2,000 workers in northwest Korea. The factory was only three miles south of the Manchurian border.

Far East headquarters in Tokyo said the sprawling works was one of the 78 military targets the United Nations command has given advance notice it will attack.

It was the first time the plant, at Nakwon, halfway between Sinuiju and Namsidong, had been hit. Results of the raid were not announced. The planes dropped 140 tons of bombs.

But the B-29 pilots, skirting the edge of an erratic typhoon sweeping across the southern end of the Korean peninsula, reported they met intense anti-aircraft fire. One plane was attacked by a Red night fighter but the Air Force said all 14 planes returned safely.

Produced Grenades

The Air Force said the munitions layout contained 17 primary buildings of steel and reinforced concrete and dozens of bunkers and ammunition stores catacombed in nearby hills. The plant was reported to have produced daily 1,000 anti-tank grenades and 3,000 to 5,000 hand grenades.

The weather began clearing today over the battle front after the typhoon swept out into the sea of Japan and headed for Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island.

Chinese Reds shortly after midnight threw a light probing attack against Bunker Hill on the western front. It was quickly driven back by intense Allied fire power.

On the rugged eastern front, U.N. troops were more concerned with the weather than the Communists. Sixty-mile-an-hour winds whistled over exposed U.N. hilltop positions.

The typhoon caused heavy rains.

A U.S. Eighth Army staff officer said there were no reports of loss of life or injuries because of the storm.

In South Korea Communist guerrillas today unsuccessfully attempted to ambush a U.S. army courier train on which actress Audrey Totter was a passenger.

Two passengers—an American Army captain and a Korean civilian newsreel cameraman—were wounded.

The train did not stop as the guerrillas fired several shots into the moving cars.

Commission Asks General Council To Take Steps

TORONTO (CP) — A United Church commission on church union has asked the General Council of the church to take six concrete steps towards reunion with the Church of England in Canada.

The council will consider the commission's recommendations at its 15th annual session, opening in Hamilton Sept. 10.

The commission recommended that the United Church welcome to its communion members in good standing in the Church of England in Canada. It said periodic, possibly annual, exchanges of pulpits between ministry and clergy of both churches would be desirable. Development of community churches, possibly on the basis of double affiliation, should be considered.

A commission on tobacco requested that the council find that tobacco is not a moral issue within the United Church.

The commission does not regard the use and distribution of tobacco as sinful. "It is not in the same category as gambling and drunkenness. The use of tobacco cannot be generally regarded as a matter of conscience."

The commission recommended tobacco advertising in newspapers and on radio be kept within bounds and that the CBC impose a strict code of rules on television advertising.

93-lb. Sturgeon Caught in Trent

CAMPBELLFORD (CP) — Two Toronto men, Donald Trakalo and Peter Wish, yesterday landed what is believed to be the biggest fish ever taken from the Trent River.

The fish, a sturgeon, measured six feet, six inches and weighed 93 pounds. Trakalo and Wish were trolling for muskellunge about six miles east of here when they spied the big fish. They clubbed it, put a rope around it and towed it to shore.

Local fishermen said they thought this might have been the big fish which got away from Police Sgt. William G. Watson of St. Catharines two weeks ago at the same spot. Watson lost the fish after playing it for two hours and 35 minutes.

Heavy Hail Damage

DELHI (CP)—A five-minute hail storm early yesterday practically wiped out a year's labor on some 15 farms south of Scotland when bumper crops of flue-cured tobacco were damaged as high as 100 per cent.

Loss on several farms was said to be $35,000.

The hail storm cut a narrow swath through a strip encompassing a number of top-flight crops.

DRILLERS STRIKE OIL

TOKYO (AP)—The newspaper Asahi reported today that drillers struck oil Sunday from a sea-bottom area near Akita prefecture in northwestern Japan. Japanese geologists described the strike as "fairly large" and the oil of medium quality.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Temperatures in most regions of Ontario dropped into the fifties last night giving patches of light fog in many low-lying areas. Except for scattered thundershowers tonight and again Wednesday night in northern areas, generally pleasant summer weather will continue in all of Ontario again today and Wednesday. Warm air moving eastward from western Canada and the mid-western United States will begin to cause temperatures in most areas to rise slowly on Wednesday.

Two Women, Man Battle Police In Station

BARRIE (CP)—Two women and a man battled with two policemen in the police station here Saturday night, ripping one officer's shirt to ribbons and putting the other officer on the floor, police said.

The fight began after the officers arrested two men for causing a disturbance. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kosy of Kirkland Lake, and Mrs. Rita Komer, also of Kirkland Lake and wife of one of the arrested men, argued about the arrest and refused to leave.

Kosy resisted arrest on a charge of obstructing and in the ensuing struggle the women "slapped and pulled," police said.

All three now face charges of obstructing.

Brooklyn Batchelor Circles Globe Without Leaving a Word of His Plans

NEW YORK (AP)—A Brooklyn bachelor, sailing alone in his 33-foot sloop, completed a round-the-world voyage today—3½ years after he left here without a word of his plans.

While Al Peterson, 40, former milling machine foreman, tied his ship—the Stornoway, to a mooring at Sheepshead Bay a friend, John Slater, told this story:

In 1949 Peterson provisioned the Stornoway for a long voyage and sailed from Brooklyn without announcing his destination.

A postcard from Miami, Fla., was the first hint of his whereabouts. The next card came from a Pacific Coast port.

That it was Tahiti; Sydney, Australia; through the Indian Ocean and the Red Sea to the Mediterranean; and on to Dakar, Africa.

Peterson left Dakar June 28 for the 52-day run across the Atlantic to Brooklyn.

His sloop, with an 11½-foot beam and six-foot draft, is equipped with two sails rigged on a single mast and an outboard motor.

SECRET REPORT ON WORLD DEALS TO BE PUBLISHED

Charged Large Oil Firms Formed Powerful Cartel

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman has ordered the lid off a long-secret report on international oil deals, amid new charges that a rich and powerful oil cartel is siphoning off United States foreign-aid funds.

Decision to lift the official secret label from the report, a year after it was written by federal experts, was announced yesterday by Senator John Sparkman of Alabama, the democratic nominee for vice-president.

Sparkman spoke as head of the Senate Small usiness sub-committee. He said the 10-chapter report is being printed now by his subcommittee and "probably" will be available for distribution by the end of this week."

The State Department has acknowledged that it had the document classified as secret for security reasons and lest its contents further inflame relations between British oil interests and the government of Iran.

To Sudpoena Report

The Justice Department moved to subpoena the report for its recently-ordered federal grand jury investigation of monopoly charges against seven U.S. and foreign oil companies.

Senator T.C. Hennings, Missouri Democrat, fired new accusations of intrigue at the oil firms, charging they form a cartel and a "giant conspiracy" profiteering against European countries which receive U.S. dollar aid.

Hennings renewed accusations that the oil companies charge those countries a higher price for oil than they charge buyers in the U.S. and Canada, contending that this has added huge sums to the costs of U.S. foreign aid.

Sparkman's statement said the suppressed report "traces the substantial control by seven international oil companies over the petroleum industry of the world."

The seven U.S. and foreign oil companies are Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of California, the Texas Company, Socony-Vacuum, Gulf Oil—all U.S. owned—and two foreign firms dominated by the British, Royal Dutch Shell and Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

Pickering Twp. Council Requests Chief be Removed

PICKERING (CP) — Pickering township council, for the second time in two years, has called for the removal of the chief of police.

John Irvine was fired as police chief in 1950, for what council called neglect of duty, and replaced by Lockhart W. Tinnel, a veteran of 35 years on the Toronto city force during which time he rose to the rank of detective-sergeant.

Council's decision to fire Chief Trinnel came during a closed meeting last week. A citizen's group—headed by salesman E. N. B. Smith—is circulating a petition urging that the police commission ignore council recommendation and retain the chief.

Councillors recommended to the commission that the chief be relieved because of his refusal to cooperate with council and because of dissension within the six-man force.

Pickering is 15 miles east of Toronto.

Toll from Lynmouth Flood May Reach Ninety Dead, River Destroys 42 Houses, Cottages

LYNMOUTH, England (AP)—Police warned today that the toll from Saturday's devastating flood on England's southwest coast may go as high as 90 dead.

The latest official casualty figurges stood at 13 known dead, with 28 missing and presumed dead. Seven of the bodies so far recovered have been identified.

But unofficially the police said they still had no word on at least 50 more hoidayers believed to have been in the resort area Friday night, when sudden downpours sent the quiet little Lyn river raging over this Devon honeymoon resort.

The village's inhabitants were allowed back for the first time yesterday but new panic hit the area last night when a report spread that a nearby reservoir had broken its banks. The report proved false.

The river destroyed 42 houses, hotels and cottages, wrecked 17 others and seriously damaged another 20, the Devon County surveyor reported.

Police, who were taken in by the false report last night, helped spread terror by driving through village streets urging residents to flee.

An hour later police learned the report was false, but, as a constable said, "by that time it was hard to get them to come back." The worst panic was in Callacombe 12 miles from here, just below the reservoir.

Thirteen bodies were recovered after army engineers blasted and bulldozed their way through boulders, wrecked houses and uprooted trees.

A number of bodies were reported seen floating in the sea by shipping.

It may be weeks before a true census can be made of the casualties. Some of the bodies may have been ground up by rolling boulders. Others may have been washed out to sea.

Dynamite boomed as the workers tried to clear the rubble-blocked channel of the Lyn River, which overflowed Saturday, sent 920 families fleeing and brought an estimated 40,000 tons of hillside crashing through the town. More than 1,500 other families in nearby Lynton were driven from their homes. In Dulverton, 600 families had to find shelter with friends.

First estimates put the property damage to the area at more than £7,000,000.

With the main river-bed blocked, the Little Lyn still was flowing out of its course and too-heavy rains could send it on the rampage again. Engineers said it might take 10 days to restore the stream to its old course. Other workers began setting up pontoon bridges to replace the 10 spans which were washed away by the floods.

Amid the roar of blasting operations, in which the engineers broke up the larger boulders so they could be pushed out of the way, villagers sadly picked their way through the rubble, hunting for personal belongings. Police guarded the area to prevent looting.

Carcasses of cattle, sheep, rabbits and chickens were found everywhere — many of them miles from their pastures and farmyards. More than 2,500 villagers and vacationers had been evacuated from the ghost village to hastily-converted refugee centres inland.

The Red Cross trucked in tons of food and clothing to the flood victims. Harold MacMillan, housing minister, travelled to the town for a personal inspection of the scene. Prime Minister Churchill sent the town council this message:

"Please convey my deep sympathy to all who have suffered in this strange and grievous misfortune."

Sir John Shelley, Devon county council chairman, decided to make an urgent appeal to Churchill to treat "this unprecedented calamight" as a national disaster.

China and Soviet Union Open Top-Level Talks on Economic, Political, Military Operations

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—China and the Soviet Union opened top-level talks here yesterday on issues concerning their economic, political and military relations.

There appears to be great emphasis on the all-Asian aspects of this consultation among the leaders of the two big Communist powers. It seemed likely that both countries wanted to talk over the whole general situation in the Far East, with special emphasis on Japan.

High on the list of subjects under discussion obviously will be the return to China of the Chinese Changchun railway and the bases at Dairen and Port Arthur. The Soviet Union has promised to return these properties to China either upon the conclusion of a Japanese treaty or not later, in any event, than the end of 1952.

Chou En-lai, premier and foreign minister of the Chinese people's Republic, heads the delegation sent by Chinese leader Mao Tze-Tung for the talks.

The emphasis on the all-Asia angle of the talks is indicated by the report of one of the Asian diplomats here that he was specifically invited to the airport to greet the Chinese. Since other Asian diplomats — from Burma, India, Afghanistan and elsewhere—were on hand, it seemed likely they, too, were invited. The Chinese have relations with Britain, Sweden, Denmark, Finland and Switzerland, among other western countries, but none of these diplomatic representatives was invited.

Japan looms large in the Asia picture. The 1950 Sin-Soviet treaty provides for consultation "on all important questions affecting the common interests of the Soviet Union and China," and pledges "all necessary measures available" against the threat of aggression or violation of peace on the part of "Japan or of any other state which might directly or indirectly be united with Japan in acts of aggression."

The Russians have said that the United States is attempting to remilitarize Japan for the purpose of bringing it into a Pacific alliance—similar to the Atlantic alliance—to threaten the security of the Soviet Union.

The matter of Soviet-Chinese trade and economic assistance also is bound to play a part in the talks.

With the Korean War costing Communist China heavily, there is some indication that the Chinese want much more aid—both military and economic—than the Soviet Union has been affording. China may even want the U.S.S.R. to rebuild the arms-producing industrial potential of Manchuria.

The meeting may have been made imperative by the necessity for reviewing developments relating to Japan, which Stalin himself has said now is in the forefront of the East-West struggle.

One western informant in London suggests that Russia and China may soon offer to negotiate a peace treaty of their own with the Japanese government in a bid to woo the Japanese away from the west and to divide still further the nationalist-minded Japanese people.

Plans for New Town on Don Mills Rd. Laid

TORONTO (CP)—Plans for a new town to be built in North York township were revealed today with announcement of the purchase of the 600-acre Don Alda farm property by Don Mills Development, Limited. Toronto Millionaire E.P. Taylor is associated with the Company.

Purchase of the farm brings total acreage in the area owned by the company up to 2,200 acres. North York township officials said that sites have been sold for four "very large" industrial plants.

Body of Youth Shot to Death Found on Road

NORTH BAY (CP)—The body of Debbie Logan, 20, of Stonecliffe was found today on a roadway in Deux Rivieres, 60 miles east of here. He had been shot in the stomach.

Police are holding Norman Pacquin, 28, of Montreal, in connection with the shooting. Police said Pacquin is the owner of a North Renfrew township house where the shooting is said to have occurred.

Stonecliffe is 80 miles east of North Bay.

LABOR CONGRESS CALLS ON GOVT. TO KAYO REDS

Wants All Communists In Canada Outlawed

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian labor's biggest body, which has been biffing union Reds around roughly, is about to call on the Canadian government for the kayo.

With the Red cleanup in the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada just about over, the congress at its annual convention here this week is expected to call on the federal government to outlaw Communists in Canada.

A long step from old T.L.C. tolerance of Communists in its ranks—it even had Communist Pat Sullivan as national secretary-treasurer until 1948—the move is understood to have had the backing of the T.L.C.'s executive.

Adoption Sure

The proposal today was at the position where, it was learned, it had been okayed by both the T.L.C.'s convention resolutions committee and the executive of the 522,000-member body. That is tantamount to its adoption by the convention when it comes up later.

It means the possibility, too, of tossing the federal administration into something of a quandary.

The administration is against throwing Communists in Canada outside the law, having said many times it prefers to have labor boot out its Reds and let other Communists have their say. Against that is the fact that the government—though the T.L.C. is traditionally neutral in politics—always has looked for at least some support from it.

A main reason for this is that the other big central labor body—the 350,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor—is aligned with the C.C.F. The C.C.L., due to meet in Toronto Sept. 22, has for several years designated the C.C.F. as the political arm of labor.

Labor Minister Gregg is due to address the convention here during the early part of the week, and he may run into the problem.

In their opening meeting yester, day, the T.L.C. members engaged in a sharp tiff over union jurisdiction and also turned a cold shoulder to a proposal to chop down on some socialistic aims in its "platform of policy."

Support Socialism

The policies are those of public ownership of all public utilities, nationalization of banking and credit and government control of all natural resources. After a debate on which some others of the 18-plank platform came under discussion, the platform was referred back to committee for reconsideration. However, it appeared the socialistic policies would not be touched.

One plank that might be added was that of the placing of immigration under the Department of Labor.

The squabble over union jurisdiction came in an attempt to shift some membership from the Congress' own small chartered unions—organized by its own men—to larger international and national unions. It was defeated decisively.

U.N. Delegate Thinks Armistice Possible But When Has No Idea

By SAM SUMMERLIN

MUNSAN, Korea (AP) — Maj.-Gen. William Harrison, senior United Nations armistice delegate, said today he thinks "an armistice is possible but I haven't the faintest idea when."

He made the observation at a press conference shortly after U.N. and Communist negotiators traded acid words for an hour and made "no visible progress" toward settlement of the truce-blocking issue of prisoner exchange.

The delegations called a fourth straight week-long recess. Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate, protested, then agreed to setting the next meeting for Aug. 27.

On chances of the talks to succeed, Harrison declared:

"I've thought the Communists do want an armistice. It is a matter of how much they are willing to pay for it."

Harrison said it was possible for the Reds to accept the U.N. position on prisoners.

"They could give us a good cussing-out and then accept our offer," he declared. "they never would have to agree with us on the principle of no forced repatriation."

Nam Il was visibly angered by some of Harrison's remarks in the conference tent. He was particularly nettled when Harrison said the Communists "call the Chinese soldiers volunteers but when it comes to volunteering not to go home they (Communists) won't recognize that."

The Reds demand return of 116,000 captured Reds. The U. N. says it will repatriate only 83,000 captives who have said they will not resist return to Communist soil.

Nam Il accused the U.N. of prolonging the war and said "your side will inevitably invite your own miserable defeat."

Canada Is Free Foot-and-Mouth Disease--Ottawa

All Restrictions Imposed Six Months Ago Lifted

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Government today officially declared Canada free of foot-and-mouth disease.

The Agriculture Department released an announcement in the name of Agriculture Minister Gardiner, now visiting in Western Canada, removing all restrictions imposed six months ago to prevent the infection from spreading from south Saskatchewan.

A copy of the declaration, issued at 9 a.m. EDT, will be sent by the government to the United States government requesting "early consideration" of ending the U.S. embargo on import of Canadian meats and livestock, officials said. However, they were pessimistic about the possibility of early elimination of the embargo.

"But we'll keep trying," one official said.

Mr. Gardiner's official declaration ends the war against Canada's firs' foot-and-mouth outbreak in history. But federal veterinarians will keep a careful watch to make doubly sure there will be no further outbreaks.

Mr. Gardiner pointed out there has been no sign of the disease since the last infected herd was slaughtered May 4 last.

Provincial restrictions imposed as a result of the outbreak already have been removed. Today's action restores complete freedom of movement of livestock and meats across the country.

The statement estimated that since disease was officially diagnosed Feb. 25 last, 1,343 cattle, 294 swine and 97 sheep have been slaughtered and buried. A total of 42 premises were involved in the outbreak, 29 of which were infected farms and 13 contact premises.

The announcement marks the end of a six-month fight against last winter's outbreak that experts estimate may cost between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000 in direct and indirect damage.

The sole outward sign that the disease is ended was the removal at midnight last night of all restrictions on movement of meat and livestock in south Saskatchewan, scene of the outbreak. The restrictions were imposed Feb 25 when the disease was diagnosed by federal veterinarians.

Showers Sprinkle Large Areas of US But Miss Texas

CHICAGO (AP)—Showers sprinkled large areas of the United States today, but they missed Texas which is baking in the third week of a crop-withering heat wave.

Scattered thundershowers were reported in the southeast northward to the Ohio Valley and middle Atlantic States. Another area of thundershowers dampened the plains states and Rocky Mountains.

The Texas drought has destroyed an estimated $68,000,000 worth of crops and has caused at least five heat deaths in Dallas alone.

Japs Not Making Progress In Release of Sailors

TOKYO (AP)—A foreign office spokesman said today the Japanese government is making every effort to get two British sailors released from a Kobe jail, but is not making much progress.

The spokesman said Japan was waiting to answer Britain's protest against imprisonment of the sailors until it finds out whether they will be released. He said the Japanese reply would "likely take some time."

The sailors, Derek Smith and Peter Stinner, were sentenced to 2½ years in jail by the Kobe district court for robbing a taxicab driver.

Efforts to get them released on bail have failed. The British consul will not let them be paroled in his care, feeling that would be recognition of Japan's jurisdiction of British military personnel. The courts have refused to release them in the custody of a Japanese citizen.

Mill Official Said Connected With Recent Riots

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (Reuters)—Amin Afifi, son of former King Farouk's cabinet chief, was arrested today in connection with the bloody cotton-mill riots at Kafr el Dawar last week.

Arrest of the 32-year-old mill official followed his denunciation by one of the 29 factory workers accused of leading the riots. The man's father, Hafez Afifi, is the former managing director of the giant Misr banking group which controls the Misr cotton mill.

Hafez Afifi resigned as chief of Farouk's cabinet the day before the king's abdication.

Investigating officers today interrogated Hafez Afifi at length. They also questioned his son and the mill police superintendent, Naaman el Ashmawy, who was arrested two days ago.

A special military tribunal trying the 29 mill workers asked Hafez Afifi last night to explain a "secret visit" to the mill just before the start of the riots in which nine persons were killed and 23 injured.

Government authorities have claimed the riots were instigated by "political parties."

Mother Charged After 4 Children Found in Room

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Luella Gillie, 23, was charged with contributing to juvenile deliquency Saturday night following the discovery of her four children alone in a room in a downtown boarding house with two gas jets turned on full.

Maxine Gray, Mrs. Gillis' sister and a roomer in the same house, found the children and called police. She said a window in the room was open a few inches.

The children—Marilyn, 2, Dianne, eight months, Hazel, 6, and Shirley, 4—were turned over to the Children's Aid Society.

Police said Mrs. Gillis arrived home soon after the discogery. She entered through the bedroom window.

BREAK AND ENTER FAIRGROUNDS CANTEEN

A group of boys is believed responsible for a minor break-in at the Ernie Evans canteen at the air Grounds last evening.

The intruders entered a small door and escaped with a punch bowl valued at $11 and a number of electric light bulbs.

Small boys were seen loitering in the vicinity early in the evening, police were informed.

PROWLERS "LOOK OVER" PARKED CARS

Early morning prowlers were seen "looking over" cars parked at Elliott's Garage, city police were informed.

The police cruiser investigated the report that said five youths were seen in the parking space. They had disappeared by the time police arrived.

GLEN ROYS TREK TO BROCKVILLE ON WEDNESDAY

Glen Roy Juniors trek to Brockville tomorrow afternoon to meet Brockville's Armstrong Plymouths in the first game of their best-of-three, first round series in the OASA Junior A playdowns.

The Plymouths were to have appeared in Belleville last Saturday night for the first game of the series but the game was rained out. They will be back in Belleville this Saturday night for the second game of the series which is set for the Alemite Field at 6.00 p.m.

The Juniors will travel to Brockville by chartered bus, leaving from the Arena at 1.00 p.m. The game is scheduled to start in Brockville at 6.00 p.m.

Club owner, Don McNiven announces that there will be room on the bus for approximately a dozen fans.

POLICE OFFICER UNSNARLS TRAFFIC

There is a lady in the city who has her own solution to getting out of snarled traffic.

One day last week, she was in the process of making a left hand turn in the forbidden area. She was half-way around her turn when the policeman spotted her and waved her to a stop and told her she couldn't do those sort of things. Meanwhile a car trying to cross the green light had the path blocked by the lady's half turned auto. A third auto behind her also found his path blocked. Then the din of horns began.

The lady's solution was simple, she got out of her car and left it standing in the middle of the road amidst the roar of auto horns and tied-up traffic. It was the police officer, who drove her car out of the tie-up.

GIRL LOSES $10 ON HER WAY TO PAY BILL

It is always unfortunate to lose money. It is more of a loss when the cash lost doesn't belong to the party who lost it.

This morning, a young girl on her way to pay a bill for her landlady lost $10 somewhere between Bridge and Victoria Streets on Front. It was a $10 bill.

The money was lost around 9:30 a.m. The young lady who lost the money, Miss Lucille Brunette, lives at 13 Baldwin Street.

WOMAN TAKES $73,000

DIERKS, Ark. (AP) — Word that a 49-year-old woman that "everybody trusted" was arrested yesterday for embezzlement of nearly $73,000 in bank funds stunned the 1,300 residents of this southwestern Arkansas town. Mrs. Opal Simmington, assistant cashier of the Bank of Dierks for 32 years, was arraigned at Hot Springs, Ark., on a federal charge of making false entries.

Harvest Help Leaves District For Prairies

The exodus of harvest help from the east to the west got underway in the Belleville area last night when 29 harvest hands boarded the west-bound train for the wheatlands of the prairies. Districts represented in last night's initial trek included Harold, Tweed and Stirling.

Herbert H. Reed, manager of the local office of the National Employment Service, estimated that 75 men would travel west within the next two weeks when the harvest peak is reached.

Questioned as to harvesters' wages, Mr. Reed explained that harvesting was now a mechanical operation which resulted in wage differences according to the type of work the individual was capable of performing. Field workers were low men on the pay totem pole, he said, while skilled tractor and machine operators qualified for top wages.

First Shipment Since Inception Sent from Plant

The first shipment went out of the Lo'ns Stone Works Limited at 100 Everett Street a little less than one week ago. This is the grand completion of the setting up of the monument and builders' supply company which began last February in the city.

By no means a new firm, this company has been in operation in the western provinces for the past 50 years. In honor of the official opening Mr. B. H. Lowen, son of the founder, now president of the company came down from head office in Winnipeg.

Mr. Lowen said he is extremely pleased with the cooperation the new firm has received since establishment in the city. He explained the monuments they manufacture have been shipped as far north as the Arctic and even to the British West Indies.

The staff of the company here is now up to full strength. The Lo'ns Stone Works Limited at the present time is employing 15 local residents. Another son, William Lowen, manages this branch.

Texas No Match For Canada Says Scotty Johnston

"'Tis no as nice a place as Canada," Jack 'Scotty' Johnston, of the New Queen's Hotel remarked upon his return from a two-weeks' vacation which took him to the Lone Star State of Texas.

"And me, I'm glad to be home agin," Scotty declared, explaining that his thick Scotch blood was no match for Texas temperatures which shot the mercury to 102 degrees for most of his visit.

"The cities, aye, they're clean," he continued. "The country is no so nice, ''tis no as nice a place as Canada."

District Junior Farmers Plan Week-end Camp

A group of directors from each of three district counties Hastings, Northumberland and Prince Edward met to plan a weekend camp for the district Junior Institute and Junior Farmer Club members. Don Carruthers, Cobourg zone Director of the Provincial Junior Farmers Association, was named chairman of the meeting.

It was decided to hold the camp at the Salvation Army boys' camp at Ameliasburg, September 5th, 6th and 7th. The group agreed that camp should be open to twenty from each county and that fees be $5 with a possible refund of $1. Mr. Harold Harton, Department of Education, Toronto, will be camp director.

The committee named to complete details of camp program was as follows:

Hastings: Donald Martin, Eloise Sine.

Northumberland: Margaret Mulhall, Don Car ruherts m. Mullhall, Don Carruthers.

Prince Edward: Barbara Redner, Ross Pierson.

CAMPBELLFORD

Girl Suffers Chipped Ankle Bone in Crash

CAMPBELLFORD — A Campbellford girl suffered a chipped left ankle bone early Monday morning when the car she was riding in overturned on the county road between Hastings and Campbellford.

Evelyn Simpson, 15, was taken to Peterborough Civic Hospital, where she was treated as an outpatient and released. Driver of the car, Douglas A. Forde, 18, of R.R. 2, Hastings, was unhurt.

The accident happened at 4.50 a.m. as Forde was making a right hand turn on the road, the car skidded on loose gravel and overturned in the ditch. About $250 damage was done to the left side of the auto.

Provincial Constable Archie Eadie investigated.

Nicolson Clan Holds Reunion At Peterborough

More than 60 members of the Nicholson clan from all parts of southern Ontario gathered at Nichol's Oval in Peterborough last Sunday to celebrate the clan's annual reunion.

Sam Nicolson, who acted as chairman of the gathering was elected president of the clan for the coming year. Sam Marchen was elected secretary, succeeding George Nicolson.

Mr. and Mrs. William Grant of Port Arthur, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blackstone, of Owen Sound, took part in the day's activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert King, Niagara-on-the-lake, won the prize for the largest family with six sons.

A day of racing and games for young and old, topped off by refreshments in the early evening, completed the day's outing.

Tomatoes Take 5-Cent Drop On Local Market

Tomatoes dropped five cents at the opening of the farmers' market today selling for 45 cents for six-quart baskets with bushel baskets selling at $1.25 on a market showing an abundance of tomatoes. Possibility of further drops is anticipated by some tomato growers who believe that the season's peak is still two weeks away.

Elsewhere on the market prices continued firm with previous offerings. Despite the introduction of this year's potato crop, the new crop continues to sell at prices similar to those charged when potatoes were in seasonal short supply and the view has been expressed that month will pass before prices drop below the current five-dollars-per-bushel.

With the pickle season now coming into its own, cucumbers suitable for dills sold at 70 cents for six-quart baskets. Dill was also offered, selling at 10 cents per bunch. Both hot peppers and green peppers were in good supply, selling at five cents for individual purchases, the price dropping to six for 25 cents in volume buying.

Depending on size, home-grown watermelons ranged from 25 cents to one dollar and cantelopes ranged from 10 cents to 35 cents, the price also depending on size.

No appreciable drop was apparent in the price of corn, some vendors charging 50 cents per dozen at the market opening while others dropped five cents for good quality produce.

There has been no change during recent weeks in the price of beets, onions, carrots, beans or cabbage.

4-Year Old Boy Struck by Truck Rushed to Toronto

BANCROFT. — Injured when struck by a truck on a road construction project near Maynooth, Burmanyett Casselman, four-and-a-half-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Casselman, Maynooth, is being treated at the Hospital for Sick Children, at Toronto, for further observation.

The lad was struck by a truck driven by Neil Shields of Maynooth, on Thursday afternoon, when he ran from behind a large roller into the path of the truck on the site of road repairs on a stretch of the former 62 highway near the village limits. He suffered leg, head and back injuries and was treated by Dr. M. L. Mador, Bancroft, and admitted to hospital there.

No blame was attached to the driver who had no chance to stop before striking the child.

Provincial Constable John Hawkins investigated the accident.

Guilty of Fraud

Lloyd McAuliffe, Point Au Baril, Ontario, was fined $10 plus costs of $102.00 by Magistrate R. C. Jackson at Tweed, where he pleaded guilty to a charge of defrauding a Maynooth woman, Mrs. Annie Pilatskie out of a board bill amounting to $68.00. The accused admitted leaving the house in the early hours of the morning without paying his bill. Restitution was made in full prior to the hearing.

McAuliffe was arrested at his home in Point Au Baril and returned to Bancroft to face the charge. He is 25 years old and was formerly employed as a road worker in this district.

New Protective Screens Purchased For The Arena

New protective screens will adorn the ends of the hockey cushion in Memorial Arena next season, Alderman Claude Tice, chairman of the city arena commission announced today.

Purchase of the new screens at a cost of $1,300 was made at a special meeting of the commission held at the city hall this morning. The screens were purchased from the Frost, Steel and Wire Company of Hamilton. They will be installed before the beginning of seasonal play this fall.

Alderman Tice also announced that a new room has been constructed in the arena to accommodate the watering tanks used to flood the ice. This will eliminate the placing of the tanks in the players entrance to dressing rooms on the east side of the arena.

Speaker Tells Of Experiences Around Circuit

Stewart Richardson, public relations assistant for the Northern Electric Company addressed the Rotary Club in the Hotel Quinte Monday afternoon on his experiences while speaking at other Rotary Clubs throughout Canada and the United States.

Labelling his talk "Around the Rotary Circuit," Mr. Richardson described a few of his amusing experiences as guest speaker. For the first 20 minutes of his talk, the speaker kept Rotarians laughing, for the remainder of his address, not a sound could be heard from the listeners. In the latter part of his talk, he dealt with a story concerning a paraplegic. It was the story of the man's accident, his hospitalization, the method by which the money for treatment was acquired through the local Rotary Club and the man's eventual recovery.

Guests at the club dinner yesterday were: Mike Sako of Fort Pierce, Fla.; Dr. William Findley of Williamsburg, Pennsylvania, Robert Haker of Trenton, Gwyn Morton of Hamilton, Art Underwood, Toronto, Lloyd Weese, Trenton, Charles Allen, Peterborough, and Rev. Ralph Middleton of Bayside.

Birthday roses were presented to Harold Mott and Gerald Sprague.

The speaker was introduced by Ted Booth and thanked by Bob Boyce.

296 Nursing Visits Made During July

At the Board of Health meeting Tuesday at city hall it was noted that during the month of July 296 nursing visits were made from the health department to 236 families in the city area. A portion of this number, 72 of which were contacted for the first time this year.

Of these visits, 167 were made to infants under one year of age and 25 to pre-school and school age children. In the maternity service, 42 visits were made to mothers of newborn babies.

During July a special effort was made to contact as many orthopedic cases as possible. The nurses made 42 visits with Mrs. Mayo, orthopedic nursing consultant for this area from Kingston. Arrangements were made for preparing children for the crippled children's camp, and families were assisted in following directions for care and treatment. It is planned to have a public health nurse attend the recently organized monthly orthopedic clinic, held at the Belleville General Hospital, with the orthopedic surgeon, Dr. W. Melvin from Kingston in attendance.

Immunization services and school health services were cancelled for the month of July. There were three child health clinics during the month with an attendance of 24 children.

No communicable disease was reported to the health department.

Drew Charges Tobacco Taxes Cause Smuggling

JOLIETTE, Que. (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said last night heavy tobacco taxes are resulting in large-scale smuggling of United States cigarets into Canada.

Addressing a meeting of tobacco workers in this town, about 25 miles north of Montreal, Mr. Drew said such taxation also was responsible for considerable unemployment in the tobacco growing and processing industry and great dissatisfaction for smokers.

At adjajcent Rawdon, Mr. Drew, in a speech which he termed "strictly non-political," advised all Canadians to exercise their right to vote in the forthcoming Federal election.

IN MEMORIAM

BROWNING. — In loving memory of a loving husband and father, Robert (Bobby) Browning, who passed away August 19, 1951.

I lost a husband with a heart of gold,
Who was more to me than wealth untold.
Without farewell he fell asleep,
With only memories for me to keep.
I have lost but God has gained
One of the best husbands the world contained.

—Wife and family. A19

FAIRHEAD. — In loving memory of our dear one, William Sair Fairhead, who passed away August 19, 1951.

We watched you suffer day by day,
And could not help in any way.
But just stood by and saw you pass
Into the Saviour's arms at last.
We cannot, Lord, Thy purpose see,
But all is well that's done by Thee.

—Sadly missed by wife Edna and son George. A19

TORONTOT STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices continued weak today in early afternoon stock market trading.

Industrials slipped steadily to lose more than a point on the index and base metals dipped after a slight recovery around noon. Western oils improved slightly after a weak opening but remained below Monday's closing prices.

Trading was fairly active and covered a fairly broad list of industrial issues. Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,526,080 shares.

Senior golds weakened as Dome and Malartic slipped but speculative support bolstered a number of secondary issues. Donalda, a junio producer, gained pennies in a turnover of more than 171,000 shares.

Foods, banks, liquors held firm in spite of the industrial decline while papers, retail stores and steel weakened.

Most base meta lissues traded lower. Mayo, active yesterday, moved more than 150,000 shares for a small loss while United Asbestos strengthened.

Western oil losses outnumbered gains about three to one in slow trading.

The exchange's 1 p.m. indices showed industrials down 1.08 at 328.98, golds down .57 at 94.68, base metals down .43 at 197.17 and western oils down .44 at 138.40.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Smaller grade prices slipped at the egg market but brisk demand particularly for A large, held other prices. Prices quoted for eggs packed in fibre cases were: A large, 61-62 cents; A medium, 51-52; A small, 38-39; grade B, 38½; grade C, 27-28. Wholesale to retail: A large, 66-67; A medium, 55-56; A small, 42-43; grade B, 45-46; grade C, 35.

Butter prices: first grade 58 cents tenderable; 57-57¼ non-tenderable. Second grade not established. Western 58¼.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Cattle prices eased today on all grades at the Ontario Stockyards. Trading was slow. Receipts: cattle 760; calves 260; hogs 480; sheep and lambs 260. The holdover was 3,600 cattle.

Good to choice steers brought $25-26.50 with one load selling at $27.25. Medium to good heifers sold from $24-25 while good cows and bulls traded from $17-18. Good to choice fed yearlings sold from $26-28.25. Small lots of stockers brought $18-25.

Calves were steady at $26-28 for choice vealers with common to medium selling from $15-24.

Grade A hogs sold at $26 and dressed sows at $16.

Lambs were $31 for good ewes and wethers and $30 for bucks. Good sheep sold from $16-18 with common ranging downward to $6.

Pricing Charts To be Posted In All Stores

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government today stepped up plans to post dollars-and-cents food price ceilings on the walls of more than half of the 500,000 grocery stores in the United States by Oct. 1.

The Office of Price Stabilization said orders will go out shortly to its 54 district offices to get the pricing charts ready. Each poster is expected to show the ceilings for some 300 major items.

The action will mark a return to the uniform community pricing program used in the Second World War.

Strike Threatens $1,000,000 Crop Farmers Anxious

LEAMINGTON (CP) — Essex County farmers whose $1,000,000-dollar field tomato crop is threatened by an H.J. Heinz of Canada strike which began Aug. 8 will investigate possibilities of trucking their tomatoes to processing plants in eastern Ontario.

Officials of the Essex County which met last night in nearby Essex said the Association will ask Heinz officials for the use of the company's loading and weighing facilities in the proposed trucking.

If permission is granted, the officials said, the Association's directors will meet Wednesday to discuss plans to coordinate the movement.

Eleven hundred Heinz employees at Leamington and at Wallaceburg, are asking a 21-cent increase on an hourly basic wage rate of 99 cents The company has offered 11 cents.

The strikers are members of the United Packinghouse Workers (C.I.O.-C.C.L.).

Wood Industry 'Integrated' Says Spokesman

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. L. R. Theismeyer, representing Canada Conference here, told the meeting yesterday the day of "integration has arrived in this country's vast wood industry."

The 80 delegates representing Commonwealth forest industries left today for Petawawa on a tour of Ontario centres.

Dr. Theismeyer said the rush toward integration was driven by economic conditions, defence considerations and legislation to eliminate waste and pollution. He said those who did not follow forest-industry leaders would soon be "left behind, unable to compete for the expanding world markets."

Lord Robinson, vice-president of the Conference and chairman of the Forestry Commission of Great Britain, said he was concerned over the fact forestry may not have taken necessary steps to anticipate the revolution which the pulpwood industry was causing.

Gunners to Hold Banquet, Dance

Plans have been completed for the Second Annual Gunners Banquet and Ball of the 32-34th Batteries, RCA, member units of the 9th Anti-Tank Regiment, RCA, (SP) ALI. The function will be held in the main lecture room of the Bridge Street Armouries on Saturday evening, August 23rd.

Street Tussles Disturb Peace In Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran (Reuters)—Communists and anti-Communists clashed in street tussles in downtown Tehran today.

Bands of members of the pro-Communist Tudeh Party struggled with bands from the Fascist Sumka party. Police dispersed the crowds. All stores and markets were closed in the neighborhood.

Trouble between Suma and Tudeh elements has been brewing for several days. Rival groups armed with clubs get into scuffles whenever they run across each other.

Meanwhile, Communist youths stoned a United States Army sergeant and his Iranian soldier-driver while their jeep was stopped for a traffic light.

Police charged the 100 or so young Reds with batons and dispersed them.

McGill to Admit Korean Veterans If Eligible

MONTREAL (CP)—Korea veterans are eligible for entry to McGill University this fall for rehabilitation training provided they pass the necessary requirements, it was announced today. Two already have been approved for admission.

They will receive the same benefits as Second World War veterans under Department of Veterans Affairs regulations.

For each day of service the Korea veteran will receive a day's training at university level. However, he may be granted a further year of academic instruction in an approved course if he passes all examinations with a second-class standing. The process may be continued until the student completes his course.

TYPHOID CARRIER

NEW YORK (AP)—Two week-end cases of typhoid fever raised to 17 the number among children and employees who had been at the Hi-Li day camp at Far Rockaway on Long Island. A woman cook at the camp was found to be a typhoid carrier.

Squadron Leader Of Ponoka, Alta. To Lead Flight

LONDON (CP)—It will be a case of "stepping back into history" when Sqdn. Ldr. Doug Warren of Ponoka, Alta., leads a flight of 12 Canadian-built Sabre jet fighters in a memorial fly-past today over the beaches of Dieppe.

Ten years ago, as a 20-year-old Spitfire pilot with an R.A.F. squadron, Warren flew three operational sorties over Dieppe as Canadians fought their classic battle below. He shot down one enemy bomber.

Today Warren goes back over the beaches as commanding officer of his squadron, the R.C.A.F.'s No. 410 squadron.

"When I heard this show was coming up I made sure I wouldn't miss it," Warren said. "It'll be like stepping back into history."

The flypast is one of a series of ceremonies designed to mark the 10th anniversary of Dieppe, one of the bloodiest battles in Canadian military annals. Canadian army veterans were flown from Canada to participate in the day-long program. At the French coastal town two new streets will be dedicated.

Commissioner To Canada Arrives In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Lt.-Gen. Sir Archibald Nye, the United Kingdom's new high commissioner to Canada, arrived here today with his family.

Sir Archibald succeeds Sir Alexander Clutterbuck.

The 57-year-old soldier-diplomat Came to his Canadian post after an important career in the Second World War in the British Army and a post-war diplomatic career in the Far East.

Sir Archibald, mustached, brown-haired and of medium height, said he was eager to take up his work in Canada.

The high commissioner is accompanied by Lady Nye, their seven-year-old daughter, Harriet, and 23-year-old Sheila Stevenson, Lady Nye's daughter by a former marriage.

Sir Archibald was high commissioner in India before his appointment to Canada. Earlier he was governor of Madras.

Strike Follows Breakdown In Wage Dispute

MONTREAL (CP) — Sl[illegible]rd workers at Canadian Vickers went on strike today.

The strike was called following a breakdown in a wage dispute between the company and the 2,900 workers, members of the National Metal Trade Workers Union (C.C.L.).

Picket lines were set up outside the plant and police were on hand to watch for any disturbance. One worker who attempted to enter the plant was reported turned back by the pickets.

The union demanded a wage increase of 25 cents an hour. The majority report of an arbitration board recommended seven cents and the minority report 20 cents.

The company offered to settle the dispute on the basis of the majority report.

Cyprien Miron, chief conciliator of the Quebec department of labor made efforts yesterday to bring about an agreement and prevent the strike.

An estimated 2,500 workers of Davie Shipbuilding Company and George T. Davie and Sons, Ltd., at Lauzon, Que., are already on strike for higher wages. They walked out Friday night.

It was reported yesterday that the union had set a 6 p.m. deadline for the workers at the Vickers yards to walk out, but employees on the night shift reported for work as usual last night.

The strike will inteurrupt work on nine ships, six of them warships.

WAS DIEPPE ANOTHER WATERLOO?

Ten years have passed since the Battle of Dieppe which cost Canada more than 3,100 of her finest fighting men. But ten years permits history to get into some semblance of focus and the word "failure" is beginning to creep into the War Office records, despite Mr. Churchill's claim that lessons learned at Dieppe paid off on the Normandy beaches when D Day was launched.

In a recent article in Weekend by Wallace Reyburn, a Canadian war correspondent who accompanied the Canadians to Dieppe and survived six hours during the murderous assault before being wounded, the writer sums up the Dieppe accomplishment when he writes " . . . the biggest raid in the history of warfare and also the most foolhardy ever attempted by any army."

If what this war correspondent writes is true, those who earlier expressed the view that Canadian lives and limbs were sacrificed to silence those who advocated the opening of a second front against Germany to ease the hard-pressed Russians in 1942, were probably correct.

Terming the operation a "grandiose scheme," Reyburn asked: "What was achieved?" In his view it was "practically nothing."

"Those of us who were at Dieppe and have returned there still wonder, after seeing the place from the vantage point of the Germans, why it was necessary to send a total of 6,000 troops in 250 ships to Dieppe to prove what must have been obvious to the Intelligence forces of the Allies, that such a strongly-defended port could not be taken by a frontal attack," Reyburn wrote. "That was the lesson we learned at Dieppe — the hard way."

The only battles to match the Dieppe Raid in terms of slaughter was the Battle of Waterloo where, a poet recorded, "someone has blundered," yet hundreds of men died needlessly.

A thankful world will continue to give thanks to those gallant men who died attempting unsuccessfully to storm the Dieppe beaches. But no false praise should be given those who prepared this super farce which sent three thousand men to their death. Hero worship has a place and so has courage, but let us fervently pray that next time our military leaders use some sense, balancing the advantages against the cost of any military operation. We do not want to meet any more "Waterloos" just to obtain information of doubtful value.

THE ARMY AND HOUSING

News reports reveal that the Federal Government has embarked on a housing plan for senior officers in the armed services, providing them with homes which will "enable them to maintain a social position in keeping with their status" in the cities in which they are stationed.

Evidence that the plan has already gone into operation comes from Montreal where it is reported that a swank resident in Montreal's Westmount district has been purchased for use of a high ranking officer. Purchase price of the Westmount home was given as $25,000 and it was explained that an additional $10,000 will be spent on alterations and renovations to the dwelling.

The importance of armed services officers "maintaining a social position in keeping with their status" could be open to question, some wondering what tea parties and social gatherings have to do with war — which is supposed to be the business of the armed services.

The rigors of life in the armed services in Canada are not too severe. And for the most part senior officers appear to be fairly well paid, but if they wish to climb the social ladder, that is their business and should not be done at the taxpayers' expense.

Residents of this city have observed that the Royal Canadian Air Force officers occupy very nice homes at the Trenton Air Station. These homes for air force personnel are located where they should be — on air force property. If homes are to be provided senior officers it is suggested that it is unnecessary for them to occupy homes in exclusive residential areas at the taxpayers' expense merely to "enable them to maintain a social position in keeping with their status" as officers.

Let us divorce the services from pink tea parties and get along with the business at hand which to some observers appears to be winning the war in Korea and preparing for any aggressive move by an unfriendly nation.

ST. PETER AND THE MISER

St. Peter inquired of the soul
at the gate
What good he had done on the earth to relate.
"I saved up a fortune," said
he, "by not spending
Or giving or sharing or foolishly lending.

"I was careful with money. No dollar I wasted.
Rich foods being costly, I left them untasted,
I dressed as a poor man; went days without shaving,
I'd only one hobby — the pleasure of saving."

"Did you think all that money you saved," asked
St. Peter,
"Would make life in Heaven
for you a bit sweeter?
Did you hope here to spend it or proudly to flash it;
Write a cheque and expect any bank here to cash it?

"Where is it now? Did you bring all, or any?
Could you lend me a dollar;
a quarter, a penny?
You poor foolish soul, Don't you wish you had lent
some
Or given some to others or now and then spent some?"

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SEEK THE LIGHT

If you will note, in walking through a forest, or a great group of trees, on their own in nature, you will see the lower branches of the trees dead and lifeless, whereas the branches at the top of the trees are full of foliage and healthy. It's because the lower limbs do not get sufficient sunlight, and so they die. That which seeks the light—lives! This is just as true in human life as in nature.

All of us are comparatively ignorant. Every time we learn something useful it is as though a new light appeared. It inspires us to seek only the light so that we may continually grow and bless others about us. If we live in partial darkness, there is that something that is a part of us that dies, as those lower branches of the trees die.

There would be no life upon this earth, were it not for the light of the sun. Every blade of grass, flower, tree or anything of growth that springs from the ground, fights for a touch of that magic force of light. For years I watched a beautiful tree grow that was close to a building, therefore shutting out the light from one side of the tree. That side did not develop its branches, but what ones did grow on that side, kept creeping and forming so as to get the building and life-giving properties of the sun.

In a like manner, do we in our lives grow healthy and happy when we seek the light of hope, good cheer, and the warmth of human companionship. Never must we despair or lose our courage. The day of light always follows the night of darkness. There is always possible joy to appear in the morning. We should always anticipate happiness!

Great characters radiate a glow of light about them, and when they die, they leave a path of light as their deeds of glory and usefulness are emphasized upon the pages of history. Their example illuminates the blue sky and leaves "footprints upon the sands of time." Seek the light—learn about the power of beauty that may be the possession of us all.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE ONLY SECURITY

Benjamin Franklin, at the time of the death of his brother John, wrote the daughter of the deceased as follows: "A man is not completely born until he is dead. Why then should we grieve, that a new child is born among the immortals, a new member added to their happy society. We are spirits. That bodies should be lent us, while they can afford us pleasure, assist us in acquiring knowledge, or in doing good to our fellow creatures, is a kind and benevolent act of God. When they become unfit for these purposes, and afford us pain instead of pleasure, instead of an aid become an encumbrance, and answer none of the intentions for which they were given, it is equally kind and benevolent that a way is provided by which we may get rid of them. Death is that way. We ourselves in some cases, prudently choose a partial death. A mangled painful limb, which cannot be restored, we willingly cut off. He who plucks out a tooth, parts with it freely, since the pain goes with it; and he, who quits the whole body, parts at once with all pain and possibilities of pains and diseases which it was liable to, or capable of making him suffer."

Whether men are religious or not, they seek for the assurance of life after death. Franklin was no exception.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

This year there has been an epidemic of summer hotel fires, the latest of which I was able to watch. It broke out around two o'clock in the afternoon when many of the guests were out in boats fishing or were otherwise outside amusing themselves. Those who had the habit of lying down for a snooze after lunch had hardly got time to get very deep into slumber. Not a soul was harmed, except a young chap who cut his arm breaking a locked car's window in an attempt to move it out of danger. The money loss was a quarter of a million on the property, and the personal belongings of the guests.

A more savage exhibition of fire I never saw. The hotel, like some of the others that have gone up in smoke this summer, was an old one, sixty or more years of Canadian summer sun having beaten on it. Sixty years of paint and varnish had soaked into its aged timbers. Once the fire started, it seized hold of the fabric and roared. It is a wonder the people in it had time to dash out. But one thing about summer hotels is that they have plenty of exits, verandahs and balconies.

The flames in the summer afternoon were orange red, and though there was little breeze, the leaping fury had the effect of a forced draft. A sort of thunder accompanied it. You could feel that heat a hundred yards on the lee side of it. Old baskets make the same sort of fast, frenzied fire. In less than an hour, only the ashes glowed.

The remarkable thing is merely that there have been so many such fires this year. The wonder is that we do not have a great many more summer hotel and summer cottage fires than we do. So many of them are old and dry and tindery. So many are surrounded by evergreens and juniper and dry brush, into which the universal cigarette is being constantly tossed away. Lamps, candles are still used in a great many of them. Gasoline is now associated with nearly all of them, in outboard engines, pumps, lanterns. It speakes well for the average caution and intelligence of the men, women and children of summer that there are so few fires.

Churchill's Father Challenged To Duel by Late Edward VII Incident Related by Sir S. Leslie

LONDON (AP)—Winston Churchill's father, Lord Randolph Churchill, was once challenged to a duel by the Prince of Wales who later became King Edward VII.

The incident is related by Sir Shane Leslie, author and godson of Lord Randolph.

In an article in the Roman Catholic periodical, The Month, Leslie says Lord Randolph's reply to the challenge was "superb—that of a Christian and chivalrous gentleman."

"He sent Lord Falmouth to say he was prepared to meet anyone deputed by the prince and fight him anywhere on the continent, but that nothing would induce him to lift a hand against his future sovereign."

Leslie said little to elaborate this latest revelation about the fighting Churchills, but apparently the trouble was way back in the 1880s and—like so many simialr shindigs —was over a woman.

Prince Rebuked

Leslie, attributing his account to some unidentified documents, described the lady in the case as a countess "equally admired by the prince and Lord Randolph's elder brother."

"Lord Randolph's part was purely fraternal and very honorable," Leslie said, "for he had never known or approached the lady himself, but he rebuked the prince in a manner that could be considered injurious as well as insulting."

Leslie omitted to say what the rebuke to royalty was, or what led to it, or whether a duel took place. The incident is not mentioned in the biography Winston Churchill has written about his father.

Another incident in which the Churchill fighting spirit nearly led to a duel was more fully described in Leslie's article.

This time Lord Randolph himself was the challenger, and Lord Hartington the challenged. Lord Randolph had objected to some remarks allegedly made by Lord Hartington, but withdrew the challenge on being assured they were not intended to apply to him.

Tax Evasion Would be $2,000 Says Accountant

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—An accountant yesterday told a provincial government commission investigating the affairs of the East Windsor Hospital he estimates that sales tax totalling $2,000 was evaded on goods sold to private individuals through hospital accounts.

H. A. Scarff of the Windsor firm of Brokenshire and Scarff, which has for some years audited the books of the 350-bed institution for incurables, was commenting on testimony given earlier before the commission by hospital Superintendent Dr. P. J. G. Morgan.

Dr. Morgan said goods purchased by the hospital were resold at cost to private individuals but that the sales tax involved wouldn't amount to $200 in the last 20 years.

Mr. Scarff said that from 1946 to 1951 sales of goods which would be positively traced through hospital accounts to private individuals totalled $27,494 and that he estimates that sales tax was not paid on goods of value $25,000.

At sales tax rates through the years concerned, he said, tax evaded would amount to $2,000.

The accountant contradicted another statement made to the commission by Dr. Morgan to the effect that, excluding staff members, only "seven or eight" persons made purchases through the hospital.

Mr. Scarff said he had compiled a list of 38 persons, not staff members, who made purchases through the hospital from 1946 to 1952.

5 Die in Air Crashes

LONDON (Reuters)—Five R.A.F. men died in two air crashes early today.

Three were killed when a twin-engined Valetta transport crashed and exploded in flames at Benson, Oxfordshire.

Two airmen were also killed when two fighters collided in the air near Stanhope, County Durham. Two others baled out and landed safely.

Greek-Bulgarian Talks Bog Down Over Incident

ATHENS (AP)—Greek-Bulgarian army talks, called to smooth over a recent border incident in which two Greek soldiers were killed, broke up last night in a word battle over who was responsible for the clash.

A Greek general staff communique said the Bulgarians promised to seek further instructions from their superiors and meet with the Greeks again.

The communique said the Bulgarians admitted killing the two Greeks Aug. 12 in the Mt. Belles area northwest of Salonika. Each side, however, claimed the incident occurred on its territory.

The Bulgarians refused to return the two bodies unless the Greeks signed a document recognizing the soldiers had violated Bulgarian territory, the communique said.

The Greeks, in turn, demanded the Bulgarians return the bodies and "recognize in writing the violation of Greek territory."

Grain Yield In Ont. Heavier Than Expected

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's grain yield is turning out heavier than the provincial agriculture department expected earlier in the season. But departmental experts said the expected yield of 142,286,000 bushels will be down from last year's 164,692,000.

In its monthly report, the department blames the hot July weather for the early maturing of crops, but rain at the end of July and beginning of August helped to fill out crops in southern and central Ontario.

The fall wheat crop is bigger than last year although acreage declined from 1951's 703,400 to 649,000 this year. The estimated total is 20,768,000 bushels compared with 19,696,000.

Fruit and vegetable crops generally were affected by the dry weather and yields will be below average in most cases.

Personal Health Talks

PRAY DO NOT BLOW YOUR NOSE

To blow or not to blow. That is the question. Whether 'tis better just to let it drip . . .

Altho I went without alias or disguise while on vacation in Canandagua, Penn Yan and Elmira in July I enjoyed every minute of it. Not more than a dozen people broke in to recite their histories and symptoms, mostly to my deaf ear, and only three or four tried to entice me into a service club lunch meeting. I was basely left alone with the usual number of well fixed windows who had found wonderful new remedies or treatments for exhausted nerves or fancy kinds of rheumatiz. I was introduced by a soft-spoken southern gentleman to a Mr. Madden who owned one of the finest horse-breeding farms in Kentucky and I managed to persuade Mr. Madden to accept a small bundle of dough to place for me on an animal called Jet Dandy or something of the kind to run in the fourth at Suckerbrook. For the life of me I can't explain how this happened, nor why I never say Mr. Madden or the urbane southern gentleman again.

In Elmira I met a young man whom, I understand, I brought into the world when I was an honest doctor there. At any rate his mother sent me a certified copy of his birth certificate, signed by one Wm. Brady, M.D. when I tried to convince her she had confused me with some good doctor.

Now, when our babies were born we engaged the best doctor in town as accoucheur; namely, one Wm. Brady, M.D. That's why my inability to recall having attended the brith of that young man, not so many years ago, irks me. His father was a colleague of mine—the young man is just a new edition of his dad— and there were plenty of good doctors, fairly good, that is, so why did his parents choose the best?

The affable young man hoped I could bring peace and accord in his office. It seemed that some of the girls in the office insisted I advise against blowing the nose under any circumstances, but others were just as certain that I recommend vigorous nose blowing as a natural means of keeping the air passages clear and expelling germs before they can gain a foothold.

I'm plumb delighted to know that the office staff is sufficiently interested in the question to argue about it. It reminds me that this column was resuscitated after a ten-year hiatus in that neck of the woods — and probably the girls in the office had to grow up without benefit of good health education.

Frankly, I'd rather sneak out through the rear patio and toddle over to the bowling green than try to arbitrate this dispute, but it's too late for the draw now anyway, so here is a compromise which I hope will satisfy both factions and the boss, too.

Instead of forcibly blowing the nose it is better and safer, I think, just to wipe it, or hold the handkerchief under but not upon the nose and permit secretion to drain from the nostrils as you breathe out or expel air through the nose.

Do not compress or grasp the nose between thumb and finger, but always leave the nostrils open. Blowing with one or both nostrils compressed is a good way to force possibly infected secretions through the Eustachian tube into the tympanum (middle ear cavity) and cause otitis media, mastoiditis or other ear trouble. Vigorous nose blowing may similarly force infective matter into one or another accessory skull cavity which is ventilated through the nasal cavity and set up inflammation of the lining of the cavity, sinusitis.

To the best of my recollection the one kid on Chapel Street in Canandaigua who never had earache, gathering in the ear, sinusitis (of course no one then knew the skull was not solid bone), mastoiditis, adenoids, enlarged tonsils, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles etc., never had a handkerchief either, but a remarkably prehensile tongue.

Mind you, I do not condemn the use of handkerchiefs, garters, hats, overcoats, mufflers, girdles, neckties or brassieres. I contend merely that one should use these things only when comfort or convention demands and the more one goes without, the better for health.

Letter to the Editor

W. College St. Dangerous For Pedestrians

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Replying to Jamieson Bone's letter of August 14th., that appeared in the Ontario Intelligencer, we have conditions right here in our own city in which people must use at their own risk. For example, the much travelled road used by pedestrians and a large number of school children going to, and from King George School on the West College Street road.

Before moving the CPR line, why not give due consideration to the widening of this dangerously narrow road where conditions exist that school children and adults get splashed with dirty water despite the fact that a person is in the ditch when two cars pass. Is the Trenton Bridge more important than the West College St. narrow road?

Desperate Attempt to Save Millions of Fish Paying Off

HAZELTON, B.C. (CP)—A road hacked 60 miles through wild country near here in a desperate attempt to save millions of fish from destruction is paying off.

The road leads to the big rockslide on the Babine River that constituted one of the most serious threats ever to face the northern British Columbia fishing industry.

The slide came down a lonely canyon nearly a year ago, blocking hundreds of thousands of sockeye from their natural spawning grounds in Babine Lake.

The federal Fisheries Department pushed a road through practically unknown country to get at the slide and to devise some means of getting the fish through. The fish do not change their spawning habits, and if they can't reach their natural spawning area they will batter themselves to death in the attempt.

Fish were only "trickling" into Babine Lake earlier this year, but fisheries official now report salmon are completing the five-day run from the slide area to the lake at a rate of more than 3,000 a day.

"It appears certain that at least the vast proportion of the run will get through safely this season," said one official.

A crew at the slide dynamited pools in the river, creating natural fish ladders. At one point they had to get the fish past a 12-foot fall.

Biologists and engineers are seeking a way to clear a permanent channel for the fish. This may mean dredging a new channel or constructing big permanent fish ladders.

ALLISONVILLE

Bowerman's W. A. Holds Successful Social Afternoon

ALLISONVILLE — Allisonville Orange Hall was the scene of a very successful social afternoon on Wednesday. Gladioli and an assortment of mixed flowers helped to decorate the hall. Mrs. Ferguson acted as president in the absence of Mrs. R. Wood. Four different aids attended. Hillier Guild was unable to attend.

The program consisted of a reading by Miss Lillian Cunningham and a duet by the Misses Merle Wannamaker and Vivian Isteed, with Mrs. Leonard McCartney playing the piano; all from Rose Hall. Mrs. Arnold Chase gave a reading and Miss Donna Parks a piano selection, both from Burr's. A reading by Mrs. Teskey and a solo by Miss June Pierson with Miss Anna Dorland playing the piano, all from Group 1, Wellington. A reading was given by Miss Elsie Soble of Crofton.

Music was enjoyed by Mrs. Charles Helmkay of Toronto, while the lunch was being prepared. Around $20 was received for the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Chase were Sunday dinner guests of their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Oram of Belleville and were tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Osterhout and family of Rossmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Chase and Vernon were Sunday dinner guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Caskey of Frankford.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Smith of Trenton were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. John Matthie and Craig were Monday tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Chase and Vernon.

Mrs. Eliza Wood has been a guest for several days at the home of her daughter and family Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bird.

Miss Mary Ellen McFaul returned home Sunday after spending a week as the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Clancy.

FRANKFORD

Touring Team Beats Frankford In Exhibition

FRANKFORD — Frankford Merchants softball team turned in a very creditable performance against the "World's Champion" Hottentots, an all-colored barnstorming softball team from Chicago, as the visitors took a 10-17 decision, Thursday night.

Harry Farr started pitching for Frankford, and held the Hottentots runless for three innings. Big Barney McColl, the Wooler star, pitched the next three innings, and yielded five runs. By popular request, Don Boyle pitched the final three frames, and he too was tagged solidly for five runs.

Frankford fans greatly enjoyed the contest, and felt that had their own Harry Farr pitched the entire game Frankford could have won. Although both Barney and Don are well-known for their pitching feats, they definitely were not up to their usual mark on Thursday night.

The Hottentots took advantage of the American ruling that a base-runner may leave the bag the minute the ball is delivered, and ran the base paths like scared rabbits.

This was undoubtedly a deciding factor in the game, for had the Canadian ruling been used, their scoring would have been cut considerably. All in all, it was fine entertainment for the large crowd in attendance, and the home town is justly proud of the performance of their team against a highly-favored opposition.

Sheila, 12, and Channing, eight, children of Ambassador You Chan Chang of South Korea, play on a priceless rug of 43 matched leopard skins in the Korean embassy in Washington. The rug, "liberated" (stolen) from the royal palace in Seoul, was bought for $61 by Sgt. Elverne H. Gitner, of Pueblo, Colo., who shipped it to the U.S. The embassy paid $250 to get it back and now it is being cared for until peace reigns again in Korea, when the rug, valued at $100,000, will be returned to its rightful place. — Central Press Canadian.

Mistake Signals Between Tug And Minesweeper

TOKYO (AP)—A United States Navy minesweeper and salvage tug arrived last night for a formal investigation of an incident off Korea in which the minesweeper fired twice on the tug, killing two and injuring nine.

A Navy officer said the accidental shooting resulted from failure to exchange recognition signals between the minesweeper Chief and the tug Grapple.

In Washington, the Navy said a Navy board will investigate. The Navy said two three-inch shells from the Chief hit the Grapple last Friday night when the vessels were searching for small Communist ships off Hungnam on Korea's northeast coast.

CANADA IS FREE

Today's announcement makes their removal official. It lifts quarantines in the 21-municipality disease area and the 38-municipality buffer zone around it, and declares all farms in the infected area free of the disease.

The last barrier to free movement of livestock and meats across Canada is also removed.

Still in effect, however, United States embargo closing that country's markets to Canadian livestock and meats.

Loss of that $130,000,000-a-year export market is the heaviest blow of the disease outbreak. No answer is yet available on when that market will be reopened.

Earlier this year Canadian officials hoped the U.S. Agriculture Department would drop the embargo about 60 days after Canada officially declared itself free of the disease.

To Be Careful

Charles Brannan, U.S. Agriculture Secretary, said recently in Washington his department would be "very, very careful" in deciding about the embargo.

Speculation among Canadian officials is that the embargo may be lifted next spring.

The outbreak also resulted in interprovincial barriers to the movement of meat and livestock, which have since been lifted. British Columbia, Manitoba and Quebec threw up their own barriers while the federal government banned livestock shipment from the west to Ontario and other eastern points.

The disease first showed up in November. Its actual spread was in a comparatively limited area and its clean-up, within six months from the time it was diagnosed in February, may be a world record for ridding a country of the virus, noted for its rapid spread.

It hit directly fewer than 2,000 head of livestock on 40 farms. To eliminate the disease, federal veterinary teams disinfected all arms and supervised the slaughter of livestock and more than 2,000 head of poultry. The carcasses were buried in pits.

Cost Heavy

The cost of eradication was estimated at $800,000, including $500,000 compensation payments to farmers.

That was only a fraction of the over-all economic loss to Canada.

Loss of the U.S. market brought a surplus of meat and animals, together with an increase in milk production from dairy cows originally destined for the U.S.

Beef and pork prices dropped and the federal government stepped in to support prices. It spent an estimated $18,000,000 in buying and canning surplus pork and promoted a beef deal with New Zealand and the United Kingdom to ship government-purchased Canadian meat to Britain at a loss. This latter step was expected to cost $15,000,000 for some 60,000,000 pounds of beef.

Price Support Continues

Mr. Gardiner announced recently that the government's direct price-support program for beef will continue until U.S. markets are restored.

The government has also banned all imports of meat and livestock—except under federal permit—in order to keep the Canadian market for the Canadian meat producer. Officials said the ban will remain until Canada regains her export markets.

The outbreak also brought on a hot political battle in Parliament. The issue was not over clean-up of the disease—all parties agreed that control measures were prompt and effective after diagnosis in mid-February.

Opponents of the government charged negligence in that a correct diagnosis was not made until almost three months from the original outbreak.

The Commons Agricultural Committee held 17 sittings to question federal agriculture officials and its final report commended veterinarians for their work. Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. members labelled the report a "whitewash."

The source of the disease and how it was carried into south Saskatchewan were never discovered, however, despite a thorough investigation.

George Wishart, was united marriage to John Osborne raham, of Goderich, Ontario, son f Dr. James Graham and Mrs. raham. The Reverend Duncan cTavish officiated.

The wedding music was ren- ered by Mr. S. Alec Gordon, hurch organist, and the soloist, iss Mary Graham, sister of the ridegroom, sang before the eremony, "Where'er You Walk" Handel and during the signing the register, "Calm as the ight", by Bohm.

Given in marriage by her fa- her, the bride wore a white em- roidered organdy gown with uffled tulle underskirt, a shaped onnet of tulle held her finger- ip veil and she carried a bouquet f yellow roses, white baby mums and blue dephiniums.

Her sisters, Elsepth and Carol, were bridesmaids, gowned alike n demure frocks of embroidered white organdy over ruffled under- kirts of primrose and larkspur colors, respectively, and carried osegays of yellow rosebuds, white 'mums and blue cornflowers.

Mr. Dudley Burland, of Toron- o and Bermuda, was groomsman, and Mr. Allan Beattie, of Toron- o, and Mr. Hugh Boyce, of Arn- prior, cousin of the bridegroom, were ushers.

At the reception, which was ld at the home of the bride's rents, the bride's mother, wear- g periwinkle blue chiffon and ce, with black accessories, and orsage of pake pink carnations, eceived the many guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in a wedgewood blue silk suit with white feathered hat, and corsage of red roses and stephanotis.

For the wedding trip to the New England States, the bride chose a pale blue silk dress with navy accessories and corsage of Talisman roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Graham will reside in Goderich, Ontario.

Out-of-town guests were present from: Arnprior, Ottawa, Goderich, Toronto, Brockville, Picton, Midland, Hawkesbury, Clinton, Washington, Pa.; Cushing, Quebec, and New York.

Prior to the wedding, the bride and bridegroom were entertained at a shower at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Baldwin, Belleville; a gift presentation was made to the bride by the staff of the Dominion Parasite Laboratory, and also at a kitchen shower at the home of Mrs. L. R. Finlayson, of Belleville.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of the University of Toronto.

DELONG—BISHOP

A wedding of wide interest was solemnized in Kerby Memorial Chapel, Mount Royal College, Calgary, Alberta, on Tuesday, July 1st, at 5:00 p.m., by Dr. J. H. Garden, principal of Mount Royal College, when Irene Elizabeth Bishop, of Edmonton, Alberta, daughter of Mr. D. B. Olsen, became the bride of George Earl Delong, of Lacombe, Alberta, son of the late Thomas Richard DeLong, of Picton, Ontario.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her son, Mr. Marvin Bishop, was attractively gowned in rose-tinted lace with matching hat, and corsage of orchids.

Mrs. B. Olsen, and Miss Brenda Bishop, daughter of the bride; Miss Betty DeLong, and Mrs. F. J. Myer, daughters of the bridegroom, attended the bride, while Mr. Gaylen Jones, of Calgary, attended the bridegroom.

The wedding dinner was held in the Spanish room of the Paliser Hotel, Calgary, and the reception later in a large suit adorned with lovely flowers for the occasion, after which the bride and bridegroom left for Banff. They will reside at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, Alberta.

TITULA—WOOD

On Saturday, August 2nd, at 2:00 p.m., a pretty wedding was solemnized in Bridge Street United Church, before a background of tall standards of pink and white gladioli interspersed with ferns, by the Reverend R. A. Rowley, pastor of Tabernacle United Church, when Barbara Clistie Wood, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wood, became the bride of Corporal William Titula, of Trenton, R.C.A.F., formerly of Yorkton, Saskatchewan, son of Mrs. W. Titula and the late Mr. Titula.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely bridal gown of Chantilly lace and satin, featuring a molded bodice with long, tight-fitting sleeves ending in lily-points at the wrists, and V-shaped neckline with Queen Antoinette collar. The bouffant skirt fell in graceful folds into chapel train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet encrusted with seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and bouvardia. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls.

Mrs. Mary Mitchell, of Belleville, was matron of honor, attractively gowned in yellow net over taffeta fashioned on lines similar to that of the bride. She wore a matching crownless brim and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Faye Yorke, of Belleville, and Miss Bernice Belch, Belleville, the bridesmaids, were gowned in pale green and mauve nylon taffeta fashioned similarly to that of the matron of honor, wearing crownless brims in matching shades, of pale green and mauve, respectively, and carrying shower bouquets of pink and yellow roses.

Corporal "Dusty" Rodeau, of Trenton R.C.A.F., was groomsman ,and Corporals Gerald Hansen and William Taylor, both of Trenton R.C.A.F., acted as ushers.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received, gowned in mauve sheer with white accessories and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Leonard Wood, wearing a grey gown with white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The bride's table was charmingly appointed with a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom, and surrounded by a cloud of pink tulle, and flowers.

Those who assisted in serving were, Mrs. Edward Hector, of Kingston; Mrs. M. Vesterfeldt, of Belleville, and Miss Jean Wood, of Wellington.

For travelling to Yorkton, Saskatchewan, the bride chose an ensemble in pale blue with corsage of pink roses.

Guests present were from Kingston, Wellington and Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Titula will reside in Belleville.

TAYLOR—MAHLER

A wedding of special interest took place in Delaware on July 26, in Christ Anglican Church, when Patricia Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Mahler, Delaware, became the bride of Norman Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Taylor, of Tweed.

Rev. W. C. Allison officiated and Mrs. Richard Minnitt provided the wedding music. Mr. L. A. Taylor, father of the bridegroom was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over Duchess satin. Over the draped strapless bodice she wore a lace over satin bolero fitted at the waist and flaring over the hip line. Her headdress was a crown of seed pearls holding a French illusion veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. C. F. Comfort was her sister's matron-of-honor, wearing a pale green net over taffeta floor-length gown and carrying a basket of yellow rosebuds and mauve sweetpeas. The bridesmaids were: Mrs. Burnell Taylor, of Hamilton, and Miss Marguerite Dempsey, of Delaware. Their gowns were similar to that of the matron of honor in yellow and mave and they carried baskets of yellow roses, and mauve sweetpeas.

Miss Wendy Mahler, Mount Brydges, was flower girl wearing a full-length gown of pink organdy and carrying a basket of rainbow sweetpeas and pink rosebuds.

Burnell Taylor, Hamilton, was his brother's groomsman, and the ushers were, Lloyd Mahler, brother of the bride, and Dr. C. F. Comfort, of London. Michael Comfort was ringbearer.

The bride's mother wore a gown of dusty blue French marquisette with navy accesoies and corsage of Talisman roses and the groom's mother wore a flowered silk dress with black accessories and corsage of Butterfly roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's aunts, Miss Eva Mahler and Miss Winnifred Mahler.

For a wedding trip to northern Ontario, the bride donned a pale grey flannel suit with pink accessories. and corsage of pink rosettes.

MILLER—NEWELL

Pastel tinted gladioli in vases and tall standards adorned the altar and chancel steps of Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, July 26th., at 2.30 p.m. for the marriage of Carmel Adria Josephine Newell, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Newell, to Gerald Glen Miller of Crofton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Miller. The Reverend J. B. Creeggan, officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

The wedding music was provided by Mrs. J. B. Leddingham, who accompanied the soloist, Miss Betty Bates, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," preceding the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her bridal, floor-length gown of white satin and lace, featuring a fitted pearl-trimmed bodice with lace yoke and small Peter Pan collar, buttoned down the front, and long, sheath-like sleeves ending in V-points over the wrists. The gracefully full skirt was fashioned with divided front lace panels disclosing satin ballerina slippers. She wore a pearl-encrusted coronet and finger-tip veil of nylon net trimmed with embroidery and satin appliques, and carried a cascade bouquet of Bettertime red roses.

Miss Shirley Haley of Belleville, cousin of the bride was maid of honor, attired in powder blue taffeta in floor-length with matching mitts, and carrying a crescent-shaped bouquet of pink Briercliff roses. Miss Caryl Waite, of Belleville, was bridesmaid, gowned in pale yellow taffeta and carrying a crescent bouquet of rust-tinted Talisman roses. Miss Norene Miller, of Crofton, sister of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid, in pale green taffeta, also carrying a crescent-shaped bouquet of yellow Gloria roses.

Little Lynda Miller of Crofton, sister of the bridegroom was flower girl, demure in her lilac taffeta and lace frock, and carrying a nosegay of white sweetpeas and yellow Sweetheart roses.

All attendants wore floral headdresses matching their gowns with matching mitts.

Mr. Donald E. Welch, half-brother of the bride, of St. Catharines, Ont., was groomsman; Mr. John Newell of Belleville, brother of the bride, and Mr. William Miller, of Crofton, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The reception was held for about 70 guests in Christ Church Parish Hall, for which the Women's Guild catered. The bride's table was centred by a three-tiered wedding cake surrounded by a fluff of white tulle and flowers, and flanked by candelabras with white tapers. The bride's mother received, wearing a pale blue sheer with white accessories, and corsage of red roses and fern. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, attired in lemon colored sheer with white accessories and pink rose and fern corsage.

For the wedding trip to northern and western points, the bride chose a costume in pale mauve with white accessories and corsage of pink Delight roses and fern. Mr. and Mrs. Miller will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from: Toronto, St. Catharines, Crofton and Stirling.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was honored with several showers and presentations from friends and neighbors and her place of employment, while the bridegroom-to-be was also honored by a presentation of a plate glass wall mirror by the Belleville Motor Car Baseball Club, of which team he is a member.

On the eve of their wedding, the bride and bridegroom-to-be entertained the wedding attendants to whom presentations of jewellery were made to the ladies, and wallets and litters to the ushers and groomsman.

The bride's gift to her bridegroom was a precision wrist watch, and the bridegroom's gift to his bride, a rhinestone necklace and matching bracelet.

Open Letter

TO MOTHERS OF
LITTLE GALS FROM
5 TO HIGH SCHOOL AGE.

How does your daughter grow? With naturally curly hair? If so, we'll cut her hair in a style that will be trim and tantalizing. If not, we'll cut her hair to a perky length and give her a baby-soft permanent wave. No more putting it up every night or after every rainstorm. This plan is not only helpful to you, but good for your child. Most little girls are coquettes at heart. We'll wager a child who looks pretty as she can will be smart as she can—and happier — in school.

SPECIAL AUGUST 20th. to 30th.

A Bit of Holland in Belleville Created by Dutch Operatic Star

There is a touch of old Holland on Dunbar Street.

Stepping into the modest house at No. 46 you look out the window and half expect to see the creaking arms of an old Dutch mill; a field of waving tulips or hear the sound of frustrated waves hurling their endless legions against the dikes.

For here is a tiny corner of Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Vollendam or any other Dutch community.

Here in a charmingly appointed room you can close your eyes after a quick glance and visualize the quiet clean calm of a typical Dutch town, village or city.

The quiet "tick" of an old Dutch grandfather clock, 150 years of age, which bears the beautiful lace "towel" on which the old Dutch burghers inscribed the names of their families, sounds in this quaint room.

It looks down on a Slavonian oak chest, hand-carved some 300 years ago by Dutch woodcarvers, master craftsmen in their own right.

"Silver-tin" a Dutch metal which strongly resembles our gunmetal is fashioned into quaintly charming table adornments. A Slavonian oak library stand, in its dark carved beauty stands in another corner. A Dutch shawl, hangs like a diamond-shaped tapestry over the mantle in soft pretty colors.

Nostalgia

A Smyrna rug covers a table of the same oak. On the mantel stand nostalgic miniature windmills.

In a room nearby is a quaint Slavonian oak breakfast set. The table is low. The chairs have long narrow backs, low seats. On the table is a beautiful plate, hand-painted with a striking likeness of Rembrandt in a lovely shade of blue. An oil painting of a Dutch floral scene looks down from a proud place atop another mantel In a corner is a Dutch radio.

Adding a personal touch to this charming scene is an equally charming lady, Mrs. Catharina Hendrikse, who has been appointed teacher of voice at Albert College for the coming term.

Had you been a patron of Dutch opera in Amsterdam or Rotterdam a decade ago you would have recognized Mrs. Hendrikse as the "Mimi" in "La Boheme", the "Siebel" in "Faust", the "Adele" in "Die Fliedermaus", the "Nouri" in "Tiefland", the "Annette" in "Fraischutz" and in many other operatic roles. You would have recognized her as the saucy soubrette in many of the lighter operas.

The Belgian-born former operatic star is an accomplished pianist having started playing at the age of five years. She started singing at 17 and developed a beautiful lyric and coloratura soprano voice. She has taught voice for the past 15 years.

Accomplished Artist

She has sung on the concert stage, in choral societies and for four years was a starred artist on the Dutch radio. Incidentally she has been invited to audition for the CBC next month. She sings in eight different languages, English, German, French, Italian, Romany, Hungarian, Dutch and Norwegian. She has a smattering of East Indian and the Malayan languages.

Her maiden and operatic name was Catharina Van Der Velde She is married to Michael Hendrikse, a former Dutch chicken farmer of Amsterdam, now associated with the Northern Electric Company here. They have a seven-year-old son, Marius. The Hendrikse family arrived here from Amsterdam, Holland, a little over three months ago. A brother of Mrs. Hendrikse, Walter Van Der Velde, resides a few doors away on Dunbar Street.

While she talked of her native Holland, Mrs. Hendrikse sighed a bit wistfully and confessed to being a little "homesick". But, she bravely admitted, while she misses her friends in her native country, she has made many new ones here and is looking forward to a long and successful life in her adopted country.

Crowded condition in Holland and Europe, with no future apparent for children, was the principal reason for the Hendrikse's decision to come to Canada.

"The people here are lovely and so friendly," Mrs. Hendrikse smiled, and, she added, "I have heard so many beautiful voices right here in the city of Belleville I know I am going to like it here."

While the Canadian love of the classics and opera has not yet reached that of Europeans, Mrs. Hendrikse feels Canadians are becoming more and more interested in the "better music". "They will like the works of such famous composers as Schubert, Schumann, Wolf, Faurez, Duparc and other great masters," she said.

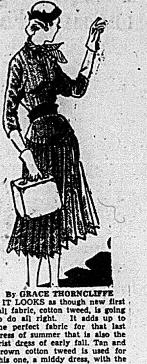
Mrs. Doxtator and her 4th Line assistants served refreshments which brought the evening to a close.

Middy Dress



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

IT LOOKS as though new first fall fabric, cotton tweed, is going to do all right. It adds up to the perfect fabric for that last dress of summer that is also the frist dress of early fall. Tan and brown cotton tweed is used for this one, a middy dress, with the line dipping in a nice curve in front and back. The waistline is defined by a big bold brown leather fascia. Brown bone buttons close the collarless front, and the skirt is side pleated all around.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

It's not wrong to leave an abusive husband

Dear Miss Fairfax:

During the past five years I have had a lot of trouble with my husband, and I have reached the point where I feel as though I'm headed for a nervous breakdown.

I have two boys, one five and one nine, and the children have often seen their father come home drunk and abuse me, and I do not think it is good for them to see these things. Last month he made a terrible scene which brought all the neighbors out to watch, and today the same thing happened again.

I have asked him to leave us, but he says the house is partly his, and if anyone should leave it should be me. Then he says that if I do leave, he will divorce me on grounds of desertion. I am not in a position to leave anyhow, as I am working and I have no place to go.

I just don't know what to do. Would it be doing wrong to leave my husband, or how could I get him to leave us?—A. A.

Dear A.A.: I certainly do not think you would be doing wrong to leave a man of the type you describe, if he shows no realization of the intolerable situation in which you and the children are placed, and no disposition whatever to do anything about it. As for how you can get your husband to take the initiative in leaving, however, I doubt very much if there is any way you could do this. Such a man is not likely to be open to persuasion.

I suggest that you find out the address of the local Alcoholics Anonymous group, which, as you probably know, is an organization of men and woman who have been alcoholics themselves but have given up drinking entirely, and who have pledged themselves to help other alcoholics. I think a talk with someone there would help you decide what to do.

You live in a state which permits divorce on the ground of habitual intemperance. If you did decide to leave your husband, I think it should be possible for you to win out in any matter involving divorce, in spite of anything he might threaten. Of course, you should consult a lawyer before making any move of any kind. Then, you might also consult whatever social welfare organization there is in your town to help you make such practical plans as are necessary in regard to living arrangements and provision for the care of your children while you are working.

Marriage between first cousins

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I want to know if it is wrong to marry your first cousin. I am in love with a cousin of mine, and my friends all tell me it would be a great mistake for us to marry.—L. C.

Dear L.C.: To get any information on this subject that would mean anything, you would have to take it up with a doctor, and, of course, preferably your own doctor who is familiar with the medical history of your family. As I understand it, medical opinion has changed considerably within the past years about the marriage of cousins, and now takes the position that if there is no serious disability that is likely to be inherited by any possible children, there is no outstanding objection to such marriages. Naturally, however, I am not an authority on anything of this kind, and you should get the best opinion possible before making definite plans.

KILLING THEM OF

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—British forces killed more Communist terrorists in the first half of this month than at any other time in the four-year long Malayan campaign, preliminary figures showed today. The death count was 59. The record full month came last June when 110 guerrillas were slain.

Food for Thought

Corn But Not Corny

By Mary Moore

Why I should sit here and run on about ways of serving corn when the simplest and fastest way is the best I don't know.

We get into such a vicious habit of working over beautiful food when all we need to do is serve it as Nature gives it to us, that we ruin our digestions, dispositions and household allowances.

Corn Buying Tips

Marianne and Pete did the marketing this morning and both of them are so fond of corn they wanted to know exactly how to buy it. I was surprised to see them both snap to attention when I described how a freshly gathered ear of corn would look.

To select corn that has been newly gathered look for shiny unwilted inner silktassel. Inspect bottom of ear to see that breaking point is not brown. If you have the opportunity of looking at the cob, kernels should be medium small and shiny but not dark yellow, even if it is golden bantam. The old-fashioned test of milk spurting from the kernel when pressed with thumb nail still holds good—but we seldom get a chance to try it.

Corn Cooking Tips.

Do not husk corn until it is time to cook it. Have water boiling in kettle and plunge corn in. Do not add salt. It requires from 4 to 6 minutes for cooking at boiling point to "set" the milk in the corn kernel. Longer cooking only toughens it. Immediately remove water and serve in covered dish. If corn is served in a silver entree dish it will tarnish the silver—so use a porcelain vegetable wish.

SUMMER SUCCOTASH CASSEROLE

This is ideal for a main dish for lunch or supper where you do not plan to serve meat as it is substantial and satisfying. If you serve this with the meat course for dinner you would not serve potatoes, of course.

Make a white sauce by melting 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, and stirring in 4 tablepoons flour, then 1 1-2 cups milk until thick. Add 1-4 cup grated old cheese—Parmesan is wonderful—and nearly 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 cup cut-up canned pimento. Keep hot over boiling water for about 5 minutes. Add 2 cups lima beans—these may be drained canned, or what is perfect fresh limas that have been cooked not more than 5 minutes; add also 2 cups fresh corn cut from cob (in which use canned kernel corn drained); also add 1-2 cup finely chopped chives or small green onion tops and 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley. Have ready 2 cups fine fresh breadcrumbs and 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Add the limas, corn, chives or onions and parsley to the sauce. Pour into well-buttered shallow baking dish. Sprinkle crumbs over top and drizzle the melted butter over these. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes or until dish is bubbling and crumbs are golden.

BAKED STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS

A meat-stretcher.

Six large green peppers are washed, slice removed from top, and seeds and ribs removed. Cover with boiling water and simmer 3 minutes. Drain. Saute in 2 tablespoons butter or salad oil 1 or 2 cups leftover ground meat or raw ground beef and 4 tablespoons minced onion for 5 minutes. Add to them 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 teaspoon crumbled sage and 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce and 3 cups corn cut from cob, raw. Stuff peppers with this mixture. Top with 1 cup buttered crumbs. Arrange upright in baking dish. Add about 1-2 cup boiling water to bottom of dish, cover and bake 35 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. removing cover during last 10 minutes. If desired 1 1-2 cups canned tomatoes may be added to mixture or same amount of canned mushroom soup—which makes them much softer but gives additional flavor, and increases the amount of stuffing.

Fashionable Footprints

By ALICE ALDEN

THE FIRST footprints along fashion lane this autumn are light and pretty. Beautiful leathers, cleverly handled for lightness and airy beauty go beautifully with late summer and first fall clothes. The Italian influence is exemplified in this new slingback sandal with its horizontal bands of brown suede, highlighted by a contrasting vertical strip of brown calf leather. Brown metallic leather is also used at the heel. Very thin, very supple leather soles carry out the light feeling of the shoe.

CROFTON

CROFTON—Mrs. D. B. Munro has returned to her home after a week spent with her sisters at Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Biggs and Mrs. Robert Hinnon of Vancouver; Mrs. W. H. Biggs of Regina and Mr. and Mrs. Delman Biggs of Guelph, were weekend guests of Mrs. George Hutson and Ted.

Mrs. S. J. Munro is spending this week with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby Fox at Centre.

Mrs. Victor Bongard is vacationing this week at Presqu'ile.

Mrs. E. Crook spent Wednesday with her sister, Mrs. Charles Haight at Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Jones and boys of Belleville spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Jones.

The Ladies' Aid met recently at the home of Miss Thelma Buell with a good attendance. Next meeting will be at Mrs. W. J. Gray's home.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Jones spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Clement at Picton.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dempsey on the safe arrival of a fine baby boy.

Mr. Harold Munro of Black Street, recently made a canvass of this street as assessor.

DEMAND CAUSES BREAKDOWN

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — A British demand for a 15-per-cent cut in Danish bacon prices caused a breakdown in last week's London conferences, the newspaper Berlinkske Aftenavis said yesterday.

The Danish representatives, who returned home last night, refused comment on the report.

GOOD MANNERS

Groom's aunt's generous plan to furnish a room as her wedding present

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it ever permissible for a close relative of either the bride or groom (in this case, the groom) to furnish a room in the young couple's new home, as a wedding present? My favorite nephew is about to be married, and as he is also my godson as well as my nephew and has always been a great 'pal' of mine, I would like to do something special as my wedding persent. But several of my relatives and friends have told me that the bride-to-be would not like this, and would be embarrassed to decline.

I know the bride-to-be quite well, am deeply devoted to her, and of course wouldn't do anything that would make it awkward for her. However, I don't see that this suggestion would be out-of-order if I assured her that I wouldn't have the slightest intention of even mentioning my likes and dislikes, that they could have whatever kind of furniture and furnishings they like. I can't see how, if I made this plain, my idea would be in such bad taste as I'm being told it would be. Your point of view, please, Mrs. Beeckman?—"Auntie".

Your idea is a wonderful one, full of kindness and thoughtfulness and generosity. . .and since you plan to make it clear to the couple that "there are no strings attached" to your present, I'm sure they will be thrilled. Sometimes this plan-to-furnish-a-room in the new home is given by a woman relative or friend who insists on selecting the furniture, who fancies herself a decorator with infallible taste and so insists that her ideas must be followed, who takes the inflexible attitude that because she is paying the bill, only her wishes and ideas are to be followed. But since you are apparently making none of these "demands", would like to pay for what they most want for the decoration of one room, I'm sure the bride will be delighted, and the groom will be delighted, and proud too of the generous plan of his loving relative!

If, as your plan unfolds to the couple, you sense even a bit of hesitation, you might, instead, give them a chèque to cover the furnishing of a special room you choose to furnish in the new home.

Should use traditional announcement form

Dear Mrs Beeckman:

My fiance's mother died when he was a very little boy, and three years after her death his father married her sister. She has been a wonderful mother to him, he is extremely devoted to her, thinks of her more as mother than as stepmother. As a matter of fact, neither he nor I ever use the term 'stepmother' for her, even in introductions. Our engagement has not been announced yet, and in talking over the announcement last evening, we wondered if it would be proper, or even permissible, to refer to him (in the newspaper announcement, and later of the wedding) as "the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Davis," meaning the present 'Mrs. Davis.'—Sallie B.

No. . .this would not be proper on any count. . . it is not the fact . . . and it certainly would not be paying the loving honor and respect to your fiance's own mother. Please don't consider following such a blatantly disrespectful and bad-taste plan. The announcement in the newspaper, of the engagement and of the wedding later, should read "to Mr. Arthur Paul Davis, the son of Mr. John Davis, of this city, and the late Mrs. Davis."

BEAUTY

Glasses have nothing to do with age.

Eyes, starlit and expressive.

When playing with the makeup box a girl gives special attention to her eyes. Lashes are touched with mascara to make the silky fringes darker, appear more abundant. Eyebrows are tweezed carefully, sometimes pencilled. When a gala evening is on the program, the shutters of the soul windows are faintly tinted. But if the eyes are dull, tired or the lids reddened, what's the use? There is a limit to what cosmetic attentions can accomplish. It is the same old story. Delicate artifice cannot cover defects caused by fatigue or under-standard health.

Many women abuse their eyes shamefully. They take the mystery story to bed, keep reading even when the pages of type are gray blurs. When some women find that they have difficulty threading a needle, they refuse to believe that anything has happened to impair vision and that they need glasses. If they postpone the day too long, serious damage may be done.

Vanity is back of that nonsense. Specs will make them look older, they imagine. How about all the young people who are wearing them these days? Glasses have nothing to do with age, nor will they make a woman look austere.

Twice a day the eyes should be bathed with warm water; then with cold. This simple treatment takes only a minute; is favorable to a luxuriant growth of lashes, and will help keep the surrounding tissues firm because of the stimulation of the blood streams. When creaming the face, the delicate fibres around the eyes should be treated lightly, the flesh never pushed upward when applying a cream to the cheeks. Light tapping movements are recommended by facial operators.

While the color and shape of the soul orbs have much to do with their beauty, or lack of it, the real element of loveliness is found in the expression. There is no magic brightener that will turn on the lights better than animation. The girl who is highly energized, interested in many subjects, who is companionable and full of life need never worry about having unattractive eyes.

Eyes speak as plainly as words. You can greet a friend effusively, but if your eyes carry cold glints they belie what you have to say. Eyes can beckon, they can repel. They can be critical or sympathetic. They can tell you to be on your way by giving you a steely stare. So, my little chickadees, see that your eyes behave. Certainly they are a most attractive, most interesting feature. And take good care of them. They are the only ones you have and they serve you every waking moment.

Outbreak Dies Out

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—The Sarawak government said today the terrorist outbreak in the British colony seems to have died out.

No further incidents had been reported in the colony — about 600 miles east of here in northwest Borneo — since an armed robbery last week at Muara Tuang.

Sarawak declared a state of emergency 10 days ago after a series of terrorist incidents. There were fears that the jungle war Britain has been waging against Communist terrorists in Malaya was spreading across the straits to Sarawak.

Redmen Nudge League-Leading Petes Following 11-4 Defeat Of Kingston

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

IT WAS A BID OF ALL WRIGHT

'Twas a grand evening. One chappie went home with a sixty-cent television set, one of those grand Stewart-Warner type they say are tops; three youngsters galloped home clutching three handsome prizes, thanks to the generosity of Bobbie Blaind of the Bridge Street Sports Shoppe, and nigh on 1,200 (that's a guess) customers hall plenty to talk about over their midnight coffee and cakes or crullers and ale, according to their taste.

They had plenty to cheer 'and sometimes jeer about. While their mates were fiddlin' and foolin, for seven error behind him Billy Strahan was trying to turn in a good scoring chore. He did, albeit he was clouted for eight safeties before turning in his badge to the Ole Fish and Chipper Art Wright.

Up to this point, young Marse Richards of the Monarchs was breezing along very nicely, thank you. His pals had come through with some neat clutch clouting while taking advantage of the Red juggling. And when the stand-up seventh arrived he had a 4-2 lead that looked but plenty at the moment.

But the best of them make mistakes And Marse Richards erred but badly when he grooved one for his mound counterpart with Huck Reeves doing a buck-and-wing around second base. Art hit the ball squarely on the button and it soared upward and onward into the wild blue yonder as Nelson, Monarch rightfielder, waved a feeble adieu as it soared over his head and into the back-fence darkness.

And Gunner Wright with his mighty swipe fired the fuze. The firing squad, eleven of them led by Slingin' Sam Mulholland declared open season on the Richard shoots. Five solid clouts went out there in the eighth as seven runners crossed the dish and Max Jackson's sigh of resignation from the press box nearly blew the toupee off a bloke sitting three rows below.

But that's not all. Joe Levandoski, ebullient player-coach of the Monarchs was tossed out of the pastime after rhubarbing long and lingeringly with Umpire George Whitman. The umps, it seemed, called a Redman out at first on a very close play and Pal Joey didn't like it. From the natural air-conditioned press-radio booth, it began to look like a filibuster even after the official decision was reversed. Joey argued long and we presume loudly with probably a too vividly colored speech and George waved the official thumb, striking a Statue of Liberty pose as the Monarchs clustered around him.

Tony Pettitt was forced from the game with an injured thumb after stopping one of Wright's fast ones. Another bit of dramatic color was the injection of Vern Goyer as a pinch-hitter with two on in that eventful eighth, but wily Marse Scrutton promptly signalled Richards to pass the big fella. All in all it was a pleasant entertaining evening.

The Reds now boast an 11-10 record with Peterborough in front with 11-9. The Monarchs trail with an 8-11 record. The Reds go to Peterborough Wednesday night with the Monarchs back here next Monday for the final scheduled game.

Ernie Burns won the television set with youngsters Wayne Garlepy, "Butch" Carmichael and Larry Wood toting home the bat, ball and glove, spikes and crests prizes for holding the lucky tickets.

THE CLIP AND THE WHIP

Just when the faithful had given up hope of seeing the much-hated Lord Athol Layton beaten to the dust after successive victories over the Terror of the Yukon Trail, one Eric and the boss of the Bonk Conk Tribe from darkest Africa along comes another champion to hurl a challenge into the molars of the regal bridgework.

Yup, none other than the popular Whip Watson who after seeing his confreres from Alaska and the Dark Continent hamburged by the Laytonian judo chop, has decided to uphold the honor of the alumni of the College of Applied Pachydermy and take on the 'ated bloke from the green downs of Surrey.

The two are ancient enemies. Lord Athol Layton would cheerfully tear the Whip apart with as much compunction as Good King Harry did a roast duck while the Whip would like nothing better than to see the regal chappie grovel in the dust at his feet in defeat. Just a couple of good mat companions.

They'll see action in Memorial Arena come Friday gloaming along with Pat Flanagan and Jim "The Bull" Wright and Billy Stack and the brand new "Masked Marvel."

SOFTBALL TONIGHT

Due to a misunderstanding the Belleville Motor Car-Northern Electric fifth and deciding game was erroneously reported to be played last night. Tonight the teams clash in what should be an epic of the softball diamond since both teams have two victory scalps at their belts and tonight is the payoff playoff. Northern Electric appeared to have the series in the bag when they came up with two straight victories but they did not reckon with the fighting spirit and "come-back" ability of Warpy O'Brien's crew. Warpy's Wallopers shellacked the Mazdas in the next two heats (What's that about mourning cards?) and tonight tells the tale. Game starts at 6.45 at Alemite Field and it should be a sizzler.

SYMPATHY

Sincere sympathy of sportdom hereabouts especially softball players, teams, officials and fans goes out to Russ Kirkconnell, manager of the Northern Electric softball entry in the recent loss of his brother, Hugh Kirkconnell, 21, of Kincardine, who was drowned in a boating accident over the weekend.

Art Wright's Two-Ply Homer Sparks 'Em to 7-Run Outburst After Trailing for 6 Frames

By Geo. H. Carver
(Sports Editor)

If there are any medals being handed out these days for modern Frank Merriwells, Art. Wright, Redmen righthander should get the gold-plated edition.

The Reds won the game all right, defeating the Kingston Monarchs 11-4 and creeping to a half game behind the league-leading Peterborough Petes before a television-minded crowd that was estimated at 1,200 at the Fair Grounds last night.

But it took the stocky knife-side flinged to spark the flame that blazed into a seven-run eighth-inning eruption after the Reds had trailed 4-2 for seven innings prior to Master Wright being injected into the pastime.

He took over in the stand-up frame after Billy Strahan had given up eight hits for four runs most of them due to a slight comedy of errors by his mates afield.

Wright retired the side with one out in the seventh and hurled one-hit no-run baseball over the rest of the route.

A Fence Buster

But his chief claim to fame was a towering home-run blast that cleared the right field fence by a country mile scoring Huck Reeves ahead of him to tie the count at four all. And he followed it up with a clean single in the fast-moving chukker that drove in two runs giving him four RBI's for the night. Not only that, he whiffed five and walked none.

The Red bats came to life in the eighth. Up to the seventh Billy Richards, Monarchs' righthander had stymied them with four measly hits that accounted for a brace of runs. Then came Wright's blast and what looked like a new Red team stepped to the plate.

Eleven batters strode platewards and by the time the smoke had cleared, and the large crowd was gasping for more breath, seven runners had crossed the plate and the game was in the well-known container. Pat Gilmour's double to the fence and singles by Mulholland, Fitzpatrick, Reeves and Wright completed the barrage against Richards. Fitz and Reeves accounted for three runs batted in in this inning with Wright getting a pair.

Plenty of Excitement

While Ernie Burns, who won the television set got real value for his sixty cents, the rest of the faithful couldn't complain about the diamond entertainment. Just about every shaker in the baseball cruet shook itself. Tony Pettitt went out of the game with an injured finger with Russ Soules taking over behind the plate. Joe Levandoski went out of the game with his dignity ruffled after being given the ole heave-ho by Umpire George Whitman when the boys staged a rhubarb near second base. That was featured by a reversal of decision after the local official had called a Redman safe at first.

Vern Goyer was injected as a pinch hitter in the eighth when the Red explosion was at its peak and the McCabian strategy was promptly met by a Scrutton order to walk the big fella.

Russ Soules committed four of the Redmen bobbles that didn't help Billy Strahan's hurling effort one iota. Four of the Reds came up with doubles. Fitz forgot to step two feet to third base with runners on first and second when an infield tap came his way. Carnegie, Monarch catcher did a dramatic nose-dive after a foul sliding at least two feet, balanced on his left ear— and three happy kids went home with as many handsome prizes. 'Twas a right jolly evening all round.

Richards went all the way for the visitors, giving up 10 hits, five in the eighth walking three and whiffing two.

Kingston scored a brace in the first off three hits, a walk and an error, added a single in the third off two clouts and another in the eighth off three Redmen bobbles, two by Soules and a long fly.

Soules double in the second drove home Tony Pettitt who had singled for the Reds first tally and Paddy Gilmour's towering hoist to deep centre in the fifth scored Reeves who had doubled and sacrificed to third with Strahan's perfect bunt. And that was that until Art Wright's fence-busting homer scored Reeves, who had walked ahead of him.

Wright's homer and single, good for four runs paced the Red offensive with Reeves and Mulholland rapping out a double and single each. Soules and Gilmour also hit two-baggers.

Eric Rank led the Monarchs with three safeties with McCormick and Levondoski coming through with a pair each.

Canuck Wins Title

VANDALIA, O. (CP)—Canada's sharp-shooting George Genereux of Saskatoon won the junior champion of champions title yesterday at the 53rd Grand American trapshoot.

The 17-year-old Canadian, who won the Olympic clay pigeon shooting event at Helsinki, broke 25 straight in a shoot-off to defeat 14-year-old Bill Nelson, Brady, Neb.

No Upsets Noted In Opening Round Title Tennis

TOORNTO (CP)—A young Toronto tennis player, whose hardest games were played last year in an intercollegiate tennis tournament, meets the second ranking United States player in the Canadian lawn tennis championships today.

Hugh Peacock, 22-year-old University of Toronto civil engineering student, won the right to meet Dick Savitt of Orange, N.J., when he defeated John Gerrard of the Toronto Cricket Club 7-5, 6-2 in a qualifying round Sunday.

"I'm scared," Hugh admitted, "but I won't mind losing to one of the best players in the world."

The match was originally scheduled for yesterday but poor plane connections delayed Savitt's arrival.

No Upsets

Since no upsets marked the first day of play yesterday, a "full house" of Canadian and foreign top ranking players is on hand in Canada's greatest tennis competition.

Lorne Main of Vancouver and Brendan Macken and Henri Rochon, both of Montreal, Canada's three top players, all won their matches in straight sets. So did Mexico's No. 1 player, G. Palofox, and Art Larsen of Oakland, Calif., the U.S. clay and hardcourt champion.

Main defeated Mexico's R. Reifkohl, 6-1, 6-4. Macken won over F. Murphy of Fort William 6-0, 6-3 and Rochon used a combination of cuts and left-handed drives to finish off G. Campbell of Toronto, 6-0, 6-0. Palofax cut off Toronto's J. Dickensn 6-1, 6-3 and Larsen defeated a surprisingly strong Jim Duff of Toronto, 6-3, 6-4.

Nearest thing to an upset in the day's play was the hard-fought match between veteran Beau Summers of Toronto and J. Ryes of Mexico. Beau, rated as Canada's No. 6, had to come from behind to defeat the 18-year-old player 9-6, 6-2, 6-3.

U.S. Champ Out

A last-minute ruling by the Northern California Tennis Association shortened the entry list of the ladies' singles. Anita Kanter, 1952 U.S. clay court champion, was refused permission to compete in the Canadian tournament.

Her removal from the list of competitors leaves Hilde Doleschell, former ranking Austrian player now living in Toronto, and Melita Ramirz, Mexican singles and doubles champion, as the two possible claimants of the Canadian title.

Intermittent rain delayed the start of yesterday's play by more than two hours.

Soccer Fans Attack Referee

TORONTO (CP)—With less than 15 minutes left to play in the Consols Cup soccer final between Canadians and Ukrainians last night the game was called off when players and fans swarmed across the field attempting to attack referee Pat Taylor.

When Taylor called a penalty shot against the Ukrainians, they refused to take it. The referee called off the game. The Ukrainians were leading 3-2.

The 2,000 fans then swarmed on to the field. Police ended the tussle but not before the referee had taken some abuse and one fan lost four teeth when struck with a bottle.

A meeting of Toronto and District Soccer League directors threw out the result of the game which, in effect, is for the city championship.

'There Aint No Joy in Gotham', To Add 'Insult to Injuries' Durocher Is Suspended 5 Days

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

Time keeps running out and trouble keeps piling up on the harried and injury-riddled New York Giants.

Trailing the runaway Brooklyn Dodgers by a 7 1-2 game margin, the defending National League champions no sooner arrived in Chicago yesterday when they were handed another severe jolt.

It was a telegram from League President Warren Giles advising Leo Durocher that he had been suspended for five days for his run-in with umpire Augie Donatelli last Sunday. A $100 fine also was plastered on the stormy manager. The suspension lasts through Aug. 23.

Top Job in '51

Durocher generally was credited with doing a magnificent job last season in leading Giants to their first flag in 14 years. For bringing the team up from a 13½-game deficit as late as Aug. 11, he earned the manager-of-the-year award in the Associated Press poll.

Many believed Durocher was doing an even better job this year in keeping the Giants in second place despite such crippling blows as the ankle fracture suffered by Monte Irvin, the loss of Willie Mays to the service, the back ailment of Sal Maglie and the slumping of Bobby Thomson.

The Giants will have to struggle along without Durocher for the entire four-game series in Chicago and the two-game set in St. Louis. Coach Fred Fitzsimmons will be in charge.

The Dodgers open their western swing in Cincinnati where Preacher Roe and Johnny Rutherford will oppose Bubba Church and Herman Wehmeier in a twi-night twin bill tonight.

New York Yankees return home tonight against Chicago White Sox. Johnny Schmitz will try to protect the Yanks' two-game bugle over Cleveland Indians. He will be opposed by Saul Rogovin. Cleveland engages the Red Sox in Boston, with Early Wynn opposing Dick Brodowski.

Yanks Trim Boston

The Yankees took advantage of Cleveland's idleness yesterday, picking up one-half game by defeating the Red Sox 4-2 in Boston. Vic Raschi hurled a five-hitter for his 14th victory against three losses. Dizzy Trout was the loser, the victime of two-run outbursts in the first and third innings. The defeat Phil Cavarretta propelled the winning blow, a pinch-hit homer with a man on base to hand Murry Dickson his 17th defeat. Bob Schultz, in relief, was credited with his third win.

It was not a wasted day for Cleveland," however, since the Indians obtained relief pitcher Ted Wilks and utility infielder George Strickland from the Pirates in exchange for infielder Johnny Berardino and a "sizeable bundle" of cash.

Tubs Are Thumping for The Rocket, Ready to Smash Records, Says Report

MONTREAL (CP)—The Rocket is in top physical shape, his stomach pains have disappeared and he's ready to break the National Hockey League all-time scoring record in a hurry.

All of this is advance, pre-training-season notice to players, fans and all others who have given summer-time thoughts to Maurice Richard. A month from now the Rocket and a whole flock of regulars and rookies of Montreal Canadiens will be working out on Montreal Forum ice.

"I haven't had a trace of those pains for a month or so," Richard said yesterday. "I'm ready for the training season."

Going After Record

How about that all-time scoring record of 324 goals set up by Nels Stewart in 15 years of campaigning with three N.H.L. clubs?

"I'll be going after that early. I have 319 goals now and I think I can pass 324 in a few games."

Richard's 319 goals were scored in 10 seasons. His high was 50 in the 1944-45 season and has led the league on three occasions.

Last season he played in only 48 games of the 70-game schedule and scored 27 goals. The mysterious stomach and groin pains struck him late in November. He thinks a strain was the cause.

He took a few short rests and finally was sent to Florida for a longer recuperation period. He got into late-season play and the playoffs. But his return to hockey brought on the pains again although usually not so severe. He underwent hospital examinations and followed medical advice.

Sport in Brief

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP)—Jockey Forrest Kaelin, 17-year-old apprentice from Louisville, Ky., rode the first six winners at Wheeling Downs yesterday and sent statisticians rushing to the record books.

Here are the winners in order, with the payoff:

Baby Bunny, $14.20; Okla Belle $5.80; Ernal Shore $8.40; Sisbolo $5.80; Fly Demon $6.00 and One Try $13.40.

Kaelin also rode in the seventh and eighth races—finishing last in the seventh and fifth in the eighth.

In riding the winners of the entire program of six races at Churchill Downs June 5, 1907, James Lee established a world record. This mark stood until Feb. 19, 1910, when Albert Whittaker rode all seven winners at Huntley, New Zealand, and Whittaker's record was equalled by W. Thomas of Townsville, Australia, July, 29, 1929.

... Ravenna Park, Ohio, J. Sylvester rode in all eight races Oct. 18, 1930, and won seven races.

Kaelin rode his first winner this spring at Waterford Park, Chester, W.Va.

EDMONTON (CP) — Playing coach Frankie Filchock, who suffered a rib separation on the last play of exhibition game here Saturday night with Montreal Alouettes, is expected to miss Edmonton Eskimos' first two scheduled games in the Western Interprovincial Football Union. Club doctors said yesterday the injury will keep him out of action for games in Regina Saturday and in Winnipeg next Monday.

TORONTO (CP)—Most of the 300 entrants in the 18th annual provincial lawn bowling tournament went home Saturday but two were out on the greens yesterday battling for one of the remaining trophies. Dr. E. G. Wheler of Toronto Balmy Beach defeated C. N. Sedgewick of West Toronto 21-11 to take the R. T. McLean Memorial Trophy.

WINNIPEG (CP)—United Weston last night drubbed Regina Nationals 4-1 to sweep their best-of-three interprovincial soccer final in two games. Weston won the first game 2-0. Weston meets Montreal Stelco in a best-of-three series here starting Aug. 28, the winner to play the Alberta-British Columbia winner for the Dominion championship.

MALAGA, Spain (CP)—The bulls were in good form here yesterday—so good, in fact, authorities suspended bullfighting. Matadors Gitanillo de Ricla and Fernando Gimenez were seriously gored. Joselito Torres stuck himself with his own sword while trying to kill his bull and went to the infirmary in grave condition. Officials decided to call the whole thing off before they ran out of matadors.

CHICAGO (AP)—A doctor told Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday that their regular second baseman, Johnny Merson, will be out of the game for the rest of the season. Merson suffered a broken bone in his right hand in a game Sunday when hit by one of Chicago pitcher Bob Kelly's fast balls.

RAT BLAMED FOR DEATH

Royals Take Two From Baltimore; Bisons Nip Chiefs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While Montreal Royals are sailing along at the top of the International League, the battle for seventh place is being waged with the bitterness of a pennant race.

Springfield Cubs occupied the spot today with Ottawa Athletics consigned to the cellar, just one game behind. The Cubs climbed out of last place last night by taking a 2-1 decision from the As.

The As were ahead until the ninth inning, when the Cubs scored two unearned runs on two singles, an error and two walks. Ed Burtschy walked home the winning run.

In other action, the Royals took a doubleheader from Baltimore Orioles, 2-0 and 10-7, and Buffalo Bisons eked out a 3-2 decision over Syracuse Chiefs.

Mal Mallette and Jim Hughes combined to hold the Orioles to four hits in the first game for the Royals. Don Hoak hit a home run and that was enough to win it. In the nightcap, the Royals needed all the hitting they could get and were forced to break a 7-all deadlock in the eighth with three runs at the expense of Blix Donnelly.

Ken Johnson won his own game for the Bisons when he drove in two runs in the second inning. Frank Carswell accounted for the other tally with a home run. Johnson needed help from Milt Jordan.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—A fellow we know says he attended a kid baseball game the other day and left in disgust after a few innings because the little beggars were spending more time beefing at the umpires and generally making themselves obnoxious than they were in playing ball.

"It's a pain," he said. "They've seen the big leaguers jawing with the umps so much that they think it's part of the game. The managers were getting in on the act, too, and the crowd was egging the kids on. I don't see how they get anybody to umpire any more."

The man's remarks are, of course, well taken. The umpire-bating phase of the game is becoming extremely irksome.

Big league umpires are as solid a group of citizens as you would want to know. They are good companions off the ball field, and when one of them decides you are on the level he is a far more interesting conversationalist than the average player.

Wise to Tricks

Most are former players of some standing, and they know all the tricks employed by the managers and their athletes to make an arbiter look bad and stir up the customers.

"You'll notice," one of them told us once, "that the plate umpire has a snap when there is a good pitcher out there, a real big leaguer with control.

"But you get a busher out there who can't get the ball over and needs some help, he'll begin crying on every other pitch to try to convince his manager and the fans he's getting a dirty deal. Next time you see a pitcher giving one of us a hard time, look up his record."

As they are only human, umpires come to detest certain players who make a practice of riding them. When they talk of these players and of managers who employ filthy language, they sometimes become bitter. But they invariably wind up saying they love the game and couldn't quit it.

Yankee Caddy Defeats Kesselring In First Round US Amateur Open

SEATTLE (CP)—One of Canada's top amateur golfers fell victim to a wave of first-round upsets in the United States amateur tournament yesterday, leaving six of his countrymen to try their luck in the second-round pairings today.

Gerry Kesselring, the Ontario champion from Kitchener, who was one of the most effective members of the Canadian team in Americas Cup play last week, bowed 5 and 4 to Gerry Fehr, a Seattle youngster just out of caddie ranks.

Four Canadians won their first-round matches yesterday and two others drew byes to qualify for the second round. The free riders were Phil Farley of Toronto and Pete Kelly of Fredericton.

Canadian amateur titleholder Walt McElroy of Vancouver overpowered Frank Harrison of Glendale, Calif., 4 and 3. Bill Mawhinney, a fellow-townsman and former Canadian champion, belted out Verne Perry of Portland, Ore., 3 and 1, despite a lame back.

A third Vancouver entry, Percy Clogg, downed Dave McBeath of Bellingham, Wash., 2 and 1 but faces tough competition today in Jimmy McHale, a member of the United States Walker Cup team.

Weslock Comes Through

Nick Weslock of Windsor, Ont., stuck around for another day with a 2-and-1 victory over P. T. Taylor of Huntingdon, W. Va.

Kesselring's defeat left him in distinguished company. Defending champion Billy Maxwell and Sam Urzetta, his predessor, also lost out in the first round.

Ira D. Gruber, a fine hitting, clam young man from Pottstown, Pa., disposed of Maxwell on the 21st hole.

Earlier, Urzetta, whose 39-hole victory over Frank Stranahan at Minneapolis in 1950 was the longest overtime match in the tournament's history, fell before Marion Hiskey, 21-year-old player from Twin Falls, Idaho.

CAHA and NHL Officials Huddle In Back-Slapping Confab in Camera

By JACK SULLIVAN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Officials of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the National Hockey League met for three hours behind closed doors yesterday and probably for the first time in history "nothing" happened. There wasn't a ripple of dissension.

At least that's the way waiting newspaper men got it after the session that brought officials from as far west as New Westminster and as far east as Montreal. It apparently was one of those "let's-all-be-pals" meetings.

They talked of various matters—the N.H.L.-C.A.H.A. agreement, sponsorship of amateur teams by the pro clubs, rules, money and suspensions. The results: "Why, nothing," chorused officials.

C Forms Stand

"How about the C form?" a reporter asked, recalling that delegates to the C.A.H.A. annual meeting at Minaki, Ont., last June instructed its negotiating commiee to do something about this document.

"Why, nothing," officials said. "Our agreement remains as it is."

At Minaki, C.A.H.A. delegates from across Canada were critical of this phase of the agreement and demanded a showdown with the pros.

Apparently C.A.H.A. officials across the country didn't submit evidence of C-form infractions by the pro clubs to its negotiating committee.

And sponsorship? "Why, nothing," officials said. Again, it was recalled that at Minaki the full executive of the C.A.H.A. voted 12-8 in favor of a motion declaring that the C.A.H.A. is in favor of asking the pro leagues to abolish sponsorship of teams. Each N.H.L. club and its affiliated team in the minor pro circuits is allowed to sponsor two junior "A" teams.

Transfer Ban Stands

"And what was decided about the C.A.H.A. ban on west-to-east transfer of junior players?" a reporter asked. "The matter wasn't even brought up," officials said.

This subject was supposed to have been a ticklish one with the pros who won't be allowed to transfer players from their sponsored clubs in Western Canada to the east for the next two seasons. The C.A.H.A. made this move at Minaki to allow western teams to build up its Memorial Cup contenders to the once-mighty position they held years ago in east-west play.

Wings, Rangers 'Swap' Players

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League yesterday announced a deal sending star defenceman Leo Reise to New York Rangers for forward Reg Sinclair, a rookie defenceman, and cash.

Jack Adams, Red Wing general manager, said the lanky young Sinclair, a native of Lachine, Que., will be used to bolster an attack weakened by the recent resignation of Captain Sid Abel to manage Chicago Black Hawks.

Besides Sinclair, the Red Wings obtained John Morrison, an 18-year-old defenceman who played last year with Selkirk of the junior Manitoba Hockey Association.

The amount of cash given by the Rangers was not announced.

Reise, 30-year-old veteran of five campaigns as a Red Wing, was named to the league's second All-Star team in 1950 and '51. A native of Stoney Creek, Ont., he is one of the biggest men in the circuit, and one of the most rugged. He came to Detroit in 1946 in a trade with Chicago.

WHAT OVER SEASONS

Statistics show that children are more apt to get into trouble with the law in spring and autumn than in other seasons.

Tigers Swamp Crescents 14-4

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tigers last night swamped Owen Sound Crescents 14-4 in an unusually rough Ontario Lacrosse Association senior A game.

The win put Hamilton in fourth place. The Tigers took an early 6-1 lead in the first quarter, 7-2 at the half and pushed it to 9-4 by the three-quarter mark.

Elmer Lee scored three times for the winners and Merv McKenzie, Doug Davidson, Blain McDonald and Jack Dorney each contributed a pair. Bill Allum, Arnold Smith, Don McWhirter and Johnny Lumley each scored once for the losers.

Jack Foote of Owen Sound and Ron Brown took to swinging in the fourth quarter and were awarded majors.

N.Y.C. DEBT A RECORD

NEW YORK (AP)—City comptroller Lazarus Joseph reported yesterday the city's gross funded debt on July 1 reached the "staggering" sum of $3,352,877,062, highest in history. The total is up $112,331,276 over the July 1, 1951, total.

London Majors Seek Injunction To Stop Playoffs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The senior Intercounty Baseball League today faces one of the worst squabbles in its history as London Majors seek an injunction to halt playoffs.

John Gillies, counsel for the London club, said last night an injunction would probably be filed before Judge Eric Cross in Woodstock. The Majors' 9-3 victory over Galt Terriers in London last night cinched the decision.

When the league last week declared London pitcher Arnold Early ineligible, the Majors lost five wins and were dropped out of the first division. Last night's victory, plus the five games, if restored, would leave London tied with Galt Terriers in fourth place—last playoff spot.

Panthers Nip Tigers

The league-leading Kitchener Panthers last night went to Waterloo and took 14 innings to slip past the Tigers 16-15 in the last scheduled game of the season.

Brantford Red Sox opened their best-of-seven semi-final series against Guelph Maple Leafs in Guelph with a 12-10 victory.

Bob Brake was tagged for 10 hits in London but allowed no walks. London took a 3-2 lead at the end of the second inning, added five more in the fifth and one in the eighth.

The Terriers started Irv Schupp, replaced him with Johnny Bell and later Bob Howland. Schupp was counted the loser.

Third baseman Gord McFadden paced the winners with three hits in four trips while Galt centrefielder Ed Kaiser matched his performance.

One-Man Team

Dick Welker staged almost a one-man game in Waterloo for Kitchener. He started on the mound, moved to rightfield in the sixth, to first base in the seventh and then back to the mound in the 12th to take credit for the win. At the plate he contributed a single, a double, a triple and a walk in five trips and drove in four Panther runs.

Catcher Ross Doherty drove in Welker with the winning run on a single in the top half of the 14th. The Tigers came form behind twice in the game with Panthers tying the score in the ninth. Both clubs added a pair in the 12th.

A home run with one on by first baseman Alf Gavey in the 10th inning gave Brantford its win in Guelph. The Maple Leafs used five pitchers with the last, John Adie, counted the loser. Brantford employed four hurlers with playing manager Stan Lipka credited with the win.

Leftfielder Tom McGrattan, rightfielder Johnny Lockington and Gavey each collected three hits for Brantford. McGrattan drove in five of the Red Sox' 10 hits.

Tonight Guelph is scheduled to go to Brantford for the second game of their series while Galt goes to Kitchener to open their best-of-seven series.

Prisoners to See Padre Box Champ

LONDON (CP)—The bad boys at Britain's Dartmoor penitentiary are on their best behavior—they don't want to miss a scheduled bout between Freddie Mills, former light-heavyweight champ and prison chaplain Rev. Lloyd Rees.

Mills will appear in several exhibition bouts at Dartmoor. The chaplain, who used to do a little boxing in university and in the army, is the 33-year-old vicar of adjacent Princetown.

Six Former Hockey Greats Named To International Hall of Fame

KINGSTON (CP). — Six great hockey players—R. R. (Dickie) Boon, Bill Cook, Frank (Moose) Goheen, Ernest (Moose) Johnson, Mickey MacKay and Nels Stewart—have been named to the International Hockey Hall of Fame.

The latest selections of the 16 governors was announced here yesterday, site of the Hall of Fame. The total named now is 42.

Boon is the oldest member of the six. He is 74 and still lives in Montreal where he was captain of the "Little Men of Iron"—the Montreal A.A.A. team that won the Stanley Cup in 1902. Later he played for and managed Montreal Wanderers when they won the Cup in 1906, 1907 and 1910. He played cover point and never weighed more than 115 pounds.

Carried Long Stick

Moose Johnson, native of Montreal and a colorful defenceman, had a 16-year career, from 1906 to 1922. He played with M.A.A.A. and Wanderers before going to the Pacific Coast, where he played with New Westminster, Portland and Victoria. He was noted for using the longest hockey stick of any player. Johnson, now 66, is a railway trainman at Portland, Ore.

Francis Xavier Goheen, the other "Moose" named, is the second American-born and trained player to enter the Hall of Fame. Hobey Baker, one of the nine original members, was the other. Goheen, a defenceman, starred with the St. Paul Athletic Club when that team won the U.S. hockey championship four times, the last time in 1923. Goheen was drafted in 1928 by Boston Bruins but refused to report. He is 58.

Mickey Mackay is the only one of the six not living. A smooth player, smart hook-checker and natural scorer, he was labelled a super-star after his great showing in the Stanley Cup finals of 1918 in Toronto. He played with Edmonton in 1913-24 and then with Vancouver Maroons from 1914-15 until the end of the 1925-26 season except for 1919-20 when he was with Calgary in the Alberta Big Four.

N.H.L. Vet Chosen

Nels (Ole Poison) Stewart played 14 seasons in the N.H.L. with Montreal Maroons, Boston Bruins and New York Americans. His final season was 1939-40. He holds the all-time N.H.L. scoring record of 324 goals, all during regular-schedule play.

Bill Cook, coach of New York Rangers, was one of the original members of that team, playing with it from 1926-27 through 1936-37. He captained the team throughout that time. He won the scoring championship in 1926-27 and 1932-33 and was picked as all-star right winger five times. He played amateur hockey around Kingston before serving with the Canadian Army in the First World War and winning the military medal. Cook turned professional with the Saskatoon Sheiks of the Western Canada League in 1923. He played there until he went to Rangers. He is 55 and spends off-seasons on his farm near Kingston.

Remember When

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sam Snead won the Canadian open golf championship at Toronto 12 years ago today when Harold (Jug) McSpaden missed a two-foot putt on the final green of their 18-hole playoff. Slammin' Sammy posted a 71 to the defending champion's 72. The playoff was forced when both finished the regulation 72 holes in 281.

"COOL CONTROL"
PITCHING THE SOFTBALL

1 Control is the most important weapon of the pitcher — control of his delivery, and control of himself. Controlling the ball means controlling the feet. Develop the right stride. Feet should be about 12 to 14 inches apart on the rubber, weight should rest flat on both feet. Hold ball with thumb on top seam and first two fingers on bottom seam.

3 Continue pitch with full follow-through, giving ball a snap with the wrist as it leaves the hand. Follow-through should carry wrist about level with right shoulder. This pitch makes ball curve to the right. Control helps you regulate this curve.

Yes, it's control that counts, in baseball as in every sport — control which brings the extraordinary quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

This is one of a series designed to increase the pleasure of Canadians who participate in sports.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

One thing you must say about a master bridge player. He does not go around pulling trumps at once just because he is in the lead. First he looks to see whether he may need some for ruffing purposes.

We are playing the deal shown here:

NORTH
♣Q J 10 8 6

WEST
♠6 3 2
♥Q 10 9 2
♦8 6 4
♣A K 4

EAST
♥J 8 6 3
♦Q J 10
♣9 7 5 3

SOUTH
♠J 10 7 4
♥A K 5

When you are declarer in north, strike after the 12 tricks you need for a contract of six spades. Take a good look at the opening lead from east and decide how you should play the cards.

At the start you are not aware of the fact that opponents will split the diamonds three-three. They may be four and two. Most often they are four and two; twice as often as three-three.

If so, you may have to ruff two diamonds in north as well as a third round of hearts. This means that three of your north spades must be used as ruffers. So, don't pull more than one round.

Suppose the opening lead from east is a diamond, which it is likely to be with so solid a sequence. Grab it with the dummy king after you have made up your mind what your next few steps must be.

Take a round of trumps with your ace if you like. But not more than one round. Conserve the trumps for awhile until you see whether you need others for ruffing. Then cash a second diamond.

Lead a third diamond and ruff with your spade king. When each opponent follows suit to this you know the remaining sparkles are set up. So, you may pull a second round of trumps if you like.

Now cash the two top hearts and ruff a heart with the last north spade. Give up a club and ruff any return in dummy. Lead your last dummy trump and the two diamonds are the remaining tricks.

Such precautions are taken by players of skill and experience. It pays off in many a contract. Do you think such preparations are not worth the effort? Then you are not in the master class.

AT NEW BELLE—Wendell Corey is seen as the member of the Royal North West Mounted Police, who tracks down fugitive Stewart Granger in "The Wild North", M.G.M. thrill-packed adventure drama, closing tonight. A funny Tom and Jerry Color cartoon is added attraction.

AT THE CAPITOL — Errol Flynn co-stars with Ruth Roman in "Mara Maru", Warner Bros.' action drama of a fabulous treasure hunt. The film which features Paul Picerni, Raymond Burr and Richard Webb, opens for its first Belleville showing at the Capitol Theatre Wednesday. On the same program "Stand Up and Sing", a romantic musical drama starring Constance Moore and William Marshall.

AT THE McCARTHY — William Lundigan proves wary of Mitzi Gaynor's designs in Twentieth Century-Fox's Technicolor South Sea Musical, "Down Among The Sheltering Palms," opening Wednesday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

FRANKFORD

Frankford — The Frankford Bowling League held their first meeting of the new season in the office of E. G. Lohnes to complete plans for the new schedule. A full turnout of the executive discussed fully the plans for the season, including the new division of the league.

This year, twelve teams will operate, eight on Thursday night at 7:00, and four on Monday night at 9:00. The Thursday night league will operate completely independent of the Monday night league, and will have its own executive.

The Thursday night league will be known as Division "A" and the Monday night league as Division "B". It is hoped that a playoff will be arranged between the two division winners for a large trophy.

The teams were drawn according to averages, so that each team is as well balanced as possible. In the seven o'clock league, only two points separated the highest and lowest teams on pin total, thus emphasizing the fairness in drawing up the teams. The Monday night league presented a little more of a problem, as only approximate averages could be used.

The teams are as follows:

Thursday Night League

Team No. 1: Ross Huffman, Doug Montgomery, Sid Martin, Ray Rowe, Ellen Farley, Mildred Gilmour, Shirley Smith, Helen Stickle.

Team No. 2: Herb Rankin, Karl Austin, Francis Stickle, Frank Terry, Doreen Osterhout, Audrey Arbuckle, Vera Appleby, Jean Chase.

Team No. 3: Ray Scott, Don Couture, Hugh Simmons, Orval Berry, Edythe Babcock, Rose Finnegan, Jean Austin, Reta Chard.

Team No. 4: Jack Farley, Harry Van Hedegan, Claude Moran, Jim Appleby, Maisie Rankin, Edna Huffman, Doreen Carlisle, Evelyn Martin.

Team No. 5: Gene Lohnes, Ed Tomecek, Preston Chase, Arnold Stickle, Muriel Van Hedegan, Dorothy Cage, Joan Terry, Edith Loucks.

Team No. 6: Wayne Arbuckle, Bob Cage, Adrian Babcock, Lloyd Hanna, Mary Morrow, Shirley Fox, Elsie Couture, Greta Appleby.

Team No. 7: Wilson Rankin, Bob Arbuckle, Jack Hanna, Ed. Loucks, Edith Henry, Helen Rogers, Peggy Berry, Rhoda Hanna.

Team No. 8: Francis Murphy, Gilbert Gilmour, Herman Chard, Bob Carlisle, Joan McCrea, Jean Arbuckle, Hazel Rowe, Helen Charlesworth.

Monday Night League

Team No. 1: Elmer Rogers, Harry Burkitt, Jack Beach, Bill O'Rourke, Marie Kidd, Marjorie Mikel, Georgette Macauley, Darlene Rogers.

Team No. 2: Selbourne Sharpe, Jack Madill, Carman Mikel, Bert Hanoski, Johanne Hopkins, Marion Baker, Hazel Rogers, Clinton Hanna.

Team No. 3: Francis Lyons, Bob Kidd, Mildred Macauley, Harry Rogers, Alice Sharpe, Lydia Clarke, Helen Hanoski, Jessie Reid.

Team No. 4: Leonard Reid, Earl Rogers, Ernie Clarke, Edward Green, Barbara Madill, Dorothy O'Rourke, Lucy Burkitt, Ruth Beach.

A meeting will be held in the Legion Hall on Thursday night, August 21 at 8:00 p.m. for all bowlers. At this meeting, the league executives will be elected and team captains chosen.

I SUPPOSE I'D BETTER GET GOING, SWEETHEART... BIG HEART DOESN'T KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT THIS MURDERER, HOLMAN, SO I'LL MOVE NORTH AND BEGIN CHECKING WITH THE INDIANS.
WILL YOU RETURN SOON?
NOT UNTIL COLD WEATHER, ANYHOW ...I HOPE TO HAVE HOLMAN IN CUSTODY WHEN I SEE YOU AGAIN!
LATER
GOODBYE, DARLING...IF YOU GET ANY CLUES AS TO HOLMAN'S WHEREABOUTS, SEND WORD TO ME!
GOODBYE, PHIL...AND TAKE GOOD CARE OF YOURSELF FOR MY SAKE!

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 20, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Friendly day on whole; domestic affairs, personal and artistic interests among top favored. Avoid unnecessary contention; don't aggravate others.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Should be ideal day for your interests. Venus aspect augurs well for personal achievement.' Plan for tomorrow, too.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Mild indications going to very benefic ones tomorrow. Don't overdo but neither should you waste any valuable time; stress urgent duties.

June 22 to July 23 Cancer)—Be guided by demands of your occupation and home obligations. Aim to get ahead, without strain, anxiety. Keep cool and have a better day.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Neither stimulating nor hindering aspects. This sort of day Leoites often need to give pause for reflection, planning, rest.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—No wholly discouraging elements for purposeful, activities, hobbies, healthy sports or recreation. Properly allocated schedule will relieve strain.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Venus in auspicious configuration is stimulating, promising for private interests, delicate matters, domestic problems and for artistic professions.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Suggest you take things in stride, serenely, unanxiously. Day favorable on whole but you must take care to give attention to important matters.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Much the same as for Scorpio now. You will save nerves and health if you heed same advice. Creative and ingenious methods will help.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Early part of day may require more go-getiveness, and if you keep steady, problems should vanish and things generally grow better by sundown. Tomorrow promising in many ways.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Restlessness, sudden decisions tabu. Today will respond well to intelligent well planned effort. Important, too, to be steady, not anxious. Occasionally take time for recreation.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Mild but favorable rays linger from yesterday's fine aspects. Good period for planning ahead, polishing up familiar matters, spending due time at routine tasks and vacational activities.

YOU BORN TODAY: are energetic, full of ambition, action, truly vibrant. Have delightful personality, are good company and story-teller. Usually generous spender, kindly and likeable. Also inclined to some egotism, susceptible to flattery. Your Sign has given great military leaders, financial and business tycoons, noted travellers. Birthdate of: Benjamin Harrison, 23rd U.S. President; Raymond Poincare, French statesman.

Directors Put Finishing Touches On Plans for Centennial Fair

PICTON—In all parts of Prince Edward County this weekend saw feverish activity as several thousand exhibits were prepared for Prince Edward County Fair which opens its four-day stand next Wednesday.

There is feverish activity too at the Fair Grounds as directors of the society prepare buildings and complete plans for what they hope will be "the Fair of the Century."

At the Fair Grounds there are already signs that the big annual event is just three days away. The buildings have been scrubbed and partly decorated, the huge 50 by 100 foot tent took five men nearly a whole day to erect, the big stage loaned by the Legion is in its place in front of the grandstand, the track is being graded and new entrances from Maple Ave and on the Bata property have been made; lights are on as workers toil until late at night.

Signs which point to an extra good fair include these.

The Bernard and Barry Midway telephoned that they will require more space, and that they will have several rides never here before.

The booking agency for the International Variety Revue the last three nights at the grandstand telephoned from the state fair in Michigan and said everything is ready for a great show. 'We won't disappoint you. Our show is going over big," he said.

The secretary's office reveals further evidence. Entries in all classes are pouring in, assuring a display which will mirror the Garden County.

Races Filled

The race secretary reports that he has never received so many entries as early before and the three races on each of the last two afternoons promise to be thrillers.

The horse committee, busy erecting stalls in part of the giant tent, tells of exhibitors bringing 4, 6, 8 and even 15 horses. A four horse team is included, along with two tandems. Some hundred horses are expected.

Stacked in the office is a pile of boxes filled with fireworks which will make a brilliant display after the horse show and special vaudeville shown by Toronto artists, Wednesday night.

The cattle barn is ready for a big entry of both Holsteins and Guernseys. Other livestock and poultry will see good displays, entries indicate.

Free Cooking School

Seats for the free cooking school in the Palace are being placed today and merchants are finishing up booths.

Bands, a variety of entertainers and others are practising to perform in keeping with the gala Centennial.

Reserved seats for both afternoon and evening shows are selling fast at the Fair's office in the agricultural building, indicating their appeal.

The Fair and what they plan to do is the chief topic of the children who "get in" free the first two days and who also receive free rides given by the Elks Lodge.

All over the district word has spread of the Centennial Fair, and with hundreds of Old Boys and Girls returning to meet old friends, attendance should set new records.

These and other signs of support are spurring the Fair Board on to greater effort and they feel confident that this will be "the biggest and best Fair yet."

DEMORESTVILLE

DEMORESTVILLE.—Mrs. Dora Walker spent Thursday evening with Mrs. Mina Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Anderson and Mrs. W. Canniff spent Wednesday afternoon and Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Snider, of White Lake.

Mr. Ed. Carter has returned from a two-weeks' visit with his sister, at Ypsilanti, Michigan.

Mr. Jack Pettit spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. Theresa Covert.

Mrs. Jack Welsh was a Picton visitor with Mrs. G. Minaker.

Mrs. John Jones is confined to bed under doctor's care.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Insley, Grace, and Arthur, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Davies, Ronald and Jimmy, were Tuesday tea hour visitors of Mrs. Myrtle Howard.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Burford, Mary and Cheryl and Miss Beverley Rump, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ken Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Leavitt, of Brantford, spent a couple of days with his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Howell.

The junior room of the school is undergoing a face lifting.

Mr. T. C. Lennox and Mrs. Lennox, and daughter of Tittsfield, Mass., were callers in the village on Thursday. Mr. Lennox is a descendant of Guillian Demorest, the founder of Demorestville. He is interested in getting in touch with any of these descendants and also in the book "Pioneer Life of Bay of Quinte", and would like to hear from anyone having a copy for sale.

CAMPBELLFORD

Smoke Nuisance By-Law Proposed By Council Member

CAMPBELLFORD. —The regular monthly meeting of the Campbellford town council was held this week in the council chambers. Reeve R. J. Locke presented a by-law aimed at reducing the smoke nuisance in the town. The new by-law limits to six minutes out of each hour the time during which smoke may be discharged from chimneys of industrial plants, apartment houses or other such establishments where the discharge of smoke is greater than in normal residential heating requirements.

Councillor MacMillan in his report as chairman of the property committee, said that in view of the condition of the grounds surrounding the cenotaph, the present caretaker, Mr. Clayton Hennessy, be dismissed and a new man hired. Mr. MacMillan said that although Mr. Hennessy had discharged his duties well in some instances, especially in the upkeep of the cenotaph and the grounds immediately surrounding it, he had neglected the upkeep of two new lots that have been filled and seeded adjacent to the old grounds.

The salary in 1951 for the season job was $150 and the 1952 salary was increased to $250, the extra $100 being for the additional work involved in keeping up the new lots. Mr. Hennessy said he had not understood there had been an extra $100 allowance for keeping up the new grounds and said that he had put forth his best efforts in keeping up the grounds and wanted council to recognize the fact. The matter was left with the property committee with power to act.

Permission was granted the Boy Scouts to hold their annual Apple day on Oct. 11. The lads were given the use of the council chambers as a headquarters.

A by-law transferring the two lots on Market Street to the Brewers' Warehousing Company was passed, and the lots are now officially turned over to the company.

The property committee reported they were awaiting more warfrain to use in killing rats at the town dump. The rats have eaten up all of this material that was on hand, and Councillor MacMillan said he was anxious to feed them some more when a new shipment arrived.

After hearing an application from Constable W. E. Cargin for a raise in pay, council decided to grant both the chief and night constable an equal amount. Each was given an additional $150 as of August 1.

FRANKFORD

Legion Meets

FRANKFORD. — Frankford Branch No. 387 of the Canadian Legion held their regular bi-monthly meeting in the Legion Hall Monday night. There was a small, but none-the-less energetic group on hand, and a number of important items were dealt with. As is always the procedure at Legion meetings, a period of silence was observed in memory of the Comrades who gave their lives in the two great wars.

First and foremost on the agenda, was the coming annual decoration and memorial day, August 24. As in other years, the Legion has been most fortunate in obtaining the services of the Salvation Army Band of Peterborough for the day. All veterans of the district are cordially invited to come out on August 24, and join with the local Legion in paying tribute to the heroes of two wars.

Kitchen Work

Work on the Legion Hall kitchen is proceeding according to plan, and it is expected that the kitchen will be completed, and ready for full use early in the winter.

The Branch gratefully acknowledges a donation of $50 from Col. W. G. Ketcheson, of Wallbridge, who is honorary president, of the Branch. Col Ketcheson has been a strong supporter of the Frankford Branch, both morally and financially, and the Comrades are thankful indeed for his splendid support of the Branch.

Comrade Jim Hensell was out, after a lengthy illness, and all members are glad to see him around again. Word has been received that Comrade George Manning is progressing favorably in Kingston General Hospital, where he was rushed by ambulance last week, following arrangements by the Frankford branch.

The Legion plans a 'fun-night' in the community Hall early in the fall, after the decoration day is over. A large entry in the local cribbage league is expected again this year, after a most successful initial year in 1951.

Underneath The Bough

By Edna G. Robins

Vincent Weston listened to Louise as she told him about her longing to paint.

"And Cousin Harry wouldn't even let you continue your art studies?"

"It wasn't entirely his fault," she said. "There was so much to do, keeping house."

"He could have hired a maid" said Vincent. "It makes him feel that he is somebody. That's why he keeps you at home and gives you no freedom. Jealousy, perhaps. In his heart he's afraid of you, afraid of your mind, afraid he will lose you. Not really lose you—you aren't the type who would run away, but he doesn't want you to be mentally independent of himsefl for fear you might judge him."

"Not that bad really," Louise said mildly in defense of her husband. "Probably Harry's father was the same way—it's the way he was brought up."

"True. It's a family tradition. But why do you put up with it?"

"It won't do me any good to rebel, Vincent. It would only break up my home, and I don't want to live in an atmosphere of constant quarrelling."

"You'd rather kill your own soul—that secret rebellion is eating out your heart."

"No." Louise smiled at the excited little man, her husband's cousin. "I'm not really rebellious now. At first I was. I hated Harry when I began to find out what he was really like. But gradually I've become resigned. The anger has gone. I know that Harry can't help himself. He believes he's a good husband. There arm many people like he is, unable to appreciate brains or talent in a woman. They have to feel their power—feel that they are superior in their own home. That I could do anything better than he, makes him feel inferior to a woman."

"He's afraid to give you a chance to show what you can do," Vincent said. "He knows you are better than he is."

"I feel very sorry for him," said Louise. "I think I still love him too. In spite of everything."

They were walking down Fifth Avenue on a lovely spring day. The streets were crowded because a suffragette parade was scheduled for the afternoon.

"What makes women want to vote?" Vincent demanded impatiently. "French women get what they want without voting."

"You're talking like Harry," Louise chided. "But today so many American women earn their own living that they need the vote to protect their rights."

"All this makes them unlovely—when women demand something. If they are attractive they can always get what they want. And if they're not attractive, what does anything matter to them anyway?"

"It's for those women the Suffragettes are fighting—to save unlovely women from being constantly downtrodden."

A distant sound of music, a sudden surging of the crowd, told them the head of the parade was approaching. Vincent and Louise found a place at the curb and watched the approach. A hush fell on the chattering crowd. Men in all ranks of life stood with sober faces while the long lines of serious purposeful women passed by.

Suddenly Louise gave a gasp. Vincent, looking at her sharply, saw that her eyes were filled with tears. He took her arm with a gentle silicitude.

"It's nothing" she said shakily. "I just saw Aunt Ella. She's given her life for the suffragette cause. I used to laugh at her—she was so horribly enthusiastic—but when I saw her now, so staunch and unyielding, she looked really—well, heroic."

Some hours later, Aunt Ella dragged hreself wearily along the corridor to her hotel bedroom. She sat down stiffly and carefully as her back felt brittle. It had been a glorious parade and the end of their long, earnest striving seemed in sight. The Constitutional amendment had been ratified, the papers said.

But strangely enough, Aunt Ella was not exhilerated at the thought of success. She was, all of a sudden, realizing her condition. She was an old woman, wearied before her time by untiring work for other women. She had hosts of acquaintances among her fellow workers but nobody who seemed really to belong to her. Her only living relative now was Louise, and Louise was probably absorbed in her family. What a glowing, intelligent girl Louise had been.

It had seemed too bad that the child should settle down and give up all her ambitions. But now Aunt Ella began to wonder whether perhaps Louise had been wise after all. Louise still had something to live for, while she herself faced empty years, now that her work for Woman Suffrage was done.

"I wonder," she muttered, "whether Louise is really happy. Would I have been better off if I'd married and raised a family and been what they call a normal woman? I thought that it was worth any sacrifice to get votes for women—but maybe—probably—the women that come after us will take it all as a matter of course and never give a thought to us who really laid down our lives for them."

Aunt Ella brooded uneasily, massaging her tired ankles. Then she came to a sudden decision.

"I'll go and see Louise. I'll make sure for myself whether she is happy—whether her choice was so wise. I'll see if I can't justify my own life, at least to myself. What's more, I'll go tomorrow and I won't tell her I'm coming. Then she can't prepare any alibis."

'Million Dollar' Tomato Crop Harvest Postponed

LEAMINGTON (CP)—Harvest of a "million dollar" tomato crop will be postponed because of the strike of 1,100 H. J. Heinz of Canada workers which began Aug. 8, agricultural officials said yesterday.

But, they said, the harvest which was scheduled to begin this weekend can be postponed for only a few days at most and Leamington district and other Western Ontario farmers will lose heavily if the strike is not settled. The crop would rot in the fields.

The Heinz employees, members of the United Packinghouse Workers (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), are asking a 21-cent increase on an hourly basic wage rate of 99 cents and for institution of the Rand Formula by which Heinz workers would be required to pay dues to the U.P.W. through the checkoff system.

The company has offered an 11-cent increase to the 1,100 strikers, some 100 of whom are employed at the Heinz plant at Wallaceburg.

Most field tomatoes grown in Essex county are intended for sale to the Heinz company.

The junior "B" band competition was won by the Montreal R.C.A.F. the St. Catharines band was second.

The Toronto Police Athletic Association took six of the seven athletic events.

RAWDON

Mount Pleasant-Rawdon W.M.S. Discusses Rural Mission Work

RAWDON.—The August meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society was held at the church on Wednesday, with nine members, two visitors, and two children in attendance.

The pianist, Mrs. Burton Sharpe, played quiet music and Mrs. John Holmes read a poem, "Take Your Troubles to the Lord and Leave Them There".

Two bouquets of summer blooms added beauty and after the service these were placed on a past member's grave in the cemetery.

Plans were made for a quilting at the home of the supply secretary, Mrs. Gordon Linn, next Wednesday.

The September meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Burton Sharpe with Mrs. Will Potts to arrange the program.

Thanks were tendered the program convener and Mrs. M. Wrightman was welcomed following her illness.

The visits for two months were recorded in homes and hospital by Mrs. Frank Jeffs.

A committee to plan menu for the sectional rally dinner was appointed.

Miss Ruth Linn gathered the offering and this was dedicated to the work of missions.

Program

Mrs. Percy MacMullen presided over the program which she had arranged.

Mrs. Herbert Smith read a piem "Helping or Hindering", by Louise Yates Towriss; Miss Ruth Linn read a selection entitled "Your Mission". Mrs. Carleton Potts and Mrs. Sid Williams contributed a duet, "Under His Wings", with Mrs. Burton Sharpe as accompanist, and Mrs. MacMullen read a letter from Mrs. C. M. Loveys, Home Mission Executive secretary of Dominion Board, Toronto, giving first hand information re the missionary for prayer, Miss Eleanor Graham, formerly of West China.

Miss Graham was an excellent rural worker in West China. She underwent a serious operation on her return to Canada.

Late in January, 1952, Miss Graham undertook the arduous task of being a rural missionary on the Cote Reserve, which is an Indian area four miles from Kamsack in Saskatchewan. There are two day schools. Miss Graham preaches on Sunday to 60 or 70 people and conducts the usual clubs with the Indians during the week. She has a difficult task and needs the thoughts and prayers of all missionary minded people.

New Residence

In June 1952, the Dominion Board directed $8,000 to the building of a new residence which will be occupied by Miss Graham.

Mrs. Frank Jeffs offered prayer for the work of this rural missionary.

The convener read a clipping which stated "through Home Missions we are still helping to plant the church in hundreds of Canadian communities and to maintain the church in small settlements, where, without the aid of Home Missions, the gospel could not be preached. She also read a poem "God Sends No Churches from the Skies, Out of Our Hearts Must They Arise."

French Protestant Evangelism

Mrs. Roy Thrasher synopsized, "French Canadian Evangelism in Canada", telling of the address given by the famous priest, Father Chinquy, and his work with Principal Grant, then minister of St. Matthew's Church in Halifax.

This gave a brief history of French Protestant evangelism with its many angles and viewpoints dating from the French Hugenots along the St. Lawrence River.

In 1846, the Pointe-Aux-Trembles Mission School, on the edge of Montreal, was founded and other schools followed in later years.

The French Canadian has made a fundamental contribution to Canada, through his love of the land, and his industry. These people comprise one-third of the population and it is a piece of Christian service for the Protestant churches because of its great importance.

The Marine Missions were first established along the coasts of Newfoundland and Labrador in 1765 and these messengers of the Gospel "break the bread of Life" to groups of people who live in isolation. The Board of Home Missions operates five boats and "Glad Tidings" operated by Rev. Lester Burry, D.D., is well known for its deeds of mercy.

Rev. Thomas Crosby began work on the Pacific coast, 75 years ago and many little ships and a large number of devoted missionaries have carried on the work along the coves and inlets.

The missionaries in charge of the boats, cover extensive territories, ply treacherous waters, and their tasks demand real fortitude and perseverance. They are home missionaries in the truest sense.

Radio Service

A new and undeveloped avenue of Christian service for the United Church of Canada is radio broadcasting. No method of carrying the Gospel to distant places can compare with it.

Prince Albert, in northern Saskatchewan was, one of the first districts covered and now it has been extended to the Peace River country.

Rev. Hugh Pritchard, pastor of Grande Prairie congregation, told of baptizing a baby whose parents travelled to his house, 150 miles from Forest View at Little Smokey River.

Dawson Creek and other centres across Canada are receiving this service and it is paying big dividends and the possibilities are great.

S.S. By Mail-Air

Dr. John Nicol, superintendent of Home Missions, in northern Saskatchewan, started this department in 1938, with 62 children. This enterprise represents the first well-planned effort by the United Church to do something for that scattered constituency of homes and children growing up without any knowledge of the Bible, the Church on the Christion Religion—all because they live in frontier settlements and remote places.

Mrs. Isabel Pike has been employed as script writer to help in expanding this service.

The devotional was based on "Life is a Trust". Mrs. MacMullen read a poem, "Christ never asks of us such busy labor, as leaves no time for resting at His feet."

Mrs. Will Potts presented the stewardship paper on this theme and stressing that God has given life as a trust and it is up to each individual to give his or her life the best care possible. She said "a recent speaker emphasized the point that many people continue to carry their own burdens instead of leaving them with God".

Charity—Love

Mrs. Burton Sharpe read the famous Bible message on "Charity" found in Corinthians.

The convener read from the special leaflet prepared by Helen M. Petrie. "Prior to the twentieth century the use of the word steward was limited almost entirely to speaking of property and until recent years the chief thing stressed with reference to Christian stewardship was the giving of money. A new light has dawned. Christians, as individuals, are personally responsible, to God, for the proper development and use of all human powers and possessions. This takes into account every phase of human living and whether one faces life's responsibilities willingly or unwillingly, the truth remains, life is a God-given trtust.

A short discussion followed and Mrs. MacMullen thanked each one who had contributed to the program.

The president spoke of the "School for Leaders" and the new study book, "Along African Trails" which will be started in November.

The service closed with "Sun of my Soul" and the Hebrew benediction.

Statutes Provide For Abolition Of Politburo

Communists to Hold First Congress in 13 Years

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP)—The proposed new statutes of the Communist party of the Soviet Union, announced today, provide for the abolition of the Politburo.

This startling reorganization of the Soviet governing structure was revealed today in an announcement that Russia's ruling Communist party would hold its first congress in 13 years on Oct. 5.

The announcement said the congress also would take up plans for a fifth five-year plan to increase Soviet industrial output 70 per cent by the end of 1955.

Stalin Is Head

The Politburo, deriving its powers theoretically from the central committee of the Communist party, is in fact the ruling body of the Soviet Union, and thus of world Communism. It is made up of Prime Minister Stalin, party general secretary, and 10 others, plus a number of alternate members, and has wielded unquestioned authority under Stalin.

Under the new statutes the Politburo and organization bureau are replaced by a "praesidium" which has the function of "guiding the work of the central committee between sessions."

The party secretariat, however, remains under the new statutes.

The new statutes also provide for changing the two-decade-old name of the party—from the All-Union Communist Party (Bolsheviks) to the "Communist Party of the Soviet Union."

Western observers here considered the meeting will be the most important held in the Soviet Union since the end of the Second World War.

The Communist congress was announced in a decree of the party's central committee, published today in all Moscow newspapers over the name of Prime Minister Stalin, the committee's general secretary.

New Five-Year Plan

The announcement said the congress will be asked to approve the new five-year economic plan.

Directives, expected to be the basis of the new economic goals the Soviet government will set, call for industrial production to increase 12 per cent annually. By the end of 1955, total output would be 70 per cent greater than in 1950.

Stalin presumably will attend the party congress. He was the main speaker when the party congress met last in 1939.

A five-item agenda was listed:

1. Report of the party's central committee, to be given by committee secretary Georgi M. Malenkov.
2. Report of the central inspection committee of the party.
3. Consideration of directives on the fifth five-year plan.
4. Changes in the statute of the Communist party of the Soviet Union.
5. Election of central organs of the party. This election of such important bodies as the central committee—which names the Politburo—is likely to rank with the five-year-plan directives in importance and interest.

In western capitals, officials and observers saw the scheduling of the party congress as a major event, though they were reluctant immediately to speculate on exactly what it might mean. For some time westerners have considered that the failure of the Soviet Communists to call a party convention indicated possible weaknesses in the party structure at home. Today's announcement could mean that Russia's Communist rulers now feel they are strongly enough entrenched to face the party members.

As with previous Soviet economic announcements, today's pronouncement dealt only with percentages. The proposed directive gave no tonnages or other production quantities.

Malenkov, a key member of the Politburo, in recent months has been widely considered in the west to be Stalin's heir.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP)—Synopsis: A short break in the pleasant sunny weather is in store for Ontario during the next 36 hours. A band of showers and thunderstorms extends from Hudson's Bay to the middle states. These are moving southeastward and will cross the northern forecast regions today and the Lower Lakes regions early Thursday. Rapid clearing will follow the showers with little change in temperature.

200 Planes Used To Hit Supply, Billeting Area

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The United States Fifth Air Force said about 200 planes today hit a Communist ammunition-supply and troop-billeting area on the Korean west coast about 25 miles northwest of the Red capital of Pyongyang.

The Air Force said U.S. Sabre jets damaged one of four Russian-made MIG-15 jets intercepted about 100 miles north of Pyongyang. There were no reports of allied losses.

Planes from American carriers operating on the Korean east coast hit the target first — shortly after noon. They were followed by fighter-bombers.

There were eight separate targets in the area, the Air Force said. Four were smashed by navy pilots and four by air force fliers.

Returning pilots reported early claims of 58 buildings demolished and five damaged. Big explosions rocked the area as bombs smacked into ammunition stores.

The planes struck as bright sun broke over the quiet battlefront, soaked by typhoon rains.

The United States Eighth Army said 6,134 Reds were killed or wounded in the week ended Aug. 14, highest weekly toll in two months. U.S. casualties were not announced.

Eighth Army said the battle front was relatively quiet.

Blokes, 'e Says Drink Iced Tea; BusmenBack'ome

LONDON (AP)—Nine cockney busmen came home today from a 12,000-mile tour of Canada and the United States and told of a continent crowded with mountains of food, well - dressed women and looney blokes who drink their tea with ice in it.

The cockneys took their towering double-deckers aboard five months ago as a tourist-drawing stunt but they got an eyeful themselves.

Albert C. Dennis startled staid Britons at a London reception for the busman by declaring that "temperature, just temperature, is what makes American women, especially those in California, more attractive than those over here."

Dennis hastily explained that what he meant was that the milder weather in the United States allows women to wear lightweight and therefore more attractive clothes.

Detroit Man Reunited With Wife After 7 Years in Red Prison Camps

BERLIN (Reuters) — Charles Noble, 60, Detroit camera manufacturer, met his wife here today for the first time after seven years in Communist East German concentration camps and prisons on charges ranging from spying to Nazism.

His wife has been waiting here for him since 1946, a year after he was arrested by the Russians in Dresden.

German-born Noble, who was released yesterday and crossed into West Berlin said he had not been tried until last month, when he was found guilty of smuggling cameras and supporting the Nazis during the war years, which he spent in Germany. He was given a seven-year sentence, counting time served.

Noble said he had not heard from his son, John, since the two were arrested. He believed John had been taken to Russia. Another son, George, lives in Detroit.

While he was imprisoned, the United States and Soviet authorities argued over his nationality.

The U.S. claimed he was a naturalized American citizen. The Russians said he forfeited his U.S. citizenship when he returned to Germany in 1939 and stayed there during the Second World War.

Noble said he emigrated to the U.S. in 1920, returning with his wife and sons for a "health cure" in 1939.

When war broke out, he said, he tried unsuccessfully to leave and then went to Dresden, where he owned a camera factory.

STORAGE PROBLEM FACES GRAIN MEN AT LAKEHEAD

Heavy Carryover, Record Crop Cause

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's grain men, huge stores of last year's wheat on their hands, face the problem of what to do when harvesting gets under way in the west in about 10 days with the record crop forecast for this year.

The Bureau of Statistics estimated yesterday there was a carryover of 213,000,000 bushels from last year's 562,000,000-bushel harvest. The crop year ended July 13. A 656,000,000-bushel crop is forecast for the 1952-53 crop year.

The carryover—biggest in seven years—compares with 258,000 bushels in 1945 and the 1942 record of 424,000,000 bushels.

The total carryover of five major grains—wheat, oats, barley, rye and flaxseed—is almost 405,000,000 bushels. Some of it is in the United States.

Lakehead Swamped

While prairie farmers and elevator operators are wondering how to handle the oncoming crop, grain-handling facilities at Fort William are trying to keep pace with a last-minute rush of last year's grain. It is piling up at the Lakehead faster than it can be shipped.

During the U.S. steel strike, ore vessels were diverted to the grain trade and helped keep pace with the rush. But they are back to the ore trade now. Last week grain stores at the Lakehead grew to more than 3,000,000 bushels above the previous week.

Grain officials here said many prairie farmers are building expanded storage facilities on their farms to hold grain in case elevators can't take it. Extra temporary shelter may be built at inland elevator and lake points.

To Ask More Aid

It appeared likely, however, that organized farmers may ask the federal government for more aid in the way of payment to farmers for farm grain storage and renewal of last year's lending scheme to help farmers get bank credit on the security of their stored grain.

Last year the government rejected a demand for payment for farm storage. But it may revive its plan to guarantee 25 percent of bank loans to farmers with stored grain as security. A ceiling was set last year to limit the total amount of loans under the scheme to $20,000,000.

'Mock Hanging' Play Nearly Cost Life of Boy

OTTAWA (CP)—Eight boys from four to 13 years of age played at "mock hanging" last night with 10-year-old Garnet Richens as the "victim."

He almost died.

Garnet was strung up by the neck with a six-foot length of silken cloth tied to a clothes-line pole in a back yard. While his friends played, he was left to hang until he lost consciousness and— as a 13-year-old later said—"he turned blue."

He was cut down. Firemen were called and gave the boy oxygen during a dash to hospital. His conditions is serious.

U.S. Reported Urging U.K. To Join in Emergency Aid Plan for Iran to Block Reds

By JOHN A. SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is reported to have urged Britain to join in an Anglo-American emergency-aid program for strategic Iran to avert a possible Communist coup.

State Secretary Dean Acheson is reported to have made this plea in a memorandum to Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden within the last 10 days. Acheson is said to have stressed the need for quick joint action to keep Iran's vast oil resources from falling by default into Russian hands.

American diplomats who disclosed this today indicated that British officials are cool to Acheson's idea, but apparently have not flatly rejected it.

"Token" Aid Now

Acheson told Eden, they said, that the U. S. is prepared to give an immediate "token" grant of $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 to Iran if Britain simultaneously would:

1. Buy the 2,000,000 tons of refined oil and oil products now stored in huge tanks along the Persian Gulf. This would bring the Iranian government about $40,000,000 at present world market prices.
2. Declare Britain's willingness to abide by international arbitration of its long-standing dispute with Iran over nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Under pressure from Washington British and U. S. diplomats are urgently exploring possible solutions to the British-Iranian argument. The oil dispute has blocked the flow of petroleum to the West for 14 months and has choked off the Iranian government's main source of revenue.

Britain's coolness to the American idea, officials said, stems from a belief that to buy any oil would undercut Britain's legal argument that the oil belongs to Britain.

U. K. Cabinet Meets

The British cabinet is scheduled to meet in London today to consider a reply to an invitation from the Iranian Prime Minister, Mohammed Mossadegh, to resume oil negotiations.

Acheson's suggestion apparently was intended to guide the British in drawing up an answer. U. S. officials believe that Mossadegh may be prepared to compromise rather than see his country go bankrupt and possibly Communist.

Most U. S. policy-makers now have decided that Mossadegh's regime, nationalist as it is, represents the West's only hope of averting chaos.

Convocation of Communist Party Indication Dictatorship Stronger Than Ever in Russia

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Moscow's announcement today of the convocation Oct. 5 of the first all-union Communist party congress in 13 years indicates a strengthening of the Soviet dictatorship all along the line.

This announcement has been in the making since 1947, but its timing gives it implications which can mean the difference between war and peace.

Moscow's announcement that it is doing away with the Politburo does not mean abolition of an all-powerful governing body. On the contrary, the announced new Presidium, to act between sessions of the party central committee, will have even more power. It will take over the duties of the Organizations Bureau (Orgburo), which controls the appointment of key officials throughout the party and government network.

The announcement once again brings mysterious Georgi Malenkov 50, owl-faced protege of Stalin, sharply to the fore. Malenkov probably has had more of a hand in this revision — one of a series in Soviet history — than any other man. It is Malenkov who is most widely regarded as the successor to Stalin.

Westerners have long awaited this announcement.

The last All-Union Congress of the Communist party was in March, 1939. Competent diplomatic observers have been saying that when the Kremlin decided to call the 19th congress, it would indicate that the Russians felt themselves in danger of a third world war.

The last All-Union Congress was called on a wave of "peace" slogans, ominously similar to those in current use by Soviet propagandists today. It came at a time when Europe nervously awaited war.

At that Congress, Stalin made a speech forecasting economic crises in the non-Communist world and a struggle of imperialism to divide the world into spheres of influence. That is what the Communists are saying again.

The Congress also had the aim of healing the wounds of the blood purge of the 1930s. When it was finally convoked, Stalin had finished the job of making himself the unquestioned dictator of the Soviet union, after eliminating thousands of potential enemies before firing squads.

The new congress is called following a widespread cleanup throughout the Soviet Union's constituent republics. It is likely that this time any vestige of opposition was done away with quietly.

Apparently, the rulers of the Kremlin consider themselves strong enough once again to call an All-Union Congress, convening many Communists from all corners of the Soviet Union in one place.

Charge Squeeze Aim of Packers To Lower Prices

MARKDALE, Ont (CP) — A farmers' delegation said last night during a meeting with Citizenship Minister Harris that meatpackers are refusing to buy cattle this week in an attempt to force lower prices.

Spokesmen said farmers held back shipments during the summer months, while the foot-and-mouth disease restrictions were in effect, at the request of the government.

The delegation included members of the Grey County Beef and Hog Producers Associations, the Federation of Agriculture and the agricultural committee of the county council.

Delegates said cattle shipped from fresh pasture to stockyards are allowed to deteriorate there for two or three days before they can be sold.

The federal government's floor support price of 25 cents a pound offered protection for the packers only. Farmers were forced to accept lower prices in spite of the guaranteed floor price rather than ship stock back to the farm.

Mr. Harris, member for Grey-Bruce, said he will bring the matter before the federal cabinet.

500 Pigs Burned In $75,000 Fire At Scarboro

TORONTO (CP)—Some 500 pigs were destroyed last night in a $75,000 fire which gutted the W.J. Skelhorn piggery in suburban Scarboro.

The blaze, visible for miles, destroyed the main barn within an hour, but a 15-ton stack of hay and a huge pile of lumber continued to burn for more than three hours.

Edward Boyd, a neighbor, said one sow that escaped the blazing two - storey building turned and tried to run back to her litter. Farmers prevented the animal from re-entering the building. Some 300 pigs were rescued and turned out into a field.

Discounting Silver

VICTORIA (CP)—Victoria banks have started discounting larger American silver coins at about seven per cent on the dollar

Bank managers said yesterday the flow of American coins here has become so large that they have been forced to mark down the larger U.S. silver according to the cost of shipping it south of the border.

GREGG APPEALS TO LABOR TO GO EASY ON STRIKES

Stoppages Would Slow Defence Production

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian labor has before it an appeal from the federal government to go easy on strikes that could slow defence production.

Labor Minister Gregg, in putting it up to the convention of the big Trades and Labor Congress of Canada yesterday, urged "mutual concessions" by labor and management to keep industrial harmony.

"In these critical times," he said, "when the free nations of the world are striving to hold their lead in the production race over those who would destroy all freedoms, our production should not be interrupted, impeded or interfered with for even a short time."

Urges Harmony

Mr. Gregg called particularly on the 502,000-member T.L.C., the country's biggest labor body, to help "ensure this necessary industrial harmony" and prevent "potentially-dangerous delays" to Canada's production machinery.

The Minister mentioned no particular labor disputes, and his admonition was not received as bearing on any specific one, despite the fact it comes in the middle of another deadlock between the railways and the 125,000 men of their non-operating unions.

However, it was addressed to a convention attended by delegates from the main bodies engaged in the rail dispute, international A.F.L.-T.L.C. unions representing about 100,000 of those involved. In 1950, these unions pulled the biggest and most crippling strike in Canadian history over rail wages and working hours.

Apart from an amicable session with the Labor Minister—who confessed he thought his "honeymoon" with labor was over after two years in office—the convention got down to reiterating its demands for social and other advances and occasionally belaboring the cabinet.

It bore down hardest on national health insurance and better housing calling for federal action on both, and also sought reimposition of price controls, checks on immigration and other measures.

Health Insurance Urged

Long an advocate of national health insurance, the Congress instructed its executive to keep pressing for such a scheme. It demanded this on a contributory basis, saying workers are ready to pay their fair share of the cost.

On housing, the Congress asked federal aid in low-rental projects and slum clearance. It declared itself "greatly disappointed" by what the federal government has done on these points, saying its "open immigration policy" has aggravated housing shortages.

Immigration should be more tightly controlled, the Congress said. It also asked that the federal government assume the responsibility of feeding immigrants until they can be absorbed into Canadian industry without displacing Canadians.

Letter Written by Lord Byron Found in Book at Colombo, Ceylon

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters) — A well-preserved letter apparently written by the poet Lord Byron more than a century ago was found today in a book of Byron's works bought 28 years ago.

The letter, dated April 27, 1819, probably at Venice, objects to a French publisher's attributing a booked named "Vampire" to the poet.

"If the book is clever," it says, "it would be base to deprive the real writer, whoever he may be, of his honors. And if, stupid, I desire the responsibility of nobody's dullness but my own."

The letter also objects to an article in a magazine produced by the publishers—Callignani of Paris — telling of Byron's supposed home on the island of Mitylene.

The letter denies Byron ever lived on Mitylene, "where I should have no objection to reside, but where I have never yet resided."

"Neither of these performances are mine — and I presume that it is neither unjust nor ungracious to request that you will favor me by contradicting the advertisement to which I allude."

The letter was found carefully folded in the back of a book of Byron's poems published by Callignani. It was bought second-hand for about 15 cents by Dr. G. Mahabodhy, Singhalese lecturer on Medicine.

The letter will be sent to the British Museum for examination.

New Reformatory To Be Constructed Near Millbrook

Hon. John Foote Says Cost Will be $1,500,000

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—A $1,500,000 reformatory for desperate short-term prisoners will be built near Millbrook, 16 miles southwest of here.

Hon. John Foote, minister of reform institution, made the announcement today. There has been speculation that the prison might be built at North Bay.

Mr. Foote said no site has been chosen for the reformatory and it will be four months before architects' plans are finished. When they are ready, construction would begin as soon as possible.

Mr. Foote gave no details of the construction of the reformatory.

Dr. J.W. Wright, reeve of the village, and Ivan Gray, president of the village's chamber of commerce, said they were pleased at the minister's decision and could see many benefits accruing to the village as a result.

Gatineau Valley Subject of Search For Murderer

MAXVILLE (CP)—Police search for a man wanted for questioning in the murder of Leonard Z. Hurd, prominent Maxville business man, widened out today to Quebec's Gatineau valley.

Yesterday most persons in this community 43 miles southeast of Ottawa stopped work for the funeral service of the victim, robbed and shot last Saturday night on a lonely road near here.

Rev. J. H. Hamilton, United Church minister, told some 300 persons at the service he hoped "justice will soon prevail in the apprehension of the person responsible for the cruel crime."

Latest police action in the search for Henri Seguin, 27, of Cornwall, wanted for questioning, came in the Gatineau valley north of Ottawa.

Quebec Provincial Police at Hull were tipped that a man answering Seguin's description was seen early Monday sleeping in a car beside the highway near Cascades, Que., 15 miles north of Hull. The car's licence number was the same as that of Seguin's 1934 Chevrolet coupe.

Quebec Provincial Police Sergeant, Gaston Garceau, said he would lead a search up the Gatineau valley as far as Mount Laurier, some 90 miles north of Hull.

Cabin Found Empty

Near Maxville, Ontario Provincial Police headed by Inspector Robert Wannell of Toronto closed in a remote cabin eight miles northeast of the town where a man identified as Seguin was reported to have stayed for two weeks before the fatal shooting.

Police found the cabin empty, except for canned goods and clothing which indicated the cabin was occupied as late as Sunday afternoon.

WANDERER SETTLES DOWN

Homage Paid To Heroism Of Canadian Troops

DIEPPE, France (Reuters)—Canadian ambassador George Vanier and Defence Minister Rene Pleven of France paid homage yesterday to the heroism of Canadian troops who took part in the Dieppe raid 10 years ago.

Vanier, on his fifth post-war pilgrimage to the Dieppe beaches, unveiled a memorial at Buys, outside Dieppe, where the Royal Canadian Regiment was decimated by German machine-gun fire.

A party of 28 Canadian soldiers, survivors of the raid, attended the ceremony.

Plaque Unveiled

Pleven unveiled a plaque in the Square du Canada in honor of 1,000 Canadians who fell in the nine-hour raid, first large-scale Allied landing in Occupied Europe.

Pleven said two world wars have taught Canada and France that it is better "to discourage aggression by collective precautions than to have to repulse it."

Vanier said Aug. 19 would always be a day of mourning and a day of glory for Canada.

It would be futile to claim the Dieppe raid was a tactical success, he said, but the experience gained there was invaluable for the invasion of France.

Other ceremonies included a commemoration service at the Canadian military cemetery here.

The raid, officially a "reconnaissance in force," was staged to discover the Allies' ability to land a large force in Europe, to test German defences and to destroy military installations.

About 7,000 troops, most of them Canadian, took part in five separate landings. Nearly half were killed, wounded, missing or captured.

Canadian units which took part in the raid included the South Saskatchewan regiment, the Royal Regiment of Canada, Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, Essex Scottish regiment, Cameron Highlanders of Winnipeg, the Calgary Regiment of tanks, the Fusiliers Mont-Royal and service troops.

In London last night, the BBC broadcast a dramatized version of the battle of Dieppe.

The play was written by Wallace Reyburn, former Montreal newspaper man, and narrated by Bernard Braden of Vancouver.

FELT 'CHEATED'

Reyburn based the story on his own experiences on covering the raid.

In an accompanying broadcast, he described how he returned to Dieppe this summer and felt "cheated" because the beach where he landed 10 years ago now is just waste land.

Mental Patient Awarded $4200 Yearly by Court

VANCOUVER (CP)—A mental hospital patient has been awarded $4,200 a year by Mr. Justice J. D. Clyne from the $180,000 estate of her husband, James Brousseau.

Mrs. Margaret Brousseau, 53, has been a patient in Essondale mental hospital since 1946 and is in the advanced stage of schizophrenia, psychiatrists told the court. A petition seeking an allowance for her was filed in December, 1949.

Mr. Justice Clyne termed the delay in making application for a Supreme Court hearing "scandalous."

Joseph Novak, counsel for the widow, had asked the court for $50,000 for her keep and said her sister in Timmins, Ont., was willing to look after her.

OVER-DECORATED CAR GIVEN FULL TREATMENT BY YOUNG DRIVERS

There are many forms of amusement around by which people obtain the relaxation they desire.

Teen-agers are usually associated with old cars which they decorate to an extent that makes their auto stand out above anything else on the road. It seems, the flashier, the better.

One of these over-decorated automobiles parked on the street last night received the real treatment. The driver climbed into his car with intentions of driving off, but he hadn't counted on the rival drivers, who were standing looking over his car. When he had the engine started, the rival boys got behind the relic and lifted the back wheels a few inches from the street. Unaware of why his car wouldn't move, the youthful driver got out to investigate. He was rewarded by a grand horse laugh.

ARTICLES DISAPPEAR MYSTERIOUSLY

Who is the ghost of Pine Street? That is puzzling city police who are scratching official heads over the mystery of articles which disappear, with apparently nobody in the house and no evidence of break-in.

A resident of the street reported that several articles have disappeared from the cellar while $17 as mystriously disappeared from a purse. This over the period from July 8th.

Maybe the "Shadow" knows.

BOY "CROWNS" PAL WITH BASEBALL BAT

There is at least one youngster in the district who can sympathize with baseballs. He knows now how hard they can be hit.

It seems he was having a slight argument with a chum when suddenly the chum grabbed a baseball bat and "crowned" him. The blow caused a bad cut and the youngsters was taken to hospital, treated and sent home.

AMATEUR RADIO CLUB HOLDS PICNIC AT PRESQU'ILE

The annual family picnic of the Quinte Amateur Radio Club was held at Presqu'ile Point, Sunday afternoon.

A good turnout enjoyed a full day's program. Al Smith won an ohmmeter valued at $100.

Through a mutual treaty signed recently by Canada and the United States, amateur radio operators are allowed to operate temporarily in each other's country.

The first local contact between Belleville and the United States took place on Sunday, when Bill Thompson, VE3RW, made contact with Ken Cairns, Campbellford, VE3AMT, who was sitting in his car in Washington D.C. which is equipped with two-way radio operating on the 75 meter band.

SLAYER NOT HEADED THIS WAY SAY POLICE

Provincial police here today dispelled the rumor that the slayer of the 41-year-old Maxville, Ont., business man was in the vicinity of this city.

It is believed the rumor started from a news dispatch which stated that provincial police in Eastern Ontario were on the lookout for the killer who was believed headed in this direction.

They said that no word had been received at headquarters here that the wanted man was thought to be in this part of the province.

BOYCE'S GARAGE DOWNS ROTARY IN PLAYOFFS

Boyce's Garage pee wee softballers downed Rotary 23-3 last evening in the first game of their best-of-three semi-final series for the city championship.

Second game of the series will be played Friday evening.

Westrick did the flinging for Boyce's. He gave up five hits, walked eight, and struck out four. Frank Howard pitched for Rotary walking three, striking out none, and being tagged for 22 hits.

Green with five hits, and Follwell with four, led the winners at the plate.

212-LB. STURGEON NETTED IN BAY NEAR ADOLPHUSTOWN

The biggest fish caught in the Bay of Quinte since the turn of the century was boated at Adolphustown over the weekend by William Allen and his three sons Lionel, Clarence and Victor.

The fish, a 212-pound sturgeon, was caught eight miles east of Picton, in a 12-mesh nylon whitefish net. When the four fishermen realized that the sturgeon was not caught securely, they manoeuvred the net until they could slip a rope over the fish's tail and haul it aboard.

The fish dressed 126 pounds and was sold for $1.25 per pound.

Freight Train Goes Through Open Switch, One Car Toppled, Three Others Leave Track

TRENTON —(Special) — A freight train in the downtown CPR yards in east Trenton went through an open switch yesterday causing one box car to topple over on its side and three others to leave the track.

Brakeman Pheobe Scabrookes riding up on top of the end car jumped to safety when it swayed crazily and fell sideways.

Factory foreman Claude Benham, 26 years in the casting department of the Benedict Proctor silver plate factory, was alarmed by the unusually loud rumbling of the train. He looked up and saw the brakeman attempting to keep his balance on top of the lurching car. He ran to the back of the shop when the car headed toward his workshop. The box car fell over on its side missing the casting department workshop by inches. The accident was all over before the four other metal workers in the shop realized what was happening.

A trainman said afterwards that children could have been tampering with the switch because the switch was found half open and the handle, part of the way around to the secure position.

A crane was brought in to right the one car while a road crew replaced the track that was ripped up.

Big Ones Hitting

There is good news for fishermen in Trenton and district. The big ones are biting again.

At 12 O'Clock Point yesterday, Sam Cina of Buffalo, N.Y., caught a 31-pound muskie, which took him 45 minutes to haul in. He was fishing off the point when the big beauty hit. He was fishing with a No. 4 Johnson silver minnow with a piece of red flannel attached to it. The fish measured 49 inches from the tip of the snout to the tip of the tail. The girth measured 20 1-2 inches. With Cina in the boat at the time was his fishing partner, Herb Deinzer, who helped him land the prodigious prize.

Last year Cina caught a lunge a little lighter in almost the same identical spot. He has been spending his holidays at Mrs. Dewey's Lodge for the last three summers.

Not to be discounted by any means was the 10-pound pike catch made by Dick Charman, professional at Trenton Country Club. He was casting off the shore at Pleasant Bay south of Consecon. He won a long standing wager with Dr. J. E. Renton, the speedboat enthusiast. The bet was for the one catching the first fish any size.

Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Alyea and daughter Bernice left here by train yesterday for an extended tour of western Canada's vacation spots. They will fly back in September.

Dr. J. E. Renton is racing his water speedster "Wide Open" at the Canadian National Exhibition this year.

Police Cruiser Another Victim Of Pranksters

Youthful pranksters were at large last night on West College Street and a police cruiser got first hand evidence of the "joke."

It seems the youngsters tied a long piece of string to a large stone, then slung the stone over a hydro wire. When a car happened along the string was released and the stone clanked on the top of the car.

The matter was reported and the cruiser dispatched to the scene. The police car halted while officers looked around the vicinity. No one was in sight.

Then as the officers sat and waited a large "clunk" sounded as the stone swiftly descended on the cruiser's top.

Meanwhile the culprits had disappeared.

VICTIM OF ANTS

NEW ALBANY, Miss. (AP) — Little Linda Hill is dead, the victim of a swarm of angry ants. The ants attacked Monday night when the parents decided to sleep on the lawn. Mrs. Floy Hill awoke to find the baby black with ants. Linda died early yesterday.

Obituary

JOSEPH L. PROVOST (Marmora)

The village of Marmora lost a respected citizen on Sunday morning in the person of Joseph Leopold Provost. He passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough in his 69th year. Native of St. John's Quebec, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Simon Provost. Thirty-four years of his life were spent in Ontario. He was an employee of the Ontario Rock Quarry at Preneveau, for two years. He moved to Montreal for about a year and a half and then returned to Ontario to become an employee for the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited for two periods totalling 28 years. He was greatly liked by fellow employees and neighbors for his friendly nature. He was a devout member of the Sacred Heart Church.

He was married to the former Rose Grenier, who was born at St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, and survives him. Of thirteen children born of the marriage, six survive him namely, Leo, Marmora township; Roger, Gerald and Fernand at home; Robert, Orillia, and Mrs. R. Lemay (Theresa), Toronto. Also surviving are three sister resident in Montreal. Mrs. H. Collerette, Mrs. John Dupuis and Mrs. A. Desloges.

The funeral took place Wednesday. Requim Mass at the Sacred Heart Church at 9.30 was followed by interment in Sacred Heart Cemetery.

JAMES EDWARD BROWN

The funeral of James Edward Brown was held from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home on Monday afternoon. The service in the chapel and at the graveside in Belleville Cemetery was conducted by Archdeacon the Venerable Arthur Smith.

The bearers were Harry Brown John Rolands, Harry Woodcock, Daniel Benn, Ray Denike and Cecil Cherry.

Clarence Johnson Wins Feature Race At Bayside Park

Bayside Speedway last night was the scene of some of the most closely fought stock car races yet seen in the Bay of Quinte district.

The first qualifying heat marked the first appearance of Sherm Kenny's new (Polka Dot) K 9 Special and while Sherm still hasn't got that car running properly he again proved that you can't pull an inside pass on Sherm Kenny. Dusty Sanford provided the excitement for the first race by ploughing through the water hole at full tilt.

J. McCrory also did his best for the spectators by showing us how to waltz with a Ford coming out of the fourth turn.

In the second heat, Morley Shepherd in car No. 35, and Clare Johnson driving Bob Wellar's No. 47 fought it out practically neck and neck until the last 100 yards. This race marked the first event in quite some time in which Cliff Stillman's No. 8 has finished back in the pack.

The third qualifying heat was actually two races in one, and things were really popping. Cliff Stillman and Clare Johnson fought it out for first and second place from the very first lap, and Morley Shepherd uncorked an inside pass to come from behind on the fourth corner of the last lap to beat Jack McCrory out by a nose for third place.

Bob Colliver in Blue Blazes arrived from Picton just in time to take the Consolation Race, but Roy Cronk's No. 31 provided the excitement by coming in a close second after spinning out in the second lap.

It was in the feature race however when things really started to happen. Cliff Stillman in the 8 Ball came up from the rear to take second place on the first turn. On the far straightaway it was Sherm Kenny's K 9, Cliff Stillman, Bruce Kemp in No. 25, and Morley Shepherd in Q 35. By the beginning of the third turn Cliff Stillman had taken over the lead, Morley Shepherd had come up on the outside to challenge, and Jack McCrory had come up farther outside still to make a three car abreast fight for the lead.

Then Clare Johnson in No. 47 came roaring out of nowhere to take all three cars on the inside on the fourth turn and grab the lead which he held by the skin of his teeth for the rest of the race.

Cliff Stillman came out of this melee in second spot, and Morley Shepherd burned his car out before the end of the race trying to challenge at the terrific pace set by these two leaders.

The results of the races were as follows:

1st Qualifying Heat: 1 Bruce Kemp, 2 Sherm Kenny, 3 Dusty Sanford.

2nd Qualifying Heat: 1 Morley Shepherd, 2 Clare Johnson, 3 Bruce Kemp.

3rd Qualifying Heat: 1 Cliff Stillman, 2 Clare Johnson, 3 Morley Shepherd.

Consolation: 1 Bob Colliver, 2 Roy Cronk, 3 Sherm Kenny.

Match Race: 1 Clare Johnson, 2 Morley Shepherd.

Feature: 1 Clare Johnson, 2 Cliff Stillman, 3 Jack McCrory, 4 Bruce Kemp, 5 Roy Cronk.

All-Time Record For Bay of Quinte

Largest fish on record ever taken from the Bay of Quinte, Ont., is this 212-pound sturgeon caught in a net by Clarence Allen, left. The big fish was hauled into Allen's commercial fishing boat by the tail. At current prices it should bring Allen over $100. — Central Press Canadian.

Prime Minister Optimistic About Saguenay Area

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent, winding up a four-day visit to this northeastern Quebec district, told a press conference last night that the Saguenay region, after Alberta, promised to be Canada's greatest industrial development district.

Mr. St. Laurent said the district's immense hydraulic resources, good manpower situation and natural resources made it the most promising district in Canada after Alberta with her great oil fields.

Correct Method Fighting Gas Fire Is Demonstrated

More than 35 personnel from the British-American Oil Company branches, from Kingston to Lindsay, were in the city yesterday for afternoon and evening sessions put on by the company to emphasize safety.

In the afternoon, Mr. Owen Good, safety supervisor for Canada, demonstrated the correct methods of fighting different kinds of gasoline and oil fires using different equipment. The demonstration was held behind the firehall on Moira Street, with the local firemen looking on.

In the evening a dinner was held at the Belleville Shrine Club, with Fire Chief Gerald Vance, as special guest.

Mr. Frank Green delivered an address entitled "Safety on the Highway." He was introduced by Mr. W. C. Davidson, in the absence of area manager, Mr. G. H. Carveth.

Movies on safe driving and etiquette on the highways, were shown.

Lamport Accepts Challenge From Ottawa's Mayor

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Allan Lamport of Toronto yesterday accepted a challenge from Ottawa's Mayor Charlotte Whitton to a plowing match.

The challenge was issued by Mayor Whitton at a luncheon.

She has been doing a little plowing on the side to be ready for the mayors' match at the international plowing meet in Carp, in October.

During the luncheon she twitted Mayor Lamport on the fact he hasn't entered the match.

The Toronto mayor promptly replied he would match Mayor Whitton furrow for furrow at Carp.

N.B. Jet Pilot Killed in Crash At Fredericton

FREDERICTON (CP) — FO. William McAlpine Moore, son of W. A. Moore, deputy minister of industry and development of New Brunswick, was killed in a car crash near here yesterday.

The 22-year-old jet pilot's body was found in muddy water in the bottom of an eight-foot ditch, under the wreckage.

Two companions, Gerald Sutherland and Frank Prime, were found unconscious about 20 feet away. Prime suffered a fractured left leg and shock. Sutherland, driver of the car, received body lacerations and severe shock.

The car apparently left the road, crashed into the ditch and plowed nearly 140 feet.

Death of Man Brings Arrest To Six People

DEAUX RIVIERES, Ont. (CP)—A fusillade of shots outside a heavily-barricaded shack near this northern Ontario village yesterday brought death to a man who tried to enter and resulted in the arrest of the owner of the building.

Dead is Debbie Logan, 27, of Stonecliffe. Held in Pembroke jail 60 miles southeast of here, is Norman Pacquin, 33. Also being held as material witnesses are three women and two men police allege were inside the shack.

Paul Letour said he, his brother and Logan tried to enter Pacquin's shack and that a man carried two rifles from the building and began firing. The three jumped in their car. Bullets struck it and broke windows.

Letour said he did not know Logan was hurt until he fell from the car outside a hotel in nearby Deux Rivieres.

Police seized a .22 and a 44-40 rifle at the shack. They quoted Pacquin's wife as saying Logan and the Letour brothers asked for a drink and were told to leave.

She said they hammered on the door when refused admittance and threatened to shoot their way in. "then my husband went outside," she said, "and I heard shooting."

Police found windows of the shack wired, the front door nailed shut and the back door rammed tight with a two-by-four.

Deux Rivieres is 60 miles east of North Bay.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Industrials and golds today pulled out of a two-day decline in moderately active early afternoon stock market trading. Base metals and western oils continued weak.

Industrials improved after a weak morning and golds continued a slight advance started before noon. Western oils drew slightly more support but base metals slipped steadily.

Trading covered a fairly wide list of base metals and western oils and increased in volume over last week's slow sessions. Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,852,000 shares.

Five secondary gold issues recorded turnovers of more than 100,000 shares but only one gained. Donalda, a junior producer, and Jacknife, a prospect, slipped in turnovers close to 200,000. Health gold rose. Senior golds weakened.

Most industrial sections were mixed with activity centred on steel issues. Small gains and losses marked the base metals section as Mayo dipped fractionally in a turnover of more than 90,000 shares.

Heaviest western oil trader was Yankee Canuck which gained pennies on a 50,000-share turnover.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Egg market prices held firmly for larger and medium grades but small sizes continued to ease in slow trading. Quotations for eggs in fibre cases were: A large 61-62; A medium 51-52; A small 38; grade B 39-40; grade C 27-28. Wholesale to retail: A large 66-67; A medium 55-56; A small 42-43; grade B 45-46; grade C 35.

Butter prices: first grade, 58 cents tenderable, 57¾-57½ cents non-tenderable. Second grade not established. Western 53⅓ cents asked, no sales.

First Canadian On SHAPE Staff

Supply expert Lieut.-Col. Robert H. Ramsay, Toronto, is the first Canadian officer of high rank to be appointed to the Supreme Allied Headquarters in Europe. He will serve on the staff of Gen. Matthew Ridgway.—Central Press Canadian.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario stockyards trading slackened today while prices showed little change. Receipts: cattle, 180; calves, 80; hogs, 190; sheep and lambs, 170. The holdover totalled 3,200 cattle.

Choice steers brought $26-27 with common ranging downward to $19. Medium to good heifers sold from $22-24.50 while good cows traded from $17-18. Fed yearlings sold from $26-28.

Calves were steady at $26-27 for choice vealers with a few tops at $28. Common to medium ranged from $15-24.

Grade A hogs brought $26 and dressed sows $16.

Lambs sold at $30 for good ewes and wethers delivered by truck and $31 delivered by car. Bucks were at $1 discount. Common to medium sheep sold from $6-12.

DISCOUNT U.S. FUNDS

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Because losses on United States currency have been running into the hundreds of dollars monthly, Windsor's public transportation system yesterday began to discount U.S. currency at five cents to $1. Bus drivers have been instructed to refuse U.S. coins and to discount bills at the 95-cent rate.

Little Accomplished

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—United Nations command liaison officers today told the Communists that U. N. warplanes unintentionally flew over Panmunjom Aug. 16, violating the neutrality of the Korean truce-talks site.

The U.N. officers rejected for lack of evidence a Red protest that Allied planes flew over the area Aug. 13.

The truce talks are in their fourth straight week-long recess. The delegations are to meet again Aug. 27.

U.K. Briefs

LONDON —(CP) — Britain's new delta wing fighter plane, the Gloster GA5, will be called the Javelin, the Air Council announced. Chief test pilot for the Javelin, a turbo-jet all-weather craft, is Sqdn. Ldr. W. A. Waterton, native of Edmonton.

LONDON —(CP) — Britain's motorcar exports to Canada rose from a monthly average of 2,300 last year to slightly more than 2,600 in the second quarter of 1952.

BRISTOL, ENG. (CP)— Patients in hospitals here are to be given running commentaries on football matches from the grounds of Bristol City and Bristol Rovers. Telephone lines will be laid at a cost of £350 and there will be volunteer commentators.

LONDON (CP)—Britain's fire brigades are to adopt a system of helmet markings to show the ranks of officers. Superior officers will have white helmets marked by black bands, sub-officers black helmets with white bands.

YORK, England, (CP)—Dr. Cyril Garbett, Archbishop of York, said at a public meeting here that everyone needs an annual holiday. "I have no patience with people who say they do not," he said. "Those who work with them will tell a different story."

LONDON (CP)—British aircraft designers are planning a three-deck freight aircraft with elevators between decks. The two yower decks would hold up to eight motor-cars and the upper deck 42 passengers.

NORTLEACH, England (CP)—A man who stole a suitcase which fell from a car was fined £10. The owner paid the fine, saying: "My wife says I should be in the dock for having a car with a faulty lock and putting temptation in people's way."

TAXI NOT PUBLIC

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Magistrate Charles Thoburn ruled yesterday a taxi is not a public place. He dismissed a charge against William Garden, about 35, of Windsor, of being intoxicated in a public place when police evidence showed the man was arrested in a taxi.

HURT IN SHALLOW DIVE

GRAND BEND (CP)—Thomas Quinn, 15, of Sarnia, suffered a possible fractured neck yesterday when he mistook a speedboat ramp for a diving platform and dived into about 12 to 18 inches of water which, because of high waves, looked deeper.

Recent Dredging Operations In Harbor Allows Boats With 16-Foot Draft to Enter

With the recent completion of dredging operations, which had their start last November, the view has been expressed that the use of the Belleville Harbor has been doubled because the inner and outer channel will now accommodate boats up to 16-foot draft. Navigation charts covering recent changes in the harbor bottom are currently being prepared by the engineering department of the Department of Transport in Ottawa and are expected to be distributed within two months.

Herbert H. McCabe, inspector during the dredging project, explained today that all loose rock and debris in the channel have been removed and the channel now boasts a rock bottom. Should further deepening be decided, dredging would become a blasting operation, the inspector said.

While rock was being removed from the channel, the dredgers brought an ancient hull measuring 100 feet long with a 30-foot beam to the surface. Oldsters along the harbor were unable to recall the sinking of such a craft.

If the present level of the bay continues, the harbor will be able to accommodate fully-loaded coal boats and oil tankers. Before the harbor was dredged, tankers entered the harbor with half loads, removing the first half of their cargo at Kingston. Even though the level of water in the harbor may recede, it was explained that tankers will be able to dock with more than half a cargo.

Mr. McCabe expressed the belief that with deeper harbor, more pleasure craft would be attracted to Belleville.

Members of the Belleville Harbor Commission include Mayor A. McLean Hague, Frank Follwell and A. H. Ketcheson.

MACEDONIANS MEET

TORONTO (CP)—Macedonia for the Macedonians is the only formula for solving the Macedonian question, members of the Macedonian Political Organization of the U.S.A. and Canada, said at their convention yesterday. A resolution passed voiced opposition to all forms of Communism.

4 Youths Rescued After 18 Hours On Lake Simcoe

ATHERLEY (CP)—A small seaplane touched down on lake Simcoe shortly before sundown yesterday to rescue two youths who had drifted in the chill water for 18 hours.

Two other youths, picked up earlier, also spent the night and much of the day in the water after two speedboats carrying the four friends collided head-on Monday night.

Jack Graham, 21, was detained in hospital while his brother, Bill, 19, Mike Cox, 2, and Don Duggan, 17, all of Toronto, were released after treatment for exhaustion and exposure.

To Stay in Bathtub

"I used to like water," said Mike, first of the four to be picked up. "But from now on a bathtub full will be plenty for me."

He spent 14 hours clinging to a cushion.

The four friends had been staying at a cottage in Cooks Bay, at the southern tip of the lake, some 40 miles north of Toronto. At noon Monday they set out in the two 14-foot outboard motor boats, Don and Jack in one boat, Bill and Mike in the other.

They spent the day on the lake visiting friends at neighboring resorts and were returning home at 10 p. m. There was no moon and a light mist covered the water as the two boats, travelling about 35 miles an hour, met in a splintering crash. One boat sank immediately and the four boys climbed into the second. It, too, began to submerge so the older boys—Jack and Mike—took seat cushions and started for shore.

"We swam hard," recalled Cox. "But the currents were really grim. Then we got separated and that was bad because we could at least talk to each other when we were near enough."

He was picked up shortly before noon yesterday by a tourist, B.R. Smith, and brought first news of the accident to police. Search boats and planes were sent out and several hours later Jack was picked up by a boat.

Hope Almost Gone

When the two younger boys remained unlocated near the end of the afternoon, residents who lined the wharf here waiting for news held little hope that they could survive in the 60-degree water.

Dr. Walter Woodrow of Orillia sighted the two boys, supported by the last cushion and a small piece of wood, from 500 feet. He loaded them in his plane and taxied 15 miles to shore, fearing the small plane would not carry the extra passenger load off the water.

Safely ashore 19-year-old Bill voiced his first and only comment on the affair:

"I'm glad it's over, I'm tired. I want something to eat."

POLIO TOLL MOUNTS

EDMONTON (CP)—Western Canada's polio toll this year stood today at 46 deaths and 778 cases. This compares with 32 deaths and 611 cases a week ago. Alberta was the hardest hit yesterday with four deaths compared with one each in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

A VOTE FOR NAUGHT

Residents of Mountjoy township adjacent to the town Timmins in Northern Ontario recently voted to permit e operation of cocktail bars in their municipality. Two ars ago, residents of Timmins staged a similar vote, but e issue was defeated and there were strong hints that otleggers in the town who were among the most ardent es against cocktail bars because, obviously, it would terfere with their business, succeeded in swinging the te.

But despite the vote, it appears that the people of ountjoy township are not sovereign in their domain. A dge has quashed the vote, ruling that it is not per-issable for cocktail bars to flourish "in Timmins' back ard" after Timmins had voted to defeat the measure.'

It is suggested that a lot of time and energy could ave been saved if the voters had been advised earlier that eir opinion, expressed through the democratic process the ballot, was worthless. The merits or demerits of cktail bars are not at issue in this instance. The ques-on is: Should a properly conducted vote be scuttled by ne individual who may happen to be a judge?

ANCIENT HISTORY DEPARTMENT

Are the Russians now planning to lay claim to the est coast of North America, or are they merely trying to ivert attention from elsewhere by reviving accounts of arly Russian exploration and settlement along the coast what is now British Columbia, Washington, Oregon and alifornia?

Whatever their purpose may be, the Muscovites, hrough one Igor Lukovsky, (he's one of Stalin's top liter-ry men), are pouring forth, via both press and radio, xtensive and at least partly accurate accounts of seven-eenth and eighteenth century Russian activities along he west coast of this continent.

It is common knowledge that the Russian empire riginally included Alaska and that an impecunious czar old that territory to the United States; but it is not so ell known that Russian settlements, trading posts and ilitary establishments once extended as far south as an Diego.

Here is what Comrade Lukovsky had to say in a ecent broadcast, as monitored in London, after he had escribed Russian settlements in what is now Alaska and British Columbia:

". . . In their search for richer agricultural lands, the Russians eventually landed from twenty ships in the bay of San Diego, where they established friendly relations with the few Spanish settlers."

"Eventually," Comrade Lukovsky went on, "they settled in various parts of California. In 1811, the Russians had to build a fortress — which was defended by seventeen guns and which stood up to all the attacks of the Spaniards."

After having described how Russian sailors, under Cherikov, Feodorov and Bering, visited Alaska and the northwest coast of Canada, where they found ruins of European settlements at least three centuries old, Comrade Lukovsky continued:

"The origin of these settlements was unknown, but documentary evidence found on the spot shows irrefutably they (the settlers) were both Russian and literate. The Indians and Eskimos on the spot both knew some Russian words."

No one west of the Iron Curtain can be sure why the Russian propaganda machine has been ordered to revive interest in and speculation about this little-known phase of North American history, but we can draw all sorts of conclusions.

The most frequent cause of wars, or at least the most frequent pretext for starting them, is one country demanding the surrender of territory held by another country, especially if the country fomenting the trouble can produce some semi-legitimate claim to the territory in question.

Wars often break out over something that has for a long time been either ignored or forgotten. It would be a curious development if a third world war were to originate in a revival of long-deceased Russian claims to the west coast of North America.

THE HUMBLING YEARS

'Tis strange how time takes pride away
And substitutes a humbler view.
When I was twenty friends would say
I thought that everything I knew.

From year to year I moved along
Thinking my footing all secure.
But since I'd been so often wrong
At thirty I was not so sure.

At forty I'd begun to doubt.
My foolish head had ceased to swell.
My views I didn't loudly shout
And less and less I had to tell.

And now I know not all I know,
And glad am I and grateful, too.
I hear men argue con and pro,
And which is right I wish I knew.

Seaside Resort Wrecked by Flood Will be Aided

LYNMOUTH, England (Reuters) Harold MacMillan, minister of housing and local government, trudged ankle deep through mud yesterday to see how the government can aid this seaside resort town wrecked by last week-end's flood.

The death toll in this southwest England area has risen to 13, with 28 persons still missing and presumed dead. In addition police said uofficially 50 more are unaccounted for. About 2,000 persons are being fed and sheltered by rescue workers.

Damage to roads, bridges and power and public projects is estimated at £1,800,000. Forty-two houses, cottages and hotels were destroyed, 17 partly wrecked and 20 more seriously damaged.

MacMillan urged "all our people at home and overseas who have ever enjoyed the beauties of the Devon coast" to contribute to relief funds.

Address to which cash contributions may be sent is: G. H. Hollis, National Provincial Bank, 65 High Street, Exeter, England. Cheques should be payable to the North Devon and West Somerset Relief Appeal.

Clothing bundles should be sent to the British Red Cross, care of the Town Hall, Lynton, Devon.

Wet Weather Delays Harvest Says Report

TORONTO (CP)—Continued wet weather throughout the greater part of Ontario is delaying harvesting but giving pastures, root crops and vegetables a new lease on life, the Department of Agriculture said yesterday in its weekly crop report.

Kent and Wentworth counties are among the new reporting dry conditions still prevailing. Milk production is generally up. Rain weathere in Nippissing county in Northern Ontario is causing potato growers some alarm.

Good average crops have been harvested generally. Tobacco is reported an excellent crop this year although scattered sections recently suffered crippling hail damage.

In Cochrane south in Northern Ontario, sheep have been killed by wolves.

Alberta Farmers Having Trouble With Beavers

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta. (CP)—Farmers in this Alberta foothills area are having trouble this summer with bears and beavers.

Black bears have been killing off young calves in nightly raids on cattle herds, within sight of the town. Berry-pickers are afraid to go too far into the woods.

The beavers, scarce until recently, have become so plentiful that their dams are a menace to roads and meadows, with danger to livestock. One night's work by the busy beavers can flood a 100-acre field and cows following accustomed trails sometimes get bogged down. Some have been trapped in mud and died of starvation.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Dime novels now cost thirty-five cents, and more. It was a sin, along with smoking cigarets and going to burlesque shows, to read dime novels when I was a boy. You could always spot a dime novel reader among the youth of the early 1900's. He was sallow and flat chested and had pimples. You could see at a glance that he smoked cigarets up lanes and often wallowed in the front seats of burlesque theatres.

Prices have gone up, and a lot of things have changed. Dime novels now csot thirty-five cents and are a combination of dime novel and burlesque show. The husky rosy-cheeked youths who loll about reading them all have cigarets on the mouths, and so have their grandmothers, when they come and scold the youth, both male and female, for lolling. Nobody has to go to burlesque shows any more, because you can see far more on any beach and any verandah. Or all you have to do is sit on your front steps.

Sin seems to have changed too. We have got sin narrowed down to about six, which is less than the ten commandments. And you can't detect sinners on sight any more, either. By the use of orange juice, plenty of pasteurized milk, balanced diet, not to mention pre-natal care and infant feeding, confirmed sinners are no longer flat chested, sallow and pimply. It is next to impossible to tell a sinner from a normal healthy human being.

It is wise to remember that we still have a considerable number of those who still refrain from reading dime novels, even if they cost thirty-five cents and still look upon cigarets and burlesque shows as sinful. And this reflection is somewhat modified and balanced by a curious fact. Which is that readers of these modern dime novels, or pocket books or paper novels are never able to remember whether they have already read the one they have got in their hands or not.

"What I like about these pocket book things," explained one of their addicts, speaking around her cigaret, "is that I can't remember them even the minute I finish them. I bet I have read some of them ten or fifteen times, without even knowing it."

Such is sin.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

UNITY

Where there is unity there is peace and happiness. Most disputes are misunderstandings. How sane it is, therefore, to try and discover the differences on which there is a common meeting, and then by elimination come down to the heart of the trouble and seek to clear up the misunderstanding. The happiest meeting in a war is where the opposing Generals come together, shake hands, and declare their desire for peace.

Look up into the magic of the heavens upon a starry night. There is unity there. Order and plan. Nature doesn't quarrel with itself! Nor do but a few of its inhabitants. Live and let live is the natural law. Unity is the universal law. Man is the only one—and he with intelligence!—who violates unity most.

Unity of mind with God is the only means toward peace and understanding. Where there is unity there is always strength. There is then a common objective—"one for all and all for one." How simple it is, and yet how we stumble, strike, and quarrel unnecessarily. The great steel strike, now happily ended, pictured the main leaders shaking hands. Why couldn't they have settled their differences at the beginning without strife and serious losses through arbitration? What a waste could have been prevented.

We need so few laws to keep us working in unity with each other, and with other nations. Little is accomplished while a quarrel is in progress. Take the example of war. Nothing is accomplished but waste and bitterness while it lasts. If civilization means anything, it should mean peace and unity among all peoples and nations.

There is a religious cast to unity wherein the mind and heart control. God, nature, and the universe become as one. From where I write, I note scores of birds, of many varieties, happily engaged in feeding, caring for their young, and singing in intervals. They example unity to us all.

Never has this world needed unity among all the nations of the earth as now. The United Nations organization is sure to fail without it. No single nation can survive without it. Disunion has been the curse of history. Unity is the watchword of universal peace and happiness. In unity alone is progress.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BY FRUITS OR ROOTS?

A school of philosophy known as pragmatism has arisen in recent decades. It claims that the authority of any truth arises from its ability to produce results. A thing is right, declares the pragmatist, if it works.

This is a very inadequate measurement with which to approach the higher values of life. Yet there is a way in which Jesus of Nazareth was a pragmatist. He kept insisting always "By their fruits shall ye know them." This inferred, was true of men and their actions; of enterprises and their results. Many of his contemporaries wanted to judge the value of everything by its roots; Jesus insisted on judging the value of everything by its fruits.

Creeds are good, but to what extent do they make us better? If a creed is really sound, and if we are really sincere, spiritual triumph is bound to result. Of how much worth are your religious pretensions? That depends upon the kind of person you show yourself to be. Some people are orthodox as regards creeds and unorthodox as regards conduct. They stick to the letter of the moral law but disregard its spirit. In judging any man's life, judge it by its fruits.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed. Etc.

PHYSIOLOGICAL PROTEIN PUTREFACTION

If only twelve words of the Brady copy get into print today, I hope they may be these words quoted from Howell's Textbook of Physiology:

In the large intestine, protein putrefaction is a constant and normal occurrence.

Fix this fact firmly in mind, su—, I mean folks, and it may save you a good deal of misery in the course of your lifetime.

I keep telling you, but I despair of teaching you, that the "autointoxication" theory concept or fancy, so persuasively exploited by such eminent auth- Kellogg and Sir Abuthnot Lane, orities as Prof. Metchnikoff, Dr. Guy's Hospital, is without scientific foundation.

No matter if a thousand famous doctors of yesteryear accepted the morbid notions of Metchnikoff, Kellogg & Lane, and a thousand near-doctors or queer-doctors quack it today on the same false premises, good doctors today reject the idea of "autointoxication" or "toxemia" or poisoning of the system by absorption of products of putrefaction from the lower part of the large bowel (colon) or because of intestinal "stasis," the hypothetical condition for which so many gullible customers take mineral oil, "bowel washes" 'and freak diets.

The almanac pathology so freely inculcated in the nineteenth century still outweighs the textbook physiology and hygiene so timidly taught school children in the twentieth century, so far as popular knowledge of health is concerned. This is the reason why I feel frustrated. Whenever I say in the simplest possible way that "autotoxication" is merely a morbid delusion, numerous persons who have been inoculated and have no knowledge of physiology or pathology resent my candor and some of them tell me in borrowed language the facts of life. This is hard to endure.

Let no wiseacre think rejection of the "autointoxication" idea is just a quirk of mine. I repeat, the medical profession rejects it because it is not so.

In a discussion of the treatment of colitis, Dr. A. F. Hurst, senior physician to Guy's Hospital, London, said: There is no such thing as "mucous colitis." He regarded as a myth the "autointoxication" from stasis in the colon, for which some physicians give much treatment of different kinds. Untreated constipation may cause local discomfort and be a source of anxiety to the patient but, in Dr. Hurst's opinion, even if bacterial decomposition or putrefaction occurs, no by-products of such putrefaction are absorbed into the system, for it is a physiological fact that there is no absorption from the lower part of the large bowel.

If all this does not make sense to those with physic or enema habit, I beg them not to dismiss the problem until they have read and re-read Little Lesson No. 25 —The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene. For the booklet send 25 cents and stamped self-addressed envelope. At any rate reading it can do no one any harm.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Gall Bladder Trouble

For years I was on a diet for gall-bladder trouble and the doctor constantly urged me to let him remove my gall bladder . . . eight months ago I started the non-surgical drainage of infected gall bladder as directed in your booklet and have had no trouble since and eat anything I like . . . May you live a lot longer . . . we need you . . . (Mrs. G. H. V.).

Answer — Thank you. For booklet So You Have Indigestion, in which instructions for non-surgical drainage are given, send 25 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope. Only about 1 out of 15 cases of chronic gall-bladder trouble, cholecystitis, infected gall-bladder require operation.

Prolific Twins

Anent your recent report of the large number of readers who have children although they are twins of one sex or boy-girl combination, a Johnstown, Pa., couple, each a twin, recently became the parents of triplets—two boys and a girl. (K.W.)

Answer— Thank you. There can no longer be any question about it: twins of the same sex or boy girl twins are as likely to bear children as any other individuals. A horse laugh for the fishwives who would have it otherwise.

Sweating

I want you to know that your pamphlet "Excessive Sweating" was a God-send to me. I had quite a problem and nothing helped, until I followed the formula in your pamphlet. The results have been wonderful . . . (Miss J. D.)

Answer — For the pamphlet send stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was watching ma sewing to herself, and I said, Hay ma, which is the best, a book about music or a book about information?

That's a difficult question, ma said. Of course music is one of the arts, and cultured persons are suppose to know a reasonably smattering about it, even though they dont happen to be full fledged musicians with some musical instrument at their finger tips. But of course nobody can deny that information is a very useful acquisition to have at your command, although I suppose it largely depends on just what kind of information it is, she said.

It's all kinds, it's in my little book called 500 Little Known Facts, I said. Glasses Magee wants me to swap it for his book about music, I said, and ma said, Well, it would be very nice if you had a slite grasp on the general subject of music. It mite arouse your curiosity and inspire you to take a real intrist, so then at least you wont grow up to be one of the men who go to sleep at concerts, she said.

But jimminies, ma, my little book has got some swell facts in it, I said. For instance it says that some parrits have been known to live to be 120 years old, I said, and ma said, Oh, I doubt whether anybody has ever lived long enough to prove sutch a fact, and besides, nobody ruins a conversation as surely as a person who is forever bobbing up with endless statistics.

Well then I guess I'll swap it for the book about music, because Glasses is willing to threw in the mouth organ that came with it, I said. That's what it is, a little book to teetch you how to play a mouth organ, and Glasses is tired of trying, I said, and ma said, Oh my goodness, you'd better keep your book of information.

No mam, I heard you the ferst time, I said.

Meening a book about music is probably the best.

Greatest Entry in 15 Years Says Secretary of Fair

Picton. — Tuesday night, the Fair grounds was a mass of glittering lights and color as Prince Edward County's Centennial Fair got under way. While nearly 400 exhibitors placed exhibits in the various buildings. The Grant Bernard and Barry Shows moved into action to give fair-goers the biggest show of this kind ever seen in the district. Eighteen large rides and many shows are included, arriving by special train of 20 box cars.

Today, Wednesday, sees the official opening of the four-day celebration and directors are confident that new records will be set in every department.

Greatest Entry in 15 Years

Secretary Phil Dodds reports the greatest number of entries in the 15 years he has been associated with the fair. Included are 80 horses, 96 head of cattle, 412 poultry, 360 in flowers which fill a big tent, and a display of cooking believed unequalled at any Ontario fair. Included are 106 pies, 91 cakes, including 17 which are special Centennial cakes.

The early season and lack of rain has failed to cut down entries of fruit and vegetables.

Lavish use of evergreen and flags enhance the buildings and exhibits.

Race secretary C. R. Widdifield, Q.C., reports all of six horse races, scheduled for Friday and Saturday, completely filled except for two classes.

Today's events include a service of thanksgiving, clown band, pet parade, Junior Farmer competitions, numbers by young amateurs and contests.

Tonight, Wednesday, a horse show under lights, and vaudeville is being followed by fireworks. Children attending will receive free rides, given by the B.P.O. Elks.

Thursday is re-union day with old tyme parade, Picton I.O.O.F. band, welcomes to old boys and girls by George Tustin, M.P., Norris Whitney, M.P.P., and Mayor H. J. McFarland.

Nearly 125 persons 85 years and over, or wed 50 years or more, will be guests and each presented with roses. A parade of old tyme fashions, square dances, tug-of-war and entertainment round out the afternoon program.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, International Variety Revue, starring singers, dancers, acrobats, trained animals, all from the U.S.A., is billed for the grandstand.

Friday and Saturday afternoons see horse races, horse shows, vaudeville, bands, barbershop quartettes.

Saturday night's feature, after the Revue, is a draw for a car.

Features attracting attention include a free daily cooking school, film showings, a 100 x 50 ft. tent housing horses which overflow two barns, display of wood carving by Wm. Lovey, commercial feature exhibits of hay and cheese, displays of relics and old dressers, model plane show, oddities, work of new Canadians, a rooster race, many fine displays by merchants.

The Centennial Fair culminates months of work by directors who have attempted to make this "The Fair of the Century."

Donkey Baseball Viewed by 3,000 At Shannonville

For 15 years there has been a dispute between the residents of Thurlow and Tyendinaga Townships over the boundary line between the two townships. Several weeks ago it was decided by the Shannonville World's Fair Board to sor a donkey baseball game as a grudge match between the two townships.

An estimated 3,000 local people watched the Thurlow team beat out Tyendinaga in four innings, 7-5 in an hour and a half game. Ken Vivian, secretary treasurer of the fair board said it was one of the most humorous and exciting shows to be viewed in the area for some time. The players, 20 on each team were leading citizens of the district.

Donkey baseball observes most of the rules of regulation ball with a few exceptions. The players play their positions mounted on the backs on donkeys. Mr. Vivian feels that as a result of the game a great deal of the old grudge faded in the merriment of the game.

The highway was blocked for an hour at the beginning of the game and at the conclusion with cars according to the secretary treasurer.

Junior Farmers Conduct Service At Madoc Church

Madoc—The theme, "A Heritage Have We," was deeply and intelligently probed by Douglas H. Ross, past president of the County Junior Farmers' Association at their church service in Madoc last Sunday evening. Doug compared our lot in this Dominion to that of other countries, both spiritually and socially, casting considerable light on foreign problems.

Don McKinnon, president, opened the service with a call to worship and a prayer and later introduced the guest speaker. The resopnsive reading was led by Arnold Empey. Miss Donna Phillips read the scriptural passage.

The local club choir was attractive and uniform in appearance. Members of the congregation were unanimous in their praise of the splendid balance of voices. During their sympathetic interpretation Stainer's "God so Loved the World." Bill Aylsworth, choir leader and gold medal winner of the baritone class at the Stirling music festival, sang the preceding recitative. Guests soloists were Miss Barbara Meiklejohn, Mary Meiklejohn, Eleanor Thompson and Grant Richardson. The girls, winners of the ladies' trio class at the Stirling music festival sang with a perfect blend of voices. Grant Richardson, baritone, secretary of the Rawdon club, rendered by request, "Come Ye Blessed of My Father." The choir was fortunate in having as organist, Mrs. Leslie Ashley.

Afterwards a reception was held at the home of Bill Aylsworth, where local and visiting ministers as well as soloists and others participating in the service had an opportunity for informal discourse with each other.

CAMPBELLFORD

Niagara Falls Subject of Talk To Rotarians

Campbellford—"Niagara Falls" said Mr. Beatty, in introducing his talk on the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, "is the logical place to start any talk concerning Hydro Electric development in Ontario." Mr. Beatty, as guest speaker at the Campbellford Rotary luncheon, went on to say that the first record of the Falls was written in the year 1678 by a priest sent out on a discovery party by LaSalle. Jumping 200 years to 1878, we find Lord Dufferin visiting the Falls, and at his instigation a parks commission set up on both sides of the border. The many commercial enterprises which had sprung up to rob the tourists were expelled from the area and the commission. given authority over 154 acres. The commission found that they had to find a more lucrative source of revenue and decided to sell power to balance the budget.

An American company tried as early as 1853 to develop the Falls, and after spending a million dollars, went broke. They sold out to Jacob Schollkoff for $76,000 in 1877. In 1881 the first generator of 50,000 h.p. was ready for use. Transmission was the problem, as there was no knowledge of high voltage transmission at that time. By 1896 Buffalo was lit from this plant and Syracuse by 1905. Ferranti discovered high voltage transmission in England in 1889. In the same year, American capitalists applied to the Parks Commission for right to generate power on the Canadian side. Later it was taken up and 50,000 h.p. were ready by 1904. The Ontario Power Company planned a 180,000 h.p. development below the falls. By 1914 fourteen generators were served by pipe line from a mile above the crest.

A third company, sponsored by a group of Toronto financiers, named the Electrical Development Co., was formed and had 50,000 h.p. ready for Toronto in 1907.

The Cataract Power Co., as early as 1897 developed 3,000 h.p. at Decue's Falls and acquired control of all they could lay hands on in Western Ontario.

The result was that these four companies had a monopoly and prices were high. Service was fed only into the large centres. Much coal was used in generating power, but the coal strike in 1902 made this all too costly. There was no competition in given areas, electric being a monopoly. Agitation for the government to build and operate transmission lines grew, and in Feb. 1903; a resolution was passed at Berlin asking government to do this. The Ross government was favorable but was defeated at the polls.

Adam Beck, Mayor of London, Ont., was chief of the organizers seeking government sponsorship of the project. J. P. Whitney became premier and in 1905 an act was passed by legislature creating the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario. Engineers were engaged and Adam Beck became the first chairman and he served from 1906 to 1925, the first 12 years without pay.

The powers of the Commission were extended by various acts since that time. In 1½ years, 300 miles of line had been erected and in 1910 the first power was delivered to Berlin. In Feb. 1911, Toronto was reached and the total load of the city was about 3,300 h.p. In 1916 the Central Ontario system was purchased. This included the plants on the Trent.

The assets of the H.E.P.C. today are one billion 71 million dollars a year. Niagara had grown to produce 804,000 h.p. The employees of the Commission number about 25,000. The East Central region, of which this area is a part, includes about 750 employees, and has 5,600 miles of distribution and 2,000 miles of high tension lines. The primary peak load of the Commission is about 4,111,000 h.p.

Rotary President Frank DeCarrol thanked the speaker for a most informative address.

Women's Institute

MADOC W.I.

The Madoc Women's Institute met recently at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Nayler, Moira Lake, with a fair attendance of members and visitors. The ideal weather made it a pleasant meeting place.

One communication was received re the meeting with Eldorado and Bannockburn branches at Fox's Church on the afternoon of Oct. 2; the topic to be "Brighten Your Home With Color". The invitation was accepted.

The program consisted of contests and games in charge of Mrs. J. McGowan, also two humorous readings, "Ma's Tools" and "When Pa and Ma Get Sick".

Contests were: Guess the Ads, pictures of well-known ads; Drop the Peg Clothespins in Milk Bottle; Helpful Hints—beginning with the letters of Madoc W.I.; Who Am I?—name of famous lady pinned on back and had to ask questions to discover the name; Estimate Your Waist Measurement by Placing String on the Ground — everyone measured much smaller than what they thought.

A pot-luck supper was held at tables under the trees.

W.I. appreciation was tendered to Mrs. Nayler and Mrs. McGowan by Mrs. Kernohan.

WEDDINGS

HINZE—GOODFELLOW

Pink and white gladioli and fern formed a pretty background on Saturday, August 2nd, at 2:30 p.m., in Cannifton United Church, when Dorothea Jean Goodfellow, only daughter of Mrs. H. Goodfellow, Cannifton, and the late Harold Goodfellow, became the bride of Edmund Clifford Hinze, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hinze, of Maynooth Station, Ontario. The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. W. R. Merrick.

Miss Iva Horton, of Corbyville, provided the wedding music and the soloist, Miss Sharon Lucy, sang before the ceremony "I'll Walk Beside You", and Schubert's "Ave Maria" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Douglas Goodfellow, the bride was lovely in her gown of white slipper satin and Queen Elizabeth lace. It was styled with sweetheart neckline and gathers of satin, trimmed with lace. Tiers of lace formed the front panel of the full skirt with the bottom tier forming a lace edge around the hem. The sleeves tapered to points over the wrists. She wore her grandmother's single strand of pearls. The full-length bridal veil of sheer tulle with hand embroidered edge was held in place by a headdress of net and seed pearls, and she carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of deep pink Briarcliffe roses and stephanotis tied with white lacelon ribbon.

Miss Ileen Watson, of Belleville, was maid of honor, gowned in a yellow strapless nylon net over taffeta with midrift of satin and nylon net cape piped with satin. Her headdress and mitts were yellow. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of mauve gladioli.

The bridesmaids, Misses Gladys and Lois Hinze, sisters of the bridegroom, were gowned alike in brocaded taffeta strapless gowns with double net skirts and tiny brocaded taffeta jackets. They wore heart-shaped bonnets and mitts of net, and carried semi-cascade bouquets of gladioli. Miss Gladys Hinze in turquoise carried pink gladioli and Miss Lois Hinze, in mauve carried yellow gladioli.

Mr. Donald Goodfellow, brother of the bride, was groomsman, and Mr. John Hinze, brother of the bridegroom, of Maynooth Station, and Mr. Earle Lattone, Plainfield, were ushers.

The wedding reception was held at Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road, and later at the home of the bride's aunt, which was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers and wedding bells.

The bride's mother, gowned in blue crepe and lace, with navy accessories and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom' mother, gowned in navy sheer and wearing a corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

Following the reception the happy couple left on their honeymoon for a motor trip around Lake Ontario. For travelling, the bride chose a navy nylon dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of deep pink Sweetheart roses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Consecon, Manotick, Belleville, Bancroft, Maynooth, Melrose, Plainfield, Maple Leaf, Foxboro, and Campbellford.

BORLAND—VANDOME

Tall standards of white gladioli and ferns formed the setting for a pretty double-ring wedding ceremony which took place on Saturday, July 19, at one o'clock in Beulah United Church, Ivanhoe, when Gladys Deneyse Vandome, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Vandome, became the bride of William Keith Borland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Borland, of Peterborough. The Rev. Boyd Beckel officiated assisted by the Rev. Ben Morwood, of Mark Street United Church, Peterborough.

Mrs. Keith Bray rendered the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Marilyn Eggleton, who sang "Father Eternal" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her uncle Mr. Albert Seeley, of Rochester, N.Y., the bride was lovely in a gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon net over satin, featuring a molded bodice, high standup collar, lily-point sleeves, full skirt and train. Her fingertip veil of nylon net, edged with a scalloped border of Chantilly lace, fell from a headdress of Chantilly lace bordered with orange blossoms. She wore her mother's pearls.

Mrs. Wellington Borland, matron of honor, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Doug. Thompson, of Belleville, and Miss Norma Lockhart of Havelock, wore similar gowns of white nylon lace over taffeta, featuring strapless scalloped bodices, bouffant skirts and tiny fitted jackets. ruffled white headdresses and mittens and carried cascade bouquets of Talisman roses.

Misses Karen Bray and Joan Leslie were flower girls wearing similar gowns of cornflower blue net over taffeta with wide insets of white lace, headdresses of ruffled white lace and blue net, matching mittens and carried white baskets of pink and white sweetpeas and baby Sweetheart roses.

Masters Barry Bray and Billy Leslie, page boys, wore white with navy blazers and navy bow ties.

Mr. Wellington ("Wimpy") Borland, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman and Mr. Ron Wallace and Mr. Allan Bennett were ushers.

Following the ceremony a luncheon was served to seventy guests at Ivanhoe Town Hall, where the bride's grandmother, Mrs. William Seeley received, wearing a mauve suit dress with matching hat, grey accessories and mauve orchid corsage, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore pale blue sheer, white picture hat, white accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses, and Mrs. Albert Seeley in navy and white sheer, navy and white accessories and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

Following the reception, the happy couple left by motor for New York City, New England States and Rochester.

For travelling, the bride wore a pale blue gabardine suit and matching topcoat, white accessories and white gardenia corsage. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Borland will reside at Peterborough.

Out-of-town guests were present from Peterborough, Montreal, Toronto, Belleville, Rochester, Madoc and Stirling.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was honored by a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Doug. Thompson, Belleville, and a linen shower, arranged by Mrs. Wimpy Borland, Peterborough.

LATCHFORD—BRIGHT

The first wedding to be held in the Campbellford Free Methodist Church was solemnized on Saturday, August 16, at 2:30 p.m., when Joyce Ardyth Elsie Bright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Bright, was united in marriage to Percy Lenard Latchford, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Latchford, of Belleville. The Rev. D. White, of Clarendon, formerly of Campbellford, assisted by Rev. N. Bosko, of Campbellford, officiated at the ceremony.

In a pretty setting of multicolored gladioli and fern, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length gown of white slipper satin with net overskirt and a bodice of Chantilly lace and net with seed pearl trim. A crown of seeded pearls held her floor-length embroidered veil of English sheer. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Iona Bright and Miss Alma Latchford, youngest sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Florence Brown, a friend of the bride. The attendants wore ballerina-length dresses in pastel shades of blue, pink and yellow, with matching headdresses and carried bouquets of roses in contrasting colors.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother-in-law, Mr. Colin Grant and with Mr. Morley Bright and Mr. William Latchford ushering.

The wedding music was played by Miss Jean Rannie, who rendered "I Love You Truly", during the signing of the register. Misses Donna and Annie White sang, "A Wedding Prayer", at the beginning of the ceremony.

A reception was held at Kay's dining hall for 60 guests. The mother of the bride received, wearing a gown of white nylon with white and navy accessories and a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of navy crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Port Credit, Barrie, Lloydminster, Sask., Norwood, Hastings, Belleville, Trenton, Corbyville, Hornby, Jackson's Point, Clarendon and Frankford.

For their wedding trip the bride wore a pink figured nylon dress with navy accessories and a pink whipcord coat with a corsage of white gardenias. On their return they will reside in Warkworth.

Lashway Clan Enjoys Happy Reunion Picnic

Trudeau's Summer Resort, Tweed, was the setting for the reunion picnic of the Lashway clan on Sunday, when about 200 members met to renew friendship and to spend a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon, coming from Sudbury, Montreal, Oshawa, Peterborough, Eldorado, Marmora, Madoc, Actinolite, Belleville and Tweed. Reverend Dean Shannon acted as master of ceremonies, assisted by the Rev. J. J. Buckley.

The afternoon was spent in sports and various games, while the presentation of a prayerbook was made to Mrs. Catherine Lattone, oldest woman present, and one of rosary beads sent from Lourdes, France for the occasion, to Mr. Henry Lashway, Actinolite. Both Mrs. Lattone and Mr. Lashway are well past their four score years.

A most bounteous supper with generous servings of ice cream and soft drinks rounded out a red letter day for the Lashway clan.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her family calls—she goes; whose fault is it?

What is wrong when a young woman who has been married only two years continually leaves her husband and rushes a couple of thousand miles to answer calls made upon her by her parents.

Does the trouble lie with the girl's marriage, or inside her own personality, that she insists on putting apparently unwarranted demands of her family ahead of her husband?

Here is the story of one husband who has such a problem:

"Two years ago I married a girl and brought her across the country to live. I had known and been in love with this girl all my life.

"During the past year, my wife has gone back across the country three times to take care of her parents, who are growing old and sick. The first time she stayed about six weeks. The second time she was gone eight weeks, and now, the third time, it is 12 weeks since she left me and went back home. Her father had written her a letter telling her to come home and saying that was where she belonged, so she went. Her father is her boss.

"I don't mind doing my part and taking whatever is necessary, but my wife's brother and his wife have offered to move in with her parents and give them whatever help they need, so it seems to me as though it is simply a case of her father wanting his daughter with him with no consideration for me being left without a wife. My wife's parents are well fixed. They have a fine home and plenty of money. But they will not hire anyone to look after them, and they refuse to accept the offer of their son and his wife to take care of them, even though those two live in the same city with the parents.

"I am a home-loving man who works hard every day, even Saturday and Sunday if I can. Do you think it is fair that my wife should go back home, the way she has done, and stay there indefinitely, leaving me all alone?"

Is there an answer?

Obviously, the answer to this last question is No, but such an answer means exactly nothing. The really significant question that cries out for an answer is the one I have suggested at the beginning of this column: "Why does this wife do as she does?"

If one is to judge solely by what her husband says, one can only think that this girl has grown up so completely dominated by her parents that even now, as a married woman, she automatically does as she is told. If this is actually the case, and the root of the whole trouble, I'm afraid this husband has a hard problem on his hands, for it is one which cannot be solved without an overhauling of his wife's whole attitude.

To take the matter up from a wholly different angle, there is one sentence in this man's letter which makes me wonder if there may be any other reason for his wife's frequent return to her parents' home. He describes himself as a man who works hard everyday and who would even work Saturdays and Sundays if he could. Does this suggest that perhaps he may have been placing his work ahead of his wife and so has failed to fill his own proper role as a husband and companion to her? Possibly he was away from home at work so much of the time that she was often lonely. This, I think, is something for him to consider carefully.

Once he is able to decide which is the biggest factor in the case, he will know better how to proceed. If he has been at fault, let him write and tell his wife so honestly, and assure her that things will be different. If he is certain that the fault is on her side in allowing herself to be dominated by her parents, perhaps he might ask the brother to see if he can influence his sister and show her where her duty lies.

These suggestions are at least a start on attacking his problem. I should like to hear if he follows them out and, if so, what comes of it.

TRUMAN MAY TOUR WORLD

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman hopes to make a tour around the world after he leaves the White House but the idea is still in the discussion stage, associates said last night. Truman long has held the hope of visiting as a private citizen many of the far away places he has never seen.

A GARDEN MEAL—EPICURE'S DELIGHT (with cost account)

Fried Chicken Legs
Corn on the Cob
Tomatoes Stuffed with Cottage Cheese
Tossed August Salad
Thick Cantaloupe Rings with Blueberries and Honey
Ice Cream for the Adolescents
Coffee

NOTES

I served this meal to twelve people which included my brother's family and two boy friends attached to our daughters. It was served in our garden simply because we all enjoy eating out-of-doors. (The little matter of not having twelve people milling around in the house to clean up after we shan't discuss.)

The chicken legs cost $4.00 for twelve legs with thighs attached. These provided 2 medium-sized pieces for each guest. Two dozen ears of corn were $1.00. The basket of large tomatoes was 50 cents but I used only half of it, and the one pound cottage cheese was 30 cents. The salad consisted of two large heads lettuce, 4 small cucumbers, 2 green peppers, 1 bunch watercress, 1 large celery heart, about 1-2 cup each chopped parsley and chives, plus the mayonnaise and French dressing. I figured the lot cost 75 cents.

I used three large chilled canteloupes, each cut in 4 thick slices which were pared, and the centre was filled with blueberries (nearly 2 quarts) and these were drizzled with strained honey. When my beloved sister-in-law Wyn said "What shall we bring?" I didn't hesitate a minute in saying "Ice cream would be wonderful."—for I knew I would not have time to make a sponge or angel cake and we had four giant-size athletes in the crowd to fill up. The fruit cost $1.75 because I bought the canteloupes by the basket. The items I've listed add to about $7.00. Add the coffee, cream and butter and it is nearly $8.00. The ice cream my brother bought so you see that meal cost about 75 cents per person. You would pay $3.00 at least per person at a restaurant that would serve this quality of food—and not have the atmosphere and the fun.

DIRECTIONS:

FRIED CHICKEN LEGS

To flour 12 drumsticks and 12 thighs shake each piece in a strong paper bag containing 1 1-2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons salt and 1-2 teaspoon pepper and 1 teaspoon paprika. Have ready in a large frying pan 1 inch of hot fat. This may be made up of lard or shortening or chicken fat, but should contain 1-4 cup butter too. Heat to just below smoking point then fill the pan with one layer of floured chicken legs. The fat spattters so be sure to wear a coverall apron. Hover over the pan constantly turning the pieces of chicken as they brown on the bottom, and brown the other side. Lift pieces out onto plate as they are done to make room for more and continue until all of the pieces are browned. Pour off all but 1-8 or 1-4 inch of the fat. (Strain the surplus and store it for future chicken fryings.) Replace all chicken in pan, piling it snugly. or this large amount I used 2 frying pans, but changed over to a large shallow baking dish when I transferred them to oven. Bake in oven of 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 1-4 or 1 1-2 hours or until thighs are tender right to the bone. Chicken gravy was made from the fat and crispy bits in pan by adding 6 tablespoons flour and stirring them in, then adding 3 1-2 cups whole milk and stirring until thick. If you like mashed potatoes with your fried chicken, use the water in which potatoes were boiled in place of some of the milk.

Three Displaced Persons Make Fine Showing

TORONTO (CP)—Three students from displaced persons camps in Europe, unable to speak English three years ago, compiled fine records in upper-school examinations here.

Taisa Turkevich, 17, was born in Poland and left there four years ago, living in a displaced persons camp in Austria before coming to Canada. She could speak French, Polish, Ukrainian, Russian and German, but had to start learning English in an Edmonton public school, later studying higher grades.

After moving to Toronto Taisa went straight into grade 13 and she gained nine firsts in the nine departmental subjects she took in June. She plans to enter a chemistry course at the University of Toronto.

Maija Svanks, 18, was born in Latvia and with her family went to Germany when the Russians moved in. After five years in Germany she came to Toronto from a displaced persons camp in Oldenburg. By learning 100 words every day for a week, Maija taught herself basic English and went on from there.

The third student is George Anysas, 18, who also came from a displaced persons camp in Germany and started studying English three years ago. Like Taisa, he gained nine firsts. He would like to become an engineer.

GOOD MANNERS

Gifts from the guest. . . to show thanks to the hostess

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please help several of us who are going visiting, by suggesting some appropriate gifts to send to one's hostess with (or very soon after) one's bread-and-butter letter?—M. S.

The first, and the very best, suggestion is for the guest to keep his or her eyes widely and wisely open during the visit to "spot" something that will be particularly welcome to the hostess, or to her family. It may be a new bock mentioned as interesting them. It might be a photoview album or something similar, to held, each in its proper place, the family snapshots that may now be "loose". Or a generous-sized glass pitcher for iced tea or fruit drink; a thermos jug, with tray and glass, for a night-table. Card-and-score-pad equipment in a good-looking leather case, for whatever card game is the enthusiasm.

For a desk that seems to yearn for a 'library set,' a pair of scissors and paper cutter neatly and safely contained in a trim leather sheath. Informal living and informal entertaining today generally means that decorative place mats are delightfully welcome . . .and you can show your alert imagination by sending a set of these, perhaps with designs particularly appropriate to an interest or hobby of the family. Or two or four or more hostess trays, in one or different transparent colors. Also, for buffet service, indoors or out, there is a wide choice of vastly convenient items that would be "just right" for your hostess' service.

To show your hostess that you have the knack of sending gifts that have a "just-for-you" personality, a gift personalized with her or "their" initials of names is a fine idea. Perhaps a paper or plastic ensemble for parties; well-styled and charmingly designed paper napkins, of various convenient sizes, coasters or small plates, stirring rods for long drinks, match-books, and so forth, artistically packed in a be-ribboned container. Or a set of large supply of paper coasters; or personalized playing cards and pads, with name imprinted in silver or gilt; bridge ensemble; or plastic coasters, in one or a variety of transparent colors, light or dark shades. Or, selected for special uses you have observed while visiting, paper napkins in various sizes, initialed or be-named, plate mats, guest towels; and for picnic-enthusiasts, paper plates, cups, and so forth. Or perhaps a supply of various kinds of pencils, printed with the name. And, one of the most popular, and certainly one of the most decorative of paper gifts, the radiant "drum" of metallic match-books, in one glowing color or in assorted colors.

Some guests like to send the family a subscription to a magazine that may have been mentioned with interest in a conversation . . . a 12-time gift. And, as a personal gift to the hostess, there is the alluring world of baeuty-gifts. . . "tied with ribbons pink and sweetly scented", as the old song goes!

Of course what one takes to a visit, or sends afterward, depends on circumstances, and the ideas given above are of course only suggestions. For on over-night stay one might take a box of particularly delicious candy, or perhaps a small container or two of interesting hors d'oeuvres, or a decorative container of fruit slices of various kinds or some other item from a special-foods department.

BEAUTY

Arm yourself for the good looks battle

Take a survey of your arms, young lady. This is the season of their discontent. They may have had too much sunlight, may have been blistered red. They may look beach-worn, even rust if tan has gone patchy. They are busy freckle collectors if the skin is inclined to take on golden polka dots. It is high time for doing something about feminine fins because when they are out of form the topless formal doesn't look as purty as it should.

With the charming dry goods girls are wearing—evening skirts slinky and clinging, or bouncing out like the skirt of a ballerina—arms should be beautifully rounded, as smooth of surface as a gardenia petal. Some, your good looks reporter has observed, just do not qualify. Good reason why. They have no cosmetic attention. A girl seldom takes a look-see at her elbows. The arms go their own way and the going does not always add to exquisite appearance.

At this point you can call upon mama or sister

They should undergo a little beauty training so that the havoc of outdoor life in the summer season will not be in the public eye when winter comes.

Hand and arms treatments are given in beauty shops. There is nothing complicated about them; they can be done at home at practically no expense other than a little time. If you will indulge in a session of this kind you will be rewarded. It is surprising how quickly the flesh will respond to a little corrective care.

The program starts with a soapy scrubbing with a brush. The hands are included as it is a nice idea to follow the treatment with a hand massage and manicure. Use plenty of friction to remove dead skin scales that are always present. You'll get rid of freckles and tan more quickly if you use plenty of elbow grease.

Rinse and dry. Film the palms of your hands with lanoline which has a softening effect on the skin. Stroke up and down. Rub the lanoline into the flesh around your nails. Use plenty on your elbows. Make a bracelet of fingers and thumb, gup and down the arm with a crosswise motion. If your elbows look dingy you should rub them with a cut lemon before using the ointment.

Have a large, tin salt shaker filled with almond meal. Sprinkle the meal over the lanoline, forming a paste. At this point you call upon mama or sister to wring large turkish towels out of steaming hot water and wrap them around your arms. Then you lie down, close your eyes, relax for fifteen minutes, after which you remove the pack, give yourself a talcum dusting.

Canada's Home-Grown TV Makes Official Premiere In Toronto and Montreal

By JOHN PATERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's, $8,000,000 television youngster will make its official bow Sept. 6 in Toronto.

The parent CBC is proud, but uneasy about public reaction. Mavor Moore, chief producer at the Toronto outlet, CBLT, said in a radio talk previously:

"We're good and scared. We're only too well aware that when we go on the air, you people sitting out there are going to compare us with the best being produced from New York and Hollywood, where they've been at it for years."

The CBC has been training television staff since January. Key men have been studying operations in the United States and Europe for 8 months.

Private Stations Wait

For at least a year, possibly longer, CBFT in Montreal on channel 2 and CBLT on channel 9 will be the only television stations in Canada. An Ottawa outlet is due late in 1953.

Private stations will have to wait for television licences at least until the three CBC stations are operating.

One spokesman for private stations, Harry Sedgwick, president of station CFRB in Toronto, said: "Our guess' is that some private licences will be issued in about a year." CFRB first applied for a licence in 1938 and has repeated the application several times.

Montreal, with French- and English-language programs, and Toronto in English only will be television production centres for what is planned eventually as a nine-station CBC network. Besides Ottawa, other stations are planned for Vancouver, Winnipeg, Windsor, Hamilton, London and Quebec city. Halifax has also been mentioned as a possible station site.

At the outset Montreal and Toronto will have television programs running about three hours daily, mostly in the evenings, seven days a week. Both are expected to originate one or two hours of this daily time in their own studios, the remainder being made up of films and exchange shows on kinescope recordings.

Micro-Wave Links

Toronto expects to be linked soon with Buffalo by micro-wave, a new form of transmitting static-free electrical signals by radio, to permit broadcast of some U.S. network shows.

Montreal's 300-foot tower on Mount Royal is expected to have a coverage radius of 80 miles from Three Rivers on the east to Cornwall, Ont., on the west. The studios are in a downtown hotel, acquired and remodelled by the CBC.

Toronto, with a 500-foot tower, will cover a radius of around 65 miles, reaching Cobourg, Kitchener, Orillia and Buffalo in the various directions. Television studios are in a new five-storey building adjoining the CBC radio centre on towntown Jarvis Street.

There were 103,454 television sets in Canada in May. Of these, 96,414 or 95 per cent are in southern Ontario, including 41,525 or 40 per cent in the Toronto and Hamilton district. Windsor had 36,955 sets and the Niagara peninsula 17,934. Montreal had about 1,400 sets. The others are spread across Canada.

Private Radio Clamors

Private television interests are clamoring for a chance at what has been called "the most powerful engine of persuasion ever conceived."

D. Malcolm Neill of Fredericton, chairman of the board of directors of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, said the private broadcasting industry has been prepared for a long time to provide a Canadian television service coast to coast.

He said the government policy is "a slap in the face" to Canadians who have been forced to wait for Ottawa to give the green light necessary to enable this country to try to catch up with "other civilized countries."

Mr. Neill was commenting on a report to Parliament in July by Revenue Minister McCann. This report included a recommendation by the Massey Royal Commission on Arts, Letters and Sciences:

"That no private television broadcasting stations be licensed until the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has available nationl television programs and that all private stations be required to serve as outlets for national programs."

The government has lent $8,000,000 to the CBC for capital and initial program expenditures. The loan is at five per cent and the CBC hopes to repay it from licence fees—price not yet set, but $15 has been mentioned—and from commercial sponsorship of programs.

"Distinctively Canadian"

Regarding the type of programs planned, Stuart Griffiths, CBLT's program director, said in an interview:

"Under the terms of the Massey Report we are in business to bring television to Canada and to ensure it will be distinctively Canadian. U.S. networks will provide only a minority of our programs."

CBC shows will be available to advertisers at $1,600 an hour in Toronto and $500 in Montreal, plus talent fees in both cases. An eight-second "spot" costs, respectively, $120 and $37.50. Montreal will charge less because of its fewer sets.

Among private applicants for one of the 12 television channels made available under a complex allotment system worked out for the whole continent are: Famous Players Canadian Corporation and CKEY, both Toronto; CFCF and CKAC, Montreal; CKNW, New Westminster, B.C., and CHML, Hamilton.

Program schedules so far announced by the CBC include parts of National Hockey League games; football, wrestling, boxing and other sports; variety programs, panel shows, full-length dramas, children's programs and dramas, and educational programs in association with schools, univeristies and social service agencies.-

Police Probing Confusion In Death of Woitka

HAMILTON (CP)—Police today probed the confusion surrounding the death of Harry Woitka, 57, of Brantford, early Sunday. City pathologist Dr. W.J. Deadman yesterday revealed that Woitka died from a fractured skull.

Conflicting statements from participants and witnesses of events which culminated in Woitka's death are facing police with a difficult job of investigation.

One witness, John Stachursky, 29, told police he discovered Woitka dead in bed at the home of Mrs. Lena Lazar.

He, Mr. and Mrs. Woitka and Mrs. Lazar had spent the evening in a beverage room. The party returned to Mrs. Lazar's home around midnight and Woitka went to sleep in Mrs. Lazar's bedroom on the first floor.

Mrs. Woitka went to bed and Mrs. Lazar fell alseep on the couch, he explained. Later, he heard a noise from the bedroom and went to investigate.

He said he turned on the light and found Woitka lying face down on the bed with his shoes still on. On lifting one of Woitka's legs, Stachurski said, he noticed it was "very stiff" and said to Mrs. Woitka, "Harry's dead." Then, he said, he summoned police.

Police are investigating reports from several persons who said they witnessed Woitka fall in the street.

Fighters Struggle To Stop Inferno In Central B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—An ocean of flame washed over 40,000 to 60,000 acres of timberland in north-central British Columbia today as dog-tired firefighters struggled to stop the inferno.

They got no help from the sky. There has not been a heavy rainfall in the province for 27 days. Cooler weather helped the 100 men on the firelines to halt the huge Burns Lake fire on its west and south flanks yesterday but it was still eating east and north.

It was by far the biggest forest fire in B.C. in nearly a decade.

Altogether, 1,253 men are fighting 137 fires throughout the province. No communities are in immediate danger from any of the fires.

Manhunt Organized for Hurd Killer

The murder of Alex Hurd of Maxville, Ont., has started a Canada-wide manhunt. Hurd, garage, taxi and bus line owner, was found in the front seat of one of his taxis, killed by five bullets from a .22 calibre gun. Mrs. Hurd, left, says he always carried too much money with him and had, on the night he was killed, $600 just received from an insurance company in settlement on the death of a son in a highway accident last April. — Central Press Canadian.

Father 60, Son 30, Slain by Gunmen

DETROIT (CP) — Two trigger-happy gunmen killed a bar owner and his father early today in an attempted holdup in suburban Hazel Park.

Vidos Vinokurow, 60, and his son, Joseph, 30, were shot to death by two bandits who walked into Joseph's bar with drawn guns.

When the elder Vinokurow ran toward the holdup men three shots crumpled him to the floor. His son ran forward to help and a second barrage felled him.

Police Holding Two After Body Found on Road

NORTH BAY (CP)—Police are holding two men for questioning in connection with the pre-dawn shooting of Debbie Logan, 20, of Stonecliffe. Logan's body was found early today on a roadway in Deux Rivieres, 60 miles east of here.

He had been shot in the stomach.

Held are Paul Letour and Norman Pacquin of Montreal. Police are also holding a rifle they said they believe fired the bullets.

Police said Letour and the victim drove to Pacquin's house in North Rfrew township "to see friends."

A scuffle developed when they were refused admittance.

Letour told police he drove Logan back to a hotel at Deux Rivieres. Police quoted Letour as saying he opened the car door to let Logan out and the man fell to the ground.

Letour then realized Logan had been shot and he became frightened and fled, police said.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was watching pop blowing smoke from behind the sports page, and she said, William, I was reeding the most irritating magazine article. It was called The Nagging Sex. Of course it was written by a man, and of course it referred to women, she said.

Naturelly, pop said, and ma said, What do you meen by naturelly? Do you meen that all women are naggers? she said, and pop said, Of course they are, or they wouldn't be women, just as all men are playboys or they wouldn't be men. I dont meen that all women nag all the time. Only 60 per cent of them nag constantly, and the other 40 per cent stop to breethe, he said.

Now William, are you saying that I nag? ma said, and pop said, If you didn't you wouldn't be a woman, and if that were the case it would of made a serious and incurable difference in my life.

And he kept on reeding and smoking, and ma said, William, I wont listen to any sutch nonsense. I'm not a nagging person and you know it, she said, and pop said, My dear, you belong to the 40 per cent who dont nag all the time, in other werds to the aristocracy of naggers, and I'm proud of you.

William Potts, put down that paper, I want to ask you a question, ma said, and pop said, On the same subject?

Yes, the same subject ma said. Do you seriously consider me as a nagger? she said, and pop said, As a matter of fact, my dear, you have a stile all your own that bears no relation to nagging considered purely as nagging, and I want to be the ferst to congratulate you.

And he got behind his paper again, and ma said, Now I suppose you'll say I nagged you into saying that.

My dear, I wont say a werd, pop said.

Which he didn't.

Absolved of Blame

OTTAWA (CP)—Army headquarters said yesterday it has concurred in a court of inquiry decision clearing Maj. Guy d'Artois of all blame in the July 1 shooting of one of his men in Korea.

The court found that the 36-year-old Montreal officer was acting in line of duty when he shot and killed Pte. J. E. H. Sanscartier of Cantley, Que., while the latter was threatening his comrades and shooting a rifle in their direction.

Northern Electric Cops AA Title In Fifth Game, With 9-4 Win

By JACK BRETT

Northern Electric, after winning two straight in the playdowns from Belleville Motor Car, and then losing two straight, came back last night to win the fifth and deciding game 9-4 in nine innings of regulation play. Last night's victory at the Alemite Field gives the Electrics the District "AA" championship and the right to meet Kingston for the zone championship.

It was a hard fought game from the start which featured in the sixth frame a beautiful double play by Belleville Motor Car as they strove to come from behind. In the play, Day was on third, Mulvihill on second, and Jones on first. A hard hit ball off the bat of DeRushie went zooming down the third base line. Semark picked it up and threw Day out at home plate. James threw back to Semark to catch Mulvihill as he came from second.

Cy Barriage, secretary of the Belleville and District Softball League presented the cup to Pete Jones, team captain of Northern Electric at the conclusion of the game.

The Motormen led off in the top of the first as Semark was walked. Two passed balls took him to third and he stole home for the first tally. Miller's bunt placed him on first. He took second on a passed ball and stole his way home for the second tally.

Mulvihill strolled for the Electrics in their half and scored off DeRushie's double. A fielder's error put Bone on third and scored DeRushie. Bunton was on on an error and Bone scored on the same error. York's double scored Bunton and Hatfield's double scored York for the fifth run to make it 5-2 for the Electrics.

Powers walked for the Motors in the second and scored on two hits. Reid was on on a single, gained second on a passed ball, third on Walsh's single, and scored on the catcher's error, for a 5-4 score.

There was no further scoring until the seventh frame. Bone singled, Bunton singled, advancing Bone to second. York doubled to score Bone and advance Bunton to third. Bunton tallied on a fly ball which moved York to third. Young's single scored York to make it 8-4 for the Electrics.

In the eighth, DeRushie gained third on an error to centre field and crossed the plate on the second baseman's error for the final score of 9-4.

Reid started for the losers to walk three, strike out two and allow 12 hits. Donnely replaced him on the mound in the seventh to walk none, strike out none and give one hit.

For the Eelectrics, Day started to walk three, strike out none and give up four hits. Holmes hurled the rest of the game to walk three, strike out seven and give up two hits.

Lineups:

Belleville Motors: Semark, 3b; Garvin, rf; Donnely, rf; Miller, ss; Cousins, cf; Burley, 2b, Powers, 1b; Reid, p; Donnely p; Walsh, lf; James, c; Tapp, c.

Northern Electric: Mulvihill, ss; Jones, 1b; DaRushie, lf; Bone, c; Bunton, cf; York, rf; Hatfield, 3b; Young, 2b; Day, p; Holmes, pitcher.

Breezes Carry Few Sneezes

HALIFAX (CP)—Nova Scotia's breezes carry few sneezes.

That's the word from Deputy Health Minister Dr. J. S. Robertson, in charge of the provincial government's two-year survey and control program, who says "the ragweed-hay fever situation in Nova Scotia is good."

The average air-index of ragweed pollen grains at seven pollen-count stations was .63. Anything less than a full point is considered excellent.

REVIVE CHARGES

MOSCOW (AP) — A member of Communist Czechoslovakia's Politburo, writing in the Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda, yesterday revived the Communist charge that United States aircraft were dropping potato bugs to damage Czech crops. The charge was first made several years ago, when several European communist countries claimed the U.S. was flooding them with Colorado beetles to destroy crops.

Says Philipino 'World's Greatest Tennis Player'

TORONTO (CP)—One of the world's top clay court players, tiny Felissimo Ampon of the Philippines, today meets Henri Rochon of Montreal, rated third in Canada, in the fourth round of the Canadian lawn tennis championships.

The stocky, 98-pound dynamo, now 31 and playing tournament tennis for the last 19 years, has been Philippine champion since 1939. He's seeded sixth among the entries from eight countries but, says Lorne Main of Vancouver, Canadian Davis Cupper, "pound for pound, Felissimo is undoubtedly the world's greatest tennis player."

The smiling Filipino, who stretches just four-foot-eleven from court to crown, breezed past Ed Alloo of New York City 6-1, 6-0 in yesterday's third round. He combines hard drives and soft chops in much the same type of play employed by Rochon to defeat Pete Stewart of Toronto 6-1, 6-3, yesterday.

Another match today sees Brendan Macken, Montreal star, pitted against Tony Vincent of Miami, Fla., defending Canadian Open singles champion.

Vincent set lanky Dick Gaines of Edgartown, Mass., down yesterday in a match which left the gallery gaping. In the second set the two went 18½ minutes before deciding one point and the ball cleared the net 666 times before the point was decided.

As expected, Dick Savitt, Orange, N.J., easily defeated Hugh Peacock, Toronto, in a second round match. He won 6-1, 6-0.

Macken ran into trouble with Mexico's Rodolfo May before defeating him 2-6, 6-4, 6-2. It was the only one of 16 matches in men's singles that went the full three sets.

Notes From Football Training Camps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pre-season football skirmishes between east and west are over.

The east lost—badly.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers swept through the eastern camps and scattered Ottawa Rough Riders, Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Toronto Argos in that order.

Montreal Alouettes high-tailed it out of Alberta last week-end after a double lashing from Edmonton Ekimos and Calgary Stampeders.

Hamilton and Toronto meet Sunday in an exhibition game in Buffalo prior to their Labor Day game. Argo coach Frank Clair is still on the hunt for a good tackle, but is satisfied with his backfield.

Tiger-Cats coach Carl Voyles will test three quarterbacks in Sunday's game—Bill Doherty, Pat Brady and Bill Mackrides. Still on the injured last are Hal Waggoner and Floyd Cooper.

Ottawa Rough Riders lost veteran inside Jack Morneau Monday after an infection broke out in a knee injured last year.

Winnipeg quarterbacks Indian Jack Jacobs and Joe Zaleski handled the Bombers' training program Monday night while coach Georgie Trafton scouted the Stamps-Als game in Calgary. Chopped after the Eastern tour were three imports—fullback Dave Bonnie, guard Vic Falls and end Joe Polce. A new face in the Bomber camp is tackle Ian McTavish, former Winnipeg junior and late of Calgary Stampeders.

Injuries have crippled Regina's Roughriders, including coach Glen Dobbs himself. The Dobber wore a cast to ease the strain of a pulled leg muscle during Saturday's intra-squad game at Saskatoon.

Jack Russell, the pass-catching end, is troubled by the cartilage in his injured knee. His bad leg now is 1½ inches shorter than the good one.

Calgary Stampeders' 30-11 victory over the Als raised the westerners' hopes that someone else will take over the lease on the W.I.F.U. basement they have held for two years. Their backfield has been given a shot in the arm with the addition of Negro import halfback Johnny Bright and Pete Thodos from Montreal.

Edmonton coach Frankie Filchock will miss the Esks' first two games with Regina and Winnipeg Saturday and Monday. He's laid up with a rib separation received in last Saturday's exhibition tilt. Edmontonians are crowing over the performance of Negro import Rollie Miles, a holdover, and import half Bobby Flippin.

He's Lucky To be Alive

CHICAGO (AP)—William Cox, an apprentice jockey, would be happy just to finish a race—let alone win one.

On Monday his mount, Clover Miss, dropped dead from a heart attack in the stretch at Washington Park.

Yesterday Cox was aboard Blue Bar and in the lead at the head of the stretch. Blue Bar suddenly bolted through the turf hedge and off the track. Cox was thrown but unhurt.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WHAT, AGAIN!

"What the blankety-blank blank was the idea of keeping Vern Goyer off the line-up last night, and why wasn't Don Semark in the outfield instead of both being bench-warmers" came the tornadic voice over the telephone yesterday morning. "Whatinell's going on in that dugout, or haven't you got any managerial or coaching brains on that squad?"

That was a good way to start off a day with the sleep cobwebs handing in clusters over both eyes and the cornflakes and boiled egg hardly settled down. That bozo must have stayed up all night in order to get in the first early-morning salvo.

The bloke apparently took too much Worcester sauce in his crack o' dawn tomato juice cocktail, or he had spiked it too generously with the juice of the juniper berry or whatever the ingredient is for a quick pick-up.

What he didn't know and what a lot of fans in the stands ditto was that Vern Goyer was not used Monday night because of a strained back muscle. He did consent to go in there in a pinch-hitter role in the eighth, but it would have been an effort for the big fella to "lay into one."

Don Semark was suffering with an injured hand while "Red" Carson viewed proceedings from the bench with a very sore arm., Jackie Wardhaugh who spent five days in hospital with an infected elbow has scarcely rounded into shape with the result Dickie Fitzpatrick was rushed into a third-base spot, and Dick is not accustomed to prancing around the hot corner. Second base is his forte, but he was the best material available for the job at the moment.

Coach Ralph McCabe, was of necessity, forced to juggle his line-up and in this jug-saw puzzle game of baseball, it is difficult at times to find the right pieces before you have tried several. Grandstand coaches are too prone to criticize at the slightest provocation. For instance, our pal of the early morning telephonic episode had absolutely nothing to say of the fine hurling job and all-round performance of Art Wright, or of the good effort of Billy Strahan who was stymied perhaps a little too often with bobbles afield. He did not mention the unerring accuracy of Paddy Gilmour's good right arm when he nipped a runner at the plate, nor of the five-hit barrage in the eighth when the Reds poured over seven runs to clinch the pastime.

The Redmen go to Peterborough tonight to tackle the league-leading Petes and on Monday next they clash with the Kingston Monarchs. They have a postponed game to play in Kingston and that winds up the schedule ball of yarn.

The COBL executive has announced that the league playoffs will consist of a three-of-five series between the second and third-place teams with the winners meeting the top slot squad in a four-of-seven series for the title and trophy. The dates for playoffs will be set and announced by the executive some time next week.

Speaking of the Peterborough tilt tonight in the Liftlock City, the Petes management are holding a give-away night that makes a major network jackpot gift look like a country rummage sale. Here's what is being given away on admission tickets. A television set, an outboard motor, mantel radio, picnic grill, sports shirts, nylon hose, theatre tickets and for the kiddies two bicycles, baseballs, gliders, 400 balloons, ice cream bars and others. Admission is a half-a-buck and you get a chance for these prizes with the ticket.

"UP, THE GLENS"

By the time this is being read the Glen Roy junior "A" softball squad should be teeing off against the Brockville Plymouths in the riverside city in the first game of their best-of-three first round OASA playdowns. The team left by bus at 1.00 today and were as confident a gang as has ever left the city in quest of a championship. The best wishes of city sportsdom goes with the gallant youngsters said by veteran softball observers to be one of the best-balanced junior crews to represent the city. More power to their elbows.

DIESELS CONFIDENT

The CNR Diesels who clash with their 1951 rivals the Kingston Alcans in the first round of the OASA intermediate "A" playdowns, are quietly confident they can take the measure of the squad which eliminated the Glen Roys last season, despite the fact that Pat Deasy, Alcans' "bolo" expert will be back on the mound. The teams meet at the CNR Recreation Field here next Saturday night in the first game of the best-of-three series.

Coach Jim Ethier said today that the current edition of the Diesels is a much better balanced squad than the Glens of a year ago, especially offensively. He believes that in Vern and Leo Goyer and Widge Adams, he has one of the hardest hitting outfields in the business. His pitching staff of Don Boyle, Al. Adams and Marty Halloran is well equipped to carry the hurling duties while Bill Corbett, Dick Fitzpatrick, Doug Sword and Jackie Wardhaugh, the inner gardeners and Glen Young, catcher, round out a squad Ethier believes, will give the best of the opposition plenty of trouble.

From here it doesn't look as though Jim has a weak spot on the team especially from a batting angle. It appears there is sufficient batting strength there to carry the squad through even if the flingers falter a bit. In any event, it is one of the strongest teams to repsesent the city in Intermediate circles since away back when, and should go places.

Stock car racing, the newest thrill that is creating a fever in sports circles in the United States and Canada hits Belleville tonight for the first time in history. Dick Burrows, Shannonville Speedway Parkland impressario in bringing a large class of stock car drivers to the Fair Grounds tonight for what should be a thrilling experience for city-dwellers and others who have yet to see this kind of sport. Burrows says he has the cream of the driver crop of this district ready and rarin' to go and the show tonight which, incidentally, is being held under the floodlights should make for first class entertainment. The first heat gets under way at 8.15.

Robin Notches 20th Victory As Phils Outslug Bucs 10-5; Giants Slice Brooklyn Lead

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Who is the best pitcher in baseball today?

The folks of Pottstown, Pa., point to their Bobby Shantz, the pint-sized southpaw of the Athletics. On the other hand, the citizens of Springfield, Ill., favor their Robin Roberts, pride of the Phillies.

At any rate, the Philadelphia clubs own the only 20-game winners in the major leagues today. Shantz was the first to reach the charmed circle, notching his 20th triumph Aug. 5. Roberts, who joined him yesterday, became the first National Leaguer to reach that total.

22 for Roberts

Roberts last night coasted to his 22nd complete game in 28 starts as the Phils outslugged Pittsburgh 10-5. The Pirates scored four times in the last two innings after the Phils had built up a 9-1 lead. It marked the third straight year that the 25-year-old righthander has reached the 20-win mark.

The Athletics didn't need the service of Shantz as they swept a double header from the lowly Detroit Tigers 4-3 and 6-5 to climb into a fifth-place tie with Chicago and advance within nine games of the pace-setting New York Yankees.

Although beaten 3-1 by the White Sox, the Yankees retained their two-game advantage over the runner-up Cleveland Indians who dropped a heart-breaking 6-5 decision to the Red Sox in Boston. Washington clung to fourth place, edging out St. Louis Browns 2-1.

The National League race tightened appreciably as Cincinnati Reds held the front-running Brooklyn Dodgers to a split in their doubleheader while New York Giants, St. Louis Cardinals and Phillies all won.

The Reds won their first game of the year from Brooklyn in Cincinnati as they snapped a 3-3 tie in the eighth inning to take a 5-3 nightcap win after the Brooks had won the opener 3-0. Ted Kluszewski's two-out triple with two runners on base provided the winning runs. Preacher Roe's five-hit pitching in the opener featured Brooklyn's ninth straight at Crosley Field.

Giants Win Two

The Leo Durocherless New York Giants sliced Brooklyn's lead to 6½ games, sweeping a pair from the Cubs in Chicago 5-0 and 3-1. Sal Maglie was razor-sharp again, twirling an eight-hit shutout in the opener as he went the distance for the first time since June 26. It was the fifth shutout and the second straight win for the 35-year-old veteran who was out for a month with an aching back. Bobby Thomson's two-run homer was the difference in the nightcap.

The third-place Cardinals moved to within 8½ games of the top, defeating Boston Braves 7-5 on the strength of two-run homers by rookie Vern Benson and Red Schoendienst.

Reds Squawk Over Olympics

MOSCOW (AP) — Vladimir Kazantzev, a Russian Olympic steeplechase runner, said yesterday United States pressure caused some referees to reduce performances of Soviet athletes in the last days of the recent Helsinki games.

Writing in Komsomol Pravda, the athlete said sportsmanship in general was "good," but added:

"Undoubtedly the worsening in quality of judging in last days was connected with the pressure of American businessmen on the sport. To satisfy them, some referees forgot the words of the Olympic oath and marked downwards performances of Soviet athletes."

Birds Peck Pair From Royals; Wings Drop Leafs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stormy Weatherly, 37-year-old Baltimore outfielder, is one of the International League's top candidates for the league's most-valuable-player award.

The former Cleveland Indian, New York Yankee and New York Giant tops the circuit in home runs.

Weatherly boosted his home-run output to 26 last night as the Orioles took a pair from the league-leading Montreal Royals, 5-4 and 4-1. Weatherly clouted a three-run homer in the final inning of the first game to feature a four-run rally. He homered again in the fifth of the second game to give the Orioles a 2-0 lead. Winning pitcher Bob Miller accounted for the final two runs with a homer in the eighth.

Still in Front

Despite the double setback the Royals remained 10 games in front of Syracuse Chiefs, who dropped a twin bill to Buffalo Bisons, 5-3 and 7-0.

Dick Marlowe, making his first start since his perfect game against Baltimore last Friday, went all the way in the opener for Buffalo. Bill Tuttle singled home the deciding runs in the ninth. Left-hander Al Yaylian blanked the Chiefs on five hits in the second.

Third-place Rochester Red Wings crept to within one-half game of the Chiefs by turning back Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2. Little Jackie Collum held the Leafs to four hits, including three in the eithth when they scored all their runs.

Veteran Herm Besse pitched Springfield Cubs to a 2-1 decision over Ottawa Athletics in the remaining game. The

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—A report has come from New England that this country's Davis Cup selectors, wounded at the criticism they received last year for relying on such veterans as Ted Schroeder and Vic Seixas, are thinking seriously of sending only Bob Perry, 19, and Tony Trabert, 22, to Australia next winter to challenge for the big cup.

It sounds fantastic but we've talked with a couple of other knowing tennis gents here and each said he wouldn't be surpised.

"You fellows have been raising so much fuss about our failure to give the kids a chance," one of them said. "Now let's see how you like it if we really start building from the bottom up. They'll never be a better opportunity than now, when the Aussies have Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor going for them."

We replied that, personally, they could let 'er rip, as we realized perhaps better than most that our older players hadn't a chance of bringing the trophy back to the United States.

Unless memory is faulty, Tony was the last American player to win two sets from Sedgman, a feat he accomplished in the nationals nearly a year ago at Forest Hills. This would indicate there is at least a faint possibility that he might sometime win three sets from the Aussie.

Best of the West

Perry is supposed to be the best of the west coast crop and a fine prospect for future greatness. Probably his best win up to now was scored over little Ken Rosewall, the 17-year-old Australian junior champ, in an early round of last week's Newport tournament. Later, though, he was whipped by Sgt. Bernard Bartzen, a fellow member of the U.S. cup squad.

The Cup selectors almost certainly will want to see how the lad conducts himself in the nationals later this month before making any final decision about letting him and Trabert do all the playing at Adelaide in December.

Our guess is that, in the end, too much pressure will be brought on the boys to permit them to play only the two youngsters. Vic Seixas, currently ranked No. 1, deserves another trip Down Under to defend his New South Wales title if nothing else.

The final factor is that the Aussies, who take the Davis Cup seriously, would without much doubt be offeneded if the U.S. nominated such a youngster as Perry strictly to give him the experience and with no real thought of winning.

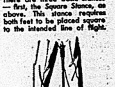
"COOL CONTROL"
THE STANCE

1-Square Stance
Balance and control are 'musts.' There are three basic stances — first, the Square Stance, as above. This stance requires both feet to be placed square to the intended line of flight.



2-Open Stance
All stances require the club to be soled directly back of the ball so that the bottom of the club sits evenly on the turf. If toe of club sticks up, you are too far away. If toe is down, you are too close. In Open Stance, left foot is drawn back from line of flight, and body is turned slightly toward left. Use when slice or fade is desired.

3-Closed Stance
Opposite from Open Stance. Draw right foot back from line of flight. Use when hook from right to left is required. Recommended for driving because of overspin imparted to ball when hit.

It's control that counts, in golf as in every sport — control which brings the balance, the comfort and the extra quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

This is one of a series designed to increase the pleasure of Canadians who participate in sports.

Coach Crowe in Not Crowing, Picks Tigers As Big Threat

This is the first of a series on pre-season prospects of teams in the I.R.F.U. Today's story is about Ottawa Rough Riders.

OTTAWA (CP) — Clem Crowe isn't crowing.

The Ottawa Rough Riders coach looks at some of the college "hopefuls" on his bench and remembers a Gain—big Bob Gain, the 235-pound Kentucky University middle, who thrilled Ottawa fans last year with his sparkling smash-throughs, making matchwork of enemy lines.

Gain has returned to the United States, called by the army draft, and Crowe, trying hard to muster a team which can defend the Grey Cup championship, misses him.

He'll Try Hard

Crowe, a clever football man right back from the days when he was one of Knute Rockne's famed "seven mules," has no rosy predictions about the Riders' chances of retaining the Dominion championship. But that doesn't mean he won't try hard.

Some of the old team stalwarts are here to aid him as the Riders prepare for the Big Four football opener in Montreal against the Alouettes Aug. 27.

Crowe is also looking for new material. He's got 34 men, including 10 imports, but is giving out no clues as to who will remain.

The Riders were licked 24-8 by Winnipeg Blue Bombers in an exhibition game, but Ottawa supporters claim that was no true indication of how the team will develop. Crowe himself picks Hamilton Tiger-Cats as the biggest Big Four threat, with Toronto next and Montreal in the last spot.

Good Men on Tap

Meanwhile, here's how the team shapes up. Tom O'Malley, who quarterbacked Riders' Grey Cup win over Saskatchewan Roughriders last November, will have the support of two American giants: Harry Ulinski, 245-pound, six-foot-four snap who was with Washington Redskins last year, and Lloyd McDermott, 250-pound University of Kentucky middle who played for two years with Chicago Cardinals.

Holdovers from last year's imports are Bill Stanton, outside; Alton Baldwin, pass-catching end, and lineman John Bovey. Howie Turner, Riders' star running half, and John Wagoner, All-Star lineman, are classed as Canadians this year.

Canadians back with the team are Bruce Cummings, kicking half; Don Loney, snap; Benny MacDonell, Buck Rogers, Matt Anthony and Pete Karpuk, the football daredevil who leaped from the bench last year and neatly tackled an opponent on the field.

Gino Marzanti, half, formerly with Crowe in Baltimore and a college star at Arkansas; Bill Chambers, six-foot-two middle with Montreal last season and former New York Yankee, and Choo-Choo Roberts, backfielder with Alouettes last season, are among other imports.

Also among the 34 men on the Rider bench are seven college youngsters, various district high-school hopefuls and a handful of second-string players from last year.

Manslaughter Charged

BRANTFORD (CP)—A manslaughter charge was laid yesterday against William Molson, Cainsville driver of a truck involved in a double fatality Saturday night east of Cainsville.

Molson was reported to be making a left turn to leave the highway when an Ohio car crashed into the truck.

Killed were Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Wagner, Clayton, Ohio. Their four children were injured and taken to hospital.

PRESS SEES RCAF SCHOOL

CHATHAM, N.B. (CP) — The R.C.A.F. yesterday unveiled to the press and radio its $50,000,000 air force finishing school here. Covering 1.25 acres, the station has one 7,500-foot runway, one of 5,600 feet and a third of 5,000 feet.

Finishes Last, Wins Boat Race

OTTAWA, Kas. (AP) — Byron Faden finished last in a motorboat race and won.

Faden, making his racing debut at the Eskridge aces, was revving up his engine a short distance behind the starting line when the others boats took off.

Faden went after them. He crossed the finish line last.

Later, however, officials announced the winning boat was Faden's. The other boats had jumped the gun and all were disqualified.

To win the race trophy, Faden had to compete in a second heat. Once again he wound up last—and won.

He heard his name called out as the winner because the first and second boats had taken off too quickly and were disqualified.

Sauer, Doby Lead Batting Races

NEW YORK (AP)—Hank Sauer of Chicago Cubs and Larry Doby of Cleveland Indians, who lead their respective leagues in both home runs and runs batted in, are making runaway races of the major league slugging derbies.

Slugging statistics compiled by The Associated Press today disclose that Sauer tops the National League with a .581 mark, 69 points better than his nearest competitor.

Sauer has amassed 251 total bases in 432 at bats and included among his 125 hits are 27 doubles, three triples and 31 home runs.

Figures include Monday's games.

Doby, the American League pace-setter with a .575 average, owns a 50-point bulge over his closest rival. He has collected 111 hits for 223 total bases in 388 trips. His hit total includes 18 doubles, eight triples and 26 homers.

Two Fatally Injured

WHEATLEY (CP)—A middle-aged Chicago couple suffered fatal inuries when a car ran off a highway and crashed into a tree about 13 miles east of here yesterday.

Killed in the crash was Mrs. caroline Strjeff, 50. Her husband, Emmanuel Strieff, 54, thought to be driving the car, died in an ambulance taking him to a Chatham hospita.

Police said the auto apparently spun out of control when a blowout collapsed a rear tire.

Eddie Shore Named Member AHL Executive

NEW YORK (CP)—Eddie Shore, the rough and tumble defenceman of the old Boston Bruins, gained new dignity yesterday with his appointment as executive vice-president of the American Hockey League.

Shore, president and general manager of the league's Syracuse club, was referred to as "Edward W. Shore, Sr.," by A.H.L. officials in announcing the appointment.

Shore will take over the duties formerly handled by Maurice Podoloff, who recently resigned as president of the circuit.

In a business meeting here, Emory D. Jones, president of the St. Louis entry, was named president of the league and John D. Chick of Windsor, Ont., was re-elected vice-president.

Both Shore and Jones will continue their positions with their respective clubs.

Filchock Makes Coaching Debut With Eskimos

EDMONTON (CP)—Frank Filchock makes his coaching debut in the Western Interprovincial Football Union Saturday, confident his Edmonton Eskimos will do him justice.

Flinging Frankie, last year understudy to Annis Stukus and quarterback who led the Esks to the W.I.F.U. final where they lost to Saskatchewan Roughriders, picks up where big Stuke left off—at Regina.

The 35-year-old ex-American import, who coached Hamilton Tigers to the Ontario Rugby Football Union title in 1948 and led Montreal Alouettes to the Grey Cup in 1949, picks Winnipeg Blue Bombers as the western team to beat. But he's not belittling his own Eskimos.

The Eskimo mentor, who came to Edmonton in 1951 from the Als, suffered a rib separation in an exhibition game Saturday, and won't see action in his first league trip.

Sport in Brief

SUDBURY (CP)—Pete Horeck, veteran forward with Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, is retiring from the game.

"The game has been good to me," he said last night "and I'd like to get out while I am on top."

Horeck, who now makes his home in Chicago, said he has not made any plans but is working on a business deal which he declined to discuss.

The right-winger on last year's last-place Hawks entered pro hockey with Cleveland Barons in 1942. He was drafted to Chicago in 1944 and was traded to Detroit for Adam Brown two seasons later. In 1949 he went to Boston and last season went back to Chicago.

Last season Horeck, a native of Massey, played 60 games, scoring nine goals and assisting in 11 others.

TORONTO (CP)—Some 40 swimmers are expected to compete in the Canadian National Exhibition's 10-mile marathon Friday. Hassan Abdel Rehim, one of four Egyptian swimmers expected to compete, is a doubtful starter. He picked up infection of the ears and throat during the week-end. All four have swum the English Channel and Rehim holds the record from France to England.

EDMONTON (CP) — R James Speers of Winnipeg, one of Canada's foremost thoroughbred breeders, has announced the sale of one of his star racing horses, Lord Strome, to Joe Tomlinson of Oakville, Ont.

The purchase price was not disclosed but it is understood to have hit five figures.

JASPER, Alta. (CP)—Marlene Stewart, 18-year-old golfing sensation from Fonthill and recent winner of the Canadian women's close championship at Edmonton, yesterday covered the championship Jasper Park course in a four-over-par 75. Miss Stewart, who played the 6,265-yard course for the first time, disregarded the women's tees and par 77. Driving from the men's tees, she broke par twice in the 18-hole round.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bing Crosby, a top golfer as well as a radio and movie singer, has entered the Canadian amateur championship. He wired his entry yesterday for the big event opening here next week. Seventy other top American golfers also will be here.

TORONTO (CP)—Dow Chemical of Midland, Mich., 1951 world soft ball champions, last night edged an all-star Ontario team 1-0 in Maple Leaf Stadium before 10,000 fans.

TORONTO (CP)—Winnie Roach Leuszler, only Canadian to swim the English Channel, has entered the Canadian National Exhibition world championship women's three-mile race scheduled for next Wednesday. The Toronto housewife, who swam the channel a year ago last Sunday, has never won a C.N.E. swim.

CINCINNATI (AP) — William Carpenter, 79, umpire-in-chief of the International League from 1929 to 1944, died yesterday.

SEATTLE (AP)—Canada yesterday won the draw to stage the next Americas Cup amateur golf matches in 1954. Colin Rankin, president of the Canadian Golf Association, who made the draw, said the matches, inaugurated this year among the United States, Canada and Mexico, will be held at a course to be decided upon in Ontario. They will precede the Canadian amateur championship.

London Majors Withdraw Injunction Will Meet Winner of Semi-Finals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The senior Intercounty Baseball League's playoffs were held as scheduled last night, despite a haze of confusing legal actions.

With London Majors withdrawing injunctions seeking to postpone the playoffs, Kitchener defeated Galt 14-7 in the opening game of their best-of-seven semi-final series and Guelph evened its series with Brantford at one game each with a 7-4 victory.

Majors in Playoff

London withdrew its injunction which hadn't been served in time to hold up the night's games, after the league executive agreed that the Majors meet the winner of the semi-final round.

London was granted the injunction to hold up the playoffs until Aug. 27 by Judge Eric Cross at Woodstock. On Aug. 27 an application would have been made before a higher court in Toronto for a permanent injunction.

The London team sought the action after the league declared pitcher Arnold Early ineligible and the five wins in which Early took part were thrown out, dropping the Majors out of the first division.

The injunction was served at Galt where the league executives met but will have no effect now that London has withdrawn the action.

The league directors agreed to admit London to a playoff spot after a long discussion to avoid costly litigation.

Sustain Majors' Stand

The league president said every point raised by the London club over the disqualification of Early had been examined and sustained. The charges against Early were laid by Waterloo.

Harry Fennell of Brantford said the meeting was not considering the moral issues but the legal one. He said he felt that out of the injunction might come much good and a rearranging of the league's constitution.

In the game at Brantford, Guelph's relief pitcher Lew Fauth and two-run homers by Pat Seerey and Bud Kimball gave the Maple Leafs the game.

Lockington's walk and Napier's single gave the Red Sox a first-inning lead but Kimball's homer put Guelph ahead. A walk to Frank Vacello followed by hits by Ed Boehm and Marty Philp brought in three more runs. In the fourth Brantford's McGrattoon scored on a wild pitch and Hodara and Leconte slid home on a hit by Nig Parker.

In the fifth the Leafs made it 6-4 on hits by Marv Rich and George Carruth. The Leafs added the final tally in the eighth.

Federis Wins 13th.

The Panthers, who finished the regular season at the top of the standing, started with pitcher Chuck Fedoris who won his 13th game of the season. He lasted until the seventh inning with the Panthers holding a 14-6 lead. Fedoris was touched for seven hits. Red Tallevi finished the game.

The game was on ice for the Panthers from the third inning when they exploded for eight runs with two out. The spree was sparked by a three-run triple by playing manager Don Gallinger.

Kitchener travels to Galt while Brantford meets the Leafs at Guelph.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Nothing came too easy for the masters who played in the Summer National bridge championships. It is not enough that players of this calibre must go the limit. They may have to go beyond.

How far to go beyond their safe limit was not always easy to decide. Not always is it apparent whether to double for penalty or take a sacrifice. It may hinge on something unseen.

A void in some suit may make a whale of a difference in the result. The side suit aces and kings may not take the tricks they were meant for. The power of big cards may dwindle to nothing.

♥9 8 7 5 3

WEST
♠K Q 10 6 5 4
♥J
♣A K Q 7 3

EAST
♠J 3 2
♦J 10 8 6 2
♣10 8 6

SOUTH
♥A K Q 4 2
♣J 9 5

South and north were vulnerable while east and west were not. Where a sacrifice loss is imminent, vulnerability has some bearing on the case. The non-vulnerable pair can afford to lose more tricks.

Of the 90 tables in play, most of the contracts were in spades at five; a few at six. These were shoved there by south and north heart bidders who went to five or more in competition.

In one case, east got stuck with a redoubled two diamond bid that went down 1000 for the biggest loss in the bunch. The several who were permitted to play in four or five hearts made it.

It is tough on a south-north pair when they reach a sure bid of five hearts and are not permitted to play it there. With two losers in clubs they would go down one at a small slam of six hearts.

On the other hand, if west and east are sure to make a bid of five spades, south or north should bid six hearts. Going down one would lose less, even if doubled, than five spades game is worth.

You might like to study this deal and decide how you would do. So, start the ball rolling and move around the table with the bids you would have used. I'll be back later with an opinion.

Martin, Lewis Starred as Zany Paratroopers in Music and Mayhem-packed movie Comedy

Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, America's favorite and funniest comedy team, make their latest and reportedly liveliest contribution to screen merriment in Hal Wallis' "Jumping Jacks", the Paramount picture scheduled to open today at the new Belle Theatre.

Having imperilled the efficiency of the Infantry in "At War With the Army" and having rocked Navy discipline in "Sailor Beware," Dean and Jerry now transfer their wonderful brand of mayhem to the paratroopers as two of the strangest sky soldiers that ever laced on a pair of jumping boots.

In addition to the hilarious nonsense aloft and on the ground, "Jumping Jacks" boasts a score of bouncy tunes by ace songwriters Mack David and Jerry Livingston. Among the hit-parade-bound ditties warmly worked over by Dean, shapely co-star Mona Freeman and a big male chorus, are "Keep a Little Dream Handy", "I can't resist a Boy in Uniform" and "I Know a Dream When I See One."

Director Norman Taurog, who staged such memorable comedy successes as "Huckleberry Finn" and "Bedtime Story", took the "Jumping Jacks" cast and crew to the famed Army Paratrooper Training Base at Fort Benning, Georgia, to shoot the hilarious action sequences.

Robert Strauss, who scored a comedy success in the hit Broadway production of "Stalag 17", and Don De Fore head the featured cast.

A funny Popeye color cartoon, the latest World Newsreel and a fast-paced Sportsfilm, precede the feature attraction.

Go to the Belle Theatre and have fun...for "Jumping Jacks" is one you must see.

"Rio Grande"

John Wayne, commanding a Union detachment battling Apaches along the Rio Grande, has sacrificed his marriage to military duty. His wife, Maureen O'Hara, has been estranged for many years, and he has lost contact with his son, Claude Jarman jr. Further, Wayne is hampered because the U.S. and Mexico have agreed their respective troops will not cross the border for any purpose—thus providing a convenient loophole for the marauding Apaches. Then by a fluke, Claude, who has enlisted, is assigned to his father's command. Maureen follows to demand he be discharged, but Claude and Wayne refuse. Wayne's troops conduct a successful though illegal across-the-border campaign against the Apaches, from which both father and son emerge as heroes and an allaround reconciliation is effected.

New Fire-Alarm System Working In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A new fire-alarm system which puts all fire stations on a single line within five seconds is in operation here.

The system, devised by telephone officials, is described as the first of its kind in Canada.

At a signal from one of two fire-department operators at the "nerve centre's" switchboard, all fire stations in Montreal come on the line. As each station answers the call, lights are flashed on the switchboard until all 46 stations are accounted for. Then the message is given.

REDS URGE ACTION

MADRAS, India (Reuters) — The Communist party yesterday urged the government to stop "all facilities" to Britain for recruiting Gurkha soldiers on Indian soil. Prime Minister Nehru told parliament recently that facilities to the British Army to use Indian Army depots near the Nepalese border to recruit Gurkha tribesmen were "a purely temporary maesure."

WINS NEW TRIAL

WASHINGTON —(AP) — A marine corporation won a new trial yesterday on charges he violated the law by painting lemons on his troublesome automobile. Farkas, who was convicted last week, will be retried Sept. 17. The new trial will allow argument on the validity of a regulation which prohibits decorating an automobile in such a way as to deride the manufacturer.

Hollywood (AP) — Back in 1945 Frank Ross first said he was going to produce "The Robe."

This week in another chat he said it is finally coming about.

"I can hardly believe it is coming true," he confided. "In fact, I still won't believe it until it's all done."

Ross has been awaiting production of "The Robe" for 10 years and has had many false alarms.

"I bought the story 10 years ago," he said. An agent friend of his, Dick Halliday, husband of Mary Martin, told him about an unfinished book he was handling by Lloyd Douglas about the man who crucified Christ.

"At that time, I didn't even know who Lloyd Douglas was. But the idea was so intriguing that I bought the novel when it was only half finished."

Thus began one of the longest production sagas in Hollywood history. Ross took the project to R.K.O. and worked on it for a few years, meanwhile making other films. Finally, Ross related, he never found out why, he and Howard Hughes ended up by suing each other for $1,000,000.

"But I realized I would be in court five years, even if I won. So we reached an agreement whereby I could take 'The Robe' to another studio. The deal was all set a couple of times, then the studios called it off and acted as though they didn't even know me."

After failing with Metro Goldwyn Mayer, Ross was talking to Universal International when he heard that Darryl Zanuck of 20th Century Fox had bought Hughes' interest in "The Robe." Ross flew to Paris and made a deal with the vacationing Zanuck.

The picture is now set to begin in the fall, and will be Fox's most expensive production. Cost is estimated at $3,500,000.

Capsule review: "Somebody Loves Me," a musical biography, tells the careers of Blossom Seeley and Benny Fields with no particular imagination. Half the film consists of musical numbers engagingly presented by Betty Hutton, and to a lesser degree, Ralph Meeker, a promising actor out of place in a musical. Principally for music fans.

AT THE CAPITOL—Ruth Roman, sensational new star, turns in a top performance as a marine salvage operator's wife who falls in love with his partner, in Warner Bros. outdoor drama "Mara Maru" showing Today and Thursday only at the Capitol Theatre for its first city showing. On the same program a Romantic Musical drama "Stand Up and Sing" with Constance Moore.

AT THE CAPITOL—Errol Flynn enacts the role of a Marine salvage operator in "Mara Maru", Warner Bros. action drama opening at the Capitol Theatre Tonight for its first Belleville showing. On the same program "Stand Up and Sing" with Constance Moore.

BERLIN (Reuters)—Seven children died from food poisoning and 270 are ill after eating bad sausages in East Berlin holiday camps Saturday, West Berlin papers report.

PAYS DEBT TO COUNTRY

CHICAGO (CP) — Alex Reveille came to the United States from Russia 35 years ago and often told friends of the debt he owed this country. He died last Friday, aged about 74. His will disclosed yesterday that he left $6,500 to the U.S. treasury.

AT THE McCARTHY—Mitzi Gaynor is one of the many island lovelies William Lundigan has to contend with in "Down Among The Sheltering Palms," Twentieth Century-Fox's lavish Technicolor musical opening Today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, AUG. 21, 1952.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Can obtain good results by real effort. Today's influences are generally positive, but will need ertreme care in following.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Avoid needless risk, getting into compromising position; don't overforce your hand. Lean toward a safe policy. Don't be over-sure!

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—On the very practical side, yet can also be most productive day. Heed sane tendencies, do not go head-long into anything without being well informed, aware of pitfalls.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—High quality performance needed to get some of day's good possibilities. Not necessary merely to force things; go along in calm, dignified way; you'll achieve goal.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Prime your work with wise study first, know what you want, what you can handle. Have system! centre upon reasonable wants.

August 23 to September 2c (Virgo)—You natives inherently lean toward quality rather than quantity, as it should be. Hold up your end; deficiency in vital issues can discredit good.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Be in harmony with those around you, don't argue or quickly criticize. You then get more out of life including holding friends; you will bridge rough spots better.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Influences say to be wisely on guard all the time for possible slip-ups, misunderstandings that could be troublesome. News may tend to confuse, but don't fret.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Vigorous activities, keen thinking will best weather this likely dull, perhaps mixed day. Pitch your effort on afe side; do what you do well.

December 23 to January 21 Capricorn)—General business, rofessional and personal affairs eed close attention. Look to the ght and left before acting. Don't o into risky deals.

January 22 to February 20 Aquarius) — Fortunate rays. pen up your bag of tricks and nproved ideas; push them sensibly for good gains possible. rsonal affairs can be much what you make them: take course firmly.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Not all stimulating day. Intricate matters may confuse; don't let this stymie effort. Heart interests rate.

YOU BORN TODAY: generally can do wonde[illegible]when you want to accomplish [illegible]h or quickly. Spare yourse[illegible]haustion from over-doing. Fine outlook; properly manage your affairs and hold patience as a virtue. Birthdate: Samuel S. Paquin, editor; Frank A. Munsey, merchant, publisher.

LOGY, LISTLESS, OUT OF LOVE WITH LIFE?

Wouldn't you like to jump out of bed feeling fine?

Not up to par? . . . you may suffer from an upset system. If you are constipated your food may not digest freely—gas may bloat up your stomach . . . all the fun and sparkle goes out of life. That's when you need Carter's Little Liver Pills. These mild vegetable pills bring you quick relief from constipation and so help promote the flow of digestive juices. Soon you'll feel that happy days are here again thanks to Carter's! Why stay sunk? Get Carter's Little Liver Pills. Always have them on hand. Only [illegible] from any druggist.

STIRLING

STIRLING — Mr. James Thompson, principal of Sioux Lookout high school, who has been marking departmental examination papers in Toronto for several weeks, spent several weekends with his mother, Mrs. Jean Thompson.

Mrs. Blanche Rowe of Brantford, was a recent guest of Mrs. Janet Utman.

Miss Mamie Duff of Toronto was a weekend guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Spry.

Miss Evelyn Cooke spent a week's holiday in Buffalo with her cousins.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Eggleton have returned home after enjoying a motor trip to the United States of America.

Mr. and Mrs. John Svaboda of Penetanguishene spent last week with Mrs. Russell Stapley.

Mrs. A. E. Good was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Montgomery, Smith Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fanning of Ajax, spent Sunday with the former's mother, Mrs. A. Fanning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Thompson of Ottawa spent the weekend in Stirling visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold West and Jane, and Mr. and Mrs. John Svaboda, Eddie and John Lewis, spent a few days at Salmon Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowan and son, Ivan, of Peterborough, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. V. Walker.

Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Anderson of Barriefield, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Noble, at their cottage, Oak Lake.

Mrs. Hector Eggleton and Jean spent a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. Lawrence Murphy, at Trenton.

Mr. Pierre Barthe, of Foix, France, has arrived to spent three months with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Villetorte.

John Smith has joined the Royal Canadian Army and is stationed at Cornwallis, Nova Scotia, for his initial training.

Why We Say--

. . . flat area

Military action can be called a campaign for a very odd reason. In Rome the flat land southeast of the Tiber River was named campania because this means a flat area. When Italian armies took over this land many years later, they used it as a training spot and thus picked up the name in connection with military affairs.

The Hastings County Chapter of the Royal Black Knights of Ireland, paraded to the St. Andrew's United Church for service at 11 a.m., Sunday, August 17.

Dr. Frank M. Armour, B.D.S., (N.Z.) D.D.D., is giving up his practise and leaving Marmora at the end of this month.

Mr. W. B. Wilde has moved into the store just north of Jones and Potts Hardware. He will carry on his shoe repairing business and increase his stock of boots and shoes. His office for the issue of motor vehicle licences will also be in the same building.

Presentation

On Friday evening, the Deloro Group of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild gathered at the home of Mrs. M. J. Corrigan to honor Mrs. H. L. Easton, who leaves shortly to reside in Winnipeg. On behalf of the members, Mrs. Whittemore presented Mrs. Easton with a hammered aluminum tray. A pleasant evening was spent and dainty refreshments were served.

Mr. G. J. Meiklejohn, of Rawdon township, has purchased a plot of ground on No. 7 Highway a short distance east of Wes Sweets new service station, from C. Roger Young, real estate broker. Mr. Meiklejohn will erect a fine modern motel.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Wheeler, Jr., and daughter, Karyl, of Westfield, New Jersey, visited Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Shook and family for ten days. Mrs. Wheeler is a sister of Mrs. Shook.

Bowling Tournament

On Tuesday evening 16 bowlers from Madoc Bowling Club visited Deloro Bowling Club, for a tournament. Games of six ends each were played, four rinks being at play at one time and each team played three games, their opponents being changed each time.

Deloro won the majority of the games but there was some keen competition and a lot of good sport.

At the close of play refreshments were served. Mr. Rankin for the Madoc players expressed their enjoyment of the visit and invited Deloro to visit Madoc next Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hickey have announced the marriage of their elder daughter, Mae Isobel, Reg.N., to Thomas H. Lewis, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lewis, formerly of Oshawa. The marriage took place in Detroit, on Saturday, August 2nd, 1952.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Ellis, Joy and Marty, of Port Huron, Mich., spent the weekend with relatives at Vansickle.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ellis and daughter, Beverley, of Buffalo, N.Y., are spending a week's holidays at their cottage at Vansickle.

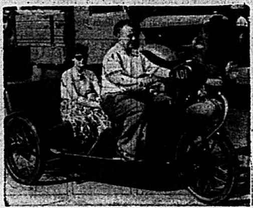
Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ellis, of Peterborough, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ellis.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bowen, of Belleville, and Miss Marion McCoy, of Bonarlaw, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Bowen.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Warren and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Flintoff, of Oshawa, visited friends at Vansickle on Sunday.

Mr. Bertram Lonsbury, formerly of Deseronto, has been appointed constable of Marmora Village in place of Melville Dunbar, who resigned after less than a week's service. Mr. Lonsbury assumes his new duties on Friday, August 15.

Engine Replaces Coolies for Rickshas



The modern ricksha depends on gasoline instead of coolies for motor power. This one is being tested on a Berlin street before shipment to Siam where thousands have been ordered. — Central Press Canadian.

WILL BE SENT HOME

MELBOURNE (Rueters)—Japanese war criminals on Manus Island north of New Guinea, will soon be sent home the Melbourne Argus reported yesterday. The Japanese were convicted of crimes against Australian servicemen, and are serving sentences of from five years to life imprisonment.

HOME BURNS DOWN

LOMITA, Calif. (AP) — Fireman Alfred Trefethern and his wife, Joan, spent 18 months and $8,000 building their own home. A few days ago they moved in. Yesterday while Trefethern was on duty an alarm came in from his neighborhood. He saw his own house burn to the ground.

Underneath The Bough

By Edna G. Robins

Louise Weston and Aunt Ella had the sunny dining room to themselves. Harry had gone to his business, Ted to school. In the kitchen faint tinkling sounds reported that Eleanor was washing the dishes.

Aunt Ella dawdled over her toast and marmalade, grateful for a leisurely breakfast. Her unexpected arrival had been a godsend to Louise, grieving quite sincerely at Vincent's' departure for Paris.

It had been so hard to sink back into the seemingly futile round of housework from which he had lifted her. Her trips around the city with Vincent had shown her so vividly what she had missed. When Aunt Ella had "dropped in for a little visit" on the very day that Vincent was sailing, her welcome had been most cordial and sincere.

"Louise dear, I thought at first you were all wrong," said Aunt Ella growing confidential in the atmosphere of peace and cheerfulness that pervaded the attractive room. "I used to think you were 'soft'. I was afraid your marriage had destroyed your sense of values. But after I saw your children, I realize that you knew best. Of course, I, too, was building for the future, so we were really working for the same ends in a different way. And perhaps you were wiser than I and chose the better."

"Oh, Aunt Ella," Louise gasped in her surprise. "I don't think so at all, 'I think you've been wonderful. And it must be such a satisfaction to you to feel your life has been so worth while. I feel there's a real grandeur about the way you and some of the others have given your lives for "Humph!" said Aunt Ella, the cause." amused by her niece's tardy enthusiasm. "But now, you see, my work is about done and what is left to me? You at least have your family and will always have an interest in life."

"Of course that's true, Aunt Ella, but it's hard to know how far you should go in suppressing yourself and in losing yourself in other people's lives. I sometimes feel I've never really lived at all. I've had to give up what meant so much to me—my art work—I've had to devote all my energies to making life smooth and comfortable for others. I begin to think that it was very wrong. The children of course had to be looked after, and I don't begrudge them a minute that I gave them. But I wonder sometimes if I really had the right to bury my own life, my own talents, so completely. Was it fair to Harry? If I had made a fuss at the beginning I think he might have given me more consideration. But I was afraid—afraid to spoil my home."

Aunt Ella stirred her coffee absently as she looked thoughtfully around the room.

"But, at least, Louise, you've been comfortable. Things have gone smoothly for you, haven't they? It's so peaceful here and it seems marvelous to me—just to escape the constant turmoil and friction—".

"Oh, friction!" Louise frowned but resisted the impulse to be impatient. "Of course, I try to avoid that."

Aunt Ella was interested but not entirely convinced that Louise had any real reason for unhappiness or restlessness. She carried the discussion no further, however, but maintained a close survey of the entire household.

Aunt Ella at first taking Louise little services as a matter of course, began to wonder how her niece could be so unfailingly calm and cheerful. She felt a gradual irritation rising within her at Harry's complacent acceptance of his wife's devotion. It never seemed to occur to him that Louise needed anything more out of life than to care for her home and family. The more she thought of Louise, hopelessly imprisoned in domestic chains, the more angry Aunt Ella became.

"That's the sort of thing we've been fighting for," Aunt Ella told herself crossly. "To free women from slavery. But a woman's status in her own home depends so much on her personal relationship to her husband — and upon her own character. I wonder if financial independence would make a difference in every case."

For a couple of weeks Aunt Ella enjoyed resting, dawdling in the morning, taking leisurely walks in the afternoon. Then she suddenly tired of it.

"Louise, isn't there something I can do around the house?' she asked abruptly at breakfast one day.

But there wasn't much that Louise could suggest to calm her aunt's growing restlessness.

"How can you stand it, Louise" Aunt Ella exclaimed "to do the same things over and over? It's so monotonous. I begin to feel stifled just watching you."

Louise smiled.

"That's' just what I had to make up my mind to. It wouldn't seem to an outsider that I had made any sacrifices. But it's the monotony and the mental stagnation that gets on my nerves."

A telegram arrived for Aunt Ella one morning and urgent letters from some of her co-workers. She was manifestly relieved and pleased to be sent for.

"Louise dear, I'm going west!" she cried excitedly. "After all, it's better to be free and lonely, than penned up even in luxury. I feel like an old war-horse sniffing the smoke of battle. I'm starting off tomorrow. You've been a dear, Louise. If you ever get a chance to spread your wings, don't refuse to do so from a msiplaced sense of duty."

And Aunt Ella was on her way.

37-Man Crew Of U.S. Freighter Hauled From Sea

Boat Rammed, Split in Two By Norwegian Tanker, Sinks

DOVER (AP)—Two British lifeboats early today hauled the 37-man crew of the American freighter Western Farmer from the gale-swept English channel after the ship, rammed by a Norwegian tanker, split in halves and sank.

The lifeboats landed Capt. Gunnar Utvik of Galveston, Tex., and the rest of his crew at this famous old port of southeast England and at nearby Ramsgate.

The 11,732-ton tanker Bjorgholm, out of Oslo, came through without serious damage. She stood by until the rescue boats picked up the crew of the 7,239-ton Western Farmer.

The collision occurred late last night in a wind-driven rain near the Goodwin Sands, the "channel graveyard" eight miles off the southeast coast of England.

The tanker's bow, one survivor related, smashed into the freighter amidships—"right into the radio room." The crash put the U.S. ship's engines and radio out of action, but emergency signals from the tanker brought rescue craft.

As searchlights from the rescue ships played over the wallowing wreck, the forward part of the stricken ship broke away and the crew abandoned her.

"The forward half sank almost immediately, but as we left, the after part was still afloat but sinking slowly," said First Engineer Dulcilio Santiago of Brooklyn, N.Y.

At another point off Britain's east coast a British crew was less fortunate. A small trawler, the 260-ton Magnolia, blew up and sank in seven seconds. Three of the crew were killed; eight were rescued.

Black Market Ring Broken Up by Police

TOKYO (AP)—United States military authorities and Japanese police today said they have arrested some American servicemen and 73 Japanese, Chinese and Korean nationals in connection with what they called a $3,000,000-a-year black market ring that feeds dollars to Communists.

Maj. Jack Elliott, judge-advocate for the Far East air forces, said the ring operates in this manner:

Military payment certificates, used in lieu of money by U. S. forces, is spent illegally by servicemen, who are not supposed to use it in dealings with Japanese. The certificates reach money dealers, who then pay other servicemen to exchange them for dollar drafts or money orders.

The money orders and drafts are turning up in Hong Kong, off the Red China mainland, Elliott said, and "it's a conclusion anybody can make that the dollars are going to the Communists."

Catholic Priest Appears on Charge Of Intimidating

VAL D'OR, Que. (CP)—Rev. Georges Beland, Roman Catholic priest from the tiny lumbering community of Val Senneville, appeared before Magistrate Felix Allard yesterday on charge of intimidating a preacher of the Jehovah's Witness sect.

Max Danyleyko, 23, Val d'Or, who described himself as "a minister, missionary and evangelist," told the court he had been threatened and abused May 22 last in Val Senneville, 10 miles from this northwestern Quebec mining centre.

Danyleyko said he had been from house to house in the settlement when he was accosted by Father Beland who, he said, ordered him away, took him by the shoulder and threatened that if he did not leave "I will have you killed by the mob."

Danyleyko described the mob as a group of people who had just come out of the Roman Catholic church and were standing nearby.

The witness said he had been accompanied by Mrs. Gisele Dupont of Val d'Or on his mission to Val Senneville and that they had been compelled to leave under the threats of Father Beland.

Says Priest Menacing

Danyleyko quoted Father Beland as saying: "If you don't go, I'll get my parishioners and we'll take you out of here, put you out or chase you out."

The preacher said he had been forced to accompany Father Beland to the presbytery where "I asked him for the credentials which gave him the authority to act in this way.

"He then pulled out a pair of handcuffs, held them up to me and said: 'I am the police here. This is my authority.' "

Told that legal action would be taken against him, Father Beland was quoted by Danyleyko as saying: "I am not afraid of legal action nor of the law."

Proceedings are continuing.

WOLVES KILL CHILDREN

LUCKNOW, India (Reuters)—Wolves and hyenas driven into populated regions by shortages of food in the forests are preying on children in this area of north India. Lastest victim was a 10-year-old girl partly eaten by a hyena or wolf which dragged her from her bed at night.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: A few light showers occurred over Wednesday night through southern and central Ontario but in general only very light falls were recorded. With cooler and drier air moving over the province from the northwest, skies will clear this evening and prospects for a pleasant late summer day on Friday appear very good.

Police Probe Dynamiting Of Cleric's Car

QUEBEC (CP)—Provincial police said today they are investigating an explosion which occurred Sunday when Rev. Ulric Couture of St. Casimiar de Portneuf switched on the ignition of his automobile.

Father Couture escaped injury when the explosion wrecked the front part of his car causing damage estimated at $1,200.

Police said a stick of dynamite had been wired to the starter of the car by someone who had broken into the garage Saturday night.

Hotel Manager Arrested For Careless Driving

TORONTO (CP)—Police chased a speeding automobile at 90 miles an hour on the Queen Elizabeth Way, 10 miles west of here, early today and arrested Arthur Jex, 37, a Toronto hotel manager, on charges of speeding and dangerous and careless driving.

Shots fired by police in an attempt to halt the fleeing car aroused residents along the highway. Police headquarters was flooded with calls from citizens who feared a gun battle was in progress.

CLEVER STUDENT

DOCKING, England (CP)—German-born Hannelore Opper, 13, didn't know a word of English when she came with her parents to live here in February last year. Now she has won a special award for English at Docking high school.

Air Woman Driving an Ambulance Leaves Trail of Accidents in Trip

OTTAWA (CP)—An R C A F. air woman who made off with a service ambulance from Rockcliffe Air Station today was stopped by Quebec provincial police 15 miles west of Montreal after a mad, accident-dotted chase for 115 miles along the Ottawa-Montreal highway.

Police said the woman, stopped at the village of Strathmore, was taken to Montreal for questioning. R.C.A.F. authorities here declined to release the name of the woman.

She commandeered the blue-grey 1950-model ambulance from the R.C.A.F. station this morning and police all along the route to Montreal were advised.

At the village of Hawkesbury, 60 miles east of Ottawa, police Chief Henri Giroux tried to stop her but the ambulance sideswiped his car and slammed into two others and kept on going.

TLC EXECUTIVE WANTS BLACKLIST RULE RESTRICTED

Controversy May Lead To Vote in Convention

WINNIPEG (CP)—A controversy over the question of tagging employers as "unfair to labor" was to be renewed today at the annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

A vote was expected on the question of whether T.L.C. organizations should be allowed a free hand in putting employers regarded as against labor on the "unfair list."

The Congress spent much of its annual convention yesterday arguing the point. The T.L.C. executive itself wants the use of the blacklist weapon restricted, but spokesmen for several unions held there should not be these tie-downs.

Many Differences

At present, under an executive ruling of a few months ago, T.L.C. labor cannot blacklist an employer if he has a contract with some employees in a Congress affiliate. The debate produced sharp differences on the worth of this stand.

The Congress also heard reports yesterday from spokesmen for its affiliates in the United States and the United Kingdom, the American Federation of Labor and the Trades Union Congress.

John J. Hauck of Philadelphia, fraternal delegate from the A.F.L., described the Taft-Hartley labor law of the U.S. as a "legislative time bomb" and said management would use it as a weapon in hard times.

Frederick S. Kelland of London, representing the T.U.C., predicted the defeat of the British Conservative government in the next election. He also said the rift in the British labor party is not as wide as it seems abroad and forecast that Clement Attlee's supporters will carry the day over those of Aneurin Bevan in the September annual session of the party.

Retain Strike Weapon

A declaration that Canadian labor will not give up its right to strike came yesterday from Percy Bengough, president of the 502,000-member T.L.C.

He was commenting on a suggestion by Labor Minister Gregg, in a speech to the Congress the day before, that labor should go easy on strikes while the democracies are in the arms-production race.

Mr. Bengough said labor has certain rights and will continue to use them. The convention took no special action on the point but apparently gave tacit assent to Mr. Bengough's statement.

Two Men Steal $5,000 in Cash

ST. MARTINE, Que. (CP)—Two men held up a branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale here today and escaped with an estimated $5,000 in cash.

Police said the two made no attempt at disguise and forced the manager to package the bills.

Floating Seaweed Blocks Harbor

BROCKVILLE (CP) —A mass of floating seaweed drifted into the shoreline west of town and is now blocking the entire frontage of the bay. Two other such "islands," one west and one east of Brockville have already been removed.

Stalinist Dictatorship Makes It Crystal Clear That Kremlin Intends to Exercise Full Control

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Stalinist dictatorship has made it crystal clear to the people of the Soviet Union that the Kremlin, through its rule over the Communist party intends to exercise complete and ruthless control over every nook and cranny of Soviet life. It indicates that opposition has been stamped out and expresses an implied threat against any possible new opposition.

An announcement yesterday that an all-union congress of the Communist party will be convened Oct. 5 is the most important political event inside the U.S.S.R. since the war. Long awaited, the announcement indicates a down-the-line strengthening of the dictatorship from top to bottom, possibly with a Third World War in mind.

Army, Navy Warned

The army and navy are distinctly warned that they are under the control of the Communist party. So are all organs of government.

New statutes of the party published yesterday—the congress will affix its rubber stamp in October—speak this warning:

"Extensive discussion, notably discussion on the all-union scale, of questions of party policy, must be organized in such a manner that it does not lead to attempts by an insignificant minority to impose its will on the party's majority, or to attempts at forming fractional groupings, destroying the unity of the party, to attempts at splitting which may shake the strength and stability of the socialist system."

At the same time the Kremlin made it plain, with the announcement, that the U.S.S.R. will put on all the steam at its command to reach economic equality with the west. By implication it informed its agents in the west through the announcement that steady infiltration and disorganization of western political groups must be stepped up through a form of the popular-front tactics, to maintain an effective fifth column abroad in a state of alert.

The announcement included a draft of new party statutes which leave no doubt as to the total control of the party from the top, and total control of the country's 200,000,000 people by the 6,000,000 members of the party.

Malenkov in Favor

There is little pretence at democracy. The intent is clear: The law must be laid down unmistakably. The man who will lay it down in the keynote speech is Georgi M. Malenkov, 50-year-old protege of Stalin who now seems more than ever in line for Stalin's dictatorial mantle.

There are ominous parallels between the new party announcement and the last call for an all-union congress in 1939. Then the U.S.S.R.'s propaganda was based on "peace" slogans, as it is today. Stalin forecast economic crises in the west and a struggle to divide the world into spheres of influence.

Red Factories, Stockpiles, Installations Left in Flames By Okinawa-Based Bombers

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Nations B-29 Superforts, B-26s and fighter bombers left Communist factories, stockpiles and troop installations in flames today in two massive raids over northwest Korea.

Thirty-eight Okinawa-based B-29s last night and early today hurled 350 tons of bombs on Pyongyank, the North Korean capital, after civilians were warned to get out. The air force said the big bombers rubbled 400 acres of troop, supply and industrial areas and left huge fires burning. All 38 planes returned safely, despite Red anti-aircraft fire and fighter opposition.

More than 100 B-26s and fighter bombers followed with a daylight bombing of a giant cement plant at Osu, about 50 miles south of Pyongyank. Returning pilots estimated they destroyed 63 buildings and damaged 29 others.

The Osu raid was the third big allied bombing of Communist targets in two days. The Air Force said 53 buildings were destroyed Wednesday in a 200-plane smash at the Red build-up area near Namyang, 25 miles northwest of Pyongyang.

Ground action was extremely light yesterday and early today. Only fighting reported was on the central front southeast of Kumson, where two enemy squads were repulsed in a 55-minute fight.

Chapleau Reports Drowning Of Three Men

CHAPLEAU (CP)—News of the deaths of three persons by drowning Aug. 14 reached here today. Drowned were Michael R. Donovan 64, his son Michael 6, and son-in-law Helaire Velec, 30, all of Chapleau.

The drownings took place at Pickerel Falls, near Robinson Lake about 20-miles north of here.

It is believed the party was attempting to navigate the rapids of Chapleau river when their canoe toppled over the falls.

Unable to leave the lake themselves, the other members of the family were brought here last night by American tourists.

The bodies of the elder Donovan and Velec have been located. Police are still dragging for the boy.

Storm Kills One

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP)—A wind and rain storm today swept the Missouri State Fair grounds, killing one person, injuring 12 and causing extensive damage.

High winds destroyed ferris wheels and other carnival rides and wrecked buildings. The storm came when the fair was not in operation.

Wins Tying Title

STRAFFORDVILLE (CP) — A pert, attractive 20-year-old housewife retained this district's tobacco tying championship last night.

In the record time of six minutes and 24 seconds Mrs. Gene Schmeltz of Hayham tied 14 "sticks" of at least 30 "hands" each to win out over six other contestants.

Squads of Police Continue Search For Murderer

HULL, Que. (CP)—Squads of police concentrated a search in the Gatineau area north of here yesterday after identification of a stranger in the district as Henri Seguin, wanted for questioning for murder.

Seguin is wanted in connection with the death of Leonard Z. Hurd of Maxville, Ont., shot to death in his taxi near Maxville Saturday night and robbed of more than $1,000.

Excitement ran high for a time when one squad returned to headquarters here with an unidentified man. But officers said he had been spotted in a stolen car and was being booked on a car-theft charge. He had nothing to do with the Hurd case.

The search for Seguin began when army discharge papers bearing that name were found in an overnight bag in the back of the taxi. Seguin is also wanted by Cornwall township police on a theft charge.

The search swung north to Cascades, Que., about 20 miles north of Hull, when a man was seen sleeping in a coupe bearing the licence number of Seguin's car.

A hotel proprietor at Wakefield, Que., seven miles north of Cascades, identified a picture of Seguin as that of a stranger who drank beer in his hotel with an unidentified woman Monday night. The barman also identified the picture.

POLIO TAKES TOLL

EDMONTON (CP)—The Western Canada poliomyelitis toll climbed to 48 deaths and 803 cases yesterday with reports of one death in each of Alberta and Saskatchewan and 12 new cases in Manitoba and seven in Alberta in 24 hours.

GEORGI MALENKOV MAY BE NEXT RUSSIAN P.M.

U.S. Diplomats Believe He Is Stalin's Choice

WASHINGTON (AP)—A solid clue pointing to Russia's next ruler may emerge from the full-dress meeting of the Communist party congress in Moscow Oct. 5.

And United States diplomats will not be surprised if 50-year-old Georgi Malenkov steps up as Josef Stalin's personal choice as next Russian prime minister. In fact, some suspect Stalin's aim in staging the whole affair may be to give a formal, open hint as to who the next boss should be.

This may be Stalin's way, they believe, of lessening the possibility of a bloody struggle for power after he dies.

Until they have more time to analyze Moscow's announcement of the calling of the first Communist congress since 1939, U.S. diplomats say their view is a theory rather than a considered opinion. But here is what they think:

Stalin's heir apparent will be the man who is chosen to be chairman of the new praesidium, to be organized at the meeting to replace the Politburo.

The 12-man Politburo, now the top governing body, has no chairman or chief executive. But a praesidium under the Russian set-up generally does have one.

Anyone picked for this job would automatically be proclaimed publically as the most important Communist in Russia next to Stalin.

It is entirely possible that Stalin himself will be designated chairman of the new praesidium. But, if so, why for the first time since 1925 is he not to give the main address to the congress, the report of the central committee?

Malenkov is now scheduled to give this report, the most important thing on the agenda.

Furthermore, neither Marshal Beria, head of the Soviet secret police and Deputy Premier Malenkov's main rival, nor Deputy Premier V. M. Molotov, is scheduled to play any prominent role in the congress party session. This may be a clue that Molotov is being pushed into the background, since he read the new five-year plan at each of the two previous congress meetings, in 1934 and 1939.

Molotov is 62 and his age has been considered a factor against him.

Malenkov was a key figure in setting up the Cominform, the guiding Soviet policy bureau for Russia's eastern Europe satellites. He is a member of the central committee secretariat under Stalin.

Bandit Too Quick For Waitress

DETROIT (AP)—A hamburger stand waitress, Etta Peoples, 22, was on duty at a drive-in hamburger stand when an intruder approached.

The man, keeping his right hand in his coat pocket, said: "This is a holdup."

Ignoring the threat, Etta reached under the counter, sized a .32 calibre automatic and pointed it at the intruder.

"Oh no, it isnt," she said.

The bandit removed his hand from his pocket, reached across the counter, wrested the weapon from Etta, and announced:

"Now it is."

He departed with $50 from the cash register.

Bombed, Bandaged and Air Borne Scratched Korean Survives Help

WITH U.S. EIGHTH ARMY, Korea (AP)—Somewhere in Korea there is a farmer who never will forget this day.

He was plowing a field when his ox stepped on a mine. The ox was blown to bits, the farmer scratched on the chest.

Allied troops took him to a nearby hospital for treatment. A little iodine and some bandage patched him up nicely, and he offered to help around the hospital tent.

He got sleepy, lay down on a stretcher inside this tent, and soon was fast asleep.

A helicopter landed to pick up a wounded soldier marine and fly him to a hospital ship at Inchon. Medics picked up the first stretcher and lashed it to the outside of the helicopter.

The farmer awakened high in the air. His beloved earth lay several thousand feet below. Only a thin piece of canvas held him aloft.

On the ground at Inchon, the farmer made his plight understood — between gasps. The pilot flew him back, this time inside the helicopter.

The farmer trudged slowly back to his field, still shaking his head.

Eight Prominent Men Face 33 Game Law Counts

Accused of Taking 127 Lake Trout in Park With Nets

BURKS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Eight men, including a deputy game warden and a former magistrate and all from southern Ontario, were remanded today on 33 charges of violations of the Games and Fisheries Act nearly three months ago.

The men did not appear in court in this community 45 miles south of North Bay. They were remanded to an indefinite date in September.

Charged with taking 127 lake trout with gill nets from Tims Lake in Algonquin Park, about 40 miles east of here, are: George Laver, a deputy game warden from Cooksville; William Stubbs and Dr. James Thomas, Caledon; Lockwood Stubbs, Alton; former Magistrate John Kidd of Inglewood; Gordon J. Bredin, a bakery owner, and William Ferguons, a poultry dealer, both of Orangeville.

The seven also are charged with having more than 10 lake trout apiece in their possession which were seized May 27. Officials seized 42 other fish from the same party June 1.

Also accused is Otto W. Caven, an Alton funeral director, charged with giving false information to wild life officials.

Kidd also is charged with unlawfully hindering an officer and he and the others, except Caven, also are charged with unlawfully breaking a beaver dam.

Laver faces three special charges, two of abusing his authority as game warden and one of neglecting to perform his duties as an official of Butt township.

Commissioner Says British Will Come Out All Right

OTTAWA (CP) — Lt.-Gen. Sir Archibald Nye said last night his keenest desire is to promote the welfare of the Commonwealth.

Britain's new High Commissioner to Canada, a 57-year-old soldier-turned-diplomat, met the press and said that one of his great ambitions is to help maintain the strength and common objectives of the Commonwealth.

"We'll come out of it all right," he said in reference to Britain's financial crisis. "I've been away in India for six years and on my return, I've found the British people much better off than when I left."

Workers Accept Contract

KINGSTON (CP)—Striking employees of the Frontenac Floor and Wall Tile Company voted last night to accept settlement proposals agreed upon in Toronto.

The employees accepted a wage increase of eight cents an hour, four cents higher than any previous offer, and $30 retroactive pay for each employee.

The 22-week strike affected some 195 employees.

NOTED EDITOR DIES

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Henry J. Haskell, 78, editor of the Kansas City Star, under whose direction the newspaper won Pulitzer prizes in 1933 and 1944 for its editorial-page alertness to world problems, died yesterday.

Minister Says 'No Frills' At New Reformatory

TORONTO (CP)—A $1,500,000 prison with "no frills" will be built at Millbrook, a quiet community about 12 miles southeast of Peterborough, Reform Institutions Minister Foote announced yesterday.

The institution should be ready by 1953 to accept a "small core" of desperate short-term prisoners from the provincial reformatories at Guelph and Burwash. It will accommodate 250 prisoners.

The decision followed a riot at Guelph last month when extensive damage was done. Since then a number of prisoners have escaped. Several persons were punished in connection with the riot.

Mr. Foote said there was "no vindictiveness" in opening the prison which will have "no recreation facilities and no frills." He said:

"We have had the conclusion forced on us that certain people will not react to the training program we have at Guelph and Burwash and who make it impossible for us to operate it for the others."

He estimated that about 10 per cent of present prisoners at the reformatories are of the tough-man type that need to be sent to the new prison.

Prisoners would be given a chance to make good in one of the reformatories before being sent to the new prison.

"We're not trying to be brutal . . .We do not mean that no effort will be made to understand the prisoners. . . There will be no lacking in modern treatment but there will be strict discipline."

Air Chief Going To Europe, Will Inspect Airstrips

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's air chief is going overseas to see how facilities and planning for the buildup of Canadian air strength in Europe are coming along.

Air Marshal W.A. Curtis, chief of the air staff, leaves tomorrow for Britain and France, about a month ahead of the wing of three squadrons of jet fighters scheduled to fly to France in October.

In his two weeks abroad, it is expected Air Marshal Curtis will inspect the two airfields now allocated to the R.C.A.F. on the continent and look at others which have been suggested for Canadian use.

The first two are near Metz, France and Zweibrucken, Germany. They are roughly 50 miles apart.

The wing slated to arrive in the Metz area in mid-October is the second of four in the air division Canada has promised to have in Europe by 1954. The first is at North Luffenham, England, and will remain there for another couple of years.

The airfield situation now is the key to whether Canada meets her commitment to have an air division of 12 squadrons in Europe by 1954. The R.C.A.F. says there is little chance the squadrons won't be ready but the airfields may not be available in time to accommodate all of them on schedule.

SUITCASE, CONTENTS TAKEN FROM CAR

Sneak thieves were on the prowl last night as a Toronto traveller discovered his loss.

J. Clarke, 229 Bleecker Street, Toronto, told city police that his suitcase and contents was stolen from his car which was parked in a laneway near the Belvedere Hotel.

X-RAY UNITS WILL GIVE CHEST SERVICE TO SEVERAL FIRMS

The mobile X-ray unit due in the city some time Wednesday afternoon failed to arrive here as scheduled.

A telephone call to Toronto by the medical officer of health, Dr. A. M. Breuls, cleared up the situation. According to officials in Toronto, the mobile unit became stuck in the ditch north of Bancroft and is not expected to arrive until late today. Just in case of any other unforseen difficulties, a second unit is being sent down from Toronto today.

The units will be in the city to give free chest X-ray service to employees of several firms in the city.

WILL PLAY TUBA IN JOINT RCAF BAND

Members of the Training Command Band of Trenton will join with members of the Tactical Air Group Band from Edmonton to form a 75-piece RCAF band which will play 28 concerts at the Canadian National Exhibition this year.

Squadron Leader Edward A. Kirkwood of Ottawa and Edmonton, director of musical activities within the RCAF, will command the band, assisted by bandmasters of the Trenton and Edmonton bands, Flying Officer Clifford Hunt and Flying Officer Leo Corcoran, respectively. The three conductors will alternate on the podium for the concert series.

A choral group of 10 RCAF airwomen will appear with the band.

Sgt. Bob Stebbings of Belleville plays the tuba in the band.

SHORT POWER FAILURE OCCURS AT NOON

The city had a 12-minute power interruption at noon today when an undetermined disturbance caused a power failure on the high tension network supplying electrical power to this area. E. G. Burnett, regional manager of the Hydro Electric Power Commission said investigation was continuing to trace the cause of the break.

According to the hydro chief, the trouble centred on the line carrying power from Barrett Chute to Sidney. To augment the supply, it was necessary to make a change over to re-route the power and during the changeover, Belleville, along with all of Prince Edward County, was without power.

Obituary

MRS. LILLIE MAY HARDWICK

The funeral of Mrs. Lillie May Hardwick, wife of Mr. Charles Hardwick, was held from the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home on Wednesday afternoon. The service in the chapel was conducted by Reverend Everett P. Smith of Christ Church, who also said the committal service in White's Cemetery on the Trent Road. A large number of floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held by a large group of friends and relatives.

The bearers were, Charles Coleman, Frederick Noakes, G. A. Morton, William Carr, George Ling and James Scriven.

DONALD BENNETT

The funeral of Donald Bennett was held from his late residence, Point Anne, to St. Michael's Church, this Thursday morning. Requiem Mass was celebrated by Very Rev. L. B. Garvin, while Rev. P. Murphy said the prayers at St. James' Cemetery.

The large number in attendance at the funeral and the wealth of floral and spiritual offerings were evidence of the esteem held by the deceased in the community.

The bearers were, Russell Bryan, Roy and Phillip Bennett, Wayne McDonald and Eugene Derushie.

Kingston Man Dies in Cottage East of Bath

Discovered in a dying condition in his rented summer cottage, a 54-year-old Kingston resident died early last evening before medical help arrived.

The dead man, Edward Gowan, of 32 Wellington Street, was found by a niece, Miss Betty Angor, 110 Ballard Avenue, Syracuse, who was staying with her uncle.

After visiting neighbors, Miss Ballard returned to the cottage and found her uncle lying on a couch. She said he "looked funny" and immediately went for help.

Neighbors called Dr. Cameron Wilson, Napanee, district coroner, who with provincial police Constable William Fitzimmons rushed to the cottage. Gowan was dead on arrival.

Following his investigation Dr. Wilson said Gowan had died from natural causes. No inquest will be held.

The cottage was situated seven miles east of Bath, in Ernestown township.

Heavy Offering Of Tomatoes At Lower Prices

With rain clouds threatening to cut short their business day, vendors at the farmers' market today began to slash prices early, some farmers chopping from 50 cents to 25 cents the amount charged for six-quart baskets of ripe tomatoes. It was explained that some produce, held-overs from Tuesday's market, would not survive a wait until Saturday and farmers volunteered to take a financial beating in preference to a total loss.

The price slash was limited to perishable produce, prices on potatoes remaining in the stratosphere with straight-faced farmers asking and receiving five dollars per bushel.

Corn toppled fractionally, farmers apparently failing to reach accord on prices, some asking 50 cents per dozen for top-quality produce while neighbors were content to retail their corn for 30 cents per dozen.

Vegetables Plentiful

Carrots, onions, beets, and other root crops were in abundant supply with no change in recent prices.

With recent weeks adding to the girth of home-grown watermelons, the biggies fetched 60 cents while juveniles sold at 15 cents. Cantelope were also in evidence with prices stretching from 15 cents to 35 cents, depending on size.

Among the plums offered, green gages were at a premium, selling at 90 cents per six-quart basket. Other varieties sold at prices similar to last week at 60 cents per basket.

Cucumbers suitable for pickle and dills occupied more space at the market as the crops became more plentiful. Large cucumbers sold at five cents or six for 25 cents while small cucumbers sold from 75 cents to one dollar for six-quart baskets.

Mr., Mrs. C.F. Bailey Celebrate Silver Anniversary

Rawdon — The Misses Anita and Joyce Bailey, of Carmel, entertained over 40 relatives and friends on the occasion of the 25th wedding anniversary of their parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Bailey. Relatives were in attendance from Port Hope, Peterborough, Wellman's, Mount Pleasant, River Valley, Carmel, and other nearby points.

All enjoyed a session of visiting followed by a short program. The happy couple were the recipients of a large array of lovely gifts which included a silver tea service in grape design.

Refreshments were served by the bride of 25 years and her two daughters.

Charles Francis Bailey is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bailey of Carmel, and his wife was formrely Leaja Rosanna Dunham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunham, Wellman's.

They have twin sons, James Franklin and Gerald Charles and two daughters, Misses Anita Mae and Joyce Isobell.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey and family are all active in the work of Carmel United Church.

News of Trenton

Trenton Hospital Will Receive $6,811 from Atkinson Foundation

TRENTON (Special) — The sum of $6,811 has been granted the Trenton Memorial Hospital by the Atkinson Charitable Foundation according to an announcement from Toronto today. The gift will be used to purchase badly-needed equipment. Two other small Ontario hospitals, one at Exeter and the other at Bowmanville will receive similar assistance from the Foundation the announcement said.

James Uttley, acting secretary treasurer of the Trenton Hospital Board praised the generous assistance of the Foundation. He said: "The announcement of the Atkinson Charitable Foundation of their generous contribution of much needed equipment is, of course, a source of considerable satisfaction to all concerned with the operation and administration of the hospital. Citizens of Trenton and the district generally, may well be proud that the foundation has found their hospital to be worthy of support and grateful for the splendid donation evidenced by today's pronouncement."

Mayor Kenneth J. Couch speaking for the people of Trenton said: "I know it (the contribution) will be a big help to make the hospital more efficient. You can say I certainly am very happy and very, very grateful."

Trenton Memorial Hospital opened in February, 1951. Previously, hospital accommodations had to be obtained in Belleville, Cobourg, or Picton.

Service clubs were prominent in this hospital effort. The Lions and Rotary clubs together fostered the movement and purchased a site which was donated on condition that it was used for a community hospital. This was done in 1943, and the two service clubs campaigned steadily for eight years to reach their goal when the 84-bed hospital, costing $525,000, was opened last year.

Local communities raised $125,000 by public subscription. Federal, provincial and municipal grants brought their total money realized to $523,548, an amazing achievement for a community of this size. The town of Trenton and the surrounding counties are making annual grants to assist with operation.

Support by the public and the surrounding municipal councils was so generous that the hospital does not feel justified in asking for more money at this time for badly needed equipment. The grant of $6,811 from the Foundation will cover the cost of exchanging a present small X-ray unit into an adequate apparatus, will supply a fracture table, an oxygen unit and other equipment needed in the daily treatment of the sick.

George Polmanter Splits Decision With Rocky Beau

TRENTON (Special)— George Polmanter of Belleville, fighting under the colors of the Zigman Boxing Club of Trenton took another step up the comeback ladder here last night gaining a split decision over Rocky Beau of the Zaduk Boxing Club of Toronto in the main bout of the Lions Club boxing show at the Trenton arena.

For five rounds Polmanter and Beau slugged around neither damaging the other noticeably. But the crowd liked the exhibition and cheered the judge's nod.

Eddie Shamerhorn of the Zigman Boxing Club scored a TKO over Tony Vickers, Trenton in 1.25 of the first round of a scheduled five-round bout Shamerhorn with both fists thumping against all parts above the waist of Vicker's anatomy, scored two knockdowns when referee Bobby Hoare stopped the engagement. This was the semi-final bout with fighters weighing 145 lbs.

The Runyan brothers, Norman and Michael of Campbellford, staged the curtain-raised in the 50 pound class, Judges voted the match a draw.

AS 1 Jerry McNeill of Trenton Air Station and Ron Bennett Z.B.C., fought to a draw in three rounds.

LAC T. Casey, Trenton RCAF, and Eddie Haynes of Toronto fought to a draw in three rounds.

Ron Jones, Z.B.C., beat LAC Joe Smith, Trenton RCAF.

Officials: Judges, Flt. Lieut. Jack Radcliffe and Bill Workman; referees, Bobby Hoare and "Hub" Smith.

Results:

Five rounds 147 lbs: George Polmanter, Zigman Boxing Club split decisioned Rocky Beau of Toronto.

Eddie Shamerhorn, Zigman Boxing Club, TKO'd Tony Vickers of Trenton 1.25 minutes in first round of five round bout 145 pound class.

Jackie Lucas, Zigman Boxing Club, unanimmous decision over Murray Grace of Toronto in 128 pound class.

AC 1 Jerry McNeill, Trenton Air Station, 141 pounds and Ron Bennett 142 pounds Zigman Boxing Club, draw.

Complete Series Four Injections Given at Clinic

The Department of Health has released a summary of the immunization program conducted in public and separate schools in the city since January of this year.

It is reported a complete series of four injections of diptheria and tetanus toxoid were offered for those who had no previous immunization and booster doses were given those children who had been given the toxoid in infancy, when requested by the parent.

Vaccination was recommended if the pupil had never been protected against smallpox and revaccination was done for those who had not been vaccinated in the past seven years.

A total of 649 boosters were given, 146 series were completed and 789 vaccinations or re-vaccinations were done.

It is considered that in the future there will be fewer pupils in the schools requiring the complete series since many parents realize the importance of having their children done in their first six months of age, when, according to the medical officer, children most need the protection afforded by vaccination and toxoid.

Messervey's Hen Best in Poultry Show at Ottawa

R. J. Messervey, poultry fancier and breeder of note in the Bay of Quinte district, took time off from his judging at local fairs to exhibit some of his stock at the Ottawa exhibition and came home with the prize for the best bird in the show. One of his famous White Orpington hens, won this honor against three thousand birds, that were exhibited and this hen is a sister to the hen that was "Champion" hen at the CNE last year.

Mr. Messervey expects to again win the championship at the C.N.E. this year with the same bird as last season. He expects to take a large number of birds for all classes of Orpnigtons to the show, which opens Friday and at the present are at the peak of their form. This breeder has brought a number of valuable awards to this city but as he says, he is proud to do something for this "Friendly City."

HIRE HEN FOR AIRCREW

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—The Dutch state airlines have hired a chicken as the latest addition to its aircrew staff. The hen perches on the backs of elephants being flown in the air freight service the line operates for zoos. The idea is to calm the elephants' "air nerves."

CHASED FROM THRONE

The last emperor of Brazil, Dom Pedro II, was driven from the throne in 1889 by a revolution that established the republic.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Light receipts and dull trading today slowed Ontario Stockyard activity almost to a standstill. Receipts: cattle, 260; calves, 60; hogs, 120; sheep and lambs, 90. The holdover of 2,400 cattle included 1,000 stockers.

A few stockers traded from $18-$25 depending on quality while butcher cows brought $14-$17.00 and bulls $15-$16.50.

Calves were steady at $26-$28 for choice vealers and $15-$24 for common to medium.

Lambs brought $30 for good ewes and wethers. Bucks sold at $29 sheep from $6-$10.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Egg market prices were unchanged. Quotations for eggs packed in fibre cases were: A large 61-62 cents; A medium, 51-52; A small, 35-36; grade B, 39-40; grade C, 27-28. Wholesale to retail: A large, 66-67; A medium, 55-56; A small, 39-40; grade B. 45-46; grade C, 35.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices slipped today in early afternoon stock market dealings with only industrials showing a gain.

Golds slipped steadily during the session and stood nearly a point lower on the exchange's index. Western oils dipped after a fairly firm opening.

Trading in selected mining issues which featured the first two days of this week, eased today lowering the total number of shares traded. Trading in golds broadened early to cover a fairly wide list of stocks but many remained unchanged in price. Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,276,000 shares.

Industrials gained outnumbered losses about two to one. Utilities strengthened after a weak opening and steels, banks, refining oils, liquors and constructions also gained. Miscellaneous industrials were mixed.

Senior golds weakened early as support shifted to selected junior producers.

Only a few base metal issues held firm as a general decline set in with losses outnumbering gains about three to one.

A few higher-priced western oils made small gains.

'No Fair', Says City Council

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Brockville council here last night cracked down on travelling street fairs and carnivals by prohibiting use of a park which for years has been the site of such affairs. The action was taken on the insistence of a delegation which complained about undesirable elements which sometimes follow carnivals and about the lack of sanitary facilities on the grounds.

BANDITS GET $3,000

MONTREAL (CP)—Three men, two of them armed with revolvers, held up the assistant manager and a bookkeeper of a branch of the National Canadian Bank yesterday and escaped with between $2,000 and $3,000.

Bargaining Groups Cannot Agree On Bd. Chairman

OTTAWA (CP)—Arthur MacNamara, deputy labor minister, today said the railway companies and unions representing non-operating employees have informed the Labor Department they cannot agree on a chairman for a conciliation board to investigate a contract dispute.

Mr. MacNamara said the department now must name a chairman to the board within a week.

Paul Smith of Montreal has been appointed by the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways. David Lewis of Toronto is the union appointee.

The 13 unions represent some 128,000 non-operating employees of the two companies. They are asking for a pay increase of 45 cents an hour, union security and an escalator clause tying wages to increases in the cost of living.

Ordered Son To Steal, Man Given Jail Term

HAMILTON, (CP)—William Thomas, 37, today was sentenced to one year in jail following conviction on two charges of theft and contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Police, who described Thomas as "a modern Fagan," said he forced his nine-year-old son to accompany him on a break-in at a Hamilton scrap-metal yard.

Mrs. Thomas said she pleaded with her husband not to take their son along and that the boy did not want to go.

Magistrate Beamer Hopkins said Thomas was leading his son into a life of crime.

"I must give a punishment that will deter other parents and guardians from doing the same thing."

Woman Doctor Stabs Daughter To Death

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—A young woman doctor early today stabbed her three-year-old daughter to death, wounded her two other children, and then sought to end her own life with poison.

Police said Dr. Norma Holt, 27, stabbed her daughter Vickie through the heart with a pair of scissors.

She then turned on Ann, 4, and jabbed the scissors into the child's breast. Next, said police, she inflicted a serious stomach wound on her 11-month-old son, Larry.

Police said the mother, the wife of Dr. L. Beverly Holt, 33, had recently been under the care of a psychiatrist.

GIRLIE SHOWS OKAYED

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton yesterday made a flying inspection tour of midway "girlie shows" at Ottawa's Central Canada Exhibition. She took along Frances Perkins, member of the United States Civil Service Commission and the Exhibition's guest of honor for the day. Apparently the two found little to shock the city's morals.

Swedish Incident 'Simple Mistake' Says Miss Truman

HELSINKI (AP)—"I believe it must all have been a simple misunderstanding," Margaret Truman said at a press conference today over the ruckus kicked up by Swedish newspapers over alleged "tough guy" tactics used in Stockholm by her bodyguards.

The president's daughter had other descriptions, too, such as "much ado about nothing," and "it was really silly" about accounts in Stockholm newspapers such as the one published by Expressen, which said the bodyguards — members of the U.S. Secret Service — flung aside a photographer who tried to take Miss Truman's picture at Stockholm's Central Station.

Miss Truman suggested that perhaps the photographer involved did not understand English.

She stressed that she had been supplied with a bodyguard not on her own wish but because a U.S. law stipulates that members of the president's family must always be protected by such guard.

She said that no member of her entourage had ever forbidden pictures being taken of her.

White House Denies Stories In Swedish Papers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The question of whether Margaret Truman's armed bodyguard roughhoused Swedish citizens ping-ponged across the Atlantic today, trailing official denial, comment—and silence.

Swedish newspapers Tuesday reported what they called "tough-guy" tactics used by three secret service agents accompanying the president's daughter on her European tour. The Expressen said the bodyguards flung aside a photographer who tried to snap Miss Truman's picture and kept reporters and photographers outside Stockholm's town hall while she visited it.

Aftonbladet, Sweden's biggest newspaper, flung a barb that has all Washington talking:

"Miss Truman is not in danger of her life in Stockholm . . . We understand that she is not going to sing here."

'No Truth in It'

The White House bounced back an unequivocal denial. Joseph Short, the President's press secretary, said:

"Our preliminary reports indicate there is not one word of truth in any of the stories alleged to have been published in the Swedish newspapers."

The Swedish Foreign Office, meanwhile, had begun its own investigation. Stockholm dispatches said it wanted to know by what right Miss Truman's bodyguard was armed in Sweden, where even the police are unarmed.

Short gave this version of the reported incident at the Stockholm town hall:

"One photographer approached one of the agents at city hall and asked if Miss Truman would permit her picture to be taken. . . The agent said she preferred not to be photographed at the time . . .

"That ended the incident. It was just a very calm discussion."

The Swedish Foreign Office backed up Short. It said in a statement that the agent had simply said: "No pictures, please."

CNE Ready to Open

TORONTO (CP) — Some 3,000 workers scurried about the 350-acre grounds of the Canadian National Exhibition today putting the world's biggest annual fair in order for tomorrow's opening.

Officials hope that 3,000,000 persons will visit the two-week show. Some 2,699,000 clicked through the turnstiles in 1951 to see the 72nd edition of the "Ex."

Exhibitors still scrambled for space as workmen strung miles colored lights and daubed ga paint along the mile-long midwa

One of many new foreign exhi itors, the Society of Motor Man facturers and Traders, from B tain, moved a display of ca trucks and motorcycles under huge tent, covering almost 35,0 square feet.

THERE OUGHT TO BE A LAW

At the present time Canada is suffering a black eye of international proportions because of the actions of a few prominent — and formerly respected — Canadian citizens who linked themselves to a crooked immigration scheme by providing false documents to those who desired entry into the United States as permanent residents.

United States immigration department regulations demand that a person seeking entry into the United States must possess so much money. For a fee, a Windsor bank manager provided the immigration department with a rigged document which stated the applicant for entry did possess the required capital to reside permanently in the United States.

These disclosures do not do Canada any good in the family of nations. In this latest instance, American citizens will view with the same contempt as Canadians who learned recently that Italian nations were coming into Canada on falsified papers and that these papers were falsified by Canadians.

Strangely, the Windsor bank manager will not be punished for his part in providing illegal entry of Canadians into the United States. It appears that there is no provision in the criminal code to cope with this type of law-breaker, even though the illegal act is obvious.

Canadians recognize with embarrassment the actions of these individuals who are blighting Canada's good name on an international level. If no law is now on the statute books, little time should be wasted to provide punishment for this type of law-breaker. It is now up to Canada to demonstrate to the world that the ruses of Canadian slickers who bring Canada into international disrepute are treated for what they are — lawbreakers on an international scale.

YVONNE TURNS PHILOSOPHICAL

Once upon a time, Yvonne De Carlo, Vancouver's gift to the moving picture industry, declared that a good appearance was the most desirable characteristic in a boy friend.

But now, having reached the mature age of 27, Yvonne has changed her mind. She now says that handsome men have no brains and that it's character she seeks in choosing her escorts.

Long before she ends her sojourn on this earth, Yvonne is going to be forced to revise her opinions at least once more, because there just isn't any definite connection between appearance and intelligence.

The chap who looks like Adonis is not necessarily a moron; he may be as sly as a fox. The bald and paunchy gent is not for sure another Einstein; he may be just plain stupid. In other words, what Yvonne has not yet learned is that you never can tell by looking at a frog how far he can jump. Another poet — or maybe he was a philosopher — said you never can tell the depth of a well by the length of the handle on the pump.

But there is an element of truth in what Yvonne says, because frequently, perhaps usually, the possession of one valuable quality or ability is cancelled out by the lack of another. Mother Nature does try to compensate each of her children for any weakness by equipping each with some other special characteristic which enables him to compete and survive.

In the same connection, there is a great deal of truth in the old saying "a fool for luck." If luck did not usually come to the aid of fools, the world would fall completely under the control of the astute.

But that's about enough of this idle speculation. The probable truth is that Yvonne has recently quarreled with some handsome boy friend and has decided that his successor is going to be one that will be less attractive to other young women.

Robert Holmes, Canadian artist who died in 1930, specialized in the painting of flowers and painted over 100 varieties of wild flowers.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 21st., 1932

Miss Myrtle Holway, Miss Lillian Sprackett and Miss Peg Holway are spending their vacation with friends in Cobourg.

The members of the Baptist Young People's Union in connection with Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, held a most enjoyable party on Friday evening to say farewell to Mr. Bob Austin, who is leaving to reside in England, and also to bid goodbye to Miss May Hobson who is going to England on a visit. Miss Gertrude Fisher on behalf of the members presented Miss Hobson with a writing case and Mr. Arthur Looker made the presentation of engraved gold cuff links to Mr. Austin.

Mr. William Tufts of Halloway sailed recently from Montreal for London, England.

The Rev. Robert Hall, minister of John Street Church, and Mrs. Hall spent a few days in London, Ontario, this week.

Miss Anna Lafferty has left for Lake Constance, near Ottawa, where she will be the guest of Miss Germaine Dumais at her summer cottage.

30 YEARS AGO

August 21st., 1922

A baseball match was played at the Agricultural Park between the Red Sox and the G.T.R. shop team, the result was a score of 3 to 1 in favor of the Red Sox. The following composed the teams: Red Sox: Cooke, Mott, Cummings, Wardhaugh, Joss, Townsley, Ashley, Welch Miles, Hunter and Stark. G.T.R. shop team: Miles, Dennis, Follwell, Pringle, McElrath, Smith, Ross, Locke and Gerow. Umpire Miles handled the game well. Gordonier was umpire on bases.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Rich as the mining industry in Canada is, it cannot afford to go all over the country boring holes. But fabulous though some of our mines are, there isn't a doubt in the world that maybe a mile or five miles from any of them is an ore body far richer than anything yet found. That is the lure of the prospector and the mining game as a whole.

Geologists and mining engineers know pretty well where the precious metals and the base metals are likely to be found. Canada has now been surveyed from end to end and from border to Arctic, and all the likeliest places have been explored and prospected to everybody's heart's and purse's content. But since you rarely see a rich geologist or a wealthy mining engineer, the hoofers of the mining game, the tirelessly optimistic and romantic prospectors, backed by equally tirelessly optimitic grubstakers, take the view that geologists and engineers don't know everything. So they go right on looking and right on finding.

By far the greater number of Canada's mines were found by surface indications, or by drilling holes near surface indications. But nobody knows how little distance below wthe surface may lie incredible reihes, great gobs and bulges of precious metal which come perhaps to within only five feet of showing on the surface. With the improvement of electronic devices of all kinds for the detection of metals, and their wider employment, many such mines are bound to be found in the future, perhaps the near future. But Canada is a vast land, and though surveyed, there are immense reaches of it lying between the survey lines which have never yet felt the tread of man. It is good and it is reasonable to believe that in those regions there are masses of wealth underground equal to the needs and the optimism of future generations as far ahead as we need to look, in these bountiful and expansive days of Canada's future expansion.

PICTURES BETTER

NEW YORK (AP) —A Roman Catholic officila says American and foreign movies proved somewhat less "morally offensive" in 1951 than in 1950. Mgr. Patrick J. Masterson, executive secretary of the church's Legion of Decency, made the statement yesterday before the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae. The Legion of Decency reviews films and books and publishes lists of those found "offensive."

STABS FATHER

NEW YORK (AP) —A Brooklyn youth stabbed his father to death in defence of his mother early today, police said. Detectives said Gerard Berner, 53, beat his wife Mary, 46, over an unironed shirt. Their son, Gerard, 18, tried to pry his parents apart. The father turned on his son, and the son grabbed a hunting knife and plunged it into his father. The son was charged with homicide.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE LIBERATOR

One of the most inspiring and thrilling of great lives is that one of the great South American General, known as "The Liberator"—Simon Bolivar. I have read several books of his remarkable life, but recently I read one entitled "The Four Seasons of Manuela" by Victor W. von Hagen. This book tells of that remarkable and amazing woman who was Bolivar's mistress, though far more than this. She was his loyal and unrelenting champion in liberating South America from the rule of the Spaniards. Also it is one of the most passionate love stories in all history!

Of all the many books written about Bolivar hardly a mention has been made of Manuela, but this new book gives a documented and most fascinating record of her great services to this man who loved to have his name associated with that of George Washington. It was this woman, who at a critical time saved his life. Few books that I have read can compare with this story of a man who once was one of the wealthiest in South America, but who sacrificed all he had, even his life, to give his people freedom and liberty.

It was a long struggle. Great glory he early gained, but toward the last of his life there were jealousies and dissensions that threatened to lose all he had gained. His health failed him. He became discouraged and unhappy over the lack of appreciation that he so richly deserved. He died at Santa Marta, a small island off the coast of Venezuela, after great suffering, but his only thought was that he would die happy if his people would be united and preserve the great victories that he had won. He was even buried in a borrowed gown!

Today Bolivar, the great "Liberator," is the most revered name in all South American history! But his deserved honors came too late for him to enjoy them, as so often has happened in this world where appreciation for great deeds if often neglected. Bolivar gave his wealth, his remarkable talents, and his life, to his country. But both he and his "lovable fool" as he termed Manuela, were exiled. Manuela died last at a little village named Paita, off the coast of Peru. As I finished this stirring book I thought of those lines of Gray's: "The paths of glory lead but to the grave."

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

CAUSE FOR CHEER

Someone told me recently of a young seminary student who before graduation made a very careful study of the neediest fields in the country. He wrote to his denominational headquarters asking where in their opinion the ministry of a strong, consecrated young Christian was most needed. After a great deal of investigation they wrote back saying that there was a place in a remote part of the country where nobody wanted to go and where a great number of people were desperately in need of the ministry of religion. So this young fellow and his wife have packed up and are making off to that distant point.

There are many who believe that moral standards are lower today than they have been for some decades. They are probably right in this judgment. Yet one of the most inspiring realities is the consecration being manifested today by many young servants of the Lord. The seminaries are crowded with students. In every branch of the Christain Church, young men are pressing into service. There are youth gatherings today in which the spirit of Christian consecration simply leaves the oldsters blinking incredulously.

We may well be disturbed about present day moral conditions. But let us be comforted by the realization that many of our young people are among the finest and most hopeful that have appeared in generations.

Two Men Burned To Death, Torch Sets Off Explosion

QUEBEC (CP)—Two men were burned to death yesterday when an acetylene torch touched off a gas explosion and fire inside a 21,000-barrel gasoline tank being dismantled.

The dead were identified as Ronald Sudds, 28, Kingston, Ont., and William Ruether, 24, of Peace River, Alta.

Two others, Roger Kennedy of Kingston and Pierre Bedard, 42, of Quebec, were in the tank when the mishap occurred but escaped through an opening at the bottom. Kennedy suffered burns.

The steel tank, owned by McColl-Frontenac Oil Co. Ltd., was being dismantled by a crew working for Spalding and Davis Company, Kingston contractors.

Bedard said the four men were building an iron scaffold inside the tank when the fire was started by a torch held by Sudds.

He said Sudds and Ruether were cut off by the fire, while he and Kennedy were near the opening, large enough for one man to pass through.

The tank, 40 feet high and 40 feet in diameter, had been tested for gas fumes and found to be safe for work, he said.

Golden Eagles Haunt Antelope High in Rockies

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP)—Golden eagles have been haunting a herd of antelope in Deer Lodge Valley, high in the Rockies.

"One entire herd of 135 antelope is spooked," says Deputy Game Warden Les Barton. "The animals are afraid of their own shadows."

One doe was seen steering her two fawns out of a grassy meadow and up a mountain side, where pine trees hide them from the beady-eyed "king of the air."

But now and then man helps the harassed antelope.

Marvin Pearce of Deer Lodge was out in the valley with his rifle recently when he saw an eagle circling in the sky.

Suddenly, the bird folded its wings and plunged to earth in one swift swoop. A few feet from the ground the eagle threw out its wings, breaking the dive, and stabbed its sharp talons into the back of an antelope fawn.

Pearce said he was 450 yards from the eagle when the bird took off. Despite the extreme range, he took sight and fired.

With a flutter of feathers, the eagle fell.

Pearce brought both eagle and antelope home to show his friends.

Game Warden Bartan says a study of the Deer Lodge antelope herd indicates eagles have been killing an average of one fawn a day since June 1.

"And eagles do not confine their killing to antelope," Barton says. "They also kill deer fawns and calf elk."

In winter they frighten game into deep snows, where even grown animals are immobilized, then tear them to pieces.

Searchers are looking for the eagles' nest. Meanwhile an armed watch has been set up to protect the antelope from attack.

Personal Health Talks

PREVENTION OF HEMORRHOIDS

Member of Navy Hospital Corps writes that information in this column concerning the ambulant (injection) treatment of hemorrhoids (piles) has proved a boon to a great many sufferers, but he has not seen any information here in regard to the prevention of such trouble.

A hospital corpsman might be interested in prevention, but few general readers are interested enough to read anything about a complaint unless they believe or fear they have it, and then they want only a remedy or cure.

In the pamphlet on Piles, available on request if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope, I insist on boring you with tiresome stuff about hygiene and prevention before you arrive at remedies or treatment.

It is necessary to understand that piles hemorrhoids) are virtually varicose (enlarged, overfilled)veins just within and/or around the outlet of the alimentary tract.

If the varicosities are within the orifice, the condition is called internal piles, which are comparatively painless but likely to bleed a good deal. If the varicosity is without the orifice, it is an external pile subject to exceedingly painful "attacks" of inflammation but otherwise not so likely to undermine health as the internal, bleeding kind.

Sedentary habit, lack of general exercise, such as a brisk daily walk or the equivalent in whatever physical activity preferred, favors not only development of piles but of varicose veins or ulcers of the legs.

It is advisable for any one whose occupation requires long standing to take a break every hour or two and lie on their back and ride an imaginary bicycle upside down for a minute or two, to equalize circulation and prevent stagnation of blood in the long, valveless veins of legs and pelvic region.

Frequent use of horse medicine (aloe or aloin extracted from it) as physic or purgative is perhaps the most common cause of piles. For instance as in so-and-so's version of the ABS tablet or pill — aloin, belladonna and strychnine, with or without an insignificant dash of cascara, podophyllum, ipecac, myrrh or what have you. Thus used for any length of time aloe or aloin causes congestion of the descending colon and rectum and dilation of the hemorrhoidal veins.

Fallopius, 16th century anatomist, whose name is borne by the tubes which convey the ovum from ovary into the womb (Fallopian tubes), said that "out of a hundred persons who make habitual use of aloe, ninety are attacked by hemorrholds."

Sollman, nineteenth century pharmacologist, said that "aloin injected hypodermically causes a tubular nephritis"—Bright's disease, that is.

Bastedo, twentieth century pharmacologist, says aloin, cascara, frangula (buckthorn), rhubarb and senna are all pretty much alike in their effects, and in many instances they have been taken daily for years, not only without necessity to increase the dose but with gradual reduction of the dose. The professor doth approve too much, methinks, but let's talk about that later when, if space permits, we'll serve senna tea.

Victim Struck By Two Blows From Axe Blade

MONTREAL —(CP) — Mike Woodik, 65, a shoemaker of Mackayville, Que, south of Montreal, was killed early today by two blows from the blade of an axe. Police said they were holding Pola Astonjik, 70, for questioning.

Police said the man had apparently been struck while in bed.

The blows caught Woodik on the left side of the temple.

The victim's wife ran from the house and halted a passing patrol car.

Drumhead Service Celebrates Dieppe's 10th Anniversary

Campbellford—Branch 103 of the Canadian Legion played host to visiting branches and dignitaries from various parts of District F here on Sunday on the occasion of a drumhead service which marked the 10th anniversary of the Dieppe raid. It was one of the largest military events in Campbellford history. Mayor Jack Burnet of Cobourg, district commander, was chairman of the service, which was held at the high school grounds.

The parade fell in at the Legion Hall, marched to the cenotaph, where one minute's silence was observed in memory of those who died during both World Wars.

After a brief ceremony at the cenotaph, the parade moved to the high school grounds, where the service took place.

Reeve Ralph J. Locke, Campbellford, extended a civic welcome to the Legionnaires. Among other guests were Air Commodore W. W. Browne, C.D., Trenton; Frank Threadgold, of Whitby, vice-chairman of the provincial command; McIntyre Hood of Oshawa; Dr. F. Robertson, Cobourg; Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, minister of welfare, and T. A. Hulse, provincial president of the Legion.

Guest Speaker

Mr. Hulse introduced McIntyre Hood, the guest speaker. He based his speech on a part of St. John's Epistle to the Ephesians, "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, and against spiritual wickedness in high places, wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God that ye may be able to withstand...the evil days..."

Russia is waging an ideological war which has not yet developed into a shooting war, "a diabolical campaign against the church and Christianity. They are attempting to crush the human soul."

Hundreds of Christian leaders were being throttled in the east. The Russian leaders realized that Christianity must be destroyed before democracy can be wiped out.

Mr. Hood said the best hope of preventing a shooting war, with all its horrors, was "for us to take seriously and put into practice the basic truths of Christian faith. With these we can overcome the powers of evil."

In conclusion, he charged his listeners to guard those things which their fallen comrades had died to preserve.

Three bands were in attendance, the Bowmanville pipe band, the R.C.A.F. trumpet band from Trenton and the Campbellford Citizens' Band.

Air Commodore Browne took the salute as the parade returned to the Legion Hall.

The parade was about three quarters of a mile long with close to 1,000 taking part in it.

COMBAT PAY COMING

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Army said yesterday it plans to add $45 to August pay of front-line soldiers in Korea if they spent six days in combat in July. The money will be the first of the $45-a-month combat pay recently approved by Congress.

Perfect Weather Favors Opening Centennial Fair

PICTON—Favored by perfect weather Prince Edward County's Centennial Fair got off to an auspicious start yesterday. It continues through Saturday night with horse races Friday and Saturday. Today was re-union day.

President E. W. Henderson stated that the first day, children's day, was the biggest in many years. Last night, more than one thousand people filled the grandstand for a horse show, vaudeville and fireworks.

Opening ceremonies included an impressive service of thanksgiving. The blue-robed choir, directed by A. Benvie, sang Beethoven's "Creation Hymn." President E.W. Henderson and Warden Calvin Hughes welcomed the crowd which filled the grandstand to overflowing. Carl Reid, in a brief talk, referred to reasons for thankfulness for the progress and prosperity of the past 100 years. Closing, Ralph Pickering sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The "Musical Maniacs from Toronto gave a program of music, comedy and songs.

A rooster race saw birds driven 150 feet with strings attached to the legs. Winners in order were Director Willis Sills, secretary Phil Dodds, vice-president Harold Spencer.

Taking part in a children's amateur program were Oran Stonebridge, song; Margory Dulmage, song; Ron Robinson, guitar; Marilyn Weldon and M. Corby, duet; Archie Weldon, song; Lynn Gardiner, tap dance; Phil Weese, song.

Pete the clown conducted stunts.

Dogs, cats, rabbits, ducklings appeared in a pet parade.

Centre of interest are 15 Centennial cakes.

Prize for biggest family went to Jerry Heffernan with eight children.

The midway with 18 rides and many side shows, reports a booming business. Exhibits pack every inch of space.

Club Activities

MELODY MAIDS

On Friday, the Melody Maids, held the last meeting for the Milky Way in the home of Mrs. Clifford Ray.

The meeting was opened with the girls' song, followed by the minutes, read by Dorothy Sills. The members answered the roll by giving the menu, they had planned for a children's party.

"Milk in the Invalid's Diet" was the topic for discussion. It was learned that milk is one of the most important foods for the sick room and may be served in many ways, such as gruel, soup, junket, icecream and custards.

In the preparation of the invalid's tray, it was decided that food must be attractively prepared as well as wholesome. A blossom in water on the tray adds to the attractiveness. The tray should be tidy with all rules for the cleanliness of food closely observed.

Scores for family menus were studied after which the members built up several menus, in order to give facility for Achievement Day work.

After plans had been made for Achievement Day, the girls partook of tasty refreshments and departed for home.

A farewell party was held recently by the congregation and friends of Trinity United Church, Madoc, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, who are leaving shortly for Houghton, N.Y., where Mr. Smith will study for the ministry and Mrs. Smith will teach in Houghton College.

Community singing, consisting of ceveral familiar hymns, with Mrs. W. Hulin at the piano; reading by Mrs. J. McGowan, "Patent Medicine"; solos by Elaine Bronson, "Morning Paper Boy," and "One Little Duck", accompanied by Mrs. W. Hulin; by Miss Anne Nickle, "The Second Minuet", and "Comin' Thro' the Rye", also accompanied by Mrs. Hulin; by Mrs. A. Adams, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again", accompanied by Mrs. Reid; a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith, "This I Know", accompanied by Mrs. Hulin; piano selections by Mr. Doug. Wannamaker, entitled, "Whispering" and "Beautiful Dreamer", provided the program.

The address was read by Mr. D. Drinkwater, and the presentation of some fine luggage was made to Mr. and Mrs. Smith, by Miss Joy Anne Fox and Darryl Devolin, for which Mr. and Mrs. Smith graciously voiced their deep appreciation and thanks to those present both for the lovely gifts and also for their kindness and good wishes on their behalf.

Short speeches were also given by Mr. Will Connor, Mrs. Will Parks, Mr. Poynter, Mrs. Lane and Mr. W. Hulin, on behalf of the Sunday School; the choir and the church.

The Rev. J. F. Lane who was chairman for the occasion, voiced his regard for Mr. and Mrs. Smith, and wished them God's best in the future.

Dr. Breuls Addresses Quinte W.I. on 'Public Health Problems'

The August meeting of the Quinte W.I. was held at the Front Road Church. The president, Mrs. Grills, opened the meeting and Mrs. Atkins, the secretary, was in charge of the business portion. It was decided to give 38 cents per member to the A.C.W., also one cent per member for a bird bath to be placed in the Peace Garden in Alberta, in memory of Mrs. Albert Watt, first president of the A.C.

A number of 'thank-you' letters were then read for cards and flowers sent during illness.

Mrs. Roluf gave the motto on Health—"A person who has life has hope. Those who have hope have everything." Everyone enjoyed Mrs. Roluf.

Mrs. Roluf then introduced the speaker for the day, Dr. A. M. Breuls, who spoke on "Present Day Problems of Public Health". This proved to be interesting and also educational.

The meeting was then closed after which refreshments were served by the committee, Mrs. C. Mitchell, Mrs. A. Mitchell, Mrs. A. Reid and Mrs. Insley.

Mayor Whitton Opens Fair At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton started the 1952 Central Canada Exhibition off on a light note yesterday as she traced the history of the fair at an opening-day luncheon speech.

The first fair was held in 1829, she said, "right next to St. Andrew's Church."

"Down one side of the fair they had the beer, down the other side the beans. Everything went well until noon when the Irish, the Scots and the English fell into disagreement and there was a tremendous riot."

Col. John By, the city's founder, was so upset, she said, "that Bytown's fair charter was revoked for 25 years."

Mayor Whitton also announced that she and members of the local Council of Women were going out to inspect personally the midway's "girlie" shows.

Girl Quintuplets Appear to Be Thriving in Hospital Incubator

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—Girl quintuplets, weighing less than three pounds each at birth in a poor Negro workman's home Tuesday night, appeared to be thriving today in an incubator in Sao Paulo's modern maternity hospital.

The mother, Mrs. Maria Albano, 38, was reported in excellent condition. She lived with her husband, Jose, a laborer, in a house occupied by four other families in the interior town of Sao Carlos.

Hospital authorities said the parents are so poor the five babies arrived at the hospital wrapped in old clothes.

Dr. Francisco Sucupira of the hospital staff said the girls, born within three hours, are normal.

Mrs. Albano was first attended by a midwife who quickly summoned a doctor when she realized more than one baby was coming. After the deliveries, the mother and quints were brought to hospital.

The Meridional news agency said it had learned that the babies had been named according to the sequence of their birth: Maria Primeira (first), Maria Segunda (second), Maria Terceria (third), Maria Quarta (fourth), and Maria Quinta (fifth).

The governor of Sao Paulo state, Lucas Garez, was quoted as saying the state would give every assistance to the family.

The Albanos were married 10 years ago. Four girls and three boys were born to them previously but five of these children died.

Two other sets of quintuplets—the Dionnes and the Diligentis—are doing well.

The five Dionne girls became junior high school graduates last May 28 as they celebrated their 18th birthday at Corbeil, Ont.

In Buenos Aires, the Diligenti quintuplets—three boys and two girls—were nine years old last July 15. They go to different English schools and don't see each other often. Their millionaire father, Franco Diligenti, brought them together on their birthday for the first time in many months. He thinks it's better for the children to be separated.

FILM FESTIVAL OPENS

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Venice became a temporary movie mecca last night as Italy's 13th international film festival opened under the flags of 15 countries. The opening night's movie was the Italian-made "Altri Tempi" Other Times, produced by Alessandro Blasetti. The festival runs until mid-September.

350 Delegates From Federation Open Sessions

TORONTO (CP)—Some 350 delegates were on hand yesterday for opening sessions of the two-day 34th annual assembly of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario.

They represent 122 local associations and 13,500 public school teachers working in almost every Ontario community. President Mrs. Ruth Clarke of Port Hope presided.

Mrs. Helen M. Ward, executive secretary, said the organization is stressing the desire to co-operate rather than dictate; to assist where possible and to promote the highest in educational aims and ideals.

Honorary memberships were presented to: Kate Dordan, Niagara Falls; Mattie Ellis, Hensall; S. I. McLean, Seaforth; Isobel Sharman, Goderich; Jean Todd, Toronto; Georgina Young, Georgetown, and Florence Jamieson, Ottawa.

The Land of Plenty and Peaches

By Mary Moore

For three months or more we can depend on native Canadian fruits for every meal, now that peaches are ripe to be our mainstay. Indeed we live in a land of plenty.

I tasted the new Fisher variety and while they are a succulent and sweet superior peach no variety has excelled the Marigold for canning, in my not so humble opinion.

Your letters are full of requests for such mouth-watering items as peach pie, peach upside down cake, peach conserve, and I'm fairly drooling over the typewriter as I think on the luscious food we'll be dining on these days. Our own lonely peach tree ripens in September but is full of peaches and promise.

FRESH PEACH PIE

Four or five well-packed cups of sliced ripe peaches (or apricots) 3-4 cup sugar, 4 tablespoons flour or 2 tablespoons quick tapioca, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg or almond flavoring. 4 teaspoons butter. Line a [illegible]-inch pie plate with your best pastry and fill with above ingredients which should be mixed together—the sugar and flour or tapioca being mixed dry first. Dot the fruit with the butter and seal on top crust and flute edges. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 40 minutes or until juice bubbles through gashes in crust. If you would like to glaze the top crust brush it with a mixture of 1 tablespoon each milk or cream and sugar.

PEACH UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

Batter—Beat for 5 minutes with rotary or electric beater 2 eggs then gradually add 2-3 cup sugar. Into this beat 1-2 teaspoon almond flavoring and 6 tablespoons of the juice that drains from the peaches you have sliced for the bottom. Sift 1 cup cake flour then sift it again with 1-2 teaspoon baking powder and 1-4 teaspoon salt, and stir this into the first mixture quickly. Pour it over the fruit.

Fruit Base—Melt 1-3 cup butter in frying pan and stir 1-2 cup brown sugar into it. Pour this into glass baking dish. Arrange sliced or halved peaches in an attractive pattern on the sugar coating. If you have some maraschino cherries on hand arrange a few of these in the little spaces and curves between the peaches. Pour batter over (above) and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 45 minutes or until when you test the batter with a toothpick it comes out clean. Juice will bubble up the sides by the time batter is baked. Let stand for at least 10 minutes, then carefully but quickly turn out on serving plate. The syrup drips down the sides and comes out of the baking dish clean. Serve with pouring cream.

EXOTIC PEACH CONSERVE

This is rich and rare and only for special occasions—fact is if you ate much of it you would probably sprout earrings.

Twelve large peaches, 3 oranges, 1 medium-sized bottle maraschino cherries, white sugar. Scald, peel and slice peaches. Peel the oranges carefully so you can scrape off the white pith with the bowl of a spoon. Shred it as fine as you would for marmalade. Cut the orange pulp finely too. Cut the cherries in halves and add them and their juice. Measure. For each cup of fruit add 2-3 cup sugar. Bring to boiling point and boil about 25 or 30 minutes or until it has a transparent and slightly thickened appearance. Pour into sterile sealers or jam jars. Seal at once. If paraffin is used it must be very clean and hot and you must roll the jars to make a seal and add a second coating when first is cold.

Write to me if you want more peach talk. If you would like return mail enclose self-addressed stamped envelopes and address your letters to Mary Moore in care of this newspaper.

LONDON (Reuters)—William H. White, 54, a Canadian from Collingwood, Ont., and London managing director of Quaker Oats, Ltd., died in hospital yesterday following an operation.

Princess Margaret Celebrates Birthday at Balmoral Castle

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—A touch of sadness shadows the thoughts of Princess Margaret as she celebrates her 22nd birthday today within the granite walls of Balmoral Castle.

Presents and greetings were taken to the princess in her suite. But the occasion was different from the happy times spent within the same castle walls when her father was alive.

On other birthdays Margaret went eagerly to the breakfast table in search of a familiar card. It contained mysterious instructions that would lead her to a present—if she could figure out the message.

This first birthday since the King's death marks an intangible but real change in the life of the fun-loving young princess. Since her sister became Queen, Margaret in a sense has been living in "her sister's house." Buckingham Palace and Balmoral are no longer her own homes.

"Close as Princess Margaret is to the Queen," said a palace representative, "that makes quite a difference—even to a royal princess."

May Leave Castle

It is believed that this as much as anything else will take the princess from Balmoral before the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh leave for London in October. Margaret may visit friends in Scotland.

There will be no official birthday party today. The Royal Family and guests staying at Balmoral will toast Margaret's health and happiness at dinner, followed by an evening of dancing.

Still a careful, elegant dresser, the princess now favors a new short hair style with high curls fitting closely under her tiny half-hats. She has recently used a darker shade of lipstick and just a hint of mascara and eye shadow, leading a further sophistication to her dark blue eyes.

Foreign Office Says Margaret In No Danger

STOCKHOLM —(AP) — The Swedish Foreign Office yesterday began an investigation of Margaret Truman's right to have three armed American bodyguards in Sweden.

The three have been accused in the press here of roughing up Swedish citizens.

The President's daughter has been in Sweden since Sunday on a European tour.

Sweden's largest newspaper Aftonbladget, commented sarcastically: "Miss Truman is not in danger of her life in Stockholm . . . We understand that she is not going to sing here."

EXTRA "NICKEL"

WINNIPEG (CP) — A bottling company here is looking for an old woman who sent the firm 60 cents "for an empty case of bottles I did not return when I was a little girl." A case of bottles costs only 55 cents so the company wants to refund the nickel.

Tea Producers Worried About Art of Making

LONDON ((AP) —Have teadrinkers lost the art of making tea? The world's big tea producers think so and are worried about it.

They claim a dozen years of rationing have knocked the know-how out of British teamaking. They say a whole generation of Britons have never had a decent cup of tea.

The main trouble, a survey showed, is that British mothers don't use enough tea, nor do they brew it properly. Some don't even use a pot but dip tea bags into cups of hot water—anathema of old-style tea drinkers.

To put things right, the tea kings have launched a campaign to bring Britain back to the right way of making tea.

Committee Asks Federal Grants To Education

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Marion Grant, dean of women at Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S., said yesterday that women have the "opoprtunity to strengthen lines of communication" among people through the world.

Dr. Grant, president of the Canadian Federation of University Women, spoke at the first day of the federation's triennial convention.

The federation's committee on education urged federal grants to education to help equalize standards of teaching across the country.

"It does not seem fair that a difference in tax-paying ability should penalize youth," the committee report said.

Princess Anne Has New Friend This Summer

LONDON (CP)—Princess Anne, who has just celebrated her second birthday anniversary, has been meeting a new friend this summer. She is Mrs. Stella Marks, Australian-born artist who painted a miniature of the infant princess which entailed regular visits to Buckingham Palace to study her subject.

Princess Anne did not actually sit for her portrait. She chattered and played while Mrs. Marks watched to capture her expression on the ivory which she paints in watercolors.

Mrs. Marks painted Prince Charles in the same fashion last year, making eight visits to Clarence House before she was finished.

She has also painted miniatures of Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh. An alert artist in her early 50s, Mrs. Marks began painting at the age of 10 and spent 20 years in the United States before coming to Britain.

Four Children Resume Journey Without Parents

BRANTFORD (CP)—Four Ohio children, injured last Saturday in an automobile-truck crash that killed their parents, sadly resumed their journey home from a Canadian holiday yesterday.

James Wagner, 9, and Donald, 13, travelled by ambulance. Shirley, 14, and Larry, 16, drove in a private car with an uncle and aunt.

Shirley and Larry had been told their parents are dead. They were quiet and pale. The other two, who still do not know, seemed in good spirits.

The children carried with them gifts from sympathetic residents of this southwestern Ontario city of 37,000.

A woman telephoned to ask if she could prepare a picnic lunch for the children's journey home.

GET AUTOGRAPHED BALL

Then someone heard the three boys were keen ball players—and came up with a baseball, autographed by members of the Brantford Red Sox team.

A women's club bought a sweater for Shirley. When the store proprietor heard where it was going, he tucked a blouse into the parcel.

From another source came chocolate bars and candy.

In the accident James, the smallest, suffered a broken jaw; Shirley, a broken foot; Donald, contusions and cuts, and Larry, foot cuts.

Women Who *KNOW Say: "You can cut food costs at Dominion!"

"I saved enough for a PERMANENT!"

—says one housewife

* Women who shop at Dominion regularly say they believe that prices in general are lower at Dominion! This fact was revealed in an independent survey of housewives.

In other words, women who do all their shopping at Dominion . . . week after week . . . find savings that add up to something really worthwhile. Of course, women who have not shopped at Dominion regularly are not aware of these savings.

This is the way one Dominion shopper expressed herself: "There is only one way I can afford a really good permanent and that is by saving on other things. By doing all my food shopping at Dominion, I find the savings soon add up. I don't expect to save on every item . . . but in time I find I've saved enough to treat myself to the best permanent in town!"

Have YOU tried DOMINION lately?

Do it today! Do all your shopping at Dominion for a month. You, too, will discover what many other women know:

"You can cut food costs at Dominion!"

Sandy Sez:
"If you save a cent in twenty,
Add it up and you save plenty!"

Little Benny's Note Book

Us fellows were talking and arguing on Sid Hunt's frunt steps, and some lady came out of Lucky Leroy Shooster's house, and he said, Heck, here comes my ant. She always expects me to kiss her gaoodbye even rite out on the street in frunt of everybody. She always gives me a quarter when she goes home, but heck, it aint werth it, he said.

Why dont you hide in back of my frunt door till she gets passed? Sid said. If anybody asks you what you're doing in there, tell them I sent you, he said.

And Lucky Leroy quick jumped up and opened the frunt door and got in back of it, and his ant stopped going passed, saying, Didn't I see Leroy sitting here with you boys?

When do you meen? Sid said, and she said, Why, just now.

G, that's funny, we've all been rite here, Glasses Magee said.

Which just then there was a fierce sneeze in back of the door, and Leroy's ant said, What was that?

What was what? Sid said, and she said, It sounded like a very familiar voice. Which just then Lucky Leroy came running out, saying, Serprize, Anty, serprize, here I am.

Why what a cute little trick, come and give me a kiss, she said.

Which he did, and she said, I've got a serprize for you, too, here's a whole doller.

And she gave it to him and kept on going, and Lucky Leroy said, Oh boy, that was werth it, all rite. I bet all you guys would of kissed her for that mutch, and she's not even your ant, he said.

Which we probably would of, only none of the rest of us would probably ever get that lucky, on account of you have to be born that way.

Two Million Youths in East Germany Being Taught to Shoot Straight, Master Rules of War

By VINCENT BUIST

BERLIN (Reuters)—East Germany is teaching 2,000,000 youths to shoot straight and master the rules of partisan warfare.

Boys and girls of 16 years and upwards are being given rifles to practise with while government leaders work out details of a plan to create an East Germany army.

Since "armed forces" became a keynote of East German politics, leaders have mostly appealed to the 2,000,000 members of the Free German Youth, the counterpart to the Soviet Komsomol, to help "defend the homeland."

Tent camps have sprung up throughout the country where police arms experts coach youths to hit the bull's eye at 50 to 100 paces. In the present wave of gliding, parachute jumping, and militarism the highest honor is to win a sharpshooter's badge.

The training, which also includes gliding, parachute jumping, and telegraphy, is no secret. It is reported in youth magazines and has been mentioned in a score of speeches by leading Communists during the last two months.

On the whole, youth seems to have accepted it, but many parents are reported to be against it. One of the chief topics in magazines is pacifism and how to uproot it.

Militarist Switch

The switch to a militaristic program happened almost overnight.

It began May 1 when President Wilhelm Pieck called for "armed defence" of the homeland. Pledges of fighting loyalty came at once from all parties and mass organizations.

A month later 250,000 youths held a "parliament" at Leipzig. they march 16 abreast—thousands of them with rifles slung over the right shoulder—bearing canvas portraits of Soviet soldiers clasping tommy guns across their chests. Girls marched in front beating drums.

The enemy was "imperialism." One radio commentator was reported to have said: "Every one of these rifles will hit one American heart."

"Ideological" training accompanies the shooting instruction—to teach youth to distinguish between "just and unjust wars," "militarization and national defence," "pacifism and defence against imperialist aggression."

One official lesson contains the following theme: "We are not against arming in principal, but we are against arming when it serves imperialist mercenary troops. An armed mercenary such as we have in West Germany is the opposite to an armed man who is defending a democratic state in the interests of the people."

The nearest approach to an East German army so far are the Kapos (Kasernierte Polizei) or barracked police. This is a force of between 60,000 and 70,000 black-uniformed police formerly called alert units (Bereitschaften), in existence since 1949. They get military training but have only obsolete weapons.

30 U.S. Soldiers Feared Drowned In Crossing River

SEOUL, Korea (AP) —Thirty United States soldiers today were feared drowned by a wall of water which engulfed them suddenly as they crossed a river.

Bodies of only 1 of the men lost in Monday's tragedy have been recovered a division spokesman said. Dredges and grappling hooks swept the unidentified river for the other 18 missing men.

Rain from a typhoon which lashed Okinawa and Korea this week unleashed the crushing nine-foot wall of water in the river normally knee—deep.

Growers to Truck Tomatoes East For Processing

ESSEX (CP)—The Essex County Tomato Growers' Association resolved at a meeting to truck this county's $1,000,000 field tomato crop to processing plants in eastern Ontario because of the H. J. Heinz of Canada strike which began Aug. 8.

Russell Pettypiece, president, said the growers will have the use of weighing facilities and loading platforms owned by the Heinz company. Action on the resolution would begin immediately, he said.

Eleven hundred Heinz employees, members of the United Packinghouse Workers (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), are asking a 21-cent wage increase on an hourly basic rate of 99 cents. The company has offered 11 cents.

Peterborough Edges Redmen In Thrilling 4-3 COBL Game; Strengthen Hold On Top Slot

Bill Edger's ringing single to left plus an error on the hit back of third sent Don Pagett scampering home with the winning run in the eighth inning for the Petes here last night over Belleville Redmen 4 to 3. Trailing the Stewart squad in the first two-thirds of the tilt the Reds scored in the seventh and eighth to deadlock it. The victory before a booster night crowd of 3,000 gave the Petes a tighter grip on top spot in the COBL over the second-place Redmen. A light drizzle fell in the frames.

Bill Dadson southpawed them in for the nine heats and he pitched effective ball though he wobbled in a few stanzas. However the slim lefthander finished strong to whiff two in the ninth. He had eight strikeouts as nine blows were collected off his delivery and two free tickets. The Petes backed their hurler well. A one handed jumping catch by Freddy Garvey being a fielding gem.

Bunton Goes Distance

Bob Bunton went the distance for the visitors allowing nine bingles and two walks but striking out none. He had poor support with five miscues behind him and on earned runs the Reds should have won 2-1. A pickup by Huck Reeves was a standout defensively.

Dick Fitzpatrick led the losers at bat with two doubles and a single in four, Bunton getting two for four and Al Kelleher a brace of two baggers in five trips. Youthful Bryon Young topped the Petes with the willow smacking out two in three appearances. Arn Dugan and Bill Edger were close behind with two for four each.

Timely thumping in the second chukker put the Petes in front 2-0. Al Menzies led off with a single to right but was forced by Stewart. Latter took second on an error at first and advanced on Dugan's blow to right. The latter stole then. Young's single sent Stewart home and Dugan to third the latter racing in afterward on a fly to right by Don Paget.

Reds Cut Lead

The Reds whittled the lead in half in the fourth when Kelleher doubled to right took third on a hit by Pettitt and crossed the plate on Fitzpatrick's double into the left field crowd, the Petes made it 3-1 in the sixth as Dugan singled and went ahead on an error at third taking third on an out and home on Dadson's infield hit, Fitzpatrick singled in the seventh and went to second on a wild pitch scoring on Reeves' blow to centre, next heat saw Kelleher double and take third on an error at short scoring on a two-base blow by Fitzpatrick to left, that tied it, Young opened the Petes half of the eighth with a single to centre, he was forced by Pagett and the latter made second when Dadson rolled out, Lowrey draw a walk, Edger's sharp singe into short left was booted by Goyer and Pagett raced all the way in from second with the run which proved the winner, three Reds went down in order in the ninth.

Belleville Rink Wins Tourney At Campbellford

Perfect weather, excellent greens greeted the bowlers at Campbellford on Wednesday, when a mixed doubles tournament was held and again a Belleville rink took the top honors. J. W. Davison with Mrs. Charles A. Mott as partner won the three-high game total closely followed by Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Bennett of Campbellford and Mayor W. B. and Mrs. Kingston also of Campbellford. George Fuller and Mrs. Fuller of Trenton won the two-game high while Jack Locke and his mother, Mrs. Percy Locke was one-game high winner. Mr. Davison and Mrs. Mott on their climb to the top defeated Walter Wiggins and partner of Campbellford, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Netley, of Brighton, also Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thorne, also of Brighton. Other Belleville rinks to enjoy the afternoon of bowling were, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Price, Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Colling, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Argue and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Vince. The bowlers all report a most enjoyable outing.

Graham Wins Over Basilio

CHICAGO (AP)—Billy Graham, challenger for the world's welterweight championship, easily outboxed Carmen Basilio, Canastato, N.Y., to win a unanimous decision in their 10-round bout in the Chicago Stadium last night.

Graham, who regarded the bout as a tune-up for his championship match with Cuba's Kid Gavilan in Havana Oct. 4, left the ring without a scratch. The victor had a slight edge in weight, scaling 148 pounds to 146½ for Basilio.

CROP WEATHER GOOD

OTTAWA (CP)—The prairies' chances of reaping an estimated peak 632,000,000-bushel wheat crop appeared strong today with the Bureau of Statistics reporting "very favorable" weather throughout the western provinces. However, the bureau, in the seventh of eight telegraphic reports covering crop conditions across Canada, said warmer weather is needed in northern areas to speed maturity.

Bernie Custis Will 'Quarter' For Tiger Cats This Season

This is the second in a series on pre-season prospects of teams in the Interprovincial rugby Football union.

By TOMMY MOORE
Canadian Press Correspondent

HAMILTON (CP)—Bernie Custis, the Big Four football union's all-Star quarter last season, probably will call the signals for Hamilton Tiger-Cats this year.

That's the prospect as the Cats sharpen up for their exhibition game at Buffalo Sunday against Toronto Argonauts and for the league opener at Montreal next Wednesday. Fans in this football-crazy city love Bernie but they'd prefer to see the Syracuse University import in a fullback slot where his nifty dangling around the ends would be a decided asset to the Cats.

Custis for Slot

Coach Carl Voyles, recognizing the true value of Custis in the backfield, brought in Americans Bill MacRides and Pat Brady to right for the signal-calling slot but opinion prevails here that neither measures up to Big Four standards. And Custis appears to be the slot man.

MacRides and Brady didn't show up too well in last week's exhibition game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Custis, from a half slot, scored all three Tiger-Cat touchdowns.

If Voyles can find a capable quarter he'll have one of the powerhouses of the league.

Besides Custis in the backfield, he would have a mixture of experienced ball players and capable, fast-moving youngsters.

Back with the club is Hal Waggoner, import from Tulane University who scored 50 points for the Tiger-Cats in his freshman year in Big Four ranks last season.

In addition there are Mel Hawkrigg, high-scoring ace with McMaster University last year; Jackie Stewart, with Tigers for many years; Bill Doherty, speedy American from Villanova who impressed in the Winnipeg game; Doug Gray of Sarnia; big Blake Taylor; Alex Mitsza, who led Tiger-Cat juniors to a Dominion title in 1951, and Gerry Fitzgerald, with University of Western Ontario in 1950 but out of action last year due to illness.

Two Good Ends

On the ends Voyles has two of the best to start with—Vince Mazza, a hold-over from the last two years, and Joe Shinn, who shook the dust of Hamilton from his shoes after five games in 1951 in which he starred.

In addition he has Tip Logan who led the Big Four in scoring in 1951; Pete Neumann of St. Catharines, who stole the show in more than one 1951 start; Floyd Cooper, who played well last season, and COFFERS THAT JINGLE, JINGLE . . .

Hmm, let's see—2400 plus 3049 is 5449. Multiply by 50 and you have 272450. A little punctuation etc, brings this to $2,724.50. Hmm, not bad. Just simple arithmetic but that's what the take has been at the Peterborough box office for the last two "Television Nights" of the Peterborough senior baseball club. Thanks to a number of generous business men and others the Petes have been able to line their long-empty coffers, or so it would appear.

And just to show their appreciation to 3,049 paid pewsters last night the Petes came through with a smart 4-3 victory over our Redmen in one of he best COBL tilts seen in Perdueville for many a moon. Bobby Bunton and Lefty Dadson dueled for nine innings, both coming up with a sterling performance. The tilt was all tied at three-all in the eighth when the Petes shoved over the winner while "there was no joy in Redville" in the ninth when "Mighty Casey" Kelleher done struck out with two mates aboard and two retired.

The victory strengthened the Petes' hold on top slot in the loop and if our memory is correct they can't be ousted from the perch unless Kingston sweeps their remaining games with the Reds and Petes. The Redmen finish the schedule, or should next week with a game here Monday night with the Monarchs and another with the same team at a date to be set.

A TOUGH TRAIL

The city will be the hub of Ontario Amateur Softball Association playdowns next Saturday when three representative teams sweep into action.

The half-pints or peewees will tee off the playdown parade at Firemen's Park, West Moira Street at four p. m. when the Belleville squad tangles with that of Brooklin. Brooklin, incidentally, is not to be taken as the home of the Dodgers on the banks of the Gowanus, but a small town some five miles north of Oshawa. The teams will play a best-of-three series with the winner claiming the Eastern Ontario championship and meeting either North York or Toronto in the second round. Eleven peewee teams are competing for the Ontario title.

This is being written before the result of the Glen Roy-Brockville junior "A" game played in Brockville last night, was learned, but OASA executive member Harry Knott, who is doing a fine job of convening in this neck of the woods, said today the second game will be played at Alemite Field here on Saturday night, the tilt to start at nine o'clock or at a time decided upon by the team managements.

The big boys of Jim Ethier's CNR Diesels squad also embark along the tough intermediate trail on Saturday evening, meeting the powerful Kingston Alcans at the CNR Recreation Field starting at least two hours before sundown, and that means in the vicinity of six o'clock. The winners of this series, according to the list released by the OASA, will meet the winner of the Peterborough-Whitby series for the Eastern Ontario title.

Northern Electric not only won the right to represent the city in the Intermediate "AA" playdowns, but the Eastern Ontario title with it. Seems there were no other squads in this classification east of Tawrawnta. And they meet a Toronto team in the first round.

The winner of the Belleville-Brockville junior "A" series will clash with Oshawa in the second round according to Mr. Knott, who says the consensus in official softball circles is that the title will be battled for by Bellevolle, Windsor and Oshawa. However, youse guys and gals know softball, baseball and other sports pre-series predictions.

Fans should remember that playdowns in any sport, is that phase of sports at its best, and the farther a team goes the tougher is the opposition and the calibre of the game better. Not only that but the various fan clans who rooted long and loud for their respective teams all season, should "frecckle up" and get their respecticve teams all season, should "freckle up" and get mean solid fan co-operation. We read somewhere that if all the freckles on a kid's body got together what a wonderful tan he would have. Get it?

So why not get behind these squads of the Diesels, Glen Roys, Northern Electric and peewees who will carry the banner of Belleville into softball playdown battle. A little moral and other support will do wonders for the crews, and after all, you will be seeing softball at its best. If they win they will bring credit to themselves, their sponsors and their city, and if they lose we know they'll go down with all guns firing and the colors aflutter. More power to all of them.

Canada's McElroy, Mawhinney Reach 5th Round US Amateur

SEATTLE (CP)—Two Canadians today joined a field that included a professional crooner, a sailor, a college student and practically none of the pre-tournament favorites in the round of 16 contenders for the United States amateur golf title.

Canadian amateur champion Walt McElroy of Vancouver and Bill Mawhinney, his fellow-townsman who once held the Canadian title, each survived two rounds of match play yesterday while several high-ranking golfers came to grief.

McElroy's opponent today in a bid for a quarter-final berth is Marion Hiskey of Twin Falls, Ida., who ousted Sam Urzetta, the 1950 U.S. titleholder, in an early round.

Mawhinney, written off as a serious contender because of the bad back that kept him out of the Americas Cup competition last week, was drawn against William Campbell of Huntingdon, W.Va., after a couple of upset victories.

'NAME' PLAYERS OUT

Only two big names were left in the tournament and one of them was bound to drop out in sixth-round play.

Charlie Coe, the 1949 champion, was drawn against Jimmy McHale, the Walker Cup member from Mamaroneck, N.Y., who barely squeezed by Vancouver's Percy Clogg Tuesday with a 2-and-1 victory in the third round.

The others included Don Cherry, a 28-year-old professional singer from Garden City, N.Y., who pulled a major upset yesterday by ousting Frank Stranahan 3 and 1.

Another strong threat is Paul Johanson, a University of Washington student from Seattle, whose latest victim was Ray Billows, three-time finalist for the U.S. title, who fell 5 and 3.

British titleholder Harvie Ward was another fifth-round casualty, losing 4 and 2 to Gene Littler, 22-year-old former junior champion who is serving in the U.S. navy.

McElroy knocked out Dan Silvestri of San Francisco 2 and 1 in morning play and survived some driving trouble in the afternoon to dispose of Dale Morey of Martinsville, Ind., one up.

Mawhinney made the gallery sit up as he whipped veteran Bruce McCormack of Hollywood 3 and 2 and breezed to an easy 6-and-4 victory over John W. Wood of Seattle.

Tribe Swamps Boston Red Sox As Chisox Blast Bombers; Brooks Seven Up On Giants

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Since Luke Easter became a regular with Cleveland Indians two years ago it has been said, "as Easter goes so go the Indians."

Easter's value is clearly demonstrated by his performance this year. Big Luke is hot right now and so are the Indians.

Cleveland, with Easter playing a leading role, swamped Boston Red Sox 18-8 yesterday and pulled to within a game of the American League's front-running New York Yankees. The Yanks were humiliated 12-3 by Chicago White Sox. Philadelphia tripped Detroit 4-3 in the circuit's only night game. Another night game between St. Louis and Washington was rained out.

Brooks Down Reds

Brooklyn moved seven games ahead of New York Giants in the National League chase, downing Cincinnati 6-3. The Giants and Chicago Cubs were rained out. In other games, Philadelphia tamed Pittsburgh 3-1 and St. Louis trounced Boston 9-2 in a game called because of rain in the eighth inning.

The Indians could take over the lead today with the help of Chicago. A Cleveland victory over Boston and a Chicago win over New York would enable the Indians to move out in front by one percentage point.

Easter, Ray Boone and Larry Doby were the ringleaders in Cleveland's rout of the Red Sox. Easter batted in six runs on a grand-slam homer and two singles, Boone sent six mates across on a homer and two singles and Doby drove in a pair of runs on his 27th homer and two singles.

Since July 15, when Easter rejoined the Indians after a short exile to Indianapolis, the Tribe has won 24 games and lost 15, a .615 pace.

During this span Easter has whacked out 26 hits in 78 times at bat, a .333 average, driven in 28 runs and clouted eight homers. Before he departed for Indianapolis Easter was hitting .208 and had driven in 33 runs and connected for only 11 homers in 63 games.

Sox Score 6 Runs

Chicago also came up with a big inning to beat the Yanks. The White Sox scored six runs in the third inning to wipe out a 2-1 deficit.

Carl Scheib drove home two runs and scored the winning tally in the As' triumph over Detroit. Scheib singled home two runs in the seventh to tie the score at 3-3 and then pranced over the plate on one-baggers by Pete Suder and Ferris Fain.

Brooklyn found Ken Raffensberger easy pickings at Cincinnati. The Dodgers slugged the veteran for 11 hits and all of their runs in less than four innings. Home runs by Gil Hodges and Roy Campanella featured the Dodger attack.

Connie Ryan was the big wheel in Philadelphia's victory over Pittsburgh. He clouted his 12th homer, walked three times, stole two bases and scored all of Philadelphia's runs.

Harvey Haddix turned in a five-hitter in his major league debut for the Cards. Haddix, awaiting discharge from the army, coasted home after the Cards jumped on Lew Burdette for six runs in the second inning.

Bing Crosby To Play In Canadian Amateur

VANCOUVER (CP)—Walt McElroy and Bill Mawhinney may wreck British Columbia's Willingdon Cup golf team if they maintain their scorching pace in the U.S. amateur at Seattle. But B.C. golf fans couldn't care less.

The two Vancouver golfers today were competing in the fifth round of the American amateur and wild dreams of fans here have the two hooking up in an all-Canadian final. A Canadian hasn't won the U.S. amateur since Sandy Somerville turned the trick in 1932.

The final of the U.S. amateur falls on Saturday, the day for the Willingdon Cup interprovincial team matches here. McElroy and Mawhinney, the 1951 and 1950 Canadian amateur titleholders, respectively, are members of the B.C. team.

Would Wreck Team

If both—or either—reached the final, it would cripple B.C.'s hopes of taking the Willingdon Cup away from Ontario.

Naturally, golfers in these climes wouldn't give a fig for the Willingdon Cup if a Vancouver boy could win the U.S. amateur.

The eight four-man teams—New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island have a combined team and Newfoundland is not entered—will shoot 36 medal holes over the par-72 Capilano course in West Vancouver.

The eight juniors competing for the Buckingham Cup and the Canadian junior title will go the same distance and at the same time. The 40 contestants, including the juniors, will be mixed up in 12 threesomes and two pairs. Doug Silverberg of Alberta and Otto McKush of Manitoba will lead off.

Meanwhile, the draw was completed for the Canadian amateur, opening Monday, also over the Capilano layout.

There are 195 entries, 82 of them Americans, including crooner Bing Crosby and Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., twice Canadian champion.

Match play will start Monday with 18 holes. There is no qualifying round.

Among those drawing byes in the first round are Crosby, Phil Farlay of Toronto, McElroy and Mawhinney, Joe Leblanc of Montreal, Rex Joudrey of Dartmouth, N.S., and Glen Gary of Edmonton.

Glen Roys Defeat Brockville 13-1 In First Game Junior Playdowns

Glen Roy Juniors started their march towards a Junior A provincial softball championship last evening by whipping Brockville's Armstrong Plymouths 13-1 in the first game of their best-of-three first round series in Brockville.

The Glens clubbed a dozen hits off the offerings of two Brockville hurlers while Bob Hunter held the home forces to four scattered hits. In going the distance Hunter walked one, struck out 11, and gave up four hits. He was never in serious trouble.

The Glens, on the other hand, had the Brockville forces in hot water most of the night. Eleven walks, added to 12 hits, and three errors did nothing to soothe the Brockville hurlers.

The Glens opened the scoring in the first frame. Barclay led off by taking first on an error to the first baseman. Carr flied to left and Hull was safe on a bloop single to the infield. Batchelor walked to load the bases, and Pete Green singled to centrefield to score Barclay and Hull. Gerry Goyer flied to left, and DeGray went all the way to second on an error at short that let in Batchelor and Green. Wannamaker flied to left to end the inning.

Goyer Homers

The Glens left two men stranded in the second frame but a ground rule double over the left field fence by Pete Green, and Gerry Goyer's tremendous line drive home run to centrefield were good for two runs in the third.

A single by DeGray, and walks to Barclay and Carr after pop flies by Wannamaker and Hunter, loaded the bases with two out in third. Pakeman, Brockville's starting hurler, was derricked at this point in favor of third baseman Easter. Easter got Hull on a fly to centre to end the inning.

Easter, a sidearm pitcher whose delivery appeared to be illegal, toiled the rest of the route despite suspicions as to the nature of his pitching.

The Glens picked up a single run in the fourth, and then used doubles by Pete Green and Ted DeGray, and a single by Gerry Goyer to score another run in the sixth.

In the seventh the Glens rammed over four runs without getting a hit. Hunter and Barclay walked and Carr was safe on a force play that took Barclay at second. Hull walked to load the bases and Batchelor was safe at first on an error to the first baseman as Hunter and Carr scored. Hull took third on the error and Batchelor went to second.

The runners advanced as Green grounded out short to first, and then Batchelor scored from third on a passed ball.

An infield single by Hull, and a double to left field by Gerry Goyer were good for the final tally in the ninth.

Brockville scored their lone run in the fourth when Pakeman was credited with a single on a ground ball past third base with one out. Then with two out, Easter doubled to centrefield to score Pakeman.

An error at short, and an error in centrefield on a throw to the infield put Hunter on second for the Plymouths in the ninth. With two out Fraser moved him to third with a single, but Bob Hunter struck out Robertson to end the game.

Pakeman started for Brockville and in two and two-thirds innings walked five, struck out none, and gave up five hits for six runs.

Easter walked six, struck out three, and gave up seven hits for seven runs.

Gerry Goyer, with two singles, a double, and a home run in six trips lede the winner at the plate.

Paul's Motels City Peewee Baseball Champs

Paul's Motels are the city peewee baseball champions. The youngsters won the title and the Bill Hurst Trophy at the C.N.R. Field last night when they defeated Reid's Service Station by a 9-4 score.

The new champions won the final series three games to one with two others ending in ties.

Lefty Mike Ryan hurled three-hit ball for the winners with Chick, Dickey and Billy Foster coming through with some neat hitting. Asseltine hurled for the losers with Bruce Foster looking good afield.

Wins Six Races

SALEM, N.H. (AP)—Apprentice jockey Anthony Despirito of Lawrence, Mass., booted home six winners yesterday at Rockingham Park to bring his total for the season to 200—tops for the United States.

Despirito rode both ends of a $67.40 daily double, winning the first on Miss Heidi and the second on Dandy Foot.

He took the fourth with Miss M.T. and the fifth with Game Lady. He rode Bickett to victory in the eighth and Quillet in the ninth.

Canada's Top Four Players Sit On Tennis Championship Sidelines

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian lawn tennis championships today moved into quarter-finals with Canada's four top singles players on the sidelines.

This country's seeded competitors — Brendan Macken, Lorne Maine, Henri Rochon and Lorne Barclay—were knocked out of the running yesterday without taking a single set.

Five United States players, a Mexican, a Dane and a Filipino survived the fourth round and entered the final stages of the tournament.

Macken, Canada's No. 2 player, was eliminated by Tony Vincent of Miami, Fla., 6-2, 6-3. It was the Montreal star's first encounter with last year's Canadian open singles champion.

"I played him the way I think he can be beaten, but wasted too many close shots," Macken said.

Hal Burrows of Virginiatown, Va., put Main of Vancouver away, 6-4, 6-3, Mexico's Gustavo Palafox defeated Barclay of Vancouver in a tight game, 6-1, 7-5, and tiny Felissimo Ampon, Philippine champion, displayed amazing skill and speed to turn back Rochon of Montreal, 6-2, 6-1.

Brantford, Galt Win Intercounty Playoff Openers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Brantford and Galt came through with victories in senior Intercounty Baseball League semi-final playoffs last night.

The Red Sox, playing on their home diamond, took a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series with Guelph when they downed the Leafs 7-5.

Galt evened its series with Kitchener at one game each, a six-run rally in the seventh inning giving the Terriers a 7-6 edge.

Majors Await Winners

The semi-finals continue tonight with Guelph travelling to Brantford and Galt returning to Kitchener. London Majors, after legal jockeying which resulted in a league ruling, will meet the winners of the semi-finals.

London was dropped from the playoffs when the league ruled pitcher Arnold Early ineligible. But the league moguls Tuesday night ruled that London could enter the post-season series to avoid expensive litigation which would follow an injunction obtained by London to hold up the playoffs. London withdrew the injunction after the league decision.

A rhubarb developed in the Guelph game. First-base umpire Reid Buck required a police escort from the field after calling Leafs' George Carruth out at first in the ninth to complete a double play and cancel a threatening Guelph rally. Buck was shoved by several fans as he left the field.

Guelph was trailing 7-2 going into the ninth when Nick Dicarlo singled. Pitcher George Copeland then gave three straight walks that forced in two runs. Marv Rich singled in another to leave the based loaded.

With Carruth at the plate, third baseman Stan Lipka exchanged places with Copeland. Carruth hit to short, Rich was doubled off second and Carruth was called out at first. Manager George d'Addario of Guelph was waved off the field in the argument that followed.

Copeland returned to the mound to pitch to Pat Seerey who ended the game by being called out at first.

Ed Finney led the Red Sox at the plate with three hits. Bud Kimball had a double and two singles for Guelph.

Thomas Hits Freely

In the big seventh inning at Galt, the Panthers used three pitchers. Loser Mel Duncan started and didn't allow a hit until the fifth when Joe Mack homered. He was replaced by Cas Fedoris in the seventh after Galt touched him for four hits. Fedoris was relieved before he has retired a batter with Hal Johnston going to the hill.

Galt started Don Millar who retired in favor of Irv Schupp, credited with the win, after yielding four runs in four innings. Freddy Thomas, Panther centrefielder, had a perfect night at bat with a two-run homer in the second, two doubles and a single for four runs batted in.

Double No-Hit Pitching Job In Pony League

BATAVIA, N.Y. (AP)—A baseball rarity—a double no-hit pitching performance—was recorded last night as Bradford beat Batavia 1-0 in the class-D Pony League.

Frank Etchberger, the Bradford hurler, gained the victory as his teammates put together a walk, a sacrifice, a wild pitch and a grounder for the sole run of the game in the eighth inning. Batavia pitcher Jim Mitchell set up his own downfall with an eighth-inning wild toss.

Wings Nip Leafs In 11 Innings; On Deal's Single

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ellis Deal is not only a top pitcher for Rochester Red Wings but he also handles himself pretty well at the plate.

In last night's International League contest with Toronto, Deal delivered a pinch-hit single, scoring Harry Walker from third base with the winning run to give Red Wings a 6-5 victory in 11 innings.

The one-time Toronto fly-chaser followed Walker's double with a drive to deep left centre for the deciding blow. Ray Shore, fifth Maple Leaf pitcher, was the victim of both hits.

Syracuse Chiefs maintained a half-game edge in the battle for second place with the Red Wings by romping to a 7-1 win over Buffalo Bisons. Andy Carey, on option from New York Yankees, socked a three-run homer in Syracuse's five-run attack on Paul Faytack and Gene Costello. Johnny Blatnik knocked out three safeties and drove home three runs for the Chiefs.

Bobo Holloman, yielding only nine hits and fanning eight, got the win.

Montreal Royals and Baltimore Orioles divided a twi-night doubleheader. Baltimore won the curtain-raiser 1-0 on singles by Roy Weatherly and Russ Kerns in the seventh frame. In the night-cap the Royals rapped Jim Atkins for 12 hits and a 8-2 victory. Gil Mills and John Padres limited the Orioles to six safeties.

Two walks in the 10th inning off Bill Padget and George Moskovich's base-hit gave Ottawa Athletics a 3-2 win over Springfield.

Loaned Player Must Remain

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Hockey League decided yesterday that under no conditions may a player lent to the loop by a National Hockey League team be recalled during the season.

This, in effect, assures the American League of keeping its rosters intact through the campaign.

In previous years, the N.H.L. clubs could recall players after a 14-day period up to Feb. 15, and after that date only if a player was injured and reduced the club below the strength of 10 forwards, five defencemen and a goalie.

In another effort to improve playing calibre, the league's board of governors passed a rule limiting each team's strength to 13 players.

The opening games are scheduled for Oct. 11 and all nine clubs will see action at least once during the first week.

"COOL CONTROL"
OVERHEAD BAIT CASTING

1 Control is all-important. Index finger of right hand grips trigger of rod firmly. Thumb rests lightly on spool. Other fingers press handle of rod into palm. Thumb should be relaxed, rest of grip firm but not rigid.

2 Control comes with experience. Practise moving rod back for cast, applying thumb pressure to allow weight of bait to carry tip of rod back, for extra casting power. Relax thumb pressure when rod begins forward movement; apply again just before bait hits water.

3 Keep arm close to body. Movement comes from wrist and forearm. Fingers on handle open as rod moves back, close as rod comes forward. Concentrate on wrist movement for accuracy. Aim; come back fast; forward twice as fast. Remember — only experience gives perfect control.

Yes, it's control that counts. In fishing as in every sport—control which brings the extra-ordinary quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

This is one of a series designed to increase the pleasure of Canadians who participate in sports.

Johnson Wins Feature Event At Race Meet

There were 16 stock car drivers chasing a star last night, the Pellar Star of Excellence, as stock car racing got underway at the Exhibition Grounds for the first time in the city. An estimated crowd of 1,000 persons turned out to watch the daredevil racers go through their paces.

Plenty of spills added to the excitement to bring patrons to their feet in the stands. About the worst appearing accident we have seen while watching stock car racing took place in the third qualifying heat. Jake Woods of Kingston, lost control of his car on the west turn almost in front of the stands and rebounded off the inside fence on to the outside fence. Woods took the outside fence and steel cable with him as his auto tore through the trees leaving a trail of sparks and noise that sounded like all the plate glass windows in the city falling out of their frames. The car No. 85, took off into the trees, narrowly missing a few sturdy oaks. As the ambulance prepared to leave for the scene, the driver appeared from out of the melee unhurt.

Jim Edgar of Napanee, now holds the track record of 34 seconds for the half mile. Previous record was 35 seconds.

The feature race had its share of thrills with 13 cars entered. Dusty Sandford of Belleville, lost control on the same west turn as Woods did in the third heat. Sandford found the hole in the fence where Woods went through and away went Dusty into the same woods. Dusty wasn't so lucky, it is going to cost him quite a bit to repair that front end. Showing spirit typical of stock car drivers, Dusty said he'd "do it again".

Somewhere in the feature event, Jim Edgar got lost. It is believed he became interested in the picture playing at the Drive-In theatre and just continued toward the show. His auto was last seen leaving the track at a high rate of speed headed in that direction anyway.

Clarence Johnson of Belleville, won the big event closely followed by Bruce Swain, of Kingston.

First qualifying heat—Dusty Sandford, Belleville; Larry Arnold, Napanee; six laps.

Second qualifying heat — Jim Edgar Napanee; Cliff Stillman, Trenton; six laps.

Third qualifying heat— Art Kemp, Kingston; Jack McCrory, Belleville; six laps.

Consolation — Bud Young, Odessa; Charlie Gordon, Napanee, six laps.

Set Price Record

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) The 34th annual Saratoga yearling sales closed last night as the final consignment of 31 colts, fillies and geldings sold for $36,000, an average price of $1,161.

Over-all prices and averages set a record for the Fasig-Tipton paddock here. In all 331 yearlings were auctioned off for total of $2,095,500, an average price of $6,330. Last year 299 yearlings went for $1,632,600, an average price of $5,460.

Britons Thrill To Soccer Pools

LONDON (Reuters)—The British soccer season opened Saturday and once again Britons will fall under the money-for-nothing spell of one of the world's biggest and best-organized gambling industries.

This Saturday and every Saturday until next spring, 50-odd soccer teams will boot a leather ball up and down stadiums across the country—fun for the thousands who watch.

But the real thrill for 16,000,000 Britons comes when special newspaper editions and radio broadcasts report the winning teams.

These are football-pools players who have wagered an average of four shillings on the outcome of the games.

The money can ready £70,000 for a winning six-penny bet though mathematicians calculate the average better would have to spend 200,000 years betting to hit this.

People everywhere are in the grip of "pool fever" during the season.

Prize money is shared according to the number of winners and only five or six persons reach the top-prize class.

Timbermen Cinch Lacrosse Title

TORONTO (CP)—Peterborough Timbermen virtually cinched the Ontario Lacrosse Association's senior title last night by defeating Mimico Mountaineers 23-11 before 1,800 fans.

The victory gave the Petes undisputed possession of first place with only two games left in the schedule. Mimico has one game left. The teams were tied in top spot before last night's game.

Russ Slater topped the Timbermen scoring parade wih a seven-goal performance. Harry Wipper tallied four with Curly Mason and Don Ashbee netting three each.

Ken Dixon, Bob Blakely, Derry Davies, Denny Peterson and Fred Sandford each scored twice for the Mounties.

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—A goal by Blain McDonald early in the fourth quarter moved Hamilton Tigers into fourth place in the Ontario Lacrosse Association's senior loop as they edged sixth-place St. Catharines Athletics 10-9 last night.

Hamilton led 2-1 at the end of the first quarter but the Athletics pushed ahead 5-4 by the half. The score was knotted 9-9 at the three-quarter mark.

McDonald's winning counter was his third of the evening. Elmer Lee matches his performance for the winners. Johnny Dewar and Max Woolley notched two each for St. Catharines.

Bill Bradshaw of Hamilton and Doug Davidson collected majors for fighting in the fourth quarter.

N. Electric Ladies Win Semi Finals From Marines

Northern Electric Ladies' softball team came from behind to register a 14-13 victory over Peterborough Marines to win their semi-final series for the Peterborough City Ladies' League championship two games to one.

The Electrics will meet Peterborough Ashbys in the finals.

The Marines took a three run lead in the first inning as they batted around. Summers, starting pitcher for Northern, gave way to H. Reeves in the first inning, with Reeves going the rest of the way to chalk up the win.

The Electrics came up with three runs in the second inning with Waite's home run being the big blow. Marines went one up in the second but Northern slammed over five tallies in the third and two more in the fourth to take a commanding lead as Marines connected for three runs in the third.

Marines were blanked in the fourth, but took a 13-10 lead by scoring three runs in each of the fifth and sixth frames.

Northern, however, slowed down the Peterborough attack and shut them out over the last three innings, while they pushed over two runs in the eighth on Butler's home run, and scored the tying and winning runs in the ninth on three hits.

Waite, Corneal, Butler, and Bovay homered for the winners.

Line-up:

Northern—H. Reeves 3b, p in the 1st; Butcher 2b; Bovay lf; Butler ss; Waite 1b; B. Reeves c; Seguin cf; Corneal rf; Summers p, 3b in 1st.

Marines—Paige 3b; Behan ss; White lf; Hart c; McIlwain cf; Dundas rf, replaced by Weir in 9th; McMahon 1b; Dunk 2b; Derry p.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Some joker recently tacked on Joel McCrea's dressing room a sign reading "Millionaire's Row." McCrea joined in the laugh.

It's possible that he is a millionaire, since he has been making good money for 20 years. But one thing is certain: he doesn't act like a millionaire. Nor has he brought up his two boys to act like a rich man's sons.

They have been so shielded from the limelight that only this week did McCrea allow the first picture of one of them to be published. The reason for the photograph was that the oldest boy, Jody, 17, is appearing with his pop in "Lone Hand."

First Movie

"That's true," Joel confirmed, "there haven't been any pictures of the boys published since they were babies. The only photos we have taken of them were for the family album. My wife (actress Frances Dee) had a theory about that.

"She objected to children being used in publicity at an age when they were not able to make their own decisions about it.

"And she was absolutely right. I have seen it happen to too many kids of famous people. They wind up with a complex about being second best and make messes of their lives."

The McCreas seem to have done a good job along those lines on Jody and David, 16. The McCrea sons have spent most of their lives on the ranch learning the cattle business.

Acting Bug

After years of indifference about his father's profession, Jody suddenly has expressed a desire to get into it. Joel gave him a chance to break into the game on "Lone Hand."

Joel admitted that neither son is a great fan of his:

They like me better than Randolph Scott but not as well as Gary Cooper," he shrugged.

AT THE NEW BELLE

'Jumping Jacks' Stacks Up as Rafter-Rocking Picture Fun

In Hal Wallis' "Jumping Jacks," the Paramount picture which opened Wednesday at the Belle Theatre, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis give a riotous demonstration of what happens when an anemic song-and-dance man and his girl-happy buddy join the paratroops. Punctuated with bright music, lively dancing and romance, the demonstration stacks up as the screwball team's freshest and funniest screen chore to date.

To state it another way "Jumping Jacks" is one you have to see.

To get down to cases, the story casts Dean and Jerry as a Vaudeville team. For a while that is. Then Dean answers the call to the colors. Jerry can't follow because his rickety frame just isn't up to the rigors of army life. But while visiting Dean, he's mistaken for a genuine G.I. Before Jerry can explain to the colonel that it's all a terrible mistake, he's clapped into a soldier"s suit and marched off with Dean to Fort Belding, to become a paratrooper.

What happens when Dean and Jerry undergo the rugged training for a 'chute-jumping sky soldier marks one of the wildest military episodes since the invention of the gun. Jerry's attempts to master the mysteries of packing a 'chute, his tussle with a tough top kick and his near strangulation on the practice jumping rig are to be seen, not described.

Co-star Mona Freeman adds an attractive feminine touch as the girl who touches off a romantic tug of war, and the bouncy score of Mack David-Jerry Livingstone tunes provides some bright melodic interludes for the side-splitting aloft and on the ground. "I Know a Dream When I See See One," "The Parachute Jump" and "Keep a Little Dream Handy" are some of the numbers smoothly sung by Dean and Mona.

A funny Popeye color cartoon precedes the feature attraction.

Drive-In Bantams Play Oshawa Friday

The Drive-In Theatre bantams, representing the city on the OBA playdowns will settle their series with the Oshawa Dairy team in a sudden-death game at Port Hope tomorrow afternoon, it was announced by team officials today. The game will start at 5:30.

The sudden-death game was ordered by the Ontario Baseball Association after it upheld the Belleville protest of the second game which was won by the Oshawa team. The Motor City kids took the first tilt on their home diamond.

The winners of tomorrow's game will advance into the second round.

Van Cuyk Optioned

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers announced today the purchase of Edmundo Armaros, 19-year-old Cuban, from St. Paul.

Armaros, playing his first season of organized baseball, was batting .340 and had 53 extra-base hits, including 19 homers.

Pitcher Chris Van Cuyk was optioned to St. Paul.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, AUG. 22, 1952.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Aggressively favorable day for military, humanitarian crusades, all worthy causes. Day advises sensible care in hazardous work, handling tools, water activities.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Mildly favorable for your especial interests and desires. The armed services of our country should be inspired to go forward! A good day generally.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Not all stimulating for brain work, but —for the usual daily routine, familiar work—day can be gainful, pleasant. Don't overdo!

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—You are indeed favored with your Moon and Mars in excellent aspects. But there is a warning not to over-reach to gain objectives.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Your planet suggests doing things in a quietly efficient way, without being too exacting or arbitrary. Real benefits to be had in useful trade, business, family affairs.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Mostly up to demands of your position and urgent obligations how hard you must work, what tempo you should keep this generally auspicious day. Extra care stressed on dangerous jobs.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Favorable indications, going to still better ones for tomorrow. Fine time for personal and artistic matters.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Mars' excellent aspect and the Moon's favorable influences promise a day of interest, gain and personal satisfaction if, of course you think honorably, act well.

November 2c to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Influences indifferent to some money matters and selfish interests, but honest intent and objectivity can achieve in a big way. Due recreation should not be neglected.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Your Saturn position stresses need for serenity. Have hope, look forward as you take good care of day's obligations.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Mild rays from Uranus, but rightful aggressiveness (such as in military and government activities) will bring surprising results.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Neither hindering nor too invigorating aspects. Mostly up to you and what your program calls for. Don't strain, but keep ahead with urgent matters.

YOU BORN TODAY: Splendid mental and mechanical ability; pride, ambition, but sometimes dislike for small details and irritating routine. Watch that you don't tend to domineer, disregard others' desire or opinions. You can really achieve in profession, trade, in religious life, or other course once you set your mind and heart sturdily to it. Birthdate: Claude Achille Debussy, great Fr. composer; Samuel Pierpont Langley, air pioneer, astronomer.

Ontario East Orange Lodges Hold Three-Day Derry Celebration

Rawdon—Rt. Wor. Bro. Fred Bateman, Grand Master of the Orange Lodges of Ontario East, and Mrs. Bateman, attended three Derry Day celebrations in the last week.

On Saturday a large number of Rawdon folk which included Messrs. Victor Graham, Jack Sharp, Stewart Brady, John McMullen, Earl Wallace and Stanley Royle all members of Wellman's R.B.P. Wellman's attended the celebration under the auspices of Wellington R.B.P. No. 930.

The members of Wellington Women's Institute served an appetizing dinner in the town hall.

The parade was led by Marshell Harper Broad. The Reeve welcomed the large crowd and other speakers besides Bro. Bateman were Bro. H. A. Graham of Kingston, Grand Organizer of Orange Lodges and Past Grand Master of British America Royal Black Perceptory, Grand Master Bro. Cecil Beckett, of Ontario East, Kemptville, and the Deputy Grand Master of Ontario East, R.B.P. Bro. Roland Darling of Omemee.

On Tuesday, August 12th, the exact date of the seige of Derry, a large crowd gathered at Marlbank. Here a plate luncheon was served. The speakers included, Rt. Worshipful Bro. Fred Bateman who is a member of Stirling, Springbrook and Wellman's lodges as well as Grand Master of Ont. E. Orange lodges; Rev. E. U. Duguette, of Ottawa; Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., of Hastings East, and Mr. Archie Sinclair of Tweed Past County Chaplain.

On Saturday, August 9th a large number attended the celebration at Bancroft. About 20 lodges were in the parade in commemoration of the release of the city of Derry, August 12th, 1688.

The Princess Anne girls lodge of Bancroft, was probably the newest lodge to march and the parade was headed by Havelock pipe band. There were two ladies' lodges in the march also Havelock, Wellington, Trenton, Madoc, Marmora, Bailieboro, Norwood, Peterborough, Haliburton, Bancroft, Frankford and Wellman's R.B.P. was represented.

The speakers included Grand Master Bro. Cecil Beckett, Kemptville, of Ontario East, R.B.P., Grand Master Bro. Fred Bateman, Stirling, of Orange Lodges of Ontario East; Past Master H. A. Graham, of the British America Royal Black Preceptory; Bro. Roland Darling, Omemee, Deputy Grand Master of Ontario East, R.B.P.; Bro. John Corrigan, Ottawa, Past Grand Master of Orange Lodges, Ontario East; Bro. Richard Sanderson, Havelock, Deputy Grand Master Ontario East, L.O.L., and Past Grand Master Bro. Cecil Palmer.

Several Rawdon folk attended the celebration at Bancroft.

The first two events were marked with bright sunshine and ideal weather, however the rain on Saturday dampened the speakers and hurried the celebration to an early closing.

A number of Rawdonians attended all three celebrations.

HOW TO COOMB HAIR

LONDON (Reuters)—Russians who are going bald were warned in a medical talk over Moscow radio yesterday to "comb your hair carefully, paying special attention to combing it at the end first and then gradually approaching the root."

Underneath The Bough

By Edna G. Robins

"What's up now?" Somebody's birthday?" Harry Weston had come home to find his wife radiant in her rose-colored dress. A general air of festivity pervaded the house.

"No not exactly," Louise replied smiling mischievously. "Just a little surprise party."

Harry was mystified, but not until his wife had served the dessert at dinner did Louise let her family into the secret.

"Aunt Ella is responsible for the celebration. I had a letter from her this morning from San Francisco. She thanked us for entertaining her so kindly, and then she wrote—well, I'd better read you what she said."

Louise rose and took the letter from the mantelpiece. Opening it to the second page, she began to read.

"Louise dear, you're my only relative, so of course most of my little savings will go to you. But I don't want you to have to wait till I am gone to enjoy them. I have much more than I need for my wants. Ahd so I am enclosing a check for $10,000 which you are to use in whatever way you think will bring you the most happiness."

There was a general gasp of astonishment. Then each of her listeners tried to make helpful suggestions for disposing of the money.

"Gee, with that we could get an automobile, I should think," Ted offered hopefully.

"Oh, mom, couldn't we go away this summer on a real trip?" Eleanor so expressed her longings.

"We could put in a new furnace with some of the money." Harry spoke slowly. He was waiting to see if Louise would turn the check over to him. That was his idea of the proper thing for a wife to do, and yet he hesitated to tell her so.

Louise listened with a serene and non-commital air to what they said. No one suggested that she spend the money just on herself.

The next morning Louise went out soon after breakfast. She went to the bank and opened her first account. Her pleasure in it was marred by a certain regret that she should have had to get the money as a gift. Harry had started an account for Ted years ago, but he had never considered that his wife needed one.

After leaving the bank Louise took a trolley to New York. She returned late for lunch, satisfied with her efforts.

She found that she could not keep the family in suspense until the end of dinner. She looked at them benignly and felt a little sorry for them, knowing that her plans would take away the appetite of at least one of the group.

"They're nothing but children all three of them," she thought. "And why don't men ever grow up?"

She turned with a smile to Eleanor.

"Well, my dear, I've settled your future for the next few months at least."

"Oh, Mother, what do you mean?"

"I enrolled Miss Eleanor Weston in a business school for a secretarial course."

"Oh, Mother, where?"

In New York, on West 23rd Street."

"And will I have to go to New York every day?"

"Yes, I'm afraid so. But it's a very nice place. I know you'll like it."

"And what else did you do?" Eleanor asked eagerly.

"I've engaged a housekeeper."

"A housekeeper! Why do you want a housekeeper? You aren't going away, Mother, are you?" Ted's voice expressed real concern.

"Not exactly." Louise felt naughty, but she certainly was enjoying herself. "I'm going to school, too!"

The two children stared at her, then broke into excited exclamations of surprise and amusement. Only Harry went on eating his dinner quietly. His thoughts were in a turmoil. He felt that Louise had escaped him; then, more bitterly, he realized that she had never belonged to him.

Louise Weston, avoiding her husband's eyes, was explaining her plans to the children. She was going to an art school on West 10th St.

"That will be for three or four days a week. Then, because we haven't room enough in the house for a studio, and the painty smell isn't nice to have around anyway, I've rented a room that can be fixed up as a studio.'"

"Oh, Mother, what fun" Eleanor cried entranced.

"Will you have parties there like a real artist?" Ted asked seriously.

"Well, maybe but I'll be working very hard trying to be a real artist myself."

Louise glanced hastily at Harry. He looked white and hurt and sick at heart. She hoped it wouldnt take all the pleasure out of her work to know that she was upsetting him.

"I know it's what Aunt Ella wanted me to do," she explained. "And it's only fair to her to give it a trial. If it doesn't work out, I can always give it up."

SAYS WOMAN DIED TWICE

LONDON (Reuters)— An inquest was told yesterday that Mrs. Doris Pickford, 37, died twice while giving birth. A doctor testified that Mrs. Pickford's heart stopped beating for 30 seconds in the middle of a Caesarian operation. He got the heart beating again by massaging it. "Several hours later she died a second time,'" he said. The baby was alive.

MANY HAVE DIED

AROLSEN, Germany (Reuters)—The West German government has definite information that two-thirds of the 750,000 German civilains deported to the Soviet Union since the war have died, Refugees Minister Hans Lukaschek said yesterday.

Overjoyed By Relief From Bad Stomach Disorders

Gives All Credit To Syntona Herbal Compound For Present Good Health. Now also Free Of Dizzy Spells, Rheumatic Pain And Tired, Rundown Feeling

"For six years I was troubled very badly with stomach disorders, and my entire system became rundown, but I am like a different person since taking a short treatment of Syntona," said Mr. Joseph Belland, 184 Simcoe Street, London, Ontario, in a recent statement.

"I actually began to feel better even after the first few days that I was taking this medicine. So, I kept right on and now instead of my food souring and bloating my stomach with gas, it digests thoroughly and gives me nourishment and strength.

"I never feel short of breath any more nor have sick, bilious spells which were so bad they used to scare me at times. My sleep is more sound and restful and I get up mornings feeling more refreshed. I do not feel all tired out during the day as I did before.

"Then, too, I used to suffer from bad rheumatic pain and soreness all through my limbs, joints and muscles, but this is cleared up now and I am certainly very thankful to Syntona for helping me the way it did."

MR. JOSEPH BELLAND

Made from 12 of Nature's Finest Herbal ingredients, Syntona acts on stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels . . . aids in the elimination of excess acids and impurities and gives better tone to the intestinal tract. It promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at Dolan The Druggist.

Return to Dieppe

A party of 28 Canadians, veterans of the Dieppe raid of 10 years ago, march past the Brighton and Hove Peace statue erected to honor the heroism of Canadian troops who took part. Defence Minister Rene Pleven of France unveiled a memorial at Puys, outside Dieppe, where about 6,000 troops, most of them Canadians, made five separate landings. Nearly half were killed, wounded, missing or captured. The salute at Dieppe is taken by J. S. P. Armstrong, Ontario agent-general in Great Britain, who also represented the Canadian Veterans' Association of the United Kingdom. With him are the mayors of Brighton and Hove. — (CP Photo.)

CONGRESS BALKS ON OUTLAWING RED PARTY

Resolved to Battle Reds Within Ranks

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canada's biggest union body, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, will go on battling Reds in union ranks. But it balks at calling for the outlawing of the Communist party in this country.

The 502,000-member T.L.C. at its annual convention yesterday tramped on an attempt to have it ease up on its own tough internal policy on Reds but drew a line between that and government action against the Labor Progressive party, the legislative arm of the Reds in this country.

The anti-Red T.L.C. took the stand that asking the federal government to outlaw Communist parties—or any other subversive parties—might open the way to suppressions that could threaten freedom of expression in Canada.

Executive Defeated

The T.L.C.'s decision represented something of a setback for its executives, which had given tacit approval to the idea of a ban on the Communist party. The proposal was put before the convention by its resolutions committee and, it was understood, after an okay by the executive.

Such approval usually assures passage, but this time there was a general revolt against the idea of asking the government to kill off a political party.

Bernard Shane of Montreal, Canadian chief of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and one of Canada's top anti-Reds in labor, summarized the argument this way:

"It would be putting a terrible weapon in the hands of government to have it suppress a political party. Once you give a government that power, you don't know who they'll suppress next."

Without a recorded vote, the Congress overwhelmingly decided against the ban. Only a handful supported it.

The 537 delegates were equally strong on deciding earlier that the Congress should continue its decision against allowing Communist-dominated unions in the Congress or Communist individuals to become convention delegates.

The ban was slapped on two years ago, and yesterday its removal was sought by the left-wing Ocean Falls, B.C., local of the Pulp and Sulphite Workers' Union.

Czechs to Deport 50,000 Families To The Country

VIENNA (Reuters)—The Czechoslovak Communist government plans to deport 45,000 to 50,000 "unreliable" families from the big towns into the country, according to reliable reports reaching here from Prague.

Such deportations have already been made in Hungary and Romania and are believed to be part of a campaign, ordered from Moscow, to "purge" towns throughot the astern European Communist states.

Most of those turned out in the general purge are expected to from the former middle classes, such as bankers, businessmen, lawyers and ex-army and police officers.

Duke of Windsor Much Improved, Leaves for Resort

PARIS (Reuters) — The Duke of Windsor left here today for Biarritz, resort town on the Bay of Biscay, accompanied by his Swedish masseur, Dr. Algren Hyeling, who has been giving him an intensive course of massage for lumbago.

The Duke, 58, and his American born wife returned to Paris last Saturday. He had been treated for gastric enteritis at the Italian spa of Montecatini.

The Duke was today reported to be almost recovered from the lumbago attack, but Hyeling will stay with him in Biarritz for another three days to complete the massage course.

600-Acre Model Farm Sold For Housing Project

TORONTO (CP) — A 600-acre farm on the northeast outskirts of Toronto, where pigs once were bathed with toilet soap and cows lounged in white tile stables, has been sold to make way for a housing development.

The "model farm" was built by David Alexander Dunlap, a Mattawa, Ont., lawyer who amassed a fortune after he scraped together $2,400 to buy a share in a mining venture at Cobalt. He later became vice-president and treasurer of Hollinger Gold Mines and at the time of his death had a fortune of $5,759,558.

His wife died in 1946, leaving the estate to her son, Moffat Dunlap, her only heir.

The farm was established 40 years-ago and during its peak years attracted visitors from many parts of the world.

Dr. R. M. Jenkins, an agricultural expert, was employed as farm manager. Music was provided in dairy barns and chicken houses. Farm workers said the animals found soft, classical music most enjoyable.

The pigs were bathed twice a week with warm water and toilet soap and then rubbed down with olive oil.

Until 20 years ago, each cow was given a daily going-over with a employees on the farm all wore white clothing. Horses drank from enamelled basins, and their stalls were of polished maple.-

AGREEMENT SAVES MILLION DOLLAR TOMATO CROP

12-Day Strike at Heinz Plant Is Settled

LEAMINGTON. (C)— A threat to a $1,000,000 tomato crop ended early today with the settling of a 12-day strike at the H. J. Heinz of Canada plant.

Today had been set as the final deadline for harvesting the crop, which the plant processes into tomato juice and catsup. Return of the 1,100 workers ended plans to truck the crop elsewhere.

After a session with union and company leaders which lasted until 1 a.m., Labor Minister Daley announced agreement had been reached. The terms will be placed before the union membership for ratification.

Mr. Daley declined to discuss the terms. It is believed the employees will receive a good part of the 21-cent-an-hour increase their executive had demanded. The company offered 11 cents.

"I think it is safe to say the employees will be back at work sometime today," Mr. Daley said when he emerged from the conference room at Leamington town hall. "I don't think the tomato crop will be hurt."

At 2 p.m. yesterday, Mr. Daley and Louis Fine, chief provincial conciliation officer, went into conference with the disputants. Eleven hours later—there was a break for dinner—they emerged.

Despite the late hour word spread rapidly through the district, delighting businessmen and farmers. Picking of the crop normally would have started a week ago. Another 24 hours of the strike and the tomatoes would have begun to rot.

Members of the Essex County Tomato Growers' Association were prepared to pick the crop and dispatch it to processing plants in Toronto, Chatham, Port Dover, Windsor and others centres. Ordinarily the entire crop goes to the Heinz plant. Shipping it elsewhere would have wiped out the growers' profit margin because of shipping charges.

Retail business in Leamington, which depends largely on the $50,000 weekly wage of the plant workers and on the payments to the tomato growers, was reported down about 30 per cent. Food stores have been selling mainly on credit.

U.S. Govt. Seeks Federal Order To Seize Car

FORT ERIE (CP)—The United States government moved today for a federal court order to permit confiscation of a 1951 automobile allegedly used to smuggle nickel into the United States via the Peace Bridge in January.

The automobile, an expensive make, has been appraised at a valuation o f$3,597 by Buffalo customs appraisers, and is owned by one of six persons indicted by the special federal grand jury last spring on smuggling charges.

The owner, Leslie Lambersky of Toronto, is free on $2,500 bail, and federal officials now say he cannot be extradicted from Canada

Pilot Crash-Lands Jet, Escapes With Slight Injury

Skids 800 Yards After Landing at Over 100 MPH

CARLETON PLACE (CP) — PO. R. J. Childerhose, 21, of St. Boniface, Man., ran out of gas today at 20,000 feet and lived to tell about it. He crash landed his F-86 Sabre jet with an 800-yard long skid in a farmer's field about five miles east of, here.

Flying with two other jets in formation, PO. Childerhose dropped down to about 2,000 feet before his engine stopped. Then he skimmed over farmlands before settling down in a field at more than 100 miles an hour.

P.O. Childerhose walked away from the crash with only a cut over his eye. A wing was knocked off the plane when it plowed through several fences. The nose and fuselage were badly ripped.

P.O. Childerhose flagged down E. W. Jenkins, a garageman on a nearby road, and rode with him to Ashton, about five miles west. He telephoned his base at Uplands Airport, 25 miles northeast near Ottawa.

Air Force officials said only Childerhose's great skill in crashlanding and the soggy condition of the farm fields saved him from being killed.

Elderly Cobourg Contractor Hit By Passing Car

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—An elderly Cobourg contractor escaped with comparatively slight injuries today when he was hit by a car on Highway 7 one mile north of the city.

In civic hospital with shock and possible head injuries is Fred Earle, of Cobourg, about 74.

Earle and his partner, John Field of Cobourg, stopped their truck on the top of Milburn's Hill on the east side. Mr. Earle got out to cross the road and ask for information.

Driver of the car, G.F. Webster of Montreal turned onto the shoulder to avoid hitting Earle, who walked right into the side of the car.

Thieves Get $300

TORONTO (CP)—Three masked thieves slugged a garage caretaker in suburban Islington early today and got away with between $300 and $400.

The caretaker, Reginald Saville, 57, is in hospital in fair condition.

SPREAD PROPAGANDA

TOKYO (AP) — Newspapers and radio broadcasts in Communist China are telling the 200,000 Japanese still living there that United States troops are making a colony of Japan and committing atrocities against the Japanese. A 21-year-old Japanese nurse who returned recently from Red China said newspapers print pictures purporting to depict U.S. forces committing violence in Japan.

Large Explosive Plant Being Built Near Calgary

CALGARY (CP)—One of the world's most up-to-date explosives factories is in production on a 1,300-acre site within nine miles of Calgary.

All precautions have been taken to protect the more than 100 employees, and the entire processing machinery is literlly wired for danger. One official said: "When you don't take chances with explosives, you are safer than if you were pitching hay."

The factory, built by Canadian Industries Ltd. at a cost of $4,000,000, is the first in North America to be equipped with the Swiss-built "biazzi nitrator." This device takes the guess-work out of the most intricate operation in manufacturing explosives—the mixture of nitric acid with glycerine to make nitro-glycerine.

Big Cooling System

Refrigerating equipment weighing 50 tons was installed to cope with the high temperatures generated in the biazzi nitrator during the mixing process. The biazzi machine itself sounds the alarm if the temperature rises above 60 degrees, and if it approaches the danger mark of 90 degrees the machine opens a trap door and dumps the mixture into a tank of cold water.

Employees must take a shower after each shift as a safety measure against possible effects from contact with nitro-glycerine. Employees are provided with a complete change of clothing each day to eliminate the risk of sparks from metal buttons or books.

Shoes provided for all workers have no nails and visitors must wear rubbers on entering the plant.

6 Spend Night On Island In Wet Clothing

ORILLIA (CP)—Six young employees of the Y.W.C.A. camp on nearby Lake Couchiching were confined to bed under doctors care today after spending the night huddling in wet clothes on Horseshoe Island.

They are: Don Scott, Joe Devine, Betty Fowler and Helen Wood of Logford and Jeannette Zeigler of Waterloo.

They were out on the lake in two rowboats when a sudden squall overturned one of the boats. The second boat went to the rescue but high winds and choppy water prevented it from taking the extra load aboard and so the party struggled to shore on the island.

Temperatures dropped to 48 degrees as the six took shelter in an abandoned shack. They had no matches with which to light a fire.

Camp Director Don Hills and Cecil Brown, general secretary to the Hamilton Y.M.C.A., found them early today.

NEW COMET FOUND

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)— A faint new comet, without a tail, has been discovered in the constellation Cepheus, California Institute of Technology made the announcement yesterday. The discovery was made Sunday night by the 48-inch Schmidt telescope on Palomar Mountain.

Bilingualism Made Gains In Canada in Last Ten Years With Use of English Far Ahead

OTTAWA (CP) — Bilingualism made gains in Canada during the last 10 years, but the English language surged ahead in all provinces but Quebec, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

In Quebec, those who used French as their official tongue outnumbered those who spoke only English about five to one. But in Ontario, those who spoke English outnumbered those who used only French about 50 to one.

Surveying language use, the census-takers last year found that the number of Canadians using English as their only language climbed to 9,387,000, up 1,652,000 from 7,735,000 in 1941.

In that period, Canada's total population climbed to 14,000,000 from 11,500,000.

The number of Canadians who used French only increased to 2,742,000, a gain of 560,000 from 2,182,000.

But though Canada was still far from being a bilingual country, the number of Canadians who used both French and English climbed to 1,727,000, a rise of 253,000 from 1,474,000.

Some 152,000, most of them immigrants and the like, could speak neither English nor French. This was up 37,000 from 115,000 in 1941.

Quebec was the home of 92 per cent of all Canadians who used only French. Ontario held 44 per cent of all those who used only English.

Choice of an official language was not entirely due to what the Canadian learned at his mother's knee, for although 2,742,000 Canadians used rench only some 4,000,000 Canadians gave French as their mother tongue. In other words, in the course of time, some French-Canadians had become bilingual or had switched over to the English tongue.

English was the mother tongue of 8,281,000 Canadians while 1,660,000 claimed languages other than French or English as their first tongue.

Of the total 1,727,000 bilingualists in Canada, 1,038,000 were in Quebec and 360,000 in Ontario.

Orgy of Murder, Arson Results In Death of 8

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (Reuters) —an intensive manhunt today sought a fugitive former policeman whose orgy of murder and arson last night resulted in the deaths of his parents, his sweetheart and five other persons.

Police said Tore Hedin, 25-year-old constable at Hurva, wrote a note confessing to the crimes and left it in his auto when he abandoned it. The note also confessed to another murder last year at the nearby town of Tjoernarp when he was a policeman there.

Last night he set his parents' house on fire, burning them both to death. He hacked to pieces his fiance, Ulla Oestberg, 24, and another woman, Agnes Lundin, 54, head of the local old people's home.

Then he set fire to the old people's home, which resulted in the death of four others, police said.

Hedin was dismissed from his police post two days ago for threatening and maltreating Miss Oestburg.

The note gave no motive for most of the crimes, but said he had burned his parents to death because he did not want them to know he was a murderer.

Mossadegh Orders Wealthy to Pay All Back Taxes

TEHRAN (AP) — Premier Mohammed Mossadegh expanded his new soak-the-rich program yesterday by ordering the country's wealthy class to pay up back taxes they have traditionally ignored.

The premier's Economic Council also proposed that Mossadegh, using the virtual dictator's powers granted him by Parliament, set up a new graduated tax on all land holdings, the majority of which are owned by a handful of rich Iranians.

The new decrees emphasized Mossadegh's oft-repeated intention to dig into the well-lined pockets of the landed gentry—of which he himself is a member—to solve growing economic ills.

Economic experts have said if taxes on the income from land holdings and other interests were collected regularly, the country could get along nicely on that revenue alone.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: A large area of high atmospheric pressure centred near Fort William dominates the weather picture over Ontario today. A strong surge of cold air from the northwest has preceded this high pressure area. As it moves southeast over Lakes Superior and Huron clear chilly nights and pleasantly cool sunny days will prevail along its path.

Northern Ontario felt the full impact of this thrust of cold air last night and frost was a commonplace occurrence north of Lake Superior. Early this morning the temperature had dropped to five degrees below the freezing point at White River, and at Armstrong ice had formed on fence rails.

Cheap American Money for Oil Worries British

VANCOUVER (CP)—A British oil engineer said yesterday an abundance of "cheap American money" is throwing a barricade in front of British firms which want to invest in Western Canada's oil industry.

Arthur Beeby Thompson of London added: "The prices that Americans, with their '10-cent dollars,' as they are called in Calgary, are paying for oil land are enormous.

"No Britisher would dream of paying so high. . . They will not pay the stupid prices asked for land, nor the development costs prevailing."

Of the Americans, he said: "They come in here and throw their money around—which they can do because they can write off losses against profits in their taxation reports."

Thirteen Victims Of Flash Flood Are Buried

LYNTON, England (Reuters)—A mournful lament on the bagpipes skirled across the Valley of Rocks here today as 13 victims of last week's flash-flood at nearby Lymouth were buried.

About 60 mourners gathered along two lines of graves in the hydrangea-filled cemetery.

Rev. Theodore Coldman walked over Lynmouth, almost blotted out by the river floods, to conduct a joint service with Rev. E.H. Soutar, vicar of Lynton.

Tom Floyde, local postman who lost six of his family in the flood, led the singing of "Abide With me." As the last coffin was lowered, an army bugler blew the Last Post. Then the notes of the lament, Flowers of the Forest, played by a lone piper, echoed across the valley.

A total of 21 are known to have died in the Lynmouth flood, with 15 still missing and presumed dead.

Perfume Bath For 3,000 Pigs Removes Stench

SECAUCUS, N.J. (CP)—Perfume at $5 a gallon doesn't sound expensive but when it is used in the amounts necessary to deodorize 3,000 pigs it becomes a costly proposition.

That's why farmers of this pig-farming community are taking their time deciding whether to adopt a plan to spray their 52,000 pigs regularly with perfume in an attempt to reduce the stench and possibly increase the tourst trade.

Charles Schoch's 3,000 pigs were the first to get the perfume treatment and they don't smell like pigs anymore. But the cost was $90 for 18 gallons of a parsely green fluid called "aeractor" and another $35 to have the stuff sprayed.

Schoch said the spray would have to be used about once a week to be really effective and he isn't sure if $125 is worth it.

Other pig farmers, membrs of the Stock Farmers Assciation of which Schoch is President, indicated they will wait before deciding whether to go along with the plan.

by a recent statement by Governor Alfred Driscoll that the air around Secaucus is enough to scare away all but the bravest of visitors.

WILL TRY FOR RECORD

BELFAST —(Reuters) — The British Canberra jet bomber, which already holds the record for the east-west crossing of the Atlantic, is expected to make an attempt on the record for the double crossing soon, it was learned today. The English Electric Company, builders of the aircraft, are planning the attempt between Northern Ireland and Gander, Nfld.

New Anti-Malaria Drug Helps To Prevent Relapses Says Journal

NEW YORK (AP)—Development of a new anti-malaria drug to help prevent relapses caused by the disease was announced today.

The Journal of the American Medical Association reports on the new compound known as primaquine.

The report covers studies conducted by teams of malaria experts working under sponsorship of the United States Army, and the U.S. Public Health Service.

Primaquine is a modification of pamaquine, termed the first successful synthetic antimalarial drug.

Prompting the investigations was the heavy rate of vivax infection — the type which produces relapses — found among United Nations troops in Korea.

Tests were conducted on Korean veterans with acute malaria attacks. A total of 703 patients was treated.

No relapses were found among 231 patients treated with a combination of primaquine and chloroquine daily for 14 days. One patient relapsed in a group of 216 similarly treated. While 61 of 232 cases given chloroquine alone relapsed at least once after treatment.

Teen-Agers Make Sure Boy Friends Are Remembered

TOLEDO (AP)—A new craze among 'teen-agers, the burning or cutting on to their arms of their lovers' initials, was under investigation here today.

Policewoman Mary Gilley said the fad has been limited to frequentrs of one particular ice-cream store.

A 14-year-old girl admitted she used a razor blade to scar on her arm the initials of her two boy friends, and later cut the initials of another boy on the arms of his girl friend.

Policewoman Gilley said the "proper thing" to do, under the new 'teen-agers' code, is to sear the initials on to the skin with a heated penknife.

Britain Expects 750,000 Visitors Next Year to Spend $350,000,000

By JACK GOLDING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain expects 750,000 visitors from other countries during 1952 and she hopes they will spend some £120,000,000 while they are here.

The British Travel and Holiday Association, which sets out these estimates, meanwhile is trying to find out what pleases or displaces visitors from abroad. With this in mind, it has devised a system of stamped and addressed cards to be filled out by tourists when they leave.

Thousands of replies have been received from people of many nationalities, but the association says that Canadians do not send many.

On the basis of replies received, it appears most Canadians spent about six weeks in the country and generally liked what they found. Complaints were few although it is believed some who used to spend most of their time in the United Kingdom now go to the continent to get away from Britain's austerity.

Their trip, fares included, cost them about $1,000. They found the prices of food, drink and commodities what they had expected, if not cheaper. Their general impression was that the cost of living is lower in Britain on many items—though they did not comment on the scale of wages and salaries.

A visitor from Leaside, Ont., found hotel rooms too cold. A Toronto man thought the food much better than he had been led to believe from newspapers. A Halifax school teacher found the price of a cup of coffee much higher than in Canada and a Newfoundland visitor said he could think of better countries in which to have his shirts laundered.

STAN McTAGGART, NAPANEE, POLICE CHIEF OF DESERONTO

Stan McTaggart, of Napanee, well-known in baseball circles, has been appointed chief of police of Deseronto.

The new chief was formerly on the staff of the Gibbard Furniture Company. A brother, Lawrence, is a member of the Napanee police department.

BOYS PUNISHED FOR SEARCHING CARS

Two young boys probably are feeling sorry today.

They were discovered searching cars in a parking lot near an uptown hotel last night.

A police officer took them in hand gave them some good advice, took them home where the parents took over, and administered, it is said, some good old-fashioned family punishment.

BOY, 14, MISSING

Dennis Downes, 14, of 16 Bay Street, has been reported missing to city and provincial police.

The youngster went away last Tuesday saying he was going on a supervised all-night route march with boys from the East Hill. Later it was discovered no such route march had been planned.

Downes is a stocky youngster weighing some 112 pounds, has medium brown hair and dark brown eyes. He was wearing blue jeans and a wine-colored shirt. He has a large scar on his left elbow.

HAY BAY YIELDS SOME NICE PICKEREL

The pickerel in Hay Bay, it seems have a yen for the bait of Wally Bell, Geddes St.

Early in the week, Mr. Bell, with two friends from Rochester, N.Y., went in quest of the elusive fish and came home with 14 beauties. The largest tipped the scales at 6 1-2 pounds while the smallest weighed three.

Last year, Bell and a party fished in the same bay and came home with a haul that equalled the one made this season.

MOVING OF HOUSE BLOCKS TRAFFIC ON DUNDAS STREET

Early risers in the East Dundas Street area rubbed their eyes in disbelief this morning as they saw a house moving down the road in the direction of the city.

A second look cleared the matter up, the building was mounted on a float of a local construction firm. A check with the company office failed to reveal the destination or origin of the house. Nobody seemed to know where it was going or where it came from.

One thing the drivers on the street are sure of though, the house successfully blocked traffic for the half hour or so it took to travel from Bleecker Ave. to Pinnacle St.

YOUNGSTER RECEIVES NEEDLE DESPITE LOUD PROTEST

Children have many ways of expressing dislike for anything distasteful.

The immunization clinic is naturally unpopular with the younger set and the medical officer of health wouldn't win any popularity contest with the youngster's either.

At Thursday's clinic, a young man of about eight years old, had to be dragged into the office for his inoculations by his mother. The lad expressed his displeasure in the usual vocal manner. When he spotted the medical officer with the needle he raised his fist in the air and screamed at the doctor, "I'm going to hit you." To enforce his threat the boy brandished a lead soldier in his fist.

Needless to say, he received his inoculations despite his threat. The doctor wasn't the least impressed.

Boy's Dog Refuses Anyone Near Forgotten Jacket

A dog's loyalty to his young master gave city police cause for concern last night.

Jealously guarding a jacket, the dog refused to allow anybody near the garmet which lay on the riverbank to the rear of the Thomas Tobacco Shop.

Police were notified and at first it was thought the owner of the jacket had met with some accident, or fallen in the river.

Humane Society officer Chas. Thorne, finally retrieved the jacket from the dog. No identification marks were apparent.

Later it was learned the jacket belonged to the young son of Lawrence Vance, Murney Street, who was asleep in bed blissfully unaware of the excitement caused by his dog.

Young Vance, it seems, had been fishing on the river bank with three companions in the afternoon and had forgotten his jacket.

Gwenneth Musclow, Hybla, Killed, Crushed by Log

BANCROFT. (Special) — Gwenneth Musclow, five, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Musclow, Hybla, ten miles north of Bancroft, was instantly killed Thursday at noon, while playing among the saw logs at the mill near her home. The little girl was crushed to death, when some logs from a huge pile became disldoged, one rolling on top of her.

It is understood trucks had just brought in new logs for mill and had them piled up when the girl started to run up and down the pile. One became dislodged and rolled on her. Dr. O. W. Anderson, coroner, Bancroft, was called to the scene and decided it was an accident and declared no inquest necessary

The little girl is survived besides her parents, by six brothers and sisters.

Obituary

FRANCES ENIA STICKLE (Trenton)

The funeral of Frances Enia Stickle, widow of James B. Stickle, was held from the family residence, R. R. 7 Trenton, to Grace United Church, Thursday afternoon, August 21st, for service at 2.00 p. m. Service was conducted by Reverend Claude Brethen.

Bearers were Francis Stickle, Harry Irwin, Harold Dickens, Ross Stickle, Gerald McKenna and Allan Boate.

The late Mrs. Stickle was born at Castleton, Ontario, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Stimers. She died at her home, R. R. 7, Trenton, Monday, August 18th after an illness of three weeks duration. She was in her 86th year. She had lived in the Trenton district for the past 29 years.

She is survived by five sons, Clayton, Kenneth and Glenn, all of R. R. 5 Trenton; Arnold of Frankford, and Morris, R. R. 7 Trenton. She was predeceased by her husband in 1946.

Also surviving her are two sisters, Mrs. G. C. Henderson, (Pearl), Williamstown, and Mrs. Lily Keller, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan.

The deceased was a member of Grace United Church, and the Grace United Church Women's Association.

GEORGE S. BONTER

At his summer home, Malone, Ontario, George S. Bonter of 63 Donald Street, Belleville, died in his 68th year on Thursday.

Born in Marmora, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Bonter. Formally Mr. Bonter lived at Toronto and Winnipeg. He had been a resident of the district for the past six months. He had been in failing health for the past two years.

Surviving are his wife, the former Helena Lummiss; two daughters, Mrs. William Wallis, of Port Colborne; and one son, Wm. K. Bonter, Kaladar; Mrs. W. McKeon, Montreal; three sisters, Mrs. Jane Airhart, Marmora; Mrs. Susan Meighan of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Mrs. Charles Lummiss, of Marmora; three brothers, John W. Bonter and R. E. Bonter of Marmora and A. P. Bonter of Fennwood, Saskatchewan.

Mr. Bonter had been for 20 years, general superintendent of The North American and Citizen Lumber Company at Winnipeg. He was a member of the United Church.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Co. Funeral Home, the funeral notice appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. JOSEPH MOON (Madoc)

Suddenly at the home of Oscar Reynolds, Madoc township, Mrs. Joseph Moon of Madoc, died on Thursday. She was 58 years old at the time of her death.

Born in Madoc, she was the daughter of the late Lewis and Mary Reynolds. Mrs. Moon had been a resident of the area all her life.

Her husband, Joseph Moon, predeceased her in 1950. Surviving are three sons, Clarence, Roy and Joseph, all of Madoc; one daughter, Mrs. William (Myrtle) Rose of Madoc. There are two brothers, Hugh Reynolds of Rochester, N.Y., Fred Reynolds of Marmora and one sister, Mrs. Clifford (Agnes) Devorick of Toronto.

Mrs. Moon was a member of Trinity United Church.

Resting at her residence, the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Rent Argument Causes Injury To Two Persons

HAMILTON (CP)—A rent disagreement late last night sent two persons to hospital for treatment of stab wounds and resulted in a charge of wounding with intent to maim being laid against Anthony Zebowski, 60, of Alberton.

Zebowski, a farmer, was arrested after Joe Carr, 38, and his wife allegedly were stabbed. Hospital authorities said Mr. Carr was treated for an abdominal wound and a gash in the left arm. Mrs. Carr was treated for a cut on her right thumb. Both were released after treatment.

Ontario provincial police said the argument took place in Zebowski's home where the Carrs also live. Police said Zebowski wielded a large butcher knife and that Mrs. Carr suffered the cut thumb when she tried to separate her husband and Zebowski.

Two Injured In Head-on Crash On Picton Road

Sisters of drivers of two light pick-up trucks, which collided head-on off the Picton highway opposite the Mountain View Creamery late yesterday afternoon were injured, one of whom was rushed by ambulance to the Belleville General Hospital where she was treated for a gashed knee.

Injured and taken to hospital was Mrs. Dorothy Hughes, of 12 miles north of Arden, and a sister of one driver, W. Parks, 33, of the same address. She was released after five stitches had been used to close the wound.

Suffering a bruised left cheek was Miss Didy Hoven, 23, of Bloomfield, sister of Frederick Hoven, 19, driver of the second vehicle.

In a report to police, Hoven complained that he was forced to apply his brakes, when a truck he was trailing suddenly slackened speed. To avoid hitting the truck, he swerved over the centre line, crashing into the Picton-bound Parks truck which was sent spinning off the road and into a ditch where it overturned, spilling $24 worth of groceries over the road.

Damage to the Parks truck was described as extensive while the right front section of the Hoven truck was also damaged. Total damage was estimated at $800.

William Hughes, 35, husband of the injured woman, was also a passenger in the truck but was not injured.

In April, 1950, a soldier met death in a traffic accident on the same hill. Since that time, this point on the highway has been named "Suicide Hill" by residents of the area.

Brockville Team Defaults Game To Glen Roys

The Brockville Plymouths Junior "A" softball team has defaulted the second game of the first round OASA playdowns with the Belleville Glen Roys, OASA executive member Harry Knott announced today.

According to word received from the Brockville management, their pitcher was injured and unable to play.

The game was scheduled to be played at the Alemite Field tomorrow night, starting at nine o'clock.

Mr. Knott also stated that the Glen Roys will meet the Oshawa juniors in the first game of a best-of-three series in the second round here on Saturday, August 30th.

STANLEY F. EVERSON,

Governor District No. 247, Rotary International, will pay his official visit to the Rotary Club on Monday.

Mr. Everson, who is a representative of the London Life Insurance Company in his native city of Oshawa, is a graduate of the University of Toronto and a past president of the Oshawa Rotary Club.

Wife Forgives Hubby For 'Poke in Jaw'

Wives are funny!

Last night one was given a "poke in the jaw" by an irate hubby, and the lady promptly called the police.

However, she declined to prefer charges after the arrival of the limbs of the law, saying she would do so, if hubby smote her again.

Moral: Never hit the lady of the house two in a row.

Friends Who Left City 55 Years Ago Meet for First Time This Week

The personal column of the Ontario Intelligencer, though primarily belonging to the social events of the fair sex, is often of deep interest also to those of the sterner sex as in the case of Mr. George A. Downey, of Bath, N. Y.

As Mr. Downey was scanning the social events of the day, he noticed the name of his old friend, Mr. Seymour Deacon, and that he was visiting friends in the city. Seeking to learn where his friend might be staying, Mr. Downey inquired at the Ontario Intelligencer, but without success.

But fate lent a hand, and brought these two friends together after a separation of more than half a century. Mr. Deacon came from Rochester to attend a funeral and Mr. Downey to renew acquaintance with friends. Both met on Bridge Street on Tuesday.

Mr. Deacon and Mr. Downey, as young men, learned their respective trades in the city at the same time; Mr. Deacon, the barber trade from Mr. Charles (Reddy) Diett and Mr. Downey, the horseshoeing trade from Mr. Phil Hart, the blacksmith at that time on Everett Street which trades they completed at the same time.

With about $4 apiece in their jeans, they bought a one-way $1.50 excursion ticket to Rochester, parting there to make their divergent ways in life, Mr. Deacon going south to Dansville, N. Y., and Mr. Downey, west, to Cleveland, Ohio.

Now, after 55 years, both are enjoying a "talk-fest," reminiscing of "good old days" when haircuts were had for 25 cents and old dobbin clip-clopped down Front Street to the local livery stables which were located in what is now the press room of the Ontario Intelligencer.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices were mixed in slow early afternoon stock market trading today but western oils advanced more than a point on the exchange's index.

Industrials declined after a firm opening and golds and base metals wavered between small gains and losses. Western oils opened weak but quickly gained support.

Trading in most sections was confined to a few stocks but golds broadened early to cover a fairly wide list of stocks. Heavy trading in a number of mining issues that has marked early sessions this week did not materialize today. Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,290,000 shares.

Leading western oil issues recovered after a weak opening and Canadian Atlantic, Central Leduc, Del Rio, Husky, Pacific Petroleum, and Sapphire advanced.

In the industrial list most sections were mixed but steels showed strength.

Kelore, a gold prospect, attracted interest with a turnover of more than 100,000 shares but recorded little change in price. Senior golds and junior producers were mixed while holding companies showed strength. Most price changes were small.

Some base metal issues advanced especially higher-priced stocks. Golden Manitou and Hudson Bay showed strength.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO. (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Egg market prices were unchanged in steady trading. Quotations for graded eggs in fibre cases were: A large, 61-62 cents; A medium, 51-52; A small, 35-36; grade B 39-40; grade C, 27-28. Wholesale to retail: A large, 66-67; A medium, 55-56; A small, 40; grade B, 45-46; grade C, 35.

Butter prices were: First grade, 58 cents tenderable, 57 1-4 to 57 1-2 cents non-tenderable; second grade, not established; western, 58 1-4 cents.

Kinsmen Defeat Booth's Peewees 14-3

The Kinsmen softball peewees took the first game of the semi-finals playoffs last night defeating Booths Radio by a 14-3 score. The second game will be played Monday night.

Ronny Pointer went the route for the winners giving up eight hits striking out five and walking three.

Brennan on the mound for the Radio team was nicked for eighteen clouts striking out two and issuing five free tickets.

Garfield Till led the winners' offensive with a home run and two singles. Hubert Pointer got three hits as did Kellar.

Moreau had three hits for the losers with Soden hitting a triple driving in two runs.

TAX COLLECTIONS UP

WASHINGTON (AP) — The internal revenue bureau reports that it has collected almost $65,000,000,000 in taxes and social security contributions in the fiscal year ended June 30—more than it took during any previous year. Tax collections were up $14,500,000,000 over the previous 12 months.

PIONEER DIES

Sergeant Uses Body to Shield Man from Injury

TORONTO (CP)—A sergeant's modesty kept quiet until today how he used his own body to shield a fellow-soldier from an exploding grenade.

Several weeks ago Sgt. A. W. Graham of the Toronto Scottish Regiment was teaching recruits to throw grenades when a live one fell back into the bomb bay. The sergeant dragged the man who had hurled it outside and threw himself on top of him as the bomb exploded.

No one was hurt but the bomb bay was scarred by steel fragments and the floor ripped by the explosion.

The story came to light today when the sergeant was commended for his action by his superior officers.

BRITAIN EXPECTS

Most Canadians indicated they were anxious to return to Britain—particularly for the Coronation. One Ottawa visitor was critical about tipping and a woman from Winnipeg deplored the lack of coat hangers in hotels.

Various opinions concerning the courtesy and lack of some in cab drivers was evident. And a Toronto man wanted to know why he couldn't have water served with his meals.

An official of the Association said the most critical visitors are the French. The most complimentary are Americans.

Asked if the Americans didn't offer any chilly observations about Britain's coffee, he said: "Well, yes but usually in a light-hearted manner. One man from Kansas City told us we ought to make the sale of bad coffee an offence punishable by death." Asked how he felt about this, the official said: "Well. . .as a matter of fact, old boy, I agree."

But it took a Dutchman to offer a fine point of warm philosophy. He wrote: "We love England. After all, food isn't everything."

PICTON

Over 1000 Persons See 'International Variety Revue'

Picton—Picton Centennial Fair continued its record-breaking ways yesterday in spite of rain in the morning The afternoon was clear with an overcast sky. Sun came out late in the afternoon, providing a perfect evening which saw line-ups at the wickets. The Fair continues Friday and Saturday with horse races and horse shows as features.

Last night, the first presentation of International variety revue pleased more than 1000 persons in the grandstand. Starred were jugglers from London, England, cowboys from Texas with roping and shooting, a trained horse, midget bull which proves almost human, a lady contortionist, a skilled banjo player, an orchestra and dance line and a wire act. This is being given again tonight and Saturday night.

Reunion day on Wednesday saw 130 persons guests of the Fair. These were couples wed 50 years or more and those 85 and over. They were interviewed by Carl Reid and they recalled many Fairs of the past. Longest wed were Mr. and Mrs. A. VanCott of Ameliasburg, 65 years; oldest man, Mr. VanCott, 90 in February, and F. W. C. Kent, Picton, 90 this week. Oldest lady was Mrs. Addie Brooks, 90; coming longest distance were Mr. and Mrs. Garnett Dulmage, from California; Mrs. E. L. Potter, Vancouver; Mrs. C. A. Hall, Cupar, Sask., Mrs. Edith MacDonald, New York City. All received gifts and everyone was presented with roses.

Program

Program included a fashion parade which included dresses 150 years old. Mrs. Bernard Brooks was commentator with A. Benvie at the piano and Mrs. C. Lobb as soloist. A juggling act and bull whip act were well received.

Included in a parade were cars of 1908, 1912, 1914 and 1923, all in running order, as well as many horses. Rain cut down the parade but it proved of great interest. Picton IOOF band was in the lead and also gave a concert.

Fame of the Centennial Fair seems to have spread over the whole district and crowds today and Saturday are expected to be the largest ever. Another notable feature is the huge midway, the largest ever in this district.

Today, all horses have arrived and now fill a big tent and two barns. The cattle barn is taxed to capacity and judging takes place this afternoon.

In spite of the great stream of traffic, police report no accidents.

SENSELSS SMOKERS

REGINA (CP)—Smokers' carelessness was responsible for more fires in Saskatchewan in 1951 than any other cause, resulting in outbreaks with damage of $170, the provincial fire commissioner's office reported.

HIGHLY UNDESIRABLE

The other day Judge T. A. Fontaine of Montreal nounced that he had decided to mete out more severe ntences to persons guilty of crimes of violence, also that was going to cease granting bail to anyone accused of ch crimes.

Judge Fontaine's decision to punish the authors of imes of violence more severely may be entirely justifile, in view of the known increase in such crimes. But refuse to grant bail to anyone accused of any crime of olence is in an entirely different category.

Probably as many as one-third of those accused of iminal offences are finally acquitted; that is to say, the urts find either that the police arrested and accused an nocent person or that the police, if they did net the right an, were unable to gather sufficient evidence to justify conviction.

It is well known that weeks, sometimes months, often apse between the time a suspect is arrested and the me his case is tried. It is not necessary to be a judge or lawyer to see the kind of abuses that are almost sure to perpetrated if Judge Fontaine's policy is to be adopted other members of the judiciary.

Judges are supposed to be chosen for their wisdom, heir impartiality, their legal knowledge. But wisdom, npartiality and legal knowledge have never been rearded as essential parts of the equipment of the average oliceman.

To refuse bail to people who have criminal records and re known to be dangerous is one thing; to refuse bail to eople who are only suspects and perhaps entirely innoent of any wrongdoing is something altogether different.

We believe that the proper authorities, in this intance the federal department of justice or the Quebec ttorney-general's department, should scrutinize Judge ontaine's decision to establish what amounts to a new egal principle.

The liberties of the people of this country are broad, ompared with those of the people in many other counries. But there has been a tendency in Canada in recent ears to adopt some of the police-state methods and ractices which obtain elsewhere.

This tendency, we believe, should be resisted and even eversed, rather than accelerated or encouragd. It would e the lesser of two evils to have a few law breakers at arge on bail, rather than have many innocent individuals ailed, even temporarily, on nothing more substantial than nere suspicion or prejudice.

FINE FURS FOR SALE

An interesting event is being enacted just now at Stalingrad, Russia.. That events is the annual Russian fur auction. Some 60 buyers from various countries had assembled, even before the auction had begun.

Among the 60 buyers were many from western Europe, also some from the United States. The dispatch from which we are deriving our information does not state whether any buyers from Canada were present, nor whether any were expected to arrive later. But it is as likely as not that Canadian buyers will be there, since it is known that Americans are there already.

At this auction, it seems, the Muscovites sell their furs for pounds sterling. At least, that has been the custom. But perhaps Canadian or American dollars are equally acceptable.

The Russian fur auction serves two purposes. It provides the fur dealers in western countries with the furs they need to make coats and so forth for the women in those western countries. It also provides the Russians with western currency which they need to buy the materials used in making tanks, airplanes, machines guns and other engines of destruction.

It may be that the Russian fur auction is a working example of the "freer world trade" which some folk never tire of telling us we must have. It would be interesting to hear an expression of opinion on the Russian fur auction from some of the United Nations soldiers presently engaged in dodging bullets in Korea.

NOT JACK MINER'S WAY

In an attempt to catch flying geese, British wildlife experts will shoot nylon nets into the air with rockets. That's the hard way to do it. Jack Miner made his geese tame enough to catch by providing them with a stopping point, food, and a true nature-lover's protection.

HOOT MON!

A London, England, merchant advertises for "a tutor with a Scottish accent for an intelligent parrot." But what's the use of teaching the poor bird to speak if most people couldn't understand anything it says except "Hoot Mon!"

FARM WISDOM

The State Fair catalog's at hand.
On every page that I have scanned
A fund of information shows
Which every prospering farmer knows.
But I, being city born and bred,
Have no such wisdom in my head.

I couldn't tell, if questioned now,
A senior from a junior sow
Or recognize, as farmers do,
An Oxford from a Shropshire ewe.
The various breeds of fowl I see
Are chickens, one and all, to me.

The Fair (and I regret 'tis so)
Displays so much that I don't know.
Still I take comfort out of this:
The farmers learn what others miss,
And each exhibit, stand and stall
Prove city folks don't know it all.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Old proverbs, wise saws and maxims are having a hard time of it these days, but the outboard motor is doing a good job of preserving the one about leaving well enough alone. Nearly everybody thinks he knows all about outboards. The levers, knobs, and handles on an outboard engine invite twiddling. Men who would not dream of tampering with the engine of their cars imagine that an outboard is so small, so obviously simple, so needful of a little aid and comfort that they gloat in the chance to do a little engineering on it. The result is that you see outboard engines misbehaving, sputtering and stalling completely all over this playground of the world.

One popular brand of outboard engine has a small wheel on the side of engine hood which controls the mixture. It is not a fragile wheel, but it turns readily at a touch. The trick about it is: leave it alone, once it is properly set. But not only do many outboard owners fiddle with this little control constantly, but many of them turn it accidentally. One repair man informs me that a very considerable part of his business comes from the accidental turning of this mixture control.

"When an irate owner comes into my boathouse," said he, "I always ask him to start the engine for me, to see how he does it. About three out of ten of them place the left hand on the hood in order to brace himself for a right-hand pull on the starter cord. In doing so, their hand brushes or touches the little wheel, unconsciously. So I gravely take the engine off their boat, carry it into the privacy of my work bench, turn that wheel back to zero, and find it is perhaps a whole turn past its proper setting. So I set it at its proper mixture, and the engine runs perfectly. I do a little more tinkering of no account, advise them to keep that hand away from the little wheel, and charge them $2 for this service. I figure that it is not my manual labor but my knowledge which is being bought. In outboard motors, the old proverb should always be borne in mind: leave well enough alone."

HUNTER DIES OF WOUNDS

BROCKVILLE (CP) — George Fawcett, 26, of Mountain, 35 miles south of Ottawa, died here Wednesday night from shotgun wounds suffered in a hunting accident north of Cardinal Sunday. Fawcett was hunting fox when a blast fired by a companion, Earl Byers, Jr., of Cardinal, hit him in the right side.

BOY DROWNED IN RIDEAU

OTTAWA (CP) — Paul Emile Hunter, 10, of nearby Cyrville, was drowned here last night after diving into the Rideau River from a railway bridge.

BABY ABANDONED

TORONTO (CP)—Parents of an abandoned five-weeks-old baby boy were sought today after the child was admitted to hospital with chest injuries. Police said the infant was found by the caretaker of a West Toronto hotel who heard if crying in one of the rooms.

RAIN STALLS TRAFFIC

MONTREAL (CP)—More than three inches of rain fell on Montreal yesterday, delaying traffic, flooding cellars and causing power failures.

Separate Service Staffs For Commons and Senate Just Part of Tradition

By H.L. JONES

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Why must the page boys in Canada's Senate wear white ties, and those in the Commons black ones?

The Senate and Commons cleaning staffs wear different uniforms, and they clean only to each side of an imaginary line in the halls of Parliament.

Tradition is the answer, and on Parliament Hill tradition dies hard. Even those traditions governing staff uniforms stem right from the constitution itself.

Strictly Separate

The Fathers of Confederation laid jt down that there should be two separate Houses of Parliament, the Senate and Commons. When the two chambers were set up, they established separate staffs. And the Senate, patterned after Britain's House of Lords and jealously guarding its rights, dressed its staff in a more formal style than the Commons when uniforms were ordered, to show its independent status.

So to this day the Senate and Commons have separate stenographic pools, separate police services, post offices, barber shops, messenger and page staffs, reading rooms and cleaning corps.

There have been suggestions the two staffs, or some parts of them, might be amalgamated in the interests of economy. Ross Thatcher, C.C.F. member from Moose Jaw, Sask., told the Commons he could not see the necessity of all the separate services.

Other members disagreed. They said any amalgamation might result in some old-timers losing their jobs. They would rather see two staffs retained than put veteran workers out of a job.

Senators Oppose Change

Those who speak for the Senate oppose any move toward staff amalgamation. They say there would be little or no saving; but more important, they feel any such merger even on the staff level might be the thin edge of the wedge for eventual engulment of the Senate by the larger House of Commons.

The imaginary dividing line is a stairway just east of the main entrance hall to the Parliament Buildings.

The char staffs of the two houses, working up to the dividing line, make one exception for the Press Gallery. It is on the Senate side of the building, but is cleaned by the Commons char staff.

Larger Commons Staff

Actually the Commons workers have far more services than the Senate. The Commons staff includes a barber shop with two barbers, a shoe-shiner and a masseur; an upholstery shop to keep Commons-side furniture and drapes in shape; two locksmiths and three carpenters.

The Senate has one barber, Jack Reynolds, who doubles as a messenger. He is reported to be the favorite barber of Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The Senate also has a handyman who does almost anything from odd carpentry jobs to fixing locks and doors. There are two curators in the Senate reading room compared to five in the Commons reading room. Senate stenographers number 18 during the session and six between sittings, compared with 169 and 40 for the Commons.

General administration for the House of Commons for the next fiscal year is estimated at $1,651,893, and for the Senate $393,448.-

First Customers Of 1952 C.N.E. Show Young Boys

TORONTO (CP)—Three young boys who spent the night in a tent at the gates of the Canadian National Exhibition today were the first customers at the 1952 edition of the world's biggest annual fair.

The youngsters staked out their "camp" shortly before sundown.

Gates of the show, expected to attract 3,000,000 persons this year, were opened at 9 a.m. but official opening comes later in the day with Governor-General Vincent Massey officiating.

National pride is stressed in the theme at the two-week fair as it was 73 years ago when some 500,000 persons crowded into the water-front grounds. Foreign manufacturers are well represented but Canadian skills and products are awarded the major portion of exhibit space.

The nightly grandstand show headlined by crooner Tony Martin and playing to a crowd of 22,000, boasts an almost all-Canadian cast.

RACINE, Wis. (AP)—A commuter's electric train running an estimated 75 miles an hour collided with a car at a crossing near here yesterday and one person was killed and 68 injured. Three cars of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee train were derailed. A fourth overturned.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ALL THROUGH LIFE there are continual questionings. They begin with the child, and we never get too old to want to know new things. The more you know the more you enjoy life and communication with others. Lord Northcliffe started his notable newspaper career with a little tabloid newspaper which he called "Answers". It was filled with answers to questions that were interesting to all.

Over the radio and TV are immensely interesting questions offered. In a long lifetime we accumulate only a few of the millions of data that add to our knowledge and enjoyment. I like to think of that great English historian, J. R. Green, who had put upon his tombstone the line: "He died learning."

I have a library of several thousand volumes that give answers to much of history, science, biography, art, literature, and endless other subjects, but in nature there is more to be observed and more to be learned than in any library. All nature is a vast library of knowledge. If you look into her great miracles and creations you will find the answer to many a puzzling problem. Why is there such a predominance of green in nature? Why are there so many perfect designs in leaves, trees, flowers, and shrubs? How did that tiny humming bird that I noted from my verandah today know that there were flowers with honey in them, on this little island where I am spending a few weeks as a vacation? It is possible that he travelled thousands of miles to reach this Nova Scotia country!

Thoreau contended that there was more to be learned of life in nature than in any other way. More than from any college, or any book. Nature harbors the answers to many a confusing problem yet to be solved. Dr. George Washington Carver contended that there was more wealth of human nutriment along the ordinary readside than anyone realized! I was once in Dearborn, Michigan, when Dr. Carver was the guest of Henry Ford—and they served grass sandwiches for luncheon!

Endless answers to many of our problems remain in the mysterious bowels of this earth, and many a simple one can be answered before our very eyes if we would but study it out Many an answer is there to conserve waste and point a path to perpetual peace and happiness.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NEGLECTING A PRIVILEGE

We usually think of the natives of Africa as the most backward in the entire world, and many of the tribes are just that. Yet there exists all over Africa some of the most vital Christian congregations to be found anywhere. A few years ago two native African students came to a theological seminary in this country and the faculty was unanimous in declaring that by all odds these students exceeded in scholarship any students who had been there for a decade. Lincoln University and other Negro schools in this country have African students who rank with the best in the leading universities.

The native Christian leaders in Africa are very strict in their disciplining of church members. If one falls behind in religious devotions, he comes before the church leaders for inquiry. One thing they demand of him is that he be diligent in the practice of prayer. An African Christian is supposed to have a prayer retreat in the jungle, and if he has become lax in his Christian life the admonition he always receives is "Brother, thy path is green"; meaning that he is not using the path that leads to the prayer retreat.

Jesus said: "Enter into thy closet and pray to thy Father in secret . . ." Think it over. Is thy path green?

Personal Health Talks

HOW'S YOUR GALL PERCOLATING?

Since the era ironically dubbed the "gay" nineties, when the almanacs were devoted mainly to promoting "liver complaint," the price of beefsteak, then only an hour (of a working man's pay) a pound, has soared to nearly an hour (of today's pay) a pound.

The "gay" nineties were really melancholy days, at least on Chapel Srteet in Canandaigua — melancholy means black bile — though the hearty laughter of beloved Mike Hill kept everybody chuckling so that Chapel Street bile was generally a healthy greenish yellow in spite of the quacks and nostrum mongers.

It is difficult to say whether the production of bile, the storage of glycogen, the formation of red blood corpuscles, control of clotting of the blood or the metabolism of fat is the most important function of the liver. These are only half of the various functions of the liver, which is the largest three pounds or more in weight) gland and the busiest in the body.

The liver is wedge-shaped with the base at the right under the lower ribs and the thin edge to the left touching the upper part of stomach, gullet (esophagus) and duodenum and separated from the heart only by the diaphragm (breathing muscle). From the proximity of the liver to these other organs it is possible that a doctor in a hurry might mistake liver complaint for heart trouble or vica versa.

But who cares about liver complaint nowadays? It is passe. The smart thing to have now is cholecystitis—gall bladder trouble, with or without cholelithiasis—formation of gallstones.

The gall-bladder or gall-sac is a pear-shaped bulb lodged at the thin front border of the right lobe of the liver under what the well-dressed gent of hard collar days called the watch pocket of his vest—even though he sported only a package of sen-sen in the fob pocket. The gall-bladder holds a fluid ounce of bile. It is connected by a tube, the cystic duct 1½ inches long, to the main duct which carries bile from liver to duodenum (intestine three or four inches beyond the pylorus or outlet of the stomach). So when the gal-sac contracts or is squeezed it squirts bile into the duodenum, like a perfume atomizer. After the bulb has squirted the bile into the duodenum it slowly fills again with fresh bile from the liver, in readiness for the next call for bile in the duodenum. The call is in the nature of a hormone (chemical messenger) from the stomach telling the liver and gall-sac that acids or fats are about to enter the duodenum. Plenty of bile is necessary for the digestion and absorption of fats.

All this is simple physiology, you understand. So is a "billious" spell or attack—if by that you mean upset stomach repeated vomiting and finally the appearance of bile in the material regurgitated. Bile appears after repeated vomiting from any cause, provided the liver and gall-bladder are normal, and the bile ducts are unobstructed.

"Billiousness," then, is just a term to cover your ignorance or your doctor's ignorance of what, if anything, is really the matter.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Safe Touring

Here are some excellent suggestions for summer driving, formulated by the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators:

1. Start your trip when rested, not after a day's work when fatigue has already set in.
2. Let plenty of fresh air into the car as an anti-drowsiness precaution.
3. Make a coffee stop at least once every two hours; walk around; stretch your limbs.
4. Engage in light conversation with your passengers; it will keep you alert.
5. If you are in doubt as to your fitness to continue driving, pull off the road to rest or go to a hotel and sleep.

BANCROFT

Forgery Charge Is Dismissed By Magistrate

BANCROFT—A charge of forgery and one of uttering a forged document, against Kenneth E. Jackson, 25, Bancroft, were dismissed by Magistrate R. C. Jackson in Magistrate's Court at Bancroft on Wednesday. The charges were laid by Chief Constable Chapman after a local merchant, Emerson Laundry, received a worthless cheque at his store last month.

After a lengthy hearing His Worship handed down judgment in dismissing the charges. Jackson was defended by Ronald Cass Belleville barrister. Mr. Louis Maraskas represented the Crown.

Five residents of Carlow twp., Warner Mayhew, Ivan Mayhew, Merving Whyte, Everett Whyte, and Durwood Lavoy, paid fines of $5 plus costs of $17.50 each when convicted on charges of theft and malicious damage to a car owned by Nelson Harley, Boulter. They pleaded that their escapade was a 'prank.'

Gerald Cannon, Maynooth, was convicted of causing a disturbance in a Maynooth restaurant and was assessed a fine of $10 and costs. A warrant was issued for the arrest of a second youth involved in the fracas who failed to appear at the hearing.

John Ostroski, Prince's Lake, and Bruce Easton, Bancroft, paid fines of $50 and costs each when they pleaded guilty to charges of driving while their ability was impaired.

On a written plea of guilty to a charge of careless driving, Leonard Stewart, Maynooth, was fined $20 and costs.

Several other minor infractions of the Highway Traffic and Liquor Control Acts were dealt with by the court.

Undergoes Surgery

Injured when struck by a truck on 62 Highway at Maynooth on August 14th, Burlanyette Casselman, four-and-a-half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Casselman, Maynooth, has undergone surgery at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto. The lad suffered a depressed head wound, possibly a fracture. He was taken to hospital in Toronto after receiving emergency treatment at Bancroft.

Former residents of Bancroft, Mr. and Mrs. Casselman moved to Maynooth last year.

Two in Hospital

TILLSONBURG (CP)—Police investigation is underway into circumstances which sent an Oshawa women and her four-year-old son to hospital in critical condition.

Mrs. Symon Harapulia, a tobacco picker, and her son, Elmer, were admitted to Tillsonburg district memorial hospital today suffering some form of poisoning not immediately diagnosed by doctors but but believed to be overdoses of sleeping tablets which police say were given by the mother.

Fighter-Bombers Smash Red Posts Across Peninsula

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Nations fighter-bombers today smashed Communist targets all across the Korean peninsula. United States sabre-jets damaged two Russian-built Mig-15 jets.

On the ground, Allied soldiers repulsed two light Red assaults.

Twelve B-26 bombers staged a daylight raid on a Communist supply area at Anak, on the Haeju peninsula near the 38th parallel in western Korea.

On the east coast, Allied planes demolished five large warehouse buildings near Wonsan, the Air Froce said.

Fighter-bombers slashed at Red battle lines.

The Air Force said U.S. jets damaged two Russian-built Migs during the afternoon.

The new claims brought to 28 the number of red jets damaged during August—in addition to 26 shot down and two others probably destroyed. Allied losses for the same period were not announced.

WIDESPREAD RUMOR

BELGRADE (AP)—The newspaper Politika reported "widespread rumors" today that Gen. Enver Hoxha has been removed from his post as premier of Albania, Yugoslavia's little Russian dominated neighbor on the south. The paper said Hoxha failed to show up recently at meetings of Albania's government presidium, with no reason advanced for his absence.

Electric Train Hits Car, Derailed, Motorists Killed

RACINE, Wis. (AP)—A high-speed electric Chicago-to-Milwaukee train hit a car and jumped the rails near here late yesterday. The motorist was killed and 65 train passengers were injured.

Hiram M. Bryant of Waukegan, Ill., Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee motorman, said his five-car commuter train was travelling at 75 miles an hour when it hit the car.

The train ripped up several hundred feet of tracks and knocked out the line's electric power in that section for three hours, temporarily stranding thousands of commuters.

The car driver was Episano Leal, 31, of Racine.

Owner Hadto Ask Permission To Take an Aspirin

HONG KONG (AP)—A Chinese drug-store owner who reached Hong Kong from Shanghai said today his store was so firmly in the hands of Communist workers that "I had to ask permission to take an aspirin."

Pharmacist Carl Chang said his nine workers discovered that by allying themselves with a district unit of the Communist party they could get control of Chang's drug business after a year. The owner said that while his store was making money, he was permitted to take only minimum wages, although he was forced to continue as operator and manager and take all responsibility.

RCAF Airwoman Finally Stopped After Accident

OTTAWA (CP)—A 19-year-old R.C.A.F. airwoman who fled Rockcliffe air station at the wheel of a fast ambulance was finally stopped by police yesterday after an accident - punctuated 85-mile-an-hour chase to the outskirts of Montreal.

A police bullet in the tire finally threw the ambulance into a ditch at Strathmore, Que., 15 miles from Montreal, after the hysterical driver evaded road blocks, sideswiped a police car and caused an accident police said sent three persons to hospital.

Heavy Gunfire

Police said the girl, identified as Airwoman Gladys Linda Rochon of Nanaimo, B.C., sat sobbing but unhurt behind the wheel of the ditched ambulance when they approached. During the chase police fired at the ambulance with machine-guns and pistols. Five bullets struck the vehicle.

"I want to go home," was all police could get out of the pretty Victoria-born blonde who joined the air force in October, 1951; at Vancouver.

Quebec Provincial Police said they would lay no charges. The girl was turned over to R.C.A.F. service police and taken to a Montreal hospital for observation.

Raymond Pheoret, Quebec Provincial Police constable, said it was the "wildest" chase of his career. The airwoman "drove like one possessed—the roads were wet and slippery and the traffic heavy yet we were going at top speed even to stay with her."

Miss Rochon, an air force photographer, reported on sick parade at Rockcliffe in the morning. Before she could be examined she disappeared. Then it was found that an ambulance was missing.

The two incidents were not connected until Joseph Roberts, an Ottawa trucker, reported he had seen the ambulance, its siren screaming, speeding along the Montreal highway toward Hawkesbury, Ont.

Police Chief George Giroux of Hawkesbury put his cruiser across the road. But the girl wheeled the big ambulance between a telephone pole and the cruiser, side-swiping it on the right side, and kept on going.

Three Hurt

At Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., police lined two cars across the highway. Again the driver maneouvred around them, going through a ditch and a small stream and back on the highway, hardly slackening speed. At Pointe Claire the ambulance sideswiped a sedan, sending it careening into two other cars.

Now followed by three police cruisers, the ambulance became the target for machine-gun and pistol fire.

"We had to stop her before she killed someone," one police official said, noting several motorists had been forced off the road by the speeding ambulance.

Father Beland Denies Threats Of Violence

VAL D'OR, Que. (CP)—Rev. Georges Beland, a Roman Catholic priest charged with intimidating a preacher of the Jehovah's Witness sect, yesterday denied threatening violence and said he was trying to keep peace in the tiny lumbering village of Val Senneville, 10 miles from here.

Father Beland, a tall, stout, former miner, said he asked Max Danleyko, 23, and his followers to leave the settlement May 22 last because his parishioners were "nervous and excited" and he feared trouble if they remained.

Danleyko testified Wednesday before Magistrate Felix Allard that he had been threatened and abused. He said he had been going from house to house in the settlement when he was accosted by Father Beland who, he said, threatened that if he did not leave 'I will have you killed by the mob."

Magistrate Allard said he will give judgment on Sept. 23 or soon after that date.

ARTIST IMPROVED

LONDON (Reuters) — Artist Douglas Chandor who caught pneumonia while painting a portrait of the Queen, is "very much improved," a medical bulletin said yesterday.

Second of Quints Dies in Hospital

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—A second of Mrs. Maria Albano's girl quintuplets died at the Sao Paulo maternity hospital last night. She was to have been named Maria Tereza.

The five babies were born to Mrs. Albano, 38, on Tuesday night and were placed in an incubator. One died yesterday. Maria Angela had been picked as her name.

The hospital said yesterday after the first death that the other four babies were in good condition.

The announcement of the second death last night contained no information on the condition of the survivors.

Percy Bengough Again President Labor Congress

WINNIPEG (CP)—Percy Bengough, 68-year-old machinist, yesterday was elected to his 11th term as president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

The Congress named its delegates to the American Federation of Labor and the British Trades Union Congress conventions.

J. B. Graham, Winnipeg painter, was designated for the A.F.L. job, while the T.L.C. will be represented before the British labor body by S. A. Stevens of Thorold, Ont., vice-president of the pulp and sulphite workers union.

WEDDINGS

GOSS—WELSH

White gladioli and lighted candles formed the setting in Kingsway-Lambton United Church for the marriage of Joy Adele Welsh, daughter of Mr. Royal Stanley Welsh, to Mr. Harold Frederick George Goss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Goss. Reverend Professor W. O. Fennell, Emmanuel College, officiated at the evening ceremony. Mr. Gerald Rutledge was organist and Mrs. H. J. Moore, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white imported lace over satin with long lace sleeves, sheer yoke appliqued to the bodice and a full-gathered skirt appliqued in petal effect to bouffant net. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was caught to a Dutch style cap of lily-of-the-valley. She carried a cascade of gardenia and swainsonia.

Maid of honor, Miss Freda Goss, Toronto, sister of the groom, and bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Hamilton, Oakville, and Miss Carol Welsh, Toronto, cousin of the bride, wore full-length gowns of French lace with skirts of bouffant net and short lace capes in orchid, pink and blue, respectively. They wore matching flowered headdresses and carried cascades of pink and orchid gladioli, pink Sweetheart roses and blue carnations.

Mr. Roy Brookbank, Brantford, was best man, and ushers were Messrs. Stanley B. Welsh, brother of the bride, and Leonard H. Gregory, Hamilton.

The reception was held at Kilcooley Gardens, Mimico, where the bride's aunt, Mrs. Harold E. Welsh, received the guests wearing a full-length dress of powder blue crepe with lace yoke, accessories of black velvet and corsage of pink Delight roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore dove grey crepe appliqued with Chantilly lace, powder blue accessories and corsage of red roses.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. James Foss, St. Petersburg, Florida; and Mr. and Mrs. H. Sherry and Master Burton Sherry; Mrs. W. Sherry; Mrs. F. Blakely; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Welsh and Miss Carol Welsh, Belleville.

After the reception, the couple left for a Saguenay cruise, the bride travelling in a navy suit with navy and white accessories and corsage of red roses. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Goss will reside in Toronto.

Women's Activities

FOXBORO PRESBYTERIAN GUILD AND W.M.S.

The Foxboro Presbyterian Ladies' Guild and W.M.S. held their combined meeting on Wednesday, at the home of Miss Tena Watt, with 13 present. Mrs. Reg. Skinner took charge of the meeting and opened with "O Spirit of the Living God", followed by prayer and call to worship.

Mrs. Skinner presented the sixth chapter from the study book "Our Work in British Guiana". The Scripture reading by Mrs. Johnston was taken from fourth chapter of Corinthians.

A reading was given by Mrs. Juby, entitled, "God's Green Inn".

Business discussion followed and plans were made to send the bale and Christmas presents to the west.

The members were pleased to welcome an old member in the person of Mrs. Graham McNay, nee Geraldine Longwell, of Ottawa. A reading "Strength For The Day" by Dr. Earl Douglas, was given by Nellie Bell.

Mrs. Sam Townsend invited the group for the September meeting to her home in Belleville.

Miss Watt made a travelling apron for the Guild, and it started on its trip at the close of the meeting.

The Guild presented the church with 50 new hymn books for the pews. Orders were taken for Christmas cards and supplies.

Miss Watt served refreshments and a vote of thanks was tendered the hostess by Mrs. Longwell for a lovely afternoon meeting.

HALLOWAY W.M.S.-W.A.

The August meeting of Halloway W.M.S. was held at the church on Wednesday afternoon. There were in attendance 14 members, two visitors and six children. The president, Mrs. K. McMullen, opened the meeting by reading a poem on "Choosing a Career".

As this was the annual Baby Band meeting, the Baby Band secretary, Mrs. E. Kelly, had prepared an interesting program of stories and hymns suited to the children. The Scripture Lesson on the story of Moses was read by Mrs. Ed. Emerson. Stories were given by Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. E. Hough and a poem by Miss Sandra Read.

Due to the fact that both the local Orange Lodges and the Young Adult Group of the United Church have dates to cater to the Livestock Sales Barn in September, it was decided to cancel the bake sale scheduled for that month.

Plans were made to attend the open meeting at Moira on August 21, when Mrs. Giffin will be guest speaker.

A committee, consisting of Mrs. K. McMullen, Mrs. E. Snider and Mrs. G. Roth, was appointed to meet with representatives from Marsh Hill and Foxboro, on the calendar project.

Mention was made of the Belleville East Rally to be held here in October when dinner will be provided.

The offering of $4 was given to the Baby Band. Mrs. Giffin closed the meeting.

W.A. Meeting

All were pleased to have presiding over the W.A. meeting, Mrs. L. Wellman, who moved from this community some time ago.

After the usual opening, several items of business were dealt with. It was decided to loan the necessary W.A. equipment to the L.O.L. and L.O.B.A., in order that they might serve at the Livestock Sales Barn on September 2.

The treasurer, Mrs. E. Hough, reported over $200 in the treasury. Offering amounted to $1.75.

Bountiful refreshments were served to the special guests of the Baby Band, to the ladies, and to the men, who in the meantime had been working to make needed improvements in the church grounds.

RIVER VALLEY W.M.A.

Mrs. J. H. Beatty entertained the River Valley W.M.A., at beautiful "Hillsholme", on Tuesday with 18 members, six visitors and four children present. The president, Mrs. Ross Holland, opened the meeting.

There were 23 hospital, and four home calls reported. It was decided to send for the new study book, "Along African Trails", by D. H. Gallagher. The subject of a report for the Centennial Book was discussed and Mrs. Roy Bush, Mrs. Janet Sager, Mrs. George Heasman were appointed to get any information they could on the matter and bring it to the September meeting for further discussion.

The theme for the program was "Life is a Trust". The scripture lesson, 1st Psalm, was given from memory by Miss Grace Heasman; a reading, "They Are Never Too Young", was given by Miss Eleanor Bush.

This story related that a minister preferred preaching to families where children were perhaps a bit restless rather than to empty pews. A duet "Tell Me the Story of Jesus", was sung by Misses Joanne and Grace Heasman.

A true story, "They Wanted the Unwanted", about a young married Dutch-Canadian couple, who live happily with 19, English, French, Dutch and Norwegian children who were unwanted and uncared for by their parents. During the past four years, they have given shelter to 60 other youngsters. They have three children of their own and have three more adopted swelling the current family to 22. This interesting story on a large family life was read by Mrs. George Heasman.

This being the occasion of Mrs. Janet Sager's birthday, Mrs. Roy Bush was called on to extend to her, on behalf of the group, birthday greetings. Mrs. Sager was presented with a bouquet of flowers and a card signed by all present. All sang "Happy Birthday". Mrs. Sager graciously expressed her appreciation.

An interesting paper, "Thoughts on Christian Stewardship", was prepared by Mrs. Clifford Lansing and given by Mrs. Heasman.

Mrs. Roy Bush expressed the W.M.A.'s thanks to the hostess, the program convener and the lunch committee for the interesting meeting.

EPIDEMIC UNCHECKED

EDMONTON (CP)—Twenty-nine new cases of poliomyelitis were reported yesterday in Western Canada, boosting the four-province total to 838. Ten cases were reported in Manitoba, 12 in Alberta, and seven in British Columbia. Two more deaths have raised the number of fatalities to 50.

Queen Returns From Scotland In October

LONDON (CP) — When Queen Elizabeth II returns from Scotland in October, final decisions will be made on the royal regalia for the coronation next June.

Many believe that the purple velvet robe of state in which the Queen leaves Westminster Abbey to drive through the streets will bear emblmatic gold embroidery like that of a queen consort.

Kings do not wear embroidered robes of state, leaving this to their queen and her mistress of the robes —traditionally a duchess.

Such embroidery is dictated by national and Commonwealth traditions, and its form is settled by the Coronation Council. The six-yard-long robe worn at her coronation by Queen Mother Elizabeth was embroiderd at the Royal School of Needlework.

Fabulous Robe

Lined and bordered in ermine, it is worth several thousand pounds and was recently placed in Kensington Palace museum, together with the coronation robes of the late king.

It is customary for Her Majesty to arrive at the abbey in a crimson parliamentary robe. For crowning, the sovereign wears cloth of gold. The Queen, however, may decide that the gold mantle worn by her father is too heavy. First worn by Georg. IV, it is richly embroiderd with Tudor roses, shamrocks, thistles and silver eagles.

Like Queen Victoria, the present queen may have a lighter one made, in which case the cloth of gold must be spcially woven.-

Farewell Gathering Honors Pastor, Wife On Eve of Departure

FRANKFORD. — A farewell gathering was held Monday evening in the Free Methodist Church in honor of Rev. and Mrs. N. F. Perry, who are leaving to take up a new field of labor at Cordova Mines.

The meeting was well attended, with nearly 100 being present, and a most interesting and enjoyable program followed. Several members of other churches, including the Holiness Movement, Standard and Church of the Nazarene took part in the program.

After an opening hymn and prayer, several spoke a few words, in which they praised Mr. Perry and his wife, for the way in which they have always given their best, wherever the need in their own church or in others, and never failing to preach the truth at all times.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry have made a host of friends since coming to Frankford, and will be greatly missed. All wish them the very best in their new field.

After the program, Mr. and Mrs. Perry were presented with a lovely five-piece tea service, a purse of money, and a bouquet of gladioli.

All adjourned to the basement, where the ladies had arranged delicious refreshments. The society is to be complimented on the splendid work in making the evening such a success.

After many a good hearty handshake, and singing, the meeting was dismissed, each wending his way home feeling that a fitting tribute had been paid a fine couple.

ANNUAL CONVENTION

FRANKFORD. — The Trenton and Sidney Council on Christian Education will hold its annual convention in Wallbridge United Church, on Wednesday afternoon and evening, Sept. 10. The convention theme is "The Bible in Christian Education". The afternoon session will begin at 2:00. Supper will be served at six. The special representative from the Ontario Council on Christian Education will be Miss Adams, who will bring an address based on the convention theme in the afternoon and evening. TO MOTHERS OF
LITTLE GALS FROM
5 TO HIGH SCHOOL AGE.

How does your daughter grow? With naturally curly hair? If so, we'll cut her hair in a style that will be trim and tantalizing. If not, we'll cut her hair to a perky length and give her a baby-soft permanent wave. No more putting it up every night or after every rainstorm. This plan is not only helpful to you, but good for your child. Most little girls are coquettes at heart. We'll wager a child who looks pretty as she can will be smart as she can—and happier — in school.

Food for Thought

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

. . . re letter from Whitehorse, Yukon, below is a recipe given recently. . . which turned out delicious when we tasted it. . .

PRESSURE COOKER FEATHER CAKE

(Contributed by E.S.)

One-quarter cup butter, margarine or shortening, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 egg, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup milk, 1 1-3 cups flour, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 2 teaspoons baking powder. Cream butter and half of the sugar. Beat egg, add remaining sugar and add to butter mixture. Add flour with salt and baking powder alternately with milk. Have pressure cooker heated. Put 2 layers wax paper in bottom. Do not grease pressure cooker. Put in cake batter, fasten cover, but do not put on pressure. Place over low heat or on back lids of wood fire. Just so it will not burn. Add 20 minutes to cooking time. Test. Top will not brown but can be iced.—E. S.

ANSWER:

Thank you for this E.S. You did not give us the cooking time though. Time for this kind of batter for 2 layer cakes is usually 25 to 30 minutes. Those of you with small pressure cookers will have to try the recipe on your own type of stoves to discover the right time and temperature. If other readers have cake recipes that have been used successfully in pressure cookers I would appreciate hearing from them.

QUESTION:

I hope I do not commit any offence. . .I read about salt-free meals and as that takes me in I thought I would speak my piece. I have to do without salt and sugar. . .I do not think I am a quitter and tried hard but my stomach refused to tolerate meat and vegetables without salt. . . my doctor suggested "Diasol". . . it cost $1 for 2 oz. but goes a long way and is worth it. . . I use "sucaryl" instead of saccharin. . . I would not be without either of them. . . I would much rather deny myself something else than do without these helps. . .and when I thought of the poor people without salt or sugar I just had to write.—Mrs. M. F.

ANSWER:

Thank you for sharing your little comforts. I think many medical doctors suggest the use of diasol to their patients on salt-free diets. Recently some of them have been suggesting monosodium glutamate too for it is the pure protein of wheat and has a flavor reminiscent of salt plus chicken. It is known by the trade name of MSG or Ac-cent. Sucaryl does not leave the bitter aftertaste that saccharin does—on overheating.

QUESTION:

. . .request for recipes for cherry jam, canned cherries, gooseberry jam. Also how does one prevent cherries from shrivelling up when canned? Would lemon juice preserve the color?—Mrs. Mary S.

ANSWER:

CHERRY JAM

Two lbs. washed, stemmed and pitted sour cherries, 7 cups sugar, 1 bottle liquid commercial pectin. Mash or grind cherries and add 1-4 cup water to them and simmer 15 minutes, covered. When simmering time is up measure fruit—there should be 4 cups and if there are not add boiling water to bring up to 4 cup measure. Add the sugar and bring to full rolling boil. Add 1-4 teaspoon almond extract if desired. Stir and boil hard for thre minutes. Remove from heat and stir in the liquid pectin. Stir and skim for 4 minutes—this clarifies it and tends to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly into sterile jelly glasses and seal at once with new very hot paraffin —adding a second coating when cold.

GOOSEBERRY JAM

Wash, top and tail 3 quarts gooseberries (12 cups); add 3 cups water and boil gently uncovered for 15 minutes. Add 7 1-2 cups sugar and boil from 5 to 7 minutes. Test for thickness on cold saucer. Do not use overripe gooseberries or they will not "jell" as well. Pour into sterile jam pars and seal or coat with double coating paraffin.

CANNED CHERRIES

Wash, stem and pit cherries. Pack into sterile jars with sterile rubbers in position. Cover to within 1-2 inch of top with boiling hot syrup (1 cup sugar to each 1 1-2 cups water). Seal to within 1-8 turn of tight. Process in boiling water bath 20 minutes for pints, 25 minutes for quarts. Remove from processor as soon as possible and tighten seal. Cherries will shrivel if too much sugar is used. I would have to see the method used to figure out what went wrong. Lemon is a bleach —benzoate of soda helps preserve color but is not recommended for home use.

UNVEIL NEW SCRAP PRESS

MONTREAL (CP)—A huge hydraulic press for scrap steel was unveiled yesterday by Loudee Steel Corporation when an automobile, with tires, glass and upholstery removed, was compressed into a bundle less than 24 inches square in 55 seconds. The press, weighing 300 tons, converts light sheet steel scrap into small bundles for open hearth furnaces which use 50 per cent scrap and an equal amount of pig iron to produce steel.

GOOD MANNERS

Their marriage being annulled . . .should she return gifts from his relatives and friends?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We were married only two months ago, and received many wedding presents, quite a few being from his relatives and personal friends and from friends of his family. Our marriage is now being annulled, we are closing the apartment we rented, and I am wondering what I should do about returning or not-returning the wedding presents. I am very much disturbed about this, and want to do the right thing. What do you suggest? —Heart-broken.

Although legally all the wedding presents belong to you and you have the right to keep them, I feel that you will be even more "disturbed" than you are now if you don't follow the path of integrity and return all the presents given by his family, his family's friends, and by his personal friends. You will feel spiritually relieved, if you do this; will feel uninvolved, if you remove from your life the things that would be ever-present symbols of the unhappiness you have had to endure.

I'd suggest, too, that you return the presents sent by your relatives and friends. . . but here you have a leeway of personal preference about this. (Note: don't give to him the gifts to be returned by him to his family and friends. . .you personally should do this returning, enclosing a graceful note of appreciation with each gift.)

Customary to have reception directly after the ceremony

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter wishes to be married at an early morning ceremony, the ceremony to be followed by a wedding breakfast for only the wedding attendants and the immediate families. Then, after the photographs have been taken, she would like to have a reception at home, at 4 o'clock. (1) Please tell me if this procedure would be correct. (2) About 75 guests would be invited to the reception. Would it be proper to serve buffet lunch, with one hot dish, or should just a cold repast be served?—S.

(1) The customary procedure is to have the reception (whether in the form of a wedding breakfast, wedding luncheon or dinner, or afternoon or evening reception) directly following the ceremony, at whatever hour the ceremony is performed. Having the reception several hours after the ceremony usually means inconvenience to the guests. . .that is, if they are invited to both the ceremony and the reception. However, if for some special reason this plan is what your daughter prefers, there is no real reason why she shouldnt' carry it out, if she considers it practical and convenient to the majority of the ones concerned.

(2) The menu for a 4 o'clock reception is usually most simple, the usual tea-menu, perhaps with some additions. Why not serve the traditional and always-popular chicken salad, with either finger rolls (opened, lightly buttered, heated) or small sandwiches with simple fillings; the wedding cake, of course, and supplemented with small cakes or delicious cookies, ice cream too, if you wish. Beverages, tea and/or coffee, with a cool drink (fruit punch, perhaps, or favorite cold drinks, or whatever-the-choice) for the toasts.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A teen-ager who is lonely and bored

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm in my early teens and am very bored and lonely during these summer months. I would like to go out on dates and have a little fun before school starts, but I just never meet a nice fellow who would take me out. All the fellows who live nearby never go out very much with girls, and anyhow there are not many boys as old as I am in my neighborhood.

Do you think my trouble is that I don't interest the boys, and could you help me by suggesting a few places where I could meet a nice fellow?—Nan.

Dear Nan:

Haven't you any girl friends with whom you can have some good times while you are on vacation? It's perfectly natural, of course, that you should want dates, and I may be able to make some suggestions along this line, but surely there must be some girls in your neighborhood with whom you could go to the beach and to the movies and other places where you can have fun. It does not make sense for you to sit around wasting these vacation days just because you don't know any boys who will take you out.

I suggest that you get busy and stir up some activity with your friends yourself. Never forget that boys are attracted to girls they see having fun with others, and not to the girls who just hang around by themselves waiting for somebody to take them on a good time.

There's always the "Y", and you live near the city which has the largest one in the country, with dozens of different activities and opportunities to make friends. Get busy and look into them, then pick out what interest you the most.

A flirt is stealing their boy friends

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My girl friend and I used to be quite popular with two special boys, but recently a very attractive girl moved into our neighborhood who has played up to our boy friends and is gradually taking them away from us. She is, to be quite frank, a flirt, and because of this, she hasn't many girl friends.

Emma, my girl friend, has suggested that we have it out with the boys, but it seems to me it would be better to discuss it with the girl who has been stealing them away from us.

What do you think?—Helen B.

Dear Helen:

Personally, I think that you'll have much more chance of winning your boy friends back if you don't create a scene about it. Why give them the satisfaction of having you make it plain that they're so important to you that you'll fight over them? It will make far more impression on the boys if you seem to pay no attention to what is going on and go about your business normally. If other boys ask you to go out, do so, and it will make these special two think more of you than if you made them believe that they're the only boys who ever asked you for dates.

Nobody wants to be left out of good times, and if you and Emma go right ahead having lots of them with all the other boys and girls, your former boy friends are quite likely to begin to think they have made the wrong choice. Besides which, it will also show this new girl in the neighborhood that she'd better change her tactics if she doesn't want to be left out of a crowd that has so much fun.

Sunday School Lesson:

A Shepherd Made Bandit

By ROY L. SMITH

It is, and always has been, dangerous business to work for a tyrant. In all the modern totalitarianisms there have been those tragic examples of men in power and favor one day who are corpses the next, for no better reason than that they lost the goodwill of that one who was absolute.

David was a faithful servant, and an extremely useful man, in the employ of an undisciplined king. He gave his best and was given the king's worst. But he refused to allow it to ruin his inner soul.

History Has Had But One

Dr. Frank S. Mead, in characterizing Jonathan, said, "History has had but one Jonathan." The king's son was the natural heir to the throne, and as such might have been expected to view David's popularity with a fanatical jealousy. Instead, because of his great love for the young shepherd he was willing to step aside, and usher him to the throne. That he believed David had been chosen by God for that high responsibility is true. But it does not detract in any way from the vast nobility of his spirit. He had to stand out against his father, his own ambition, the sinister suggestions of conniving nobles, and all precedent and tradition, in order to be loyal to his friend. But that is the miracle which love can work when it is given the opportunity.

Malcontents Rallied

It was a motley crew that gathered about David in the hills—those in debt, in distress, and the hopeless. The discontented were there, the ruffians, the rowdies, and the adventurers. There was something about the sheer magnificence of David—clever warrior and man of might that he was—which attracted those who had nothing to lose and were ready for a fight. The simple truth is that the young warrior had become a bandit chieftain.

It is always easy for any man, if he has within him any of the qualities of a leader, to gather about him the same kind of men as those who rallied to David's standard. But any such man ought to be very sure that he is really a David before he begins pointing to himself as one of the chosen of God, just because the malcontents flock to his support.

The Patience of David

We are accustomed to having people refer us to the patience of Job, but perhaps not so well convinced of the patience of David. But it is worth invetsigating.

The Hebrew people were divided up among 12 tribes, with ten of them settled in the northern part of Palestine, and two of them—one being the smallest of all, Benjamin—settled in the south. range of low hills bisects the land a few miles north of Jerusalem, so that the life in the south was radically different from the life in the north.

David, being of the tribe of Judah, found it relatively easy to enlist the support of that powerful body of Hebrews, and Benjamin followed Judah implicitly. The tiny tribe had to. It would have perished except for the protection of its older brother tribe.

> The Uniform Sunday School lesson for August 24: "David Becomes King," I Samuel 16: 18: 22:1-2; 23:15-18 II Samuel 1:1—2:4a; 3:1; 5:1-5.

For seven years the astute and patient young king wooed the goodwill of the ten tribes of the north. It is a mark of his statesmanship and his skill as a statesman, that he chose a small fortified city right up next to the boundary line, as his capital. By this act he convinced the north that they might expect from him a fair deal. And in all the tumultuous, and sometimes difficult years of his reign, he managed the affairs of his kingdom so cleverly that the sectionalism issue was never raised.

Marks of Kingliness

David possessed four distinguishing characteristics of true kingliness: (1) he could work with those who disagreed with him, (2) he could concede in nonessentials, (3) he maintained an unshaken faith in his divine destiny and responsibility, and (4) his humility was genuine.

Month Term Given for Theft

BARRIE (CP)—Adam Bell of Collingwood appeared in Magistrates court in Barrie yesterday charged with theft of $97.25 from a Collingwood shipyard worker, James Russell.

The theft took place Aug. 15 in Collingwood. According to the evidence, Bell called on friends on Elgin Street where a party was in progress. Russell handed Bell his pay envelope for the purchase of more beer. Bell admitted he had taken the money for another purpose. A sentence of one month was handed down by Magistrate Gordon Foster.

Bell was given a concurrent two months on a second charge of escaping custody. Bell was being conveyed to jail by two Collingwood police officers when he twisted out of their grasp and headed away, still handcuffed. He was located about four miles from Barrie the next morning by Ontario provincial police.

Women That Count Calories Will be Interested in Book

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Some women may roll on the floor to rid themselves of surplus weight. Others count their calories.

The latter group will be interested in the booklet "Your Food and Your Figure" issued by the Ontario agriculture department. But they may get a shock from the calory chart of fancy foods.

A chocolate malted milk shake runs 500 calories; one piece of pie 300-400 calories; one serving of strawberry shortcake 400; one piece of chocolate layer cake 350; one chocolate bar 275 and one doughnut—just one—125 calories.

Peaches and Cream

For a special treat later in the sumer section, federal agriculture year, home economists of the condepartment, offer a recipe for "peach conserve."

Ingredients: Three medium oranges; three cups water; one six-ounce bottle maraschino cherries: nine cups sugar; eight cups peaches cut into small cubes.

Slice orange thinly then cut into cubes. Place in kettle, add water and simmer until tender but not soft (about 20 minutes). Meanwhile drain cherries, reserving the juice, and cut cherries into quarters.

To the cooked oranges, add peaches, sugar and the juice from cherries. Cook until thickened (about 20 minutes). Add cherries and boil five minutes longer. Pour into sterlized jars leaving at least one-quarter of an inch headspace. Cool slightly then pour a thin layer of melted paraffin over the jam. Leave until hardened and then add a second layer of paraffin.

Save the Water

Don't throw away the water in which your vegetables have been cooked. The department of national health and welfare says such water is rich in minerals and vitamins. It should be used to enrich gravies, soups or vegetable drinks.

The department also says that homegrown vegetables should form a part of the daily diet. Those grown in the garden or on nearby farms will be fresher and more flavorsome than those which travel from distant areas. Furthermore, the outside darker leaves are richer in vitamins than the paler ones inside.

Krol, Copeland, Famous Argos Don't Rate Notes These Days

This is another in a series of pre-season prospects of teams in the Interprovincial Rugby Football union.

TORONTO (CP)—A few years ago mention of Toronto Argonauts' gold-dust twins of Joe Krol and Royal Copeland was enough to make other Big Four Football Union teams shudder. Today, they're back together again and hardly rate a notice in pre-season training.

It was easy in 1948 and 1949 to predict that Argonauts would be a powerhouse in big-league football when Joe and Cope were around. But the years have taken their toll on two of the best Canadian-born backfielders seen in many seasons and fans now need a program to separate them from the rest of the mob.

Argonauts open the three-month Big Four season at Hamilton against Tiger-Cats Sept. 1 and even the most rabid Toronto fan won't make a gentleman's bet that the double blue will reach the playoffs. It's a hot-and-cold club that can look like the best team in Canada one Saturday and the following week put up a sorrowful display.

Few Changes Seen

Coach Frank Clair, one of the shrewdest coaches in Canadian football, has made changes here and there from the 1951 edition that lost out in the three-team Big Four playoff but, basically, it will be almost a carbon copy of the 1951 squad.

It's almost a cinch he'll go along with import Knobby Wirkowski in his sophomore year in the quarter slot. Other Americans are Billy Bass and Ulysses (Crazy Legs) Curtis, both with Argos last year, and Dean Sensenbaugher, from Ohio State and Army, and George Rooks.

Copeland, who returned this season from Calgary Stampeders, is likely to make a spot but as a defensive half. Other Canadians fighting for their jobs in the backfield are pint-sized Doug Pyzer and Steve Karrys.

Up front, Clair has Red Ettinger, an expatriate from Saskatchewan Roughriders, at centre. He is flanked by such stalwarts as Jack Carpenter, traded by Hamilton Tiger-Cats for Ed Hirsch, and Don Durno, Shanty McKenzie, Les Ascott, Pete Bennett, Gary Fowler, Art Scullion and George Arnett.

Clair is worried about Wirkowski but he's not too happy about the kicking of Krol. The Windsor-born old-timer was out-kicked by Indian Jack Jacobs of Winnipeg Blue Bombers in last Saturday's exhibition game here.

Wait-and-See Policy Holds With Beliveau

QUEBEC (CP)—Jean Beliveau still won't say if he'll make the jump this fall to pro hockey ranks with Montreal Canadiens.

"I want to see how things turn out in training before I make a decision," says "Gros Bill," the 21-year-old giant with the deadly shot.

The idol of Quebec city hockey fans joins Canadiens training camp Sept. 15 as he did last year.

Beliveau's decision will be either to stay with Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, or join Canadiens in the National League.

Canadiens have had their eye on Beliveau since he proved himself a sharp-shooting centre with Quebec Citadelles in junior competition two years ago.

Led League

Last year, he moved to senior ranks with the Aces and led the Q.S.H.L scoring race with 45 goals and 38 assists. He also led the Aces to the Alexander Cup and was chosen the best centre, best rookie and best pro prospect among Quebec senior players.

Canadiens would like to have him because of his size—six feet, two inches and 215 pounds—and his effectiveness.

The terms Canadiens have offered Beliveau are secret. The money Aces paid him last year to keep him in Quebec city has been rumored as high as $15,000.

UMPIRE'S SMOKESCREEN

AIRDALE, Eng. (CP)—Cricketers in a match between Airedale and Wharfedale complained the umpire smoked his pipe until they were often unable to see the bowler's arm. An order was therefore made that umpires must not smoke in future matches of the Yorkshire Junior Cricket League.

Bases Loaded Hit-by-Pitcher Wins Ball Game

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener Panthers took 2-1 lead in their senior Intercounty Baseball League best-of-seven semi-final series with Galt Terriers last night—but by accident.

The Panthers edged Galt 2-1 in Kitchener when Galt pitcher Hal Rockburn hit a Kitchener batter with a pitched ball with the bases loaded.

Brantford Red Sox in a home game took a 3-1 lead in their series with Guelph Maple Leafs with a more decisive victory, 9-1.

Winners of the semi-final series will meet London Majors, who succeeded in a protest of a league decision which stripped them of five victories.

13-Inning Game

Kitchener and Galt wrestled 13 innings before Rockburn's inside pitch ended the game. He lined up in a mound duel with Chuck Fedoris and allowed seven hits. Fedoris gave up five.

Galt took a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning when playing manager Johnny Russian drove second baseman Andy Turowski home from second on a line drive to left centrefield.

Kitchener second baseman George Boniface raced home on an error by shortsop Mike Pontarelli to tie it in the sixth.

Tufowski was top man at the plate for Galt with three for five while Boniface topped the Kitchener lists with two hits.

Guelph used three pitchers in an effort to stem the tide of Brantford runs while Buck Tanner travelled the distance for the winners. He held Guelph to seven hits; nine strikeouts helped to cancel out his six walks. He contributed to the cause with two home runs, driving in a total of three runs. Second baseman Ed Finney added another two. Joh Adie was counted the loser.

Ruling Ends Rally

Plate umpire Mason was the centre of a squabble in the fifth inning when he called batter Ed Boehm out to end a Guelph rally that netted one run. Mason claimed the ball struck the bat twice.

Finney paced the winners with three for four, while rightfielder Nick Ciani and first baseman George Carruth each collected two for Guelph.

The series continues tonight with Kitchener in Galt and Brantford in Guelph.

Junior 'A' Moguls Draft Schedule

BARRIE (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association junior "A" Council met here yesterday to draft the 1952-53 schedule which for the first time will interlock junior teams from Quebec and Ontario.

The new schedule calls for each of the nine Ontario clubs to meet each of the Four Quebec entries in home-and-home series. The points will count in the standings of the respective leagues.

All Ontario clubs were represented with the exception of Oshawa Generals and Toronto St. Michael's College. Jack Roxburgh of Simcoe, who is to be succeeded by Oshawa's Stu McTavish as O.H.A. president, acted as chairman for the last time in his two years of office.

The clubs agreed to use the professional interpretation of "icing," which allows the puck to be shot into the opponents' end after being carried over the red line.

All were in favor except Bob Crosbie of Kitchener Greenshirts, who said the rule made for "scrambly" hockey.

The council also passed a motion to change from the "two-referee" system of officiating to one referee and two hometown linesmen. The vote was 4 to 3 in favor.

Tentative starting date for the junior "A" season was set as Friday, Oct. 10.

Ontario, B.C. Golfers Favored For Willingdon

VANCOUVER (CP)—Phil Farley peered at a blank score card, scratched his chin and said: "a 580 should win it."

The captain of Ontario's defending champion Willingdon Cup golf team offered a figure four over par for 36 holes by the four team members. The record is 578 strokes, shot by the British Columbia team in 1948.

All players had arrived today for the inter-provincial matches and junior Canadian championship to be run off tomorrow over the up-and-down Capilano course in West Vancouver.

Most golfers here figure the medal-play series to be strictly a contest between Ontario and British Columbia.

Farley didn't come right out and say whether it would be Ontario that would shoot that 580 but he was obviously figuring on an average one-over-par 145 for 36 holes for himself, Jerry Kesselring, Nick Weslock and Keith Kirkpatrick.

Jerry Knechtel of Ontario appeared the favorite for the junior title. Laurie Roland of B.C., last year's champion, and finalist Doug Silverberg of Alberta now are out of the junior age bracket.

BUICK CUSTOM 4-DOOR TOURBACK SEDAN

It makes each drop of gas say uncle

ACCORDING to combustion experts, there's as much energy locked in a drop of gasoline as there is in a drop of nitroglycerine.

But the problem is to put that energy to work.

So Buick engineers aren't content just to mix that drop with air and touch it off. They've designed an engine that brings it catapulting into a cylinder head where it strikes a turbo-top piston—gets whipped into a churning, swirling ball of tight-packed energy.

Then it's fired. And when that happens, a drop of gasoline certainly lets loose power.

This isn't something that happens in a "car of the future."

It happens in a Buick Fireball 8 Engine today. It's a high compression engine. It's a valve-in-head engine. But it's also a Fireball in performance as well as name.

And it puts extra power under the hood—and extra miles in the fuel back in the gas tank.

The Fireball Engine powers an automobile as sweet-handling, eager and willing as anything that ever made your pulse leap to a faster beat.

It's a car that seems to know what you want it to do—true and sure in its course on a straightaway—beautifully balanced on curves.

It's a car with Dynaflow Drive* to feed power with infinite smoothness and a road-hugging levelness of ride.

And it is, with all this, very reasonably priced. Why not come in soon, and see and drive a Buick ROADMASTER, SUPER or CUSTOM for yourself?

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A TOUGH TRAIL.

Bill Spafford's Glen Roy juniors drew first blood in their quest for itular bunting down the junior "A" softball trail the other night in Brockville and they'll be out to sweep the series against the riverside "Plymouths" at Alemite Field tomorrow night. The beardless buckaroos are fully confident they can turn the trick after their impressive showing in the opener and they'll be on their best diamond behavior when the ump shouts play ball at nine o'clock tomorrow evening at the Alemite FField.

BUT LOOK HERE!

There's lots of softball fare for the faithful on beans, brown bread and bath night. What should be a thrilling tussle looms up in the opening clash between Jim Ethier's CNR Diesels and the Kingston Alcans when they shoot up the curtain in the first bout of the best of three intermediate "A" series at the CNR Recreation Field tomorrow gloaming. The game starts at 6,15 p. m. or thereabouts, as OASA regulations demand that all playdown games must start at leasta two hours prio rto sundown. That should give the pewsters plenty of time to catch the junior "A" tilt at the Alemite Field.

The Diesels are grimly determined to reverse the fate that befell the Glen Roys last year when they went down fighting before the Alcans in two straight tussles. The boys feel they have a much better balanced team than the Glens and are fully confident they can take the measure of their ancient enemies from the Limestone City.

With Pat Deasy, well-known bolo exponent, pitching for the foemen and Don Boyle tossing 'em for the railroad crew the game should develop into one of the best seen on local diamonds this season. It should be a thrilller.

Change of plans sees the Belleville peewees battle Brooklin at the Alemite Field instead of Firemen's Park on West Moira Street, it was announced today. The little fellas go at it starting at four o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and the joust should be a good appetizer for the junior and intermediate entries which follow in the evening.

On the baseball side of the picture the Drive-In Theatre bantams are in Port Hope this evening in a sudden-death battle with the Oshawa Dairy team. The game was ordered played by the Ontario Baseball Association following a Belleville "protest" of the second game between the squads won by the Oshawa team.

And a columnar pat in the back to the gallant little team of Paul's Motel sponsored by Mr. Paul Haggas. The youngsters came through in fine style to annex the city peewee baseball title and the Bill Hurst Tropny. They defeated an equally gallant bevy of youngsters in Bryson Reid's Service Station nine and as is usually the custom between two evenly matched squads the series went to five games before the Reid team bowed out of the picture. Motels won two and Reid's one with the teams battling to a tie on twi other occasions.

Meanwhile Ted Schwab's Little Giants will meet an Ottawa team in the second round of the peewee playdowns. Word was received yesterday that the L'il Giants were pitted against the Bytown crew and the first game, subject to confirmation by Ottawa is scheduled for the Fair Grounds here at 2.30 tomorrow afternoon. The teams go right back at it again on Sunday in Ottawa with the third game, if necessary, slated for Kingston next Wednesday afternoon.

SUCCESS!

President Don Lee, the CNR Diesels, newspaper men and others who "took in" the first annual softball congress at Kingston Penitentiary last Sunday came back with glowing reports of outstanding contests and splendid hospitality at the hands of Warden Dick Allan. It was a grand success all round with perfect weather backgrounding a day of splendid sport. The "Saints," representing the big house, emerged victors after the Diesels, Bloomfield, Kingston All-Stars and the home team had fought through a stiff semi-finals series. The Saints slapped a 10-5 defeat on the Bloomfield gang while nearly a thousand "home town" fans cheered themselves hoarse.

The Belleville representatives regardless of what uniform they wear have always been popular guests at Warden Allan's "mansion." The "boys" like them. That was evidenced when the Diesels were playing another "outside" team and the home rooters cheered loud and long for the railroad crew.

And personable Dick Allan, the warden, a stern disciplinarian officially, but who does not rule with a mailed fist otherwise, was his own genial self. This reporter "took in" the previous visit to the penitentiary and Warden Allan left nothing undone to make our stay and that of the Diesels a pleasant one. We, like the visitors at the Sunday congress were accorded the utmost in hospitality, served a delicious lunch (the same fare as the 'troops) and treated to the rare sight of the "innards" and workings of a modern penitentiary. But for a' that, Richard, the air we breathed when we reached the "outside" did, after all, taste a little sweeter.

Warden Allan was the guest speaker at the Commercial Softball League annual banquet last year, and proved an excellent post-dinner orator, will be back again at the October function of the loop, Prexy Lee says. We hope he is. It is always a pleasure to meet and talk with a man who has for several years seen and met with the seamier side of life, and who has been and is a successful and efficient administrator of a modern penal institution.

Garcia Faces Allie Reynolds In First of Two-Game Series; Giants Split; Brooklyn Idle

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

A month ago Cleveland Indians were pronounced through as an American League pennant threat.

That was July 22 when they dropped a doubleheader to New York Yankees and fell 7½ games behind the Bombers.

But today they invade the Yankee Stadium for a two-game series with first place at stake.

Can Take Lead

Cleveland, trailing the Yanks by one game, can take over the lead by one percentage point by beating the champions in the series opener.

Big Mike Garcia (15-8) has been nominated to face the Yanks' Allie Reynolds (15-7) in the first game. Early Wynn (16-10) is scheduled to go against New York's Vic aRschi (14-3) tomorrow.

Showers are forecast for today and if the game is rained out the teams will clash in a doubleheader tomorrow.

Garcia sports a 3-0 record against the Yanks and will be pitching with four days' rest. Reynolds has won two of five from Cleveland and will be starting his first game in five days.

Both the Indians and Yanks suffered defeats yesterday. The third-place Boston Red Sox knocked off the Indians 4-1 and Chicago White Sox upset the Yanks 6-1 to sweep a three-game series. Washington and St. Louis divided a twi-night doubleheader, the Senators winning the first game 3-2 and the Browns the second 8-1.

Giants Falter

In the National League, Chicago Cubs impeded New York's pennant bid by splitting a doubleheader with the Giants, winning the first game 8-6 but losing the second 10-5. The Mexican standoff kept the Giants seven games behind the front-running Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Dodgers' game with Pittsburgh was rained out. Philadelphia and Cincinnati were idle while in the circuit's only night game, St. Louis nipped Boston 3-2 for its sixth straight victory.

Sid Hudson scattered seven hits in beating the Tribe's "spot pitcher," Steve Gromek. The Red Sox nicked Gromek for all of their eight hits and runs in seven innings.

The Yanks, conserving their best pitchers for Cleveland, opened with a second-liner for the third straight time and failed. Rookie Tom Gorman was beaten in the first inning and had no one to blame but himself.

Gorman walked home one run and his wild throw permitted two more White Sox to score.

Spec Shea turned in his 10th victory for the Senators in the first game at Washington. Lefty Bob Cain breezed to his ninth victory in the second.

Sauer Homers Twice

Big Hank Sauer smashed a pair of three-run homers to beat the Giants in the opener at Chicago. The homers boosted Sauer's output to 33 and increased his runs batted in to 106.

Chicago jumped away to a 5-0 lead in the second game, scoring all of their runs off Jim Hearn in the third. Bob Rush blanked the Giants until the sixth when they tallied four runs. The New Yorkers won out with two unearned runs in the seventh and sewed it up with four more in the ninth.

Wilmer Mizell turned in his seventh straight victory for the Cards in beating Boston. The rookie checked the Braves on five hits and blanked them after Sid Gordon's two-run homer in the first inning.

Last-Inning Homer Gives Rochester Win Over Leafs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester Red Wings had second baseman Lou Ortiz to thank today for the fact that they're still only one-half game behind the second-place Syracuse Chiefs in the International League.

Ortiz and his mates were well on the way to a defeat at the hands of Toronto Maple Leafs last night when Lou decided to do something about it. With the Leafs ahead 1-0 in the ninth inning and two on, Ortiz whacked a 370-foot home run to give his team the victory.

Ellis Deal hung up his 13th victory of the campaign, allowing but one run in the ninth. Stubby Overmire, who took over when starter Gerry Fahr was taken out for a pinch-hitter in the seventh took the loss.

The Chiefs whipped Buffalo Bisons 2-0 in the only other action of the night. The game was called after 7½ innings because of rain. The other two scheduled games were rained out.

Bob Keegan spun his 18th victory and seventh shutout for the Chiefs. Claude Corbett knocked in both Syracuse runs with a single in the second off loser Hank Borowy.

Bill Mawhinney, Canuck Star, In U.S. Amateur Semi-Final

SEATTLE (CP)—A young Vancouver golfer today came close to a goal that hasn't been accomplished by a Canadian since he was three years old.

Bill Mawhinney, 23, tees off against Jack Westland, a man more than twice his age, in a 36-hole semi-final for the United States amateur title. And golfing enthusiasts remembered C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville, the London, Ont., veteran who last brought the crown to Canada 20 years ago.

Knocks Out McHale

Mawhinney, the 1950 Canadian amateur titleholder, won his semi-final berth the hard way yesterday by knocking out the last big name in the field—Jimmy McHale of Mamaroneck, N.Y., who had eliminated former champion Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City in morning play.

McHale, a member of the U.S. Walker Cup team, had squeezed by Percy Clogg of Vancouver 2 and 1 in an earlier round, but the stretch-running Mawhinney avenged his fellow-townsman by overcoming a two-hole deficit to defeat the big Oklahoman, one up.

Meanwhile, Canadian champion Walt McElroy of Vancouver carried his bid for the title to the quarter-finals before bowing to Al Mengert of Spokane, Wash., 3 and 2. Mengert faces crooner Don Cherry of Garden City, N.Y., in the other semi-final bracket.

Mawhinney, who currently holds the Pacific Northwest amateur title is the last of eight Canadians to keep his title hopes alive, though the pre-tournament pickers had him tabbed for early elimination.

A bad back, which kept him off the Canadian team in last wek's Americas Cup matches, was expected to hamper Mawhinney's game. But the big Canadian showed no signs of strain as he downed Bill Campbell of Huntingdon, W.Va. 3 and 2 in morning play yesterday. And he was quick to take advantage of a couple of costly driving lapses by McHale in his quarter-final match.

McElroy got past Marion Hiskey of Twin Falls, Ida., 3 and 2 before he ran into Mengert, a recently-discharged U.S. flier who had breezed by the formidable Paul Johanson of Seattle by a 5-and-4 margin in morning play.

Couldn't Catch Up

The Spokane youngster's consistent play was too much for the Canadian champion. Five down at one stage, he rallied gamely on the back nine but couldn't catch up.

Westland, a 47-year-old candidate for the United States House of Representatives from Everett, Wash., won the right to met Mawhinney by knocking off young Dick Yost of Portland, Ore., 3 and 1.

He, too, is after a long-cherished goal. In 1931 he reached the finals of the amateur, only to lose to Francis Oimet.

Cherry's quarter-final victim was Gene Littler, the 22-year-old sailor who upset British champion Harvie Ward Wednesday.

Blue Bombers Open Against Calgary Stamps

WINNIPEG (CP)—The exhibition tilts are over and now the games that count start Saturday night for Winnipeg Blue Bombers when they open their 1952 Western Interprovincial Football Union schedule here against Calgary Stampedera.

Despite their success in three pre-season exhibition games in the east—they defeated Ottawa Rough Riders, Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Toronto Argonauts—Bombers are not looking for a pushover in the revamped Stamps, who early this week walloped Montreal Alouettes 30-11 in their only exhibition contest this year.

Bomber coach George Trafton said if Bombers escape injuries in key spots and "we get our share of the breaks," the club likely will grab a playoff spot.

'Stinky' Stengel Refuses Chisox Practice Session

NEW YORK (AP)—Managers Paul Richards of Chicago and Casey Stengel of New York weren't on speaking terms yesterday as the White Sox and Yankees clashed in the final of their three-game set at Yankee Stadium.

The bad feeling sprang up over Stengel's refusal to allow the White Sox to work out after Wednesday's 12-3 Chicago victory over New York.

Richards, who likes to have his charges work out after as well as before a game, had sent the clubhouse boy to Stengel seeking permission to take some extra batting practice at conclusion of the afternoon game. Stengel refused.

Richards got in some batting practice anyway. He hurried four of his players—outfielder Minnie Minoso, shortstop Chico Carresquel, pitcher Chuck Stobbs and catcher Darrell Johnson—into a taxi, uniform and all, and went to the Polo Grounds where they worked out for an hour.

The Yankees later issued a statement saying that Richards made his request "much too late to change the schedule of the grounds keepers."

Louis Predicts Jersey Joe Will Beat Rocky

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Louis, eminent thespian, turned ring expert long enough yesterday to predict that Jersey Joe Walcott will clobber Rocky Marciano in their heavyweight title fight at Philadelphia Sept. 23.

"Old pappy is too smart and tricky," the Brown Bomber said. "He'll run Marciano crazy moving in and out and, don't forget, he's got a mean right hand lick. It's quick and it'll pulverize you."

The former king of the heavies unburdened himself of these remarks at a tete-a-tete tossed at one of the fashionable mid-town bistros to announce plans for the projected movie on Joe's life: "The Joe Louis Story."

Clip Meets Whip In Feud Renewal

Wrestling observers feel that the rivalry for the British Empire title between Whipper Watson, the champion, and Lord Athol Layton, the challenger, will be decided either by Layton's judo chop or Watson's commando unconscious hold when these two opponents meet in the ring at the Memorial Arena tonight.

Layton's judo chop has been a big item in his victory record and has been the subject of much controversy as to its legality. While Watson has not questioned the use of the judo chop against him, he has taken issue when it has landed across his throat.

Watson's commando hold has been the principal means of turning back challengers for his crown in the past, notably such powerhouses as Fred Atkins and Nanjo Singh.

Popular Pat Flanagan will have at Jim (The Bull) Wright in the semi-final. Newest mystery-man of the mat, the Masked Marvel, will accost Bill Stack in the first bout.

Cold, Choppy Weather Said For CNE Swim

TORONTO (CP)—The 45 huskies plunging into Lake Ontario today in the Canadian National Exhibition's $10,000 10-mile marathon swim can expect no help from the weather man. The water will be cold and choppy.

Predictions are for a "brisk" 10- to 15-mile-an-hour, offshore wind. The stiff breeze will skim warm surface water from the north shore towards the United States.

Lake levels have climbed to the highest point in almost 100 years and the breakwater which closed off the waterfront course is awash.

Last year, in warmer water, Jerry Kerschner, 30, of Columbus, O., was set a punishing pace for the first nine miles by 19-year-old George Bevan of Toronto and tagged the finish barge less than five minutes behind the record set for the 4½-hour event in 1937 by Frank Pritchard of Buffalo, N.Y.

Bevan promises to do even better this year, according to training-camp boasts. It is reported he has covered the distance in 4:16.30, almost three minutes faster than Pritchard's 4:19.28.

Only a handful of the 39 starters finished the gruelling course last year.

The winner will take home $5,000, second placer $2,250 and the man in third spot $750. There's another $100 for the leader on each lap and $50 for the fastest mile.

The more than 10,000 spectators should be warm enough. Air temperatures are expected to reach 75.

Filipino, Dane Meet for Canuck Tennis Title

TORONTO (CP)—Two United States players, a Filipino and a Dane meet today in the Canadian lawn tennis championship semi-finals.

Felissimo Ampon, 31-year-old champion of the Philippines since 1939, plays the Danish champion, Kurt Neilsen. Ed Moylan of Trenton, N.J., 29, is drawn against powerful Dick Savitt of Orange, N.J., rated as the second singles player in the United States.

Moylan yesterday eliminated last years' Canadian singles champ, Tony Vincent of Miami, Fla., 6-1, 6-2, 6-1. Tiny, 98-pound Ampon wore down Art Larsen, U.S. clay courts champion from San Leandro, Calif. seeded No. 1 in the tournament, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, 6-1.

In other matches yesterday, Savitt snuffed Mexico's last hope for the male singles crown, Gustavo Palafox, 6-3, 6-3, 6-1 and Neilsen retired Hal Burrows of Virginiatown, Va., after a long match, 4-6, 6-1, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3.

There were few spectators at yesterday's feature matches. Large bleachers erected for the play were only half filled for the five-set marathon between Burrows and Neilsen.

In the women's singles, fiery Melita Remirez proved her No. 1 seeding by defeating Louise Brown of Toronto, 7-5, 6-0. The petite contender from Mexico changed her game completely in the second set, lobbing long slow balls to Miss Brown which threw the hard-hitting Toronto player off her stride.

Melita will meet the present title-holder, Lucille Davidson of Lees Summit, Mo., in the finals tomorrow. Lucille knocked Pat Macken of Montreal out of the running in the quarter-finals 6-2, 7-5 and retired another Montreal player, Hanna Sladek, seeded No. 1 Canadian, yesterday with a 7-5, 6-3 score.

Ottawa Coming For Pee-Wee Tilt

Ted Schwab's Little Giants are the peewee baseball champions of Eastern Ontario, and will engage in a round robin tournament at Niagara Falls on August 30 for the provincial title.

Drawn in the second round with Ottawa, the Giants moved into the finals series when the Bytown team defaulted the series.

Despite an earlier announcement that Ottawa would not take part in the playdowns, a change of plans was made at noon today and Ottawa's representatives will arrive in Belleville for play tomorrow afternoon.

TO PHOTOGRAPH PAKISTAN

TORONTO (CP)—Douglas Kendall, vice-president of Photographic Survey Corp., said yesterday the Toronto firm has been awarded a $2,000,000 contract to compile a complete resources inventory of Pakistan under the Colombo plan. The four-year survey is intended to give Pakistan a sound basis for mineral and industrial development.

Petes Defeat Kingston 5-3

Peterborough Petes consolidated their hold on first place in the Central Ontario Baseball League standing last night when they turned back the Kingston Monarchs by a 5-3 score.

Phil Clancy, youthful Petes hurler, who is destined for an Uncle Sam uniform shortly, and Tommy Ryder of the Monarchs went the distance hurling six and nine-hit baseball respectively.

The win strengthened the Petes hold on first place with a record of 13 and nine. The Belleville Redmen are in second slot with 11 and 11 and the Monarchs trail with 8 and 12.

Kingston has two games left with the Petes with the Redmen having two games to play with the Monarchs.

FRANKFORD

Cobourg Blanks Merchants 2-0

FRANKFORD — Frankford Merchants met Cobourg at the Frankford Park Wednesday night in an exhibition softball tilt. Although Curtiss, going for eight innings, and Rankin the ninth, only gave up five scattered hits, it was not good enough to prevent Cobourg from whitewashing the locals 2-0. The reason? Simply because Dawe, the youthful Cobourg flinger tossed a no-hit masterpiece. In so-doing, he struck out 11 Frankford batters, while walking seven.

Cobourg got an unearned run in the second, as Lingar walked, went to second on a passed ball, reached third on an infield out, and scored when Murphy dropped a throw to the plate. Their second run came on a leadoff single, off Curtiss's shins by Lovatt, a wild pitch, and a double by Bevans.

Curtiss pitched good enough ball to win almost any game, yielding only one earned run in eight innings, striking out five along the way. The best that can be said about Frankford in the game, is on behalf of Appleby, for a fine running catch in right field in the eighth, to rob Jones of what looked like a sure Texas-league single.

Lineups:

Cobourg: J. Bevans c; Jones lf, 3b; Douglas ss; Boswell 2b; Dawe p; Lingar, rf, lf, 1b; Quigley, 1b, lf; Lovatt 3b; Cavanaugh cf; Platt cf; Sweet rf.

Frankford: Dafoe 1b; Rankin 3b; Bedard lf; Curtiss p, 3b; Gilmour 2b; Murphy c; Istead cf; Cooke ss and P. Appleby rf.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, AUG. 23, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Handle all business deals astutely. Don't skip any important issues or be lax in your duties. Wholesome recreation needed as relief.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Be practical in issues that may have reactionary results. Have faith in yourself and your chances will be better, your ideas click and bring desired success.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Mostly friendly aspects for worthwhile activities, problems essential to daily living. Dominant issues may be trying in personal contests, but can be handled successfully.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Generous vibrations for most stable matters; less attrcative for tricky or unknown propositions. P.M. favors homey affairs.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—It could be, if you are watchful, a most successful day. Reliance on heresay or chance methods won't do. Hard concentration brings top results.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Some very generous prospects, with plenty of progress in sight this fine day. Your warm, friendly disposition—typical of the best Taurus—is a great asset.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Planetary vibrations strongly favorable to essential business, real problems, shipping and travel. All sound endeavors can bring satisfactory achievement.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Your versatility and natural instinct to see a way to fresh advantage has ample opportunity for gains today. Industry can reap much good.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Don't waste chances by trying too many tasks at one time. Avoid bluntness, impatience. Your keyword now is tenacity, use it wisely.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Influence tops for your magnetic personality, in business, professional or home matters. Heart affairs rate high. Stress logic.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Be motivated by highest instincts; with modesty and thoughtfulness, you can gain fresh laurels. Don't be swayed from the best methods and consistency.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—If you allow no untoward influences to arest your forward drive, your fine sense of balance can expect success. Have courage of convictions.

YOU BORN TODAY are well fortified with talents, gifts from God you should greatly cherish. Well suited to high position in business; make excellent executive, manager, lawyer, soldier. Avoid strong show of likes and dislikes, tendency to arrogance, extravagance. Be that good neighbor, say that kind word and don't worry about others' actions toward you. Birthdate: Louis XVI, France; Wm. Ernest Henley, British poet, editor; Maj. Gen'l Jonathan Wainwright, Hero of Corregidor.

DOGS PROTECT COUGARS

PORT ALBERNIA, B.C. (CP)—Ace cougar hunter Harry (Wildcat) Brown's hounds have strange friends—five cougar kittens. The 10 hounds have shown a protective attitude toward the playful kittens, captured after the dogs had treed two mother cats for the kill. The young cougars for some weeks were nourished by Dot, a three-year-old hound.

Why We Say--

... From a bird

When safety authorities wanted to compare the heedless pedestrian to something, they called him a jaywalker in allusion to the jay bird who usually runs after things diagonally. Jaywalkers are people who cut diagonally across the treet.

Fighter Planes Given First Tests Aboard Carrier

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Navy disclosed today that four new jet fighter planes have been given their first tests aboard a carrier.

Three of them — the single-engined XFJ-2 Fury and F9F-6 Cougar and the twin - engined Chance-Vought F7U-3 — are those which Navy Secretary Dan Kimball recently described as new navy planes which will be "better than the Russian MIG."

When and if the three are ordered into production, they will be the first of the Navy's swept-wing carrier-based fighters.

The fourth is the twin - engined straight-wing F2H-3, a new model, of the McDonnell Banshee.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bennett and family, in the loss of a son, Donald Bennett, who was accidentally killed on Monday.

Rev. J. F. Everson and Merritt Waite, of Belleville, had dinner on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Noble Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. William Horwood and son, Thorold, accompanied by Mr. Kenneth Haines, spent Sunday afternoon at the Sandbanks, and the Outlet, Picton.

Family Reunion

A family reunion was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hart. Those attending were, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hart and son, Stanley, Roslin; Mr. and Mrs. John Hart and family of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hart and Joseph, Windsor, Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Fraser and daughter, Kay, Mrs. Nellie Breach, of Point Anne.

The day was spent by renewing old acquaintances and social chat. Owing to the weather conditions refreshments were served inside for dinner and supper. The party then left after thanking Mr. and Mrs. Hart for the nice time spent together. All hope to meet again soon.

Mr. Clarke Fraser of Kingston, called on his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Fraser on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hart and family, of Plainfield, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Fraser.

Mr. A. B. Charlton and grandson, Berton Whalen, are spending a week with Mr. Charlton's brother, Mr. Fred Charlton and Mrs. Charlton at Parham.

WHAT IS A CUSTOMER?
A customer is the most important person in our business. A customer is not an interruption of our work — he is the purpose of it. We are not doing him a favor by serving him — he is doing us a favor by giving us the opportunity to do so. A customer is not dependent upon us — we are dependent upon him. A customer is not an outsider to our business — he is part of it. A customer is not a cold statistic — he is a flesh and blood human being with feelings and emotions, biases and prejudices. A customer is not someone to match wits with or argue with. Nobody ever won an argument with a customer. A customer is a person who brings us his wants. It is our job to handle them profitably to him and to ourselves.

Underneath The Bough

By Edna G. Robins

Louise Weston lifted little Adele Miller down from the model's platform and gave her a kiss. "Are you tired, honey?"

"No, not very," Adele's childish voice replied. "May I look?"

"Yes, indeed, you may."

Louise led the little girl around to the front of the big easel that was now supporting a finished portrait of the little girl. Adele stared at it solemnly for a few minutes. Then she looked up at Louise a smile breaking through the seriousness of her face.

"It's very nice," she said, "and I think it looks like me, only I'm not always as pretty as that."

"Goodness, you're modest!" Louise laughed gaily. "You must be sure to come to the Exhibit to see how you're picture looks along side of the other portraits."

"Yes, Mrs. Weston, I'll come" Adele promised. "Daddy said he would take me."

Louise helped the child into her hat and coat and went with her to the door. A car with a uniformed chauffeur was standing at the curb. Adele ran down the steps and disappeared into the depths of the car.

Louise went back into her studio. It was a large room that extended across the back of a house on Lefferts Place. Harry had made quite a fuss after she told him about renting a studio.

"I don't know what you want to do that for," he had blurted out angrily. "It seems to me there's room enough in your own house for any painting you may want to do. It's just an excuse for getting out of your housework."

Louise had smiled at him quite unperturbed. She refused to argue with him about the matter.

She had come home late in August after a summer in Provincetown. With a beautiful and becoming tan she had acquired a poise a self-assurance that baffled her husband. She was only sorry that she couldn't tell Harry about that wonderful summer. She had registered at an art school with a great deal of trepidation, sure that she was too old to go back to lessons, fearful that the other students would hold her up to ridicule for presuming at her age to compete with rising young artists.

The class had met in the mornings in an old barn up on a hill. To the surprise of Louise, entering timidly on the first day, there were several gray-headed men busily setting up easels and one or two women who looked to be much older than she was.

She began to feel more assurance. When the model took her place on the platform and Louise began squeezing out colors on her palette, her heart was so filled with a joyous excitement that her hand trembled as she reached for a brush.

Far from laughing at her, the other students looked at her work respectfully and even asked her advice upon occasion.

The summer had agreed with the children, too, she thought, as she took off her paint-smeared smock and tidied up the studio. Ted had loved his summer at camp and it had done him a world of good. And Eleanor had gotten a job and had gone off to business every day with her father, feeling very important and pleased to be earning $8 a week. The housekeeper Louise had engaged was capable, efficient and kindly. Louise had asked her to stay on after she returned from the Cape.

Yes, it had all worked out very well for everybody except Harry. He had not been happy at all about the arrangements. Louise had made them without consulting him. And yet he had no real reason to complain now. She was always home when he returned from work. And he certainly could not accuse her of neglecting the children. They were having a very happy family life, she considered. She would, of course, drop her painting at once if she thought it was necessary for the well-being of her children.

She put the kettle on the gas ring and got out the tea things. The children liked to have tea at the studio occasionally. Today she had persuaded Harry to stop in on his way home from work. It would be fun to hear what they thought of the portrait of little Adele Miller.

She arranged on a plate the cake she had bought on her way to the studio. Then while waiting for the kettle to boil she picked up a book. The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam that Ted was always quoting. One stanza pleased her so much:

"A book of verses underneath the bough,
A loaf of bread, a jug of wine, and thou
Beside me, singing in the wilderness—
Ah, wilderness were paradise
enow."

Louise let the book lie in her lap.

That's it, she nodded her head thoughtfully. Mr. Khayyam knows. There must be a book and a dear companion. The bread and wine alone are not enough. And if Harry only knew it, Louise was sure she would not have been so good a companion to him if she had not had the desire to paint deep in her heart, even when she wasn't using it.

The kettle was boiling furiously. She got up to turn down the gas, and then Harry opened the door and looked in.

As if he expected to find somebody here, Louise thought. Probably that was why he hated the studio. Harry had heard such wild stories about artists.

Ashamed of her unkind thoughts, Louise smiled at her husband radiantly.

"Do come in, Harry," she said going toward him, her hands outstretched. She stood on tiptoe to kiss him, and his arms drew her close for a moment.

WOOLER

Way Family Clan Holds Reunion, Elects Officers

Wooler—Members of the Way family gathered in Wellington Park for their annual reunion on Wednesday. Tables were laid and a sumptuous dinner enjoyed at one o'clock. A short time was spent in visiting, then the gathering came to order for the business and program.

Letters and telegrams were received by distant friends who were unable to attend.

Wellington was chosen for next year's reunion, the date to be set by the executive.

Address

Mr. Glenn C. Way, family historian, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., gave an address on the early settlement of Prince Edwrad County, the county to which the first members of the Way family came about 1800.

Officers Elected

President: Mr. Eranest Way, R.R. 8, Picton; vice president, Mrs. J. B. Harder, R.R. 2, Belleville; secretary treasurer, Mrs. J. J .Way, Wooler; sports convener, Mrs. Percy Way, R.R. 3, Trenton.

Souvenirs were presented as follows: Couple coming the longest distance, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Schweigert, Newfane, N.Y.; oldest lady, Mrs. Rufus Garrett, Wellington; oldest gentleman, Mr. Frank Way, Warkworth; longest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vardy, Codrington; most recent married couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Farrell, Moira; youngest baby girl, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harder, Belleville; youngest baby boy, Brian Way, R.R. 7, Belleville; largest family present, Mr. Ernest Way and family, R.R. 8, Picton; couple who had attended the most Way reunions, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Way, Wooler; girl under 15 who had come the longest distance, Miss Joy Brooks, Whitby; boy under 15 who had come the longest distance, Roger Harder, R.R. 2, Belleville; lady whose birthday was nearest the reunion, Mrs. Rufus Garrett, Wellington; girl under 12, Margaret Way, R. R. 8, Picton; boy under 12, Billy Way, R.R. 7, Belleville; lady who led a sing-song, Mrs. A. D. Way, R.R. 8, Picton; family historian, Mr. Glen C. Way, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

After partaking of the evening meal, goodbyes were said and all left for home with the hope of meeting each other at next year's reunion.

6TH TYENDINAGA

6th Tyendinaga—Mrs. A. Boldrick and Marie spent a day recently with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elliott, West Huntingdon.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Armstrong (nee Helen Beatty), who were married Saturday.

E[illegible] Boldrick spent a few days last week with Glen Elliott, West Huntingdon.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Goodman, Clarence, Lee and Mrs. T. Parks spent the dinner hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wannamaker and children, West Huntingdon, and the supper hour with Mr. and Mrs. H. Gray and family, Roslin.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie called on Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bradshaw, Saturday afternoon.

Several from here attended the Armstrong-Beatty wedding Saturday, August 16 in Plainfield Church.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Cleavley, U.S.A. spent a few days recently with Mrs. J. Bradden and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Treverton and boys called on Mr. and Mrs. James Goodman and girls, Consecon, Sunday afternoon.

Miss Joan Emerson, second line spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. J .Lancaster and Anne, recently.

Mrs. T. Parks is spending a couple of days with Mr. and Mrs. A. Goodman.

WILD COUNTRY

While the land area of Tibet is about 475,000 square miles, vast districts have never been explored.

"COOL CONTROL"
the "OVERLAPPING" GRIP

1 Allow club shaft to lie diagonally across the left hand.

2 Close fingers for firm but not tight grip on club, with left thumb running down outside of shaft. "V" formed by thumb and forefinger should point to right shoulder.

This is considered finest grip for control of club.

It's control that counts, in golf as in every sport — control which brings the balance, the comfort and the extra quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

This is one of a series designed to increase the pleasure of Canadians who participate in sports.

Wage Increase and Fringe Benefits Totalling 17½ Cents Given Heinz Co. Workers

LEAMINGTON (CP)—Retroactive pay increases of nine cents and fringe benefits amounting to another 8½ cents an hour for some 1,100 employees at the Leamington and Wallaceburg plants of the H.J. Heinz Company were the principal monetary gains made in the 1-day strike.

Company representatives stood firm on their refusal to include the Rand Formula in labor relations but changed a previous contractual agreement that an employee wishing to withdraw union membership could do so after seven days from the time a contract is signed.

14 Days Notice

Under the new contract, valid to Jan. 31, 1954, employees who wish to withdraw their union membership must notify the company 14 days before expiration of the contract.

The contract may be changed through a re-opening clause on Jan. 31, 1953, on the matter of wages alone.

Five cents an hour of the pay increase is retroactive to Feb. 1, 1952, and the balance is retroactive to May 1. Time-and-a-half will be paid for overtime over a 40-hour week and an eight-hour day. Similar payment will be made for statutory holidays worked.

One Cent Gain

In fringe payments, the company agreed to a three-cent-an-hour hike in lieu of a welfare plan; seven rather than six paid statutory holidays, equivalent to one cent an hour; uniforms, equivalent to one cent an hour; job grading, three cents an hour, and overtime concessions figured out to one-half cent an hour. The over-all total of 17½ cents an hour is one cent higher than had been offered before the strike.

Jealousy Motive For Many Crimes Says Confession

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—The body of Tore Hedin, 25, former policeman who butchered his sweetheart and murdered his parents and six others Thursday night, was found today.

Hedin left a confession saying the case would be solved "in the water." His body was found in the Lake of Bosarp, southern Sweden.

He had been missing since yesterday, when his automobile was found abandoned by the lakeside.

The confession gave jealousy as the motive for the crime—the biggest mass murder in Sweden since 1900.

Hedin's girl, 24-year-old Ulla Oestberg, broke off their engagement two weeks ago. On Tuesday, the cop was fired from his job at Hurva village, southern Sweden, for threatening and maltreating her.

Two days later he went to the Old Folks' Home where Ulla worked as a nurse and hacked her to death with an ax.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP)—Synopsis — Most of Ontario is still locked in the grip of polar outburst which swept into the province Friday. Last night frost again appeared in the White River area and people spending their holidays at vacation centres in Muskoka and Haliburton woke up shivering this morning when the thermometer dropped to within a few degrees of 35.

Another chilly night is expected for southern regions before the moderating effects of warmer air, currently sweeping the southern prairies, is felt. This warm air gave temperatures well into the 90s to southern Saskatchewan Friday and temperatures generally approaching the 90 to 95 mark are expected today in the Winnipeg area. However, the return of warm weather is expected to move into Northern Ontario first, and as a result southern and central Ontario will have to wait at least another day before any marked change in existing temperatures is felt.

ALL-EMBRACING SOCIAL SECURITY ASKED BY LABOR

Also Wants Living Costs Held Down by Controls

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canadian labor's oldest and biggest central body—the Trades and Labor Congress—is calling on the federal government for long strides towards social security.

The Congress, in views it recorded yesterday at its annual convention, wants an all-embracing security scheme, emphasizing health insurance but covering many other aspects of workers' lives.

Demand Price Control

It also wants living costs held down by price controls and food subsidies; lowered taxation in the lesser-income groups; re-imposition of the wartime excess profits tax; federal aid on housing, and higher minimum-wage provisions in provincial laws.

These points were among those spelled out in a large group of resolutions dealt with by the Congress yesterday, the fifth day of its annual meeting. The convention is to conclude today.

The T.L.C. also urged that immigration be restricted to make sure that outside workers do not take jobs away from Canadians, particularly in the cold-weather period of lowered employment.

The resolutions it adopted on social security called for a health insurance plan nationally would provide all forms of treatment. It would be contributory.

Also on a contributory basis, the Congress urged in general terms that schemes be set up to give workers insurance against any form of incapacitation that deprives them of their jobs or involves them in expenses on health grounds.

The housing resolution called for federal help in low-rental housing and in the construction of occupant-owned homes. It was not adopted outright as a Congress declaration, but it was referred to the T.L.C. executive for "action."

Debate Lively

The immigration issue stirred up a debate between advocates and opponents of putting blocks in the way of free entry of immigrants to Canada.

The Congress view eventually was that there should be "restriction" of immigration in the low-work months, a modification of a previous stand that entry of new arrivals should be shut off altogether during the cold-weather period.

The T.L.C. also held that responsibility for immigration should be on the federal Labor Department, rather than the Citizenship and Immigration Department. It suggested appointment of a board to administer immigration, made up equally of representatives of labor, management and government. The resolution also said there should be a "complete revision" of federal policy on immigration, but it did not go into detail.

Stalin's Motive for Calling Congress May Be To Replace Key Red Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prime Minister Stalin's motive in calling a formal Communist party congress in Moscow Oct. 5 may be to replace 60 key Communist leaders who have died or been purged.

The Voice of America, official State Department radio, hinted that this may be Stalin's motive in summoning Communist bosses together for the first time in 13 years. It was the first thing approximating any official comment from the State Department on this move.

A broadcast commenting on Moscow's announcement said of the 133 full Central Committee members:

"At least 23 have (in the last 13 years) died or been purged. Another 24 have not been mentioned in the Soviet press in the last few years.

"This indicates the high mortality rate—politica as well as literal—attached to membership in the Central Committee."

The Central Committee is the top-rank organization of Communists elected at each party congress. It in turn elects the 12-man Politburo which actually runs Russia.

The Voice broadcast, a special commentary by analyst Harry Fleischman, was featured in nearly all foreign broadcasts Thursday.

Commenting on the Russian plan to abolish the Politburo, it said "one thing can be safely predicted" even when this happens:

"The Soviet Union will remain a dictatorship, run by Joseph Stalin."

Skeena Away

The first major warship to be launched by a British Columbia shipyard since the end of the Second World War slid down the way at the Burrard Drydock Company's North Vancouver plant after the traditional bottle of champagne had been broken over her bow by Mrs. Clarence Wallace, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia. The new ship, H.M.C.S. Skeena, is the second ship of the Royal Canadian Navy to bear that name. The photo shows the new warship just before she became waterborne. — (CP Photo.)

26 Russian-Built Jets Shot Down in Aerial Battles Over North Korea in 22 Days

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The United States Fifth Air Force announced today that in the first 22 days of August, United Nations Sabre-jet pilots shot down 26 Russian-built jets in aerial battles over North Korea in which one Allied plane was downed.

An Air Force spokesman said the record "represents what is probably the most clean-cut victory of the Korea war. . .the nearest thing I find to it is for the entire month of last June, when 22 Migs were shot down and only one Sabre jet was shot down."

The Sabres kept Communist fighters from interfering with U.N. air strikes against Red stockpiles all along the front yesterday.

The North Korean radio reacted violently to the intensified Allied aerial effort.

A Pyongyang broadcast, heard in Tokyo, called for an immediate halt to what was called "murderous American bombing of civilians.' '

The U.S. Air Force said, however, civilians were urged with leaflets to evacuate target areas prior to the two big Allied raids Thursday and Friday.

The broadcast called Gen. Mark W. Clark "the American executioner" and the Far East Air Forces "Truman's butchers."

Far East Air forces announced Allied pilots have shot down 1,318 Red planes during the war, against 753 losses. The figures do not include navy carrier-based planes.

On the ground, U.N. soldiers drove back seven Red probes yesterday and today — including three at Allied-held Bunker Hill, the scene of stiff fighting a week ago.

Windsor Girl Killed Trying To Aid Injured in Car Crash

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A Windsor girl died today as a result of injuries she received while trying to assist victims of a crash at Pillette and No. 2 highway.

Miss Jacqueline Masse, 20, died in Metropolitan Hospital about two hours after she suffered a fractured skull, severe lacerations and other undetermined injuries when a crashed car toppled on her.

Five other persons injured in the smashup were taken to hospital.

Admitted for treatment were drivers of the two cars involved, Robert Baker of Romulus, Mich., and Jerry Nicholls, 22, Windsor.

Released after treatment were Mrs. Lewis Milnunr, 22, Windsor; Annette Fowler of Romulus, and Elaine Breaux, of Cleveland. All were passengers in Baker's car.

Baker was driving east while Nicholls was proceeding south on Pillette, with Miss Masse as a passenger.

As far as witnesses could determine, Miss Masse was not badly hurt in the crash and stepped from Nicholls' car to assist those in the Baker vehicle which overbalanced and fell on the girl.

Armistice Talks May Soon Move To Wooden House

MUNSAN, Korea (AP) — The stalemated Korean armistice talks — now in their second year — soon may move from a battered tent to a wooden house built by the Communists.

Reporters today saw the 24 by 36-foot building of pine and plywood being nailed up on a concrete foundation at Panmunjom. Its windows are diamond-shaped. Chinese carpenters, apparently imported for the job, refused to answer questions.

It was learned that the house will replace the meeting tent supplied by the Reds under the agreement which shifted the truce site to Panmunjom from Kaesong 10 months ago. Nearby United Nations tents still are in good condition.

The U.N. Command gave the Communists a revised list of Allied war prisoner camps in South Korea at a meeting of staff officers today.

U.S. GOVT. SUES 4 OIL COMPANIES FOR $67,000,000

Says Overcharged On Oil Shipments

NEW YORK (AP)—Four major United States oil companies and six subsidiaries are being sued for $67,000,000 by the government, which says it was overcharged on foreign-aid oil shipments to Europe.

In the latest step in a joint Congressional-administration war on an alleged international oil cartel, three separate civil suits were filed here yesterday.

Attorney-General James P. McGranery, in Washington, described the suits as "a test of whether the defendants, having control over the supply of Middle East crude oil shipped to countries participating in the foreign-aid program, can block the efforts of the government agencies to protect government funds committed to European recovery and defence."

The suits cover Middle Eastern oil deliveries by the firms to Marshall Plan countries in Europe between May, 1949, and May, 1952.

McGranery accused the major companies of flouting federal laws by using their subsidiaries to maintain a two-price system—charging the responsible government agencies more than other customers. He said the companies violated federal laws designed to hold crude-oil prices at reasonable levels while the free world rearms.

Companies named in the suits and damages asked of them are:

Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and its wholly-owned subsidiary, Esso Export Corp., both of New York—a total of $31,795,613.

Standard Oil Co. of California, of San Francisco, and the Texas Co., of New York, and their jointly-owned subsidiaries: Bahrein Petroleum Co. Ltd., Canadian Corp.; California-Texas Oil Co. Ltd.; Caltex Oceanic Ltd., and Mid-East Crude Sales Co., all incorporated in the Bahamas Islands but with home offices in New York—$21,427,722.

Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. Inc., of New York, and its wholly-owned subsidiary, the Socony-Vacuum Overseas Supply Co. Inc., of Fort Lee, N. J.—$14,118,498.

Mother and Son Getting Better In Hospital

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Five-year-old Elmer Haraqulia of Oshawa was still "dangerously ill, but improving" in War Memorial Children's Hospital here today. The boy and his mother, Mrs. Symon Haraqulia, 39, who is in "improving" condition at Tillsonburg district hospital, are suffering from the effects of pain-killing capsules.

The woman is also suffering from stab wounds in the abdomen, which police said were self-inflicted.

The two were taken to Tillsonburg hospital Thursday, and the child was brought to hospital here for further treatment.

Joint U.S.-Canada Civil Defence Teams Control Mock Atomic Attack

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Canadian police and fire equipment sped across the Rainbow Bridge today, rushing to aid this industrial and resort city "stricken" by a mock atomic attack.

The mock bomb was dropped with military precision right on schedule at 9 a.m. EDT. It fell at the intersection of 24th street and Buffalo Avenue, devasting the southern part of the city for a 12-mile radius.

At 9:15 a.m., the all-clear was sounded. Fifteen minutes later, the Canadian rescue and salvage elements raced across the bridge for the first time in a joint U.S.-Canadian civil defence drill.

Radio Aids

Meanwhile, word of the "attack" was spread rapidly by a network of three radio stations tied together under a new joint agreement by stations and newspapers of the two countries.

The stations, operating as civil defence units, were WHLD and WJJL of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and station CHBC of Niagara Falls, Ont.

Besides medical and rescue units from Niagara, Orleans and Genesee counties in New York state, similar civil defence teams from Lincoln and Welland counties in Ontario pitched in to help care for the 18,000 persons "injured" and the 8,000 left "homeless."

This welfare phase of the operation was the prime motive for today's test, overshadowing the first test of the joint newspaper and radio system.

In theory, a bomb dropped on this city's centre would knock out the plant of the Niagara Falls Gazette. Under the joint plan, the Evening Review of Niagara Falls, Ont., would take over to publish news of the attack in the stricken area.

If both newspapers were destroyed, the Lockport Union Sun and Journal or the Evening News of the Tonawandas would provide coverage. Surviving newspapers would pool staffs and facilities.

Jolt Tumbles Cascades of Brick, Masonry In Streets

Damage Expected to Run Into Millions of Dollars

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—A sharp earthquake jarred this city of 50,000 population yesterday, killing two persons, injuring 32 and shattering buildings.

The second major shock in 32 days hit during a peak afternoon shopping hour when the mercury registered 100 degrees. The 10-second jolt tumbled cascades of brick, masonry and glass into the streets. A few thoroughfares buckled. Entire walls fell out. Roofs crashed to the ground. Parapets crumbled.

While the business districts were hard-hit, residential sections, for the most part, escaped damage.

Damage Heavy

Damage was expected to run into the millions of dollars.

The quake was felt 125 miles south at Los Angeles and as far north as Sacramento, 250 miles away.

The dead were Mrs. Edna Ledbetter, 26, caught under the collapsing roof of a store in which she was shopping and Geo. Patman Cozby, 67, a railroad engine man trapped in the wreckage of the Kern County Equipment Company.

One hundred and six city blocks in the business districts of Bakersfield and East Bakersfield, hardest hit by the quake, were roped off. City Manager C. Leland Gunn declared Bakersfield a disaster area and proclaimed a state of emergency. The County Board of Supervisors arranged for county offices to be transferred from the courthouse, already damaged in the July 21 quake, to tents on a nearby lot.

At least four churches, some of them already damaged in the July quake, suffered from yesterday's shock. One schoolhouse was so badly damaged that the school board ordered it closed.

Unlike last month's quake, nearby communities reported no casualties or serious damage. The July shock caused 11 deaths at Tehachapi, 40 miles from here, and three elsewhere, with total damage throughout the area estimated at $40,000,000.

Seismologists said the magnitude of the latest shock was 6, compared with 7.5 for the July tremor. They placed the epicentre of yesterday's jolt only five to eight miles from here, along the Kern River fault. The July 21 quake centred at at least 20 miles away, along the Bear Mountain fault.

The scientists said yesterday's quake was a sort of "sympathetic reaction" to the July 21 shock, which was followed by numerous aftershocks.

Of the 32 injured, only six remained in hospital after treatment.

Jim Day, managing editor of the Bakersfield Californian, said that when the quake hit, automobiles "bounced up and down on the streets and people bounced as they walked along." It lasted just 10 seconds starting at 3:42 p.m. PDT.

Youth Swims Three Miles To Bring Help

CAESAREA (CP)—Fifteen-year-old Johnny Brooks yesterday swam three miles in Lake Scugog's rough waters to bring help for three companions clinging to an overturned dinghy.

Young Brooks, spending the summer near this resort hamlet 56 miles northeast of Toronto, saved two boys and a girl whose strength was fast ebbing when rescuers arrived.

Brought to safety were Jacqueline Cromba, 15; Donny Sinowiki, 15, and Gordon Creswell, 16, all of Toronto.

The four set out in the dinghy for a sail and the boat overturned in a squall.

"Johnny stayed with them," said Stan Allan of Toronto, who took part in the rescue 'until he realized that unless help arrived soon they were all going to drown. He decided to swim for help."

An hour and 20 minutes after setting out, the exhausted boy staggered on to the beach here. A powerboat, guided by Brooks, reached the scene in time.

Public, Press Barred from Trial Of Twelve Men

PUSAN, South Korea (Reuters)—Public and press were barred from court today when the trial of 12 men, alleged to be implicated in an attempt on the life of President Syngman Rhee, continued for the second day.

A court official said it was feared one of the accused might make some "careless statement" and incite public disorder.

Main defendant is Ryu Tae, 62, opposition politician who is alleged to have aimed a pistol at Rhee during a public ceremony June 25. The pistol misfired.

Before the public was turned out, Opposition Assembly member Kim Shi Hyon admitted he gave his gun to Ryu but said he soaked the cartridges in water for three days previously to make sure it would not fire. He only wanted to "correct" the president.

105 Witnesses Heard Before Inquiry Ends

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The three-month inquiry into the affairs of the East Windsor Hospital ended yesterday. The hearing saw 105 witnesses who gave more than 2,000,000 words of testimony.

Commissioner Gordon L. Fraser announced that he will make public his findings as soon as possible.

The hearing ended after a day-long argument by Norman L. Mathews, counsel for Dr. P.J.G. Morgan, medical superintendent for the hospital for incurables.

The commission was set up by Attorney-General Porter March 12 when copies of the hospital's 1951 financial statements were presented to him by M. Frank Brobst, a former hospital board chairman.

Mr Mathews criticized Mr. Porter, Health Minister Phillips and Mr. Brobst for their part in launching the investigation which he claimed caused irreparable damage to the East Windsor Hospital and hospitals throughout the province.

The board of governors had been justified, he said, in giving Dr. Morgan wide lattitude in running the hospital.

Mr. A. Mathews said the inquiry had disclosed some evidence of the use of unorthodox business methods at the hospital but none of dishonesty.

FIRE DEPT. DONATES $50 TO CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S FUND

The fire department through Chief Gerald Vance has donated $50 to the crippled children's fund of the Shrine Club, it was learned today.

The fifty dollars is approximately fifty percent of the $100 expense allowance given the department last winter by the Shrine following the police-firemen hockey game staged for the benefit of the Shrine's crippled children's fund.

The expense allowance was given to defray costs of equipment. Noble Lionel Crawford today expressed the appreciation of his organization for the generous gesture of the fire department.

THOMAS G. FOX

(Campbellford)

Campbellford — Funeral services were conducted here on Wednesday afternoon for Thomas Gordon Fox of 175 Front Street, who died at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, on Sunday night. He was 61.

Mr. Fox was born in Campbellford, where he resided all his life. He was the son of Robert Fox and Mary Jane Little both deceased. Mr. Fox had been ill about 10 days.

Surviving are his wife, the former Edith Maude Copperthwaite, and three daughters, Mrs. Edward C. Everitt (Mary Verabelle) of Peterborough, Mrs. Charles Ayrhart (Helen Catherine) of Campbellford and Miss Edith June Fox of Peterborough; one son, Robert Allan Fox of Campbellford; one brother, John Fox of Toronto, and three sisters, Mrs. William Harriott of Cobourg (Margaret), Mrs. Edison Winn (Rita) and Mrs. Russel Emmons (Ella) of Campbellford.

Mr. Fox was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and of Oddfellows Lodge No. 248 in Campbellford. He joined the lodge in 1916 and had received his 25 year jewel. He served overseas with the sixth Canadian Reserve Infantry Battalion for 13 months in World War I.

Services were conducted from the family residence by Rev. A. E. Toombs of St. Andrew's. Burial was in Mt. Pleasant cemetery. Members of the Oddfellows Lodge acted as bearers.

MISS GERTRUDE MAYNARD

CAMPBELLFORD — Funeral services were conducted from the Bennett Funeral Home on Wednesday afternoon for a former Campbellford resident, Miss Gertrude Maynard who died in Guelph on Sunday.

Miss Maynard came to Campbellford at an early age with her parents, the late John Maynard and Jane Frances. She went to Guelph two years ago.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. O. C. Watson, Campbellford and Russell Maynard of Ottawa. A one brother, Russell Maynard of Ottawa. Another brother Cecil, died earlier this year.

Miss Maynard was a talented musician and gave freely of her time as organist and choir leader at Christ Anglican Church, of which she was a member.

The Rev. W. J. Lennox of Toronto, former pastor at Christ Church officiated at the services.

Burial was in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

1,900 Married Men of Brigade To Return Home

OTTAWA (CP)—The army soon may start discharging overseas veterans coming home from a new direction.

Headquarters said yesterday a shuffle that will bring 1,900 married members of the 27th Brigade home from Germany and send 1,900 men overseas to replace them will start in November.

All 1,900 will be home by Christmas.

Although the statement didn't mention it, the army promised men who enlisted in the 27th Brigade last year that they could apply for discharge on return to Canada and said they might get it if the world situation permitted. Many have been in uniform little more than a year.

A spokesman said yesterday the army still stands by that statement. However, the army hopes many of them won't want to leave.

The rotation system for the 27th Brigade provides that married men come home after one year, single men after two. Defence Minister Claxton has indicated that this is being changed to 18 months for both.

POLICE SEEK PARENTS

TORONTO. (CP)—Police here have asked Provincial Police to search the Niagara fruit belt and western Ontario tobacco districts for parents of a four-weeks-old baby abandoned in a downtown hotel Thursday. The baby, a boy, is in the care of the Children's Aid Society.

Israel Strong Enough Now to Survive Despite Many National Problems Says Belleville Student After Trip

By BOYD UPPER

"I find it hard to get used to mother's cooking again," stated Leo Marcus, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Marcus, 153 James Street, when asked what was the biggest change he had noticed on returning to Canada after a year spent in Israel.

"Mother is a wonderful cook," he added hastily, "but I have been used to a lot simpler diet for the past year, and I find her grand meals just a little too rich for me now."

Leo, who was educated at Queen Mary School and at Belleville Collegiate where he was student council president in his fourth year, has just returned to the city after spending a year in Israel under the sponsorship of Young Judaea, Canada's National Zionist youth movement of which he was a vice-president. He was also a national governor of Key Club.

He intends to enter a pass arts course at Queen's University this September and then study law at Osgoode Hall, a total of six years more schooling.

Missed Year of School

"My trip to Israel was worth sacrificing a year from school," said Leo, in summing up his impressions of a visit that took him half way round the world to a newly-formed nation where he knew no one, and did not understand the language.

"It was a once-in-a-lifetime experience, and now that I am home I catch myself stopping and wondering if it all really happened."

Leo left Belleville early in September of last year, flying to the Israel National airport at Lydda, from New York, via Gander, London and Paris.

"We arrived just before the rainy season, known as 'Chamsin', an Arab word meaning 50, which means that the rainy season is supposed to last for 50 days."

Along with five other Canadians and representatives from 28 other countries, he was taken to the Jewish Institute at Jerusalem for a cram-packed five months' course.

Nervous at Start

"We were scared stiff," Leo admits. "I don't think I shall ever forget coming over the hills toward Jerusalem, seeing the moon shining on the bare Judean hills, and wondering just what I had gotten myself into."

"However, everything came out all right. We were quartered in a beautiful building that had once been an Arab luxury hotel. It was adjacent to the Jewish University and we lived there for five months while attending courses at the school."

First thing he had to do was to learn the language.

"We couldn't talk to one another," says Leo, "so we all had to learn Hebrew."

During their five months' indoctrination course, students rose at 7.00 a.m., breakfasted at 7.30 on tea, bread and jam, maybe an orange in season, and herring. Classes commenced at 8.00, and for the next three hours everyone concentrated on learning Hebrew.

Many Subjects

Psychology, sociology, geography, religious history, economics, politics, oil problems, and religions of the Middle East were taught alternately until 1.15 when classes stopped for lunch.

Lunch consisted of "lots of starches — spaghetti, macaroni, egg plant, potatoes and fish. Sometimes there was margarine, but no butter."

Siesta followed dinner until classes resumed at 4.00 p.m.

"The afternoons were much nicer," Leo recalls. "There was music, singing, dancing, arts and crafts, and various programs associated with the religious holidays."

"Canadian boys always seemed to have two left feet," he says. "You know, I took dancing every afternoon and after a whole year I don't know one dance."

No Coffee

At 7.20 classes stopped for supper. Supper was made up of 'Lebania,' a dish made of sour cream, vegetables, 'lots of cereals,' and tea.

"There was no coffee," Leo said. "They used to make a drink they called coffee, by roasting barley, and it wasn't too bad either."

"That may seem like a meagre diet to Canadians," Leo remarked, especially as we had meat about once a month, in amounts so small that we didn't know whether or not to say thank you, but in spite of it, I gained 14 pounds."

Leo sighed at this point, and remarked that he had run off his extra 14 pounds in nine frantic days in England on his return trip and was back to his old fighting weight.

"Everyone at the university was very friendly," Leo noted. "Professors and students were on a first-name basis."

Taken On Tours

But everything wasn't classwork, for the students, especially in their geography courses, as they were taken on tours of the whole new nation of Israel, from Metulla in the north, to Elath on the Red Sea more than 300 miles to the south.

"We took hikes, via buses, to all parts of the country," Leo stated. "We visited Bedouin camps in the desert, stayed in the hotels in the north, and slept under the stars in the desert in the south. We went armed in the desert because of Arabs who might be trespassing from Egypt and Jordan."

After spending five months in Jerusalem, he had the language mastered and was sent to a communal settlement, known as a "Kibbut" in the north.

"In a Kibbut everyone works according to his ability and is paid according to his needs," said Leo. "It is a socialist settlement, and all I had to do was ask for whatever I wanted. That is the way those places are set up."

Worked in Fields

"We worked nine hours a day in the fields," he states. "Much of the work was done by machinery, with Massey-Harris combines doing about 95 per cent of the harvesting."

"Last year the desert was planted in wheat for the first time in history. Heavy morning dew soaked the crop and surprisingly enough grain grew. This year the largest crop in the country's history was taken."

Following his stint as an agricultural worker, "with as many side trips and vacations as I wanted," adds Leo, he returned to Jerusalem for a summation course and then, on August 6th left Lydda for Canada.

He travelled by El Al airlines, and stopped over in Rome, Zurich and London. It was in London that the 14 extra pounds melted away, and where Leo saw Mary Martin in "South Pacific" almost a year after he had failed to see the show in New York because there were no tickets available.

"The cars in London scared us, and the food amazed us," he states. England has three times as much food as Israel. In Israel everything is rationed except bread."

Population Tripled

"You see," he explained, "the population of Israel has tripled from 500,000 in 1948 to 1,500,000 now, and the money which the country earns has to be diverted to maintaining the army so that Israel can be prepared to meet any possible threat from the Arab nations. Therefore, there is not too much food in the country and it has to be rationed."

After his London stop-over he flew on to America and arrived home on August 17.

In summing up his impressions of Israel and her peoples, Leo stated that when he went there a year ago he was not too sure that Israel was strong enough to survive in the turbulent Middle East, but after being in the country for a year he feels that "Israel is there to stay."

There are many problems They are still technically at war with seven Arab states and that alone has done much to impede her progress. The great increase in population has created shortages of food and housing.

"There are people from 72 nations living together in Israel today," he stated. You will hear 10 languages being spoken on any bus in the country."

Israel Wants Peace

The heavy expenditures for military purposes is supplemented by compulsory military service for two years for all men in the country, plus one month's training per year, plus two days a month. Israel can raise 100,000 fighting men in 48 hours, but she wants peace very badly so that she can go ahead with the job of building the nation.

"If there were peace," he says, "Israel could carry on a great trade with Egypt in cotton. She has the manufacturing facilities that Egypt lacks. Jordan has no harbor, and if there were peace, Jordan could trade through the port of Haifa. Peace would allow the harnessing of the Jordan River for irrigation and hydro-electric projects. Israel, which is half desert, has her future in the desert, and needs peace to go ahead," he stated.

"On the international front, Israel is trying to have the United Nations internationalize the holy places of Jewish, Christian, and Moslem regilions, but until that time comes, the Israeli government is doing all it can to assist the various religious groups.

"The Bible comes alive in Israel." "Anyone visiting the Middle East should see Israel and Trans-Jordan if at all possible.'

Letter a Big Help

While in Israel, he wrote a series of 40 articles for the Ontario Intelligencer under the title, "Shalom From Israel." He says that his letter of introduction from the Ontario Intelligencer was "worth more than all the gold in all the banks in the Middle East" because it gave him access to information and places that made possible a more complete and more fascinating holiday than an ordinary visitor could wish.

"Having spent a year in Israel really makes me appreciate Canada," Leo said, in expressing his joy at being home once again.

Bold Goldfish Attacks Cat

Here's the latest twist on the "news" angle.

"Man bites dog" is worn out, but when a bold goldfish attacks a cat, well, that's something different.

The fish's victim was a cat owned by Mrs. Percy Webb, of Prescott. The cat had for some time preferred to quench its thirst from the goldfish bowl, but made no attempt to disturb the fish.

The other day, however, the fish deciding apparently that this intrusion of privacy was too much even for the inhabitant of a goldfish bowl, retaliated by biting the cat.

The victim, it is reported, does his drinking elsewhere since the incident.

Trenton Briefs

TRENTON (Special)—The policemen and the firemen meet in a softball game the proceeds to go to the needy families fund. The match will be held next Wednesday night, starting time is 7.30 p.m. at Bayshore Park. Admission is 25 cents.

His Worship Mayor Kenneth J. Couch starts on the mound while backstop Councillor Claude Graham will preform behind the plate. There will be three prizes for those lucky people holding the right gate tickets.

Remodel Truck

Permanent firemen are remodelling the new hose truck recently acquired by the Trenton Fire Department.

Gordon Coughlin, a member of the permanent force, built compartments on both sides of the latest hook and ladder addition. Now there are three good pieces of fire fighting equipment at the disposal of the local and rural taxpayers.

Fired Prematurely

One of the machineaguns on a Mustang fighter being armored at the Trenton Air Station yesterday went off prematurely sending 150 .50 calibre machine gun bullets into a farmer's field in Sidney township. The shells carried a mile and a quarter and spent themselves in an uninhabited area. There were no injuries or damage reported as the result of the untimely firing.

FATALLY INJURED

OWEN SOUND. (CP) — Bruce Carson, 9, was fatally crushed beneath a truck yesterday at nearby Clavering. His skidding bicycle threw him under the truck wheel.

Prices Generally Unchanged On Large Market

Summer's fag end was apparent at the farmers' market today as late-ripening fruit began to take its place on the stalls, sharing with tomatoes and cucumbers the spotlight at the market. There was an exceptionally large offering of produce.

Available by truck loads, six-quart baskets of peaches were offered at 75 cents and 70 cents, depending on size and quality. Pears made their bebut today, selling at 75 cents for six-quart baskets.

Elsewhere on the market prices remained steady, corn continuing to sell for 45 cents per dozen and tomatoes at 40 to 50 cents per six-quart basket.

With the pickling season now coming into its own, cucumbers suitable for table and dills were offered in abundance, larger cucumbers selling at five cents each or six for 25 cents while six-quart baskets ranged from 60 cents to $1.20 depending on size.

In short supply during recent weeks, eggs were offered in quantity today, selling at 60, 63 and 65 cents, depending on grade and size. Hens were offered at 50 cents per pound and young chicken sold at 55 to 60 cents per pound.

Canada Tapers Off Buying But Spending Over '51

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians tapered off their buying during Jne for the first time this year, but were still spending at a rate well above 1951.

In the first six months they spent $28,000,000 more than in the corresponding period last year for everything from furniture to clothing and radios to washing machines.

If they keep it up, Canadian buying will total more than $10,000,000,000 by the end of the year.

The Burea of Statistics reported yesterday that retail sales in June totalled $978,263,000, compared with $940,218,000 in June last year. This brought the six-month total to a whopping $5,265,871,000 compared with $4,980,180,000 in the first six months of 1951.

The bureau figures showed, however, that the June figure was down 7.1 per cent from the $1,053,488,000 spent in May. Retail sales have increased every month this year up to May, the highest spending month so far.

Half-yearly sales values in Ontario were $2,029,947,000 compared to $1,954,001,000 in the first six months of 1951.

BOY HELD FOR THEFTS

NORTH BAY. (CP) — Police hold a 14-year-old boy on 14 charges of housebreaking and theft. They say his loot ranged from comic books and empty soft drink bottles to $25 in cash.

THREE IN COLLISION

INGERSOLL (CP)—Two automobiles and a transport truck collided near here early today. Police said Glenn Beggs of Sarnia was driving the truck and that Vernon Shaw of Burgessville and William Dutkiewicz of North Bay were the car drivers.

Public, Indian Schools in Twp. Are Transferred

The public and Indian schools in Tyendinaga township have been transferred from the South Hastings Inspectorate to the Centre Hastings inspectorate by Department of Education, Inspector of Public Schools R. H. Macklem, of South Hastings announced today.

The transfer has been made due to the rapid increase in the number of teachers in the Hastings South inspectorate. It becomes effective on September 1.

Inspector G. W. Nelson, B.A., B.Paed., Tweed is in charge of the Centre Hastings inspectorate.

There is a total now of 146 teachers in the South Hastings inspectorate, according to Inspector Macklem. There are 42 and 26 respectively in the urban schools of Trenton and RCAF Breadner; 21 and 35 in the rural schools of Sidney and Thurlow townships and 13 in the Goose Bay elementary and secondary school.

General Motors Diesel Plant To be Extended

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Further expansion of the plant of General Motors Diesel Limited, at a cost of $2,500,000, was announced yesterday. It will be the second extension since the plant was opened in August, 1950.

Work will start immediately. The addition will mark an important step in providing for railroads complete service facilities to handle wrecked locomotives, and to rebuild and repair major components such as traction motors, generators and engines.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

* * *

O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee

O Master let me walk with Thee
In lowly paths of service free;
Tell me Thy secret, help me bear
The strain of toil, the fret of care.

Help me the slow of heart to move
By some clear, winning word of love;
Teach me the wayward feet to stay
And guide them in the homeward way.

Teach me Thy patience; still with Thee
In closer, dearer company,
In work that keeps faith sweet and strong,
In trust that triumphs over wrong.

In hope that sends a shining ray
Far down the future's broadening way;
In peace that only Thou canst give,
With Thee, O Master, let me live.

"O MASTER, LET ME WALK WITH THEE"

One of America's best known clergymen in the last years of the nineteenth century was Washington Gladden. For more than 50 years his sermons and writings attracted wide attention. Today, he is best remembered for the beautiful hymn-poem, reproduced above, which is still popular in churches of many religious denominations.

Gladden was born in Pottsgrove, Pennsylvania, in 1836 and served the first pastorate in a Congregational church in Brooklyn, N.Y., following his graduation from Williams College, in 1859. In 1882 he moved to Columbus, Ohio, where—for 32 years—he gave the best part of his life to Christian service in a second pastorate.

The young preacher, interested in social service, believed that the Christian church had a call to lift humanity, not only spiritually and morally, but also socially and economically. His ideals were reflected in his sermons and lectures, as well as in his writings. His magnificent hymn, "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee", was written in 1879 in an hour of inspiration and was, in part at least, an answer to some of his contemporaries who criticized him for what they considered liberal religious views.

Dr. Gladden at one time was a member of the editorial staff of the New York Independent. He served also as editor of Sunday Afternoon, a weekly magazine, and it was in this periodical that his hymn first appeared.

Europe as I See It

By Raymond R. Canon

Tourism in Europe

ARTICLE 79

Special to the Ontario Intelligencer.—Judging from the number of tourists which have invaded the continent this summer, all previous records will probably be broken before the year is out. In spite of the apparent tension which hangs over Europe, more people, especially Americans, are eager to travel to new lands, and try to see as much as they can in the shortest time possible, or to escape the main stream so that they may enjoy peace and quietness; something which never seems to happen to the extent they might wish, for other people have the same idea, and come to the same place.

Tourism has developed into quite an industry over here and is fostered to a great extent by no less an organization than the government. Something about the same is also carried on in Ontario, for I seem to remember a campaign being carried on by the provincial government to attract American tourists to our fair province, offering them among other things ten per cent on their dollars.

The shoe is now on the other foot with the Canadian dollars being worth more, so perhaps there will be a decline on the number of tourists entering the country. Judging from the reports one reads over here of Canada's economy, this would not seem to do much harm.

Lopsided Trade

But such is not the case over here. Most of the countries find themselves with an unfavorable trade balance; that is, they are usually exporting much less than they import.

To make up for the gap they have to get foreign currency, especially dollars and Swiss francs something which is not as easy as one might believe. This can be done by several means, but the most important way is by exchanging the currency that the tourists bring with them. In order that this much needed currency will not find its way to the black market, most countries over here exercise a much more rigid control than we are accustomed to in Canada.

Quite often a person entering a country is only allowed to bring so much of that country's money with him, and must declare every other currency he has with him. Every time any is exchanged during his trip it must be stamped on his currency declaration form.

This is to make sure that exchanging on the black market is reduced to a minimum, but even at that a fair deal of illegal exchange goes on.

Two-Faced

There seems to be a rather two-faced attitude toward tourists in Europe. On the one hand nobody seems to like tourists running all over the place but at the same time they bring so much business with them to which I have heard no one objecting so far.

I find it rather comical to watch the people stare at a busload of tourists which have just arrived, and say in a rather scornful voice, "They're Swedes, or Swiss," or whatever the case may be. Or sometimes one hears, "Look at them gawk at that building, you'd think they never saw anything like that before!"

Well, perhaps they haven't that's why they're there.

You are probably just as familiar with tourist posters as I am, but I don't think anything we have back home would compare with the language of some over here.

It is incomprehensible to me how any government can describe a sun-baked hole as a place with an "Idyllic location where spacious bathing beaches are often swept with cool winds from the sea, and where the people are of a extremely friendly nature, always ready to oblige the stranger."

Of course there is always a picture with beautiful girls, and smiling waiters ready to serve you. Well, I have been to enough such places by now, and my impressions were usually far from what I had been led to believe.

Usually the inhabitants seemed anything but gay and happy, and far from being ready to oblige the stranger, seemed ready to take him for everything he was worth, which in my case wasn't much, I must admit. The waiter seems to smile only after you have given him a good-sized tip.

Some Good Spots

However, it would be a mistake to say that all posters are exaggeratedq. There are some places that the government seems to have overlooked, and so one sees hardly any publicity at all on them.

It is only by accident that one stumbles upon such places, but these seem to be where one is most likely to find the friendly people. At least, such has been my experience.

It is often better to get away some place from the stream of tourists, for one is able to meet just as nice people, and although one does not see as many fine cathedrals, or famous gardens, there is sometimes as much beauty in the village chapel, or the small stream which flows through the centre of the town.

Too many tourists travel about Europe trying to find culture, and come back from their travels with only a very thin coat of it.

There is one class of tourists that the Europeans set apart from the others with an accuracy that amazes me. I don't know how they do it sometimes. That group consists of the Americans who come here, and I imagine one could include the Canadians too.

For one thing everyone just takes it for granted that North Americans are just loaded down with money, and will pay any price asked. The trouble is that they usually do.

Americans Overcharged

I think North Americans are the most trustworthy people on this earth, because it never seems to occur to any of them when they first arrive that Europeans, especially in the Latin countries, are usually charging them more than they would anybody else. This practice is so common that the French have an expression when they feel they are being charged too high a price. "Look here," they say, "I'm not an American."

Checking prices and change carefully will eliminate quite a bit of trouble but still there are always some who never seem to do that and so pay the price.

However, a dissatisfied tourist is not likely to return so that more care is being taken to see that everyone feels he has received his money's worth during his stay, since this is the best kind of advertisement for any country. Europe has so much to offer to the tourist that the countries which profit the most are those who are ready to offer the tourist what he wants to see and do at a price he can afford to pay.

Hay Bay Church One of Most Historical in Ontario

By REV. A. J. WILSON D.D.
(Editor of The United Church Observer

Editor's Note: The annual pilgrimage to the old Hay Bay Church takes place this Sunday, with services at 3 p.m. In view of this the Ontario Intelligencer is privileged to offer this historical sketch by Rev. A. J. Wilson.

The old Hay Bay Church is one of the most historical buildings in Ontario. It has a long and varied history. It stands today substantially as it was built in 1792 by the United Empire Loyalists pioneers.

These pioneers were refugees driven from the United States because in the revolutionary war of 1776 they had refused to subscribe to the setting up on this continent a government independent of the government of Great Britain. Thirty thousand of them, it is estimated, were deprived of property, liberty and citizenship and deported.

In 1783, five ship loads of these refugees, who had possessed good homes, improved property and wealth were sent to this country. They spent the winter at Sorel in the Province of Quebec and then in the spring of the next year came by boat to this area. Four hundred under Major VanAlstine settled in this township of Adolphustown. The land had not been allocated and it was not until July of that summer, 1784, that they were able to go to their own land.

Meantime they had lived in tents near where now the monument at Adolphustown stands. Each family when going to its allotment of 200 acres possessed a tent, some seed grain, a cow between two families and some tools. The country was a virgin forest and these people unused to hard labor began the task of hewing out homes and clearing the land.

In 1788, a young man by the name of Lyons, came to the district to teach school. He also gathered a few people in a home on Sunday and conducted service after the Methodist Episcopal order. This was not pleasing to the Anglicans, who had no use for any other belief than that contained in the 39 Articles, and they made it pretty hard for young Lyons.

But in 1790 a Methodist minister, Rev. William Lossee, came from the United States, held services in Conrad VanDusen's tavern in Adolphustown. He was ridiculed and sneered at because of his methods. He was a one-armed, vigorous, energetic, nervous man but he got things done. He became popular with the pioneers who petitioned the Conference on the American side to station him in their midst. He then became the first regularly appointed Methodist minister in Upper Canada, taking his circuit in 1792. His meetings were held in Paul Huff's house just across the road and here on February 20th, 1792, the first regular class meeting ever held in Upper Canada was inaugurated.

The group attending service in Mr. Huff's house outgrew the accommodation and it was decided to erect a church. The specifications called for a building 36x30, two stories high with gallery. This is the building they built. It has weathered a strange and chequered career for a hundred and fifty years. The land for it was given by Mr. Paul Huff and those poor pioneer folk only four years on the virgin soil, 20 in number, subscribed £108 to its erection.

On August 20, 1819, the saddest accident ever to befall this part of the country took place. Eighteen young people set out from the opposite side of the Bay to attend Quarterly service. The minister had just concluded a prayer with the expressed hope "that this might be a day long to be remembered," when cries rent the air. The flat bottomed boat carrying the young people had over-turned and nine were drowned. The next day the funeral was held in this church. The minister was too overcome to conclude the service and the burial was made in a burying ground just across the road.

In 1862, a new brick church was built. This church was now no longer the centre of the area. The brick church on the next concession south took its place. In this old Hay Bay Church, Sir John A. Macdonald as a boy used to worship with his father. The home was on the site of the cairn just to the west of this building. The bricks and stones from the foundation of the residence are incorporated in this memorial.

The old Hay Bay Church was then sold and for years it was used as a barn and as an implement shed. The plaster came down, the gallery was broken and unsafe. The whole inside was a wreck. On December 17, 1910, the property was bought back by the Methodist Church and placed in the hands of a trustee board of which Rev. R. A. Whattam, of Toronto, was appointed secretary, which position he has held ever since. Mr. Alan Davis of Toronto, formerly of Napanee, did much to arouse public opinion in favor of preserving this shrine. After purchase of the Methodist Church, partial reconstruction took place in 1911, a service was held in it, presided over by Dr. A. Carmen, General Superintendent of the Methodist Church.

In 1924, at the annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference, a committee was appointed to continue the work of restoration. A pilgrimage from the Conference went to the church and a service held in which Dr. S. A. Chown took charge and gave the address.

In 1927, Rev. A. J. Wilson, then minister of St. Andrew's United Church, Napanee, and now editor of the United Church Observer, official organ of the United Church of Canada, and secretary of the Historical Society of Lennox and Addington convinced the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada of the necessity to restore the church "in the form which our forefathers built it." The Conference granted money for this purpose and the work and restoration was done. In 1950 the Trustee Board of the Hay Bay Church, which now has charge of the church and property under the Bay of Quinte Conference, received from Mr. McFarlane, of Picton, Ontario, the gift of a cottage. In this cottage from now on there will reside a custodian of the property who can guide visitors around the property during the months of July and August each year.

To the west of this church property the Dominion of Canada Historical Sites Commission erected a cairn to the memory of Sir John A. Macdonald.

CHALLENGE TO COMIC BOOKS

Comic books which have long been the target of parents and educationists who argued that the plots in these so-called juvenile humorous picture-stories could reasonably set the lives of children on a course of sin, have done a remarkable job of scrubbing the plots to appease complainers.

Faced with a ban on this type of literature, the publishers during recent months, have done a determined job of dropping many of the comic book features which were grounds for complaint. Shooting, killing and crime is now a rarity in their publications. Instead, many comic books now feature animated illustrations which, though of doubtful educational value, provide innocent entertainment for children addicted to comic books.

The change of attitude on the part of the publishers of these books is evidence of the power of public opinion. These publishers could have continued to publish their crime-promoting trash until ruled out of business by the courts. Like the moving picture industry which bowed to criticism from church groups and set up its own censor department to keep their product acceptable and clean, comic book publishers have apparently arrived at a similar conclusion until now few books may be termed unwholesome.

With stories depicting crime being deleted from comic books, the authors may proceed one step further in the betterment of their product and explore the possibilities of projecting innocent comic books into a media of education for their impressionable and avid readers.

WILL THEY CALL HIM "ARCHIE?"

Lt.-Gen. Sir Archibald Nye has arrived in Ottawa to assume his post as the United Kingdom's new high commissioner to Canada. This soldier-turned-diplomat rose from a private to wartime vice-chief for the Imperial General Staff and prior to his appointment to Canada, he served as High Commissioner to India.

Already Sir Archibald has described himself as "very happy" to be among us and there is little doubt that during his service here, he will do a good job in Canada and earn the admiration and affection of Canadians.

But how come these former soldiers must retain their army tag while on a peace-time job? Canada has officially evidenced a distaste for titles in any form. With the exception of General A. G. L. McNaughton, few Canadian army officers have continued to grip their army rank after war's end and those who insist on being referred to as "major," "captain," or "colonel" while employed on civic street are regarded as somewhat odd. Plain "Mister" seems to fit the bill.

As High Commissioner to Canada, Sir Archibald will be given an opportunity to show his stuff and while showing his "stuff," it is hoped he will not become "stuffy." To Canadians, the insistence of a wartime label could create a stand-off attitude. Add to this a knighthood, it makes the knighted man a citizen apart. And some would say, "then let's add 'Archibald'!"

Yes, Lieutenant-General Sir Archibald Nye will have a tough Canadian furrow to plow. During his tenure here the knight-soldier-diplomat may settle for just plain "Archie."

BUT PEDESTRIANS STILL "DENT"

On view for all to see at the Canadian National Exhibition this year is an automobile equipped with a plastic body which its makers claim is almost dent proof. Which would make it a nice vehicle to have, especially in crowded traffic or negotiating garage doors. But so far nothing has been said about pedestrians who have been known to suffer bruises, broken bones and sometimes death after being struck by automobiles of conventional design whose bodies, too, showed no evidence of a "dent."

TEAING OFF

There is an old adage which says that you can't make an omelet without breaking eggs. Apparently you can't make a decent cup of tea without using enough tea leaves. A dozen years of rationing have weaned British housewives from old and generous tea-making habits.

Now, with tea in greater supply, the British tea industry is putting on a campaign to restore the country's tea-making know-how. It will be interesting to see what the results are. Should they be favorable further efforts in British culinary improvement might be forthcoming.

The older coal beds of the Atlantic provinces are all bituminous, while other Canadian coalfields range up to semi-anthracite types.

THE FUTURE

We speak of their future as though it's to start
At some time far ahead, after we must depart.
Yet shape it we could, if we only knew how,
Their future is ours. It depends on us now.

The men of tomorrow; its mothers are here.
What we do for them now will in their age appear.

We are fitting them all for the tasks to be done.
Their future with us has already begun.

The great of the future are children today.
As we live our lives so in their time will they.
As we look at ourselves and our service, we'll see,
When we have passed on, what their future will be.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 23rd., 1932.

Fred Sprague and Joe Thrasher are sure successful fishermen and carry off the honors so far this season. They were spending a vacation on the upper reaches of the Moira River and on Wednesday last they were trolling in Bay of Islands, a small bay about six miles from Plainfield, when Mr. Sprague after a hard struggle landed a 'lunge which weighed 40 pounds. On Friday luck was still with them and about in the same place Mr. Thrasher after a hard fight landed a 'lunge which weighed 41½ pounds. They sure had some real sport.

Harold Carruthers, Tom Carruthers, Dawson McLean and W. Archibald received a ducking in the bay on Saturday. They were in a sail boat and when near the lighthouse the boat turned over. However, they were able to right the boat and regain their places and continued on their way none the worse except for a good wetting.

THE CHURCH ETERNAL

What is the Church?

The Church is the building of God — not a building of stone and mortar but the building of consecrated lives, through the ages, of which Christ himself is the cornerstone.

The Church is the bride of Christ. The Bible so refers to the Church, setting forth the joy which pervades it and the submission of mind, purpose, and body to the will of the Lord. Christians, when they are true Christians, are happy people. They are like members of a bridal party. The Church is the bride of Christ.

Last of all, the Church is the body of Christ. Its members are Christ's hands with which to work, His eyes with which to see, His lips with which to testify, His body with which to endure, His feet with which to go on errands of mercy.

The Church is not an institution. It operates through an institutional structure which is sometimes rather complex. But the Church itself is something behind this institutional mechanism. It is the brotherhood of Christian believers who accept Christ as Lord and Master and whose loyalty to him surpasses all other loyalties. There are Christians in every branch of the Church.

The Church is God's building; it is the bride of Christ; it is the body of Christ.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WE'RE NEVER ALONE

To live is to accumulate — friends, memories, experiences, knowledge. The sum total of our wealth of mind has its appraisal in these things. We are really never alone. These memories of dear ones, and the constant storing of knowledge, and the consciousness that God is near to us, no matter where we may be, defeats all loneliness.

Every time I read a novel I am invited to meet new friends, even though I shall never have the privilege of seeing those characters face to face. In nature I see God everywhere. He is a part of all that He has created. With wonder and reverence we look upon these creations that arrest our eyes and thought.

I can sit for hours with my field glasses and study the birds that flit noislessly about my summer cabin. Such a variety. How fascinating to study them in their flight, their feeding, and their love making. You can't very well harbor wrong thoughts and get lonely with your mind set upon learning more of the wonders of nature.

We are never alone when we are in love, even though we may be absent from the object of that love. At such a time we become selfless. We are surrounded by troops of beautiful tall angels! We feel ourselves in a daze of glory. Life is good. Happiness has its brief hour of immortality. We love all the world. That's what being alone with love does.

Some one asked an Eskimo, with Peary on his expedition to the North Pole, what he was thinking way up there in the silence. His reply was: "We did no thinking. Peary was with us. He did our thinking for us!" I have an idea that those faithful followers were never alone so long as Peary was in their midst.

We are never alone when we are engaged in interests that involve the happiness of others. We are never alone so long as we can commune with our higher nature and have confidence that the eye of Heaven is ever upon us.

Young Ones

They called us young ones in the long ago,
My sister with blue eyes and golden hair,
And I, whose footsteps now are growing slow
Wore curls that needed not the artist's care;
And oft we wandered in the fragrant wood
And plucked the flowers that bloomed in early spring,
And watched the robins feed their hungry brood,
Our hearts atune with springtime carolling.

We were the youngest, and the older ones
Gave orders that we often disobeyed,
Firm in the belief that they had no control,
Of their displeasure we were not afraid;
They called us "young ones," scolded now and then,
Called us to wipe our boots outside the door,
Or play outside and they would call us, when
The eldest girl had cleaned the kitchen floor.

They woke us early in the summer morn
To drive the cows away to pastures green,
With wondering eyes we watched the growing corn;
And all the glory of the farmland scene;
We were the young ones and we had a cart,
A home-made thing with two revolving wheels,
Children today would think it not so smart
And scorn the gift with loud-voiced laughter peals.

They do not call us young ones any more,
For they who named us such have gone away,
Ah! that again we'd hear them at the door
"Stay now outside and play while today
Go sit beneath the old-time lilac tree
And watch the roses blooming by the gate,
And when you tire of singing bird and bee
We'll call you in, before it is too late."

We're waiting now to hear the welcome call,
Life's day is nearly done, the air grows cold,
They'll call us in when dusky shadows fall
To that fair land where young ones ne'er grow old.

HELEN B. ANDERSON, Wellington.

Large Number Memorials Will Be Submitted

HAMILTON — Presbyteries and Conferences of The United Church of Canada have prepared a large number of "memorials" (which are really petitions or resolutions) to submit to the 15th General Council of The United Church of Canada when it meets in Hamilton for a 10-day session opening September 10.

The Bay of Quinte, Toronto and London Conferences have joined in a memorial asking the Church to appoint a "properly qualified, mature clergyman" to supervise the teaching of religion to students of The United Church in the Normal Schools of Ontario, and to prepare the way for the widening opportunities referred to in the Royal Commission on Education Report.

Pleas for Equality

The Muskoka Presbytery has asked General Council to ban the publication of academic degrees of ministers in publications issued by the Church, "in order to maintain the equality of ministers before men."

The Alberta Conference wants to attack the problem of recruiting for the ministry "with more imagination and realism." It asks for special recruiting officers to seek out and enlist young men and women for the full-time services of the Church.

More use of newspapers, magazines, radio and television in promoting evangelism is urged by the Toronto East Presbytery.

Grey Presbytery has a request to General Council to urge the CBC to stop reporting the names of winners of Irish Sweepstakes.

Several Presbyteries want the General Council to review the decision of a past General Council on the question of marrying divorced persons.

Prince Edward Island Presbytery wants a full-time evangelist for the Maritime Conference Area.

Suggestion that the General Council investigates the possibility of "fleet purchasing" of cars by ministers of The United Church is made by the Saskatchewan Conference.

The bringing of young men from Britain for the ministry of The United Church is urged by the Saskatchewan Conference.

Asks Further Study

The Alberta Conference wants General Council to investigate church work in the far north and see if it requires extension now. Church work in downtown cities should be studied, the Winnipeg Presbytery thinks. The Alberta Conference wants General Council to survey Church hospitals.

The Markdale United Church has sent to General Council a memorial deploring the actions of certain clergy and missionaries in supporting the cause of communism in China. The church wants the General Council to repudiate these men. High compliment is paid Dr. A. Stuart Allan for his views on communist China.

The Hamilton Presbytery has requested that the General Council instruct the United Church Observer to make it clear that their editorials are the personal opinions of the editor and do not necessarily express the considered opinion of The United Church.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is a gruesome thought, but the migration of the birds southward has already begun. From the arctic and subarctic regions where they mostly nest, the shore birds have begun their trek. And numerous other species like the martins and the swallows are lining the telephone wires and doing their final engine tests in miniature aerobatics before their take-off across the wide Missouri.

A tremendous part of the migration occurs at night; and in recent years, by watching the full moon through medium powered telescopes that can be fixed in position, field naturalists have begun a curious count of the night migration of a great many species of birds. You can actually see the birds passing across the moon and count them. Two watchers, a few miles apart, seeing, of course, different birds crossing the moon's face, get about the same count per hour, and the same increase and decrease as the midnight hour passes and the dawn approaches. Over 200 ornithologists and astronomers have organized a systematic watching system on the passage of birds across the moon's disc. And now a continent-wide program is being organized by Louisiana State University. They are inviting anybody and everybody, who has access to a small telescope to join in the voluntary work of counting birds across the moon, and by writing to Robert J. Newman at the Museum of Zoology, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, La., they will be sent the particulars of the enterprise, the forms to fill out and details of how to proceed with the business of watching and making a count.

By enlisting people all over the continent this fall, a mass of particulars especially referring to the hours of passage of the heaviest numbers, together with weather on the particular night, and so forth, will add very important material to the understanding of the most mysterious of all aspects of birds — their migration.

With the naked eye you can often see the southward flying birds against the moon. But with a low power telescope or binoculars, you may sometimes see what appears to be a blizzard of small birds soundlessly plunging through the night. They are going from us, by the millions every hour.

COLD GRAY AND WARM GRAY

Artist who painted the portrait of Tony the Wirish Terror that hangs in my Playroom — a picture that looks more like Tony than Tony did for some inexplicable reason filled in the background with a big smear of mauve or lilac or some similar abstraction. Altho we have had this portrait for 25 years, and I look up at it with a little pang every time I pause momentarily to consider whether I dare say what I want to say here, I never before noticed this daub of violet, which takes us back to the window seat where Tony kept watch on the life of Agassiz Circle.

In those days the artist who splotched the purple in the portrait tried to persuade me that I was color blind or he was nutty. He pretended to see red, blue and green in what any one with half an eye could see was just brown or gray or black. Maybe he put lavender in this picture of Tony just to have the last word in the argument. But I must confess that the portrait is not so good, after all, when the impossible background is blocked out.

Perhaps my eye for color lacks something which is essential for art appreciation, just as my ear for poetry does.

Anyway I can tell the difference between cold gray and warm gray, in hair and in complexion. That is, I recognize it at a glance. But no wthat I try to describe it so that you can tell whether an individual's complexion or hair is cold gray or warm gray, I'm stumped.

After several pipepuls of reflection I have reached a tentative conclusion that the difference between warm gray and cold gray, at least as far as the hair and the complexion may be concerned, is a matter of nutrition.

Nutritional deficiency anemia, for example, differs from ordinary secondary anemia in its characteristic manifestations, especially the early or premature graying of the hair and the gray look of the prematurely wrinkled, flabby skin. Indeed, these features, usually attended with complaints about brittleness and cracking and ridging or pitting of the nails and more or less soreness of the tongue and difficulty in swallowing some foods, are typical of "the gray sickness" and not of ordinary anemia.

But, girls, if by reason of nutritional deficiency thru the years, on the over-refined, namby-pamby die you get out of pretty packages, you now find yourself affected with the gray sickness, don't be downhearted. Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the pamphlet The Gray Sickness and start right away on the routine or regimen therein described. If you don't recover in the course of a year much of the warmth and loveliness that characterie good nutrition, you may cancel your subscription and call me a quack. Well, no, that goes without saying — call me a blankety-blank quack.

Mind, now, I do not promise that correction of nutritional deficiency will restore gray hair to its original color. But watch this column. With any kind of luck in the way of space allowance I'll print here some testimonials that will say what I myself haven't the nerve to say about warming up the cold gray look.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Operaters Won't Like It

Let me endorse your opinion that it is stupid to suffer from piles. Five years ago I received the ambulant treatment from Dr. ——— of ——— and not only lost no time but saved myself misery from the hospital operation. Answer — I heard from nine others in like vein. Of course I was kidding — to stimulate you to tell us how to stay young.

Spanish Onions

(Editorial in Windsor Star)

A fine crop of Southwestern Ontario Spanish onions are moving to the market and across the country folk will be smacking their lips in anticipation. These onions provide a cheap, healthy and appetizing food.

It is not so many years ago Spanish onions had to be imported, originally from Spain. They made fine eating when domestic onions were out of season. And, indeed, they were a satisfying substitute at any time of the year, their mild, crunchy texture being ideal for sandwich purposes.

There are those who regard onions as a plebian, proletarian form of food. Such people are more to be pitied than imitated. They deprive themselves of one of the most enjoyable foods.

There is nothing better for an evening snack than a thick sandwich made of thick, well-buttered slices of bread, with a thick, well-peppered and salted slice of onion in between. And a long cool glass of milk to wash it down. It seems conducive to sleep—that is one's own sleep. A bedfellow might not concur.

Former Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn was one of the pioneers in growing this type of onion. World War II, which interrupted imports, gave an impetus to it. It's just possible from the viewpoint of a consumer, Mitch contributed more to the welfare of the people as an onion grower than he did as a premier. There is but one fault with Ontario Spanish onions. Some still are hotter than the imported ones. Continued experimentation may eliminate that problem.

The rules in bridge bidding tell you what is most correct. If Akoolap Oxpert likes judgment better, I have this word for him: When you know correct rules your judgment is better.

There is one bid disadvantage in using judgment without first knowing what is rule. It is this: When you use judgment without any regard to rule, partner is not sure of fitting with you.

There was this deal:

NORTH
♠A 9 7
♥9 8 7 5 3
♦A 9 3

WEST
♠K Q 10 6 5 4
♥J
♦5
♣A K Q 7 3

EAST
♠J 3 2
♥10 6
♦J 10 8 6 2
♣10 8 6

SOUTH
♠8
♥A K Q 4 2
♦K Q 7 4
♣J 9 5

East was the dealer. Rule bidding goes thus:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 H	2 S	Pass
Pass	3 D	4 C	4 H
Pass	Pass	5 C	Pass
5 S	Pass	Pass	Dbl

West has a count of nine tricks; enough for a game force of two hearts; which is an overcall in opponent suit. But such a signal would guarantee no losers in hearts. Which west cannot promise.

So, he resorts to the bid next lower in strength; jump overcall; not forcing to game; asking partner to bid if he has two tricks or more. Which is why east passed. I am quoting rule, remember.

When west bids clubs for the first time on the second round, it is a temptation for east to show him preference for spades. But he still passes because he lacks support for either suit.

A partner who bids two suits only once apiece does not ask for preference. He asks only if partner has adequate support for either. But when west rebids clubs he asks for a choice.

All of which is rule; not judgment; not opinion. So you surely must wonder why north did not assist the heart suit when he had the first chance to do so. Come again when I have room to tell you.

Witness Intimates Commission Acted For Big Business

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Senator A. O. Stanley, 85-year-old chairman of the United States section of the International Joint Commission, bristled with indignation yesterday when a witness intimated that the commission had acted in the interest of big business.

During a hearing here on high water in the Great Lakes system, A. J. Meserow, counsel for the Protective Association for Great Lakes Property Owners, Inc., asked if the gates in the compensating dam here had been opened July 31 to accommodate the Lake Carriers Association. The dam controls the flow of water from Lake Superior into the St. Mary's River and the lower lakes.

His voice shaking, Senator Stanley demanded:

"Do you think that after a life spent fighting big interests I would sell out at my age. The commission might make mistakes, but you can rest assured it is incorruptible."

Close Two Gates

First move by the commission following an inspection of the St. Mary's River was to order two more of the compensating gates closed. Reason given was that the river had risen one inch above the maximum of 584.5 feet allowed by agreement.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian section chairman, who presided at the hearing, said any decision reached by the commission would be released at the next executive meeting to be held in Albany, N.Y., Sept. 3.

Evidence of damage claims totalling about $150,000 resulting from high water was admitted for both sides of the St. Mary's River. These were the damages said caused directly by the opening of the gates.

Defence Threatened

Col. J. D. Bristor of the United States Corps of Engineers, in defending the action with the gates, said that on July 30 Lake Superior had approached the maximum height of 603.6 feet. If it had been allowed to rise, damage to installations at lake ports and to the locks themselves was possible. This would endanger the defence preparedness program which depends on iron ore carried by lake freighters from the head of the lakes, he said.

Gen. McNaughton said the commission has no control over either the Chicago drainage canal or the Ogoki diversion.

(The Chicago canal drains water from Lake Michigan into the Mississippi watershed. The Ogoki diversion changes the flow of the Ogoki River for Ontario Hydro purposes from Hudson Bay to the Great Lakes.)

Senator Stanley said the Ogoki diversion had been agreed upon by the state departments of the two countries and was beyond the jurisdiction of the commission. He personally had intervened and had the flow cut to "a mere trickle."

Laborer Stabs, Strangles Wife, Hangs Himself

EDMONTON (CP)—A 52-year-old laborer yesterday stabbed and strangled his wife at the Edmonton Country Club, then hanged himself from a bridge spanning a ravine on the 18th hole.

R.C.M.P. identified the couple as Reginald Baden Carter, 52, a laborer for a construction company, and his 48-year-old wife Phyllis, a cook at the club. Carter came to Canada from England in 1950 and his wife followed him the next year.

Mrs. Carter was found in the staff kitchen, stabbed in the back with a butcher knife. A sweater was knotted around her throat.

Police said Carter tied one end of a 15-foot rope around his neck and the other on the bridge, then jumped off. He was decapitated by the force of the fall.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By
WINIFRED E. WILSON

Herons are noted for their long legs, so when a long-billed, but rather short-legged, dark bird is seen standing patiently beside a creek or shallow pond we are puzzled as to its identity.

The green heron, with its 17 or 18 inches, is the smallest of the family, and the only one with short legs. But this waiting posture is characteristic of the clan.

Heronlike, also, is its method of trying to escape detection by freezing in an attitude that simulates surrounding reeds. This it does to hide from both supposed enemies and would-be prey of small fish, frogs, or crawfish. The aim of its sharp bill is deadly.

If by chance the green heron is caught unawares, with a single sharp shriek it stretches its neck, erects its small, black crest, flips its short tail, and takes wing to the nearest perch. This heron's flight is fairly distinctive: rather clumsy, slower than that of a crow, and with a downward bend of the wing tips.

Seen at close range in breeding plumage this is the most beautiful of its family. The lustrous grey-green back in some lights looks blue, reminding us of the iridescent tree swallow.

Red Legs

Short plume-like feathers drape over the wings, most of the bird is chestnut, and the black cap ends in a crest. At breeding time the male's legs are orange-red.

This is a rarity in most of Canada, thought quite common in southern Ontario. Only of late years have nests actually been found in Quebec, and it is probable that those discovered in boggy, coniferous woods not many miles north of Montreal mark the northern boundary of the green heron's nesting range.

Formerly, when individuals were seen in spring or early summer it was thought that they might be strays; those identified in autumn could have come from the northern states, because all species of heron have the curious habit of scattering after the nesting period, many flying north. This is particularly true of young birds.

The nest is no more than an elongated, flimsy platform of twigs, saddled lengthwise on a branch. Evergreen are preferred, though dense-foliaged, deciduous trees are sometimes used as sites, or even low bushes and marshy hummocks.

The three to five pale blue-green eggs are laid in May, and the young birds leave home about mid-July. Now, watch for wanderers dressed in brown, with streaked underparts and pale green-grey legs.

Harmony Studio Club Makes Presentation

Thursday evening 25 members of the Harmony Studio club met at the home of Mrs. A. E. Cornish, 394 Bleecker Avenue, to honor Miss Barbara Dix who will be leaving soon for Normal School, Peterborough.

The evening was spent in a social time and in the playing of various games, which all enjoyed.

Following the games, Mrs. E. Veley, on behalf of the club, presented Barbara with a pen and pencil set, for which Barbara voiced her appreciative thanks.

Dainty refreshments brought a happy evening to a close.

Miss C. McDonald Honored by Friends With Parting Gifts

Last evening about 30 friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave McDonald, Trent Road, in honor of Miss Catharine McDonald, of Montreal, who is leaving shortly for Paris, France, as a representative of the Canadian Government. Miss McDonald has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McDonald, of Trenton, for a few days.

Dancing and an enjoyable singsong of favorite songs comprised the evening's entertainment, following which, Catharine's father read a brief address and, on behalf of the family, presented his daughter with a lovely matching rhinestone set of necklace and earrings.

Catharine was also the recipient of other lovely personal gifts including a beautifully engraved gold cigaret case from friends of the Trenton Golf Club.

Refreshments were served bringing to a close a most pleasant occasion.

WEDDINGS

POWERS—ALLISON

Ferns and gladioli blooms formed the setting in St. Peter's Church, Trenton, on Saturday, August 16, at 9:00 a.m., for the marriage of Beverley Claire Allison, of Trenton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Allison, to Robert Bruce Powers, of Iroquois Falls, Ontario, son of Mrs. J. P. Calve, and the late Mr. Powers. The Reverend Father McGarvey officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Miss Marie MacDonald provided the wedding music, with Mrs. Rose Scalletta as soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charmingly gowned in white satin and lace fashioned with molded bodice, with long sleeves ending in V points at the wrists. The full skirt featured side lace peplums, and slight train. She wore a lace headdress in bonnet style encrusted with seed pearls, a long veil of imported silk illusion bordered with wide lace, and carried a cascade of red roses and baby's breath and the gift of the bridegroom, a rosary.

Mrs. N. Olynyk, of Quebec, was matron of honor, gowned in pink with bonnet of matching pink net and shoulder-length veil, and wearing lace elbow-length gloves. She carried a bouquet of cream roses.

Miss Lois Ferguson, of Glen Miller, was bridesmaid, wearing blue net over taffeta with bonnet of matching net and shoulder-length veil and lace elbow-length gloves and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. Norman Howard, of Iroquois Falls, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Robert Bonter, of Trenton, acted as usher.

The reception was held at the Legion Hall, Trenton, where the bride's mother gowned in mauve lace and net with violet accessories and gladioli florets corsage received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore pink with navy blue accessories and corsage of cream roses. Among others in the receiving line was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. H. Allison.

For travelling to North Bay and Timmins, and Iroquois Falls, the bride chose a cream and gold ensemble with violet nylon coat and accessories. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Powers will reside in Woodbridge, Ontario.

Out-of-town guests were present from Quebec, Iroquois Falls, Arnprior, Hamilton, Bancroft, Kingston, Timmins and Foxboro.

The bride's table was delightfully appointed with a lace cloth, centre by a three-tiered wedding cake and flanked by silver candelabra with white tapers. Those who poured were, Mrs. H. Allison, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Leo Vasseau, aunt of the bride.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at several showers. She was a former employee in the office of Central Bridge.

ENJOYED CANTER

NEWARK, N.J. — (AP) — A mounted policeman spurred his horse through bustling Broad Street yesterday and snatched up —rodeo style—a tousle-haired tot darting into traffic. Surprised Michael Fels, 2, suddenly perched atop the horse, enjoyed the canter.

SAULT STE. MARIE. (CP) — Albino trout with white bodies and pink eyes are a big attraction at a trout-rearing station here. They are not for sale but some will be exhibited at Toronto and Ottawa this year.

BRIDGE EASES CRUSH

TORONTO. (CP) — A Bailey bridge overpass enables Canadian National Exhibition visitors to get to a westend waterfront grandstand without interrupting traffic on the busy lake shore highway, which passes through the fairgrounds. The 90-foot bridge was built across the roadway this week in less than 75 minutes.

Birthdays in Holland

(BBC Press Service)

London—Antonia Ridge, whose stories and plays are so often broadcast, is half Dutch and as her latest book has a Dutch background, she went back to Holland to check up on local color. In a BBC talk she told of writing to warn her cousins of her visit and of cousin Antonia in Haarlem who wrote to say she was expected on the eighteenth, a date that puzzled the now English Antonia. And then she remembered that the eighteenth was Haarlem Antonia's birthday. As the Dutch celebrate birthdays with great fervour, no matter if, as in this case, the birthday girl is in her fifties, English Antonia arrived in good time, on the seventeenth carrying flowers. She was vociferously welcomed and told that next day, the birthday, she would see again every relation worth speaking of and friends and neighbors too.

English Antonia asked how everyone managed to remember birthdays so easily and was told "The Birthday Calendar, of course!", a vital household article that she had completely forgotten. This has no year marked on it and each day has a good large space, with ample room in which to write the names of all friends and relations whose birthday falls on that date. In nine homes out of ten the birthday calendar hangs where the family cannot miss seeing it, inside the lavatory door.

Table is Set

As soon as supper had been cleared away next day, extra boards were put in the large table, which was draped with the best red velvet cloth. Boxes of cigars and cigarettes were brought out and the tea-table laden with the tea-light, the small heater on which the tea is set to brew in Holland, and all the best china. Great quantities of other refreshments were left in the kitchen. English Antonia wondered if anyone would come, as no invitations had been sent, but Haarlem Antonia assured her that the only thing to stop people coming would be a letter or 'phone call announcing absence from town, a course no one would dream of taking unless absolutely necessary.

The door bell rang and the first guests arrived. All handed Haarlem Antonia a little gift and then, after being warmly thanked, divested themselves of hats and coats and settled in their chairs with tea and biscuits. By eight-thirty the room was chock-full, and everyone had had second cups of tea accompanied by chocolate. Then came the glasses of "borel", or Dutch gin, for the men and for the women a smooth brew made of yolks of eggs beaten up with brandy and topped with a thick layer of whipped cream. This was tackled with teaspoons and with the rich drinks came a plate of enormous cream cakes, flavored with coffee or chocolate. The whole company burst into song in praise of the birthday girl and then settled down to the cakes. Everyone talked at once and as talking is thirsty work they soon got down to another round of drings—and another of cream cakes—and more singing became the order of the evening.

No Bread Served

During this communal jollification Haarlem Antonia went to fetch a great plate of thin rolled slices of ham spiced with pickled gherkin. No bread was served with this although English Antonia was pining for some. Later, cloaked by a great exhalation of cigar smoke, Haarlem Antonia slipped out for a dish of neat squares of good Dutch cheese. Everyone had a couple—just to keep them going—and about eleven o'clock a lovely smell of coffee became apparent and the hostess swept out and in yet again, bearing a tray of steaming cups. On each floated a layer of very thick rich cream. This was evidently a closing signal and guests began to say they "really must be going."

"My cousin made a warm-hearted little speech thanking them all for coming and they said they'd had a lovely evening — which indeed was true—and off they went," said English Antonia. "Now I'm home," she concluded, "I have a feeling that there is much commonsense as well as kindliness in this Dutch custom. After all, anything that brings families and friends together bust be a sound idea. It's a poor heart indeed that won't celebrate a birthday. So what about starting a birthday calendar over here... even if we don't hang it where they do!"

'Lavender Sweet Lavender'

If there is another flower 'as English as the rose' it is lavender, whose stiff mauve-blue blossoms make the delicate perfume that is sold all over the world. Tom Collinson describes London Calling how the English lavender industry is getting back on its feet after severe setbacks caused by disease among the plants.

Visitors come from all over the country to our part of Norfolk to look at the lavender fields near Hunstanton. And a grand sight it is! There is one field of fifty acres, the largest ever planted in Great Britain, and when in bloom it is a sea of purple, rippling in the breeze. You can smell it from a mile away. The scent is so pleasant and refreshing that you can readily understand why, centuries ago, 'lavender, sweet lavender' was one of best-known cries of London.

Today, lavender is coming back into its old popularity, and oil from the blooms in the Norfolk fields goes into perfume which is sold all over the world. Yet thirty years ago it was a different story. Lavender plants in this country got badly out of condition through disease, and it seemed that English lavender-perfume had become a thing of the past.

Started Research

But one man at least believed that there was still hope for English lavender. Linn Chilvers is his name. In 1930 he started, in a small way, to experiment with disease-free plants and to try out varieties for their quality of perfume.

There are no more tempermental plants anywhere than lavender, and patience, as well as green fingers, is needed. Gradually Mr. Chilvers, with the co-operation of a neighboring landowner, Mr. Dusgate, put more and more acres under lavender. It stretched on the hillsides near the sea in neat rows, some of them a mile long. Linn Chilvers, who is now seventy-three, is out and about in the fields during the harvesting of the crop. This lasts from six to eight weeks. Along the rows go the women pickers—there are usually thirty of them—and they cut off the heads of the blooms deftly with a special hookknife. They all say what a pleasant job it is. But it has its own particular hazards. The bees like lavender, too, and the pickers count themselves lucky if they go through the day without being stung.

When cut, the blooms go into the sacks which are carted away to the distillery. Here one of the jobs for the workmen is to tread down the blooms into the still. About a ton-load of blooms makes one gallon of oil. To make into perfume we prefer oil which has matured for about a year; it is then at its sweetest and most mellow.

Beautiful Blue Broadtail

Queen Elizabeth Sends Cable In Honor of 60th Anniversary

STIRLING. — Mr. and Mrs. George H. Luery, of Stirling, descendantes of pioneer settlers, observed their diamond wedding anniversary and were guests of honor at a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Luery.

The rooms were artistically decorated with seasonal flowers including gladioli, phlox, and roses which provided an ideal setting for the occasion. The large number of guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. George H. Luery and Mr. and Mrs. E. Luery, with Miss Della Caldwell being in charge of the guest book and Miss Jeanette Ayrhart attending the door.

Mrs. A. Gordanier and Mrs. H. David presided at the tea table with Mrs. Robert Luery, Mrs. Morley Ayrhart, Mrs. David Luery, Miss Phyllis David, Mrs. C. B. Bastedo, and Mrs. Clayton Tummon assisting.

Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Baker of St. Paul's United Church, presented the bride and groom of 60 years with a silver dollar on which was engraved a canoe with a couple in it paddling down the stream of life, in this case a sixty-year cruise and an enjoyable trip.

Presentations

The immediate members of the family including Mr. and Mrs. Earl Luery, Mr. and Mrs. Morley Ayrhart, and Miss Jeanette Ayrhart, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Luery, Mr. Douglas Luery, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cowan and Flt. Lt. and Mrs. Desmond Jackman, of Ottawa, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oulton and Miss Reta Oulton, of Vancouver, B.C., Mr. and Mrs. Ross Des Rosiers, of Ringwood, Ont., and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Orser, of Batawa, presented the honored couple with an occasional chair, and a table lamp while Mr. and Mrs. William Brunker and Mrs. S. Simmons, of Vancouver, sent three dozen gladioli and St. Paul's W.A., and Stirling Women's Institute, a dozen roses each.

Many other friends and neighbors also presented flowers and tokens of friendship, esteem and respect.

The esteemed couple also received numerous telephone calls, telegrams and cards of congratulations from friends far and near as well as a cablegram of congratulations and good wishes from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth.

SWIMMER SUED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Florence Chadwick was sued yesterday for $19,650 by Ted Bentley, a public relations man who said she broke her agreement with him after her July 4 Catalina Channel swim attempt. Bentley contended they had a verbal agreement that he would represent her again in the try.

Food for Thought

Readers' Saturday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I look for your page every night and get a kick out of your remarks. . . I made a pickle called "Sweet Chunks" last year and it was delicious. I've looked several times through my cards but cannot find it. This is all I can remember and I don't know if it's right: Sweet Chunks—Cut cucumbers in chunks, cover with salted water and alum size of an egg over night. Make syrup of brown sugar, vinegar, add 1 tablespoon each of mustard and celery seed. —Mrs. H. W.

ANSWER:

You are on the right track but details are pretty skimpy. You had better use my recipe.

SWEET CHUNK PICKLES

This recipe is highly recommended by me. If any of you are on a pickle-making rampage it is a good one to have on file.

Seven lbs. dill-size cucumbers cut in 1 1-2-inch chunks. Make a brine strong enough to float an egg (about 4 tablespoons salt to each quart water) and soak the pickle chunks in this for 7 days. Drain and freshen them in clear, cold water for 24 hours. Drain. Boil for 7 minutes in 1 quart vinegar, 2 quarts water and piece of alum size of hickory nut. Drain off and discard liquid. Make a syrup by boiling together 1 quart vinegar, 3 lbs. sugar, 1 oz. mixed celery seeds, allspice and cassia buds. Pour this boiling hot syrup over the pickles and let stand 24 hours. On second day boil the syrup once more. Place the pickle chunks in sterile jars, and pour boiling syrup over and seal.

QUESTION:

Would you send me a recipe for salad dressing—just oil and vinegar. I can't buy any I like. What is best oil to use? Also would you print a series of menus for 1 or 2 people living alone? I am sure you would have the blessing of thousands who are situated as I am. When dividing a recipe for a cake with 3 eggs how does one do it?—(Miss) M. V. B.

ANSWER:

STANDARD FRENCH DRESSING

(I use corn oil of Canadian manufacture because I like the flavor; but you might prefer cottonseed oil of American manufacture or olive oil—which is more expensive—of Italian or Spanish manufacture.) One cup salad oil—be sure it is freshly opened—these oils rancidify so easily that may be the reason you can't find one you like—3 tablespoons vinegar (or lemon juice), 1 teaspoon each salt and sugar, 1-8 teaspoon each pepper and paprika. One-half teasoon dry mustard and a sliced clove of garlic to be left in the dressing bottle, are optional. Mix ingredients in covered bottle and shake just before using. See column for next Monday for menus for two. When I want to divide 3 eggs in half I use 1 very large egg or 1 medium egg and 1 yolk.

QUESTION:

I missed the sour cream cookies. Would you kindly give me the recipe?—Mrs. Cecil MacM.

ANSWER:

I have another sour cream cookie I think I like even better so I'll give you it as I haven't used it in this column before.

SOUR CREAM COOKIES

Cream thoroughly together 1-2 cup shortening or margarine, 1 1-2 cups brown sugar (or 1-2 white and 1-2 brown sugar, and when light and airy beat in 2 eggs. Then stir in 1 cup thick sour cream and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Sift together 2 3-4 cups sifted cake or all-purpose flour, 1-2 teaspoon each baking soda, baking powder and salt. Mix into first mixture. Chill for 1 or 2 hours. Onto greased baking sheet drop from teaspoon about 2 inches apart. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 8 or 10 minutes or until delicately browned.

QUESTION:

I would appreciate a recipe for dill pickles in quart jars.—M.E.M.

ANSWER:

DILL PICKLES

(Makes 4 2-quart jars.)

In the bottoms of 4 2-quart jars put in each 2 tablespoons mustard seed and a head of dill blossom seeds. Wipe cucumbers and fill jars with dill-size cucumbers with spray or dill about every 3 inches. Cover with hot brine made of 1 cup salt (not iodized) to 14 cups boiling water. Seal and do not disturb for 2 months when they are ready to use. If you prefer 1-quart jars these amounts will fill 8.

SWANSEA RETIRES

HALIFAX (CP)—The Canadian frigate wansea, which sank three U-boats in the Second World War and made the longest tow in R.C.N. history, has been decommissioned and will be put in reserve. Launched in 1943, Swansea once towed the R.C.A.F. supply ship Malahat 1,100 miles from Hudson Strait to Goose Bay, Labrador.

NED MORE LIBRARIANS

MONCTON, N. B. (CP)—Need for more public librarians was stressed here during a visit by Peter Grossman, director of libraries for Nova Scotia. Mr. Grossman said New Brunswick has only 14 professionally-trained librarians, of whom 12 are employed by universities or the government.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Adults have tantrums, too.

You know about children who go into spectacular tantrums in order to get their own way. Or even just for the purpose of getting a little attention from someone they feel is neglecting them.

But did you know that adults sometimes have tantrums, too, and for the very same reasons?

Sometimes the tantrum takes one form; sometimes another. Maybe the person gets moody, or sulks, or refuses to eat, or goes on crying jags, or gets drunk, or stages a suicide attempt. But whatever form it may take, if it is done with the conscious or subsconscious intention of trying to get something he wants, or of drawing attention to himself, it is a tantrum.

I have a letter from a young woman of 24, a wife and mother, who admits to an urge to put on just this type of act. She tells about it in the following letter:

"I am 24, married, and the mother of a 19-month-old son. For the past six years, I have been in love with a certain man, and despite my marriage have not been able to get him out of my mind.

"Some weeks ago I couldn't stand it any longer, and I called him on the phone. He came and picked me up at work. Then I blurted out the whole story, and he told me that he has loved me for a long time, too. My husband is a wonderful man, but I have no feeling towards him whatsoever. Therefore there is always bitterness and arguments between us.

"Since the night I saw Bobby, he has never called me or picked me up at work again. I cannot sleep any more, and all I do is cry all night because of Bobby. I have never loved any other man in my life, and I will stop at nothing to get him back.

Childish Tantrum

"I have been wanting to go to a doctor, a lawyer, or anyone who can help me, to see if I am mentally ill or what, because, to be truthful, I get crazy impulses to take poison or fall down the stairs or do something else to injure myself. I keep feeling that if I did hurt myself, I could have Bobby at my side. Will you please help me?"

See how clear it is that this young woman, frustrated in what she thinks she wants—the young man—is contemplating the equivalent of a childish tantrum? "I will stop at nothing to get him back," she declares, and goes on to say in so many words that she thinks of doing something violent for the sole purpose of getting what she wants—to "have Bobby at my side."

Here is a young woman who is bent on having her own way no matter who she must trample in her mad rush to get it. Her husband—a "wonderful man"—gets short shrift in her thoughts. Not a word is said about any real honest effort having been made by her to create a happy home for him. As for the baby, he gets one mention, and that only to establish her status as a mother. Does she care anything about him? She doesn't say. Has he no right to a happy home and a mother's devotion? Not, apparently, if his rights conflict with her own desires. There is nothing whatever in the letter to suggest that she considers anything of any importance except that she shall get what she thinks she wants.

And all this in the face of the fact that the "other man" by no means seems to reciprocate her feeling. He came to her once, in answer to her call, and since then she has neither seen nor heard from him. Even if he did tell her that he loved her too, isn't it possible that after she had "blurted out the whole story" of her infatuation for him, he felt he could do nothing less; that it would be boorish of him to humiliate her by letting her know the love was all on her side?

By all means, I think this girl would be well advised to do as she herself suggests and discuss this whole thing with a doctor, or rather a psychiatrist, which is only another name for a doctor whose business it is to help people who have emotional rather than medical problems.

She knows, and admits, that her impulses are not normal. That is the first step toward dealing sensibly with them. The next is to seek help from some one who can give her the long-term guidance she needs.

BEAUTY

Then you lift up your wrist and take a long, deep inhalation

Perfumes cast a magic spell.

Some women consider that selecting the right perfume is something of a trial that sends them into a state of uncertainty and confusion. What one needs is a fastidious, discriminating nose. Even the best and most willing nose will go back on one after a number of scents are sniffed. That is the time to stop, postpone the shopping ordeal until another day.

A few drops should be applied to the wrist. There should be a wait of a minute or two so the alcoholic content will evaporate. Then you lift your wrist and take a long, deep inhalation. Do you find the aroma pleasantly exciting? Is it subtle and alluring? Then you have found a treasure. Don't try the next one on the same wrist; even the nicest scents will fight now and then.

Many of the most fashionable, expensive and popular perfumes are blends or bouquets. The perfumer deals with delicate aromas as the fabric designer deals with colors. The results must be harmonious and pleasing, have an appeal. Many synthetic elements are used, since the world does not produce enough flowers to supply the essential oils.

Any woman is entitled to rob the household budget to revel in a small vial of floretted liquids. These toiletries bespeak romance, luxury, elegance. They bring better returns as an investment that many items that women feel they must have to make themselves glamorous and attractive. They cast a magic spell, not only on the wearer but on those who come in contact with her. They often revive lost illusions, to the delight of the beauty seekers who are in the older bracket who feel that they have lost touch with their youth.

You don't have to be old-fashioned to prefer some of the distinct flower scents which are staging a comeback. Lily-of-the-valley, a specialty of a perfumer who has been famous the world over, has been one of his best sellers throughout the years. It is sweet and delicate. Gardenia is a favorite of many women; you are not likely to make a mistake if you select it. Rose is a bit pungent, and violet is no longer in great favor. Our grandmothers swore by both of them but when they were pretty young belles, blends were not so numerous.

Don't overlook toilet water, which costs less, or sachets that are wonderful buys. Place sachets in your handkerchief and glove boxes. Tuck them in coat pockets.

GOOD MANNERS

Here it is again. . .the best man "racket"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently my husband was best man at the wedding of a friend of his. And my question is about what occurred! Of course my husband knew that he was supposed to take care of the clergyman's fee, but he didn't suppose he was to "take care of" it by paying it himself! But when the groom didn't hand him the fee to give to the clergyman, my husband mentioned it casually, thinking that the groom was too excited to have remembered it. But not at all; the groom told my husband that the best man always provides the fee he is to give the clergyman, in the groom's name. (Previously the bride-to-be had told my husband that the best man was expected to buy the flowers for her attendants, and the corsages for both mothers. We did this—but it was certainly a strain on our very-limited budget!) Have you ever heard of such demands on the best man, Mrs. Beeckman? — The Best Man's "Poor" Wife.

Yes. . unfortunately I have heard many times about this persistent, and really dishonest "racket" regarding demands made of the best man. So many readers write to complain about this racket! Very often when a groom invites his best friend, or even his brother, to be his best man, he seems to have chosen him for his sound financial standing, not to give him the honorary position that being best man is supposed to be. It's an outrage. . . and the only way to meet such an awkward possibility is for the best man to make inquiries as to what is expected of him. Actually the best man has only two "financial responsibilities"; (1) to provide the attire, whether his own or to be bought or to be rented, he is to wear at the wedding; and (2) to give a wedding present to the bride-to-be. It is the groom who provides the fee to the clergyman.

A minute or two to send greeting cards instead of hours spent in correspondence

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

During two years of World War II, I was in the same service with a very charming and lovely girl, we became very good friends, and since the war we have carried on a more or less steady correspondence. But now we are both married, have children, live far from each other, and the probabilities are that we won't meet again. How could I end the correspondence—explain to her that I am too busy to write and know she is too? This sounds brusque to me, and of sourse I dont' want to hurt her feelings. Any suggestions?—Alicia H.

We've all had to face similar situations; And sending greeting-cards is the ever-helpful answer . . . greeting gards sent on special occasions, such as, most importantly, at Christmastime, or at Thanksgiving, or Easter, or on your friend's birthday, if you remember the date; or, more casually, greeting card sent while you are on vacation, or on a trip. This friendly habit slides the correspondence from the pressing responsibility to "answer" letters to a minute-or-two gesture that keeps the bonds of friendship intact, but not too demanding.

Her escort was right about the first dance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently my escort at a dance was peeved (and still is!) because I danced the first dance with another fellow. He says this is very bad manners, and that I should have known better. Do you think he was just jealous, or do you think that I was wrong?—Connie.

You were in the wrong. Your escort was so right in his point of view that a girl should take it for granted that she give the first dance to her escort-of-the-evening. (The last dance, too, when possible, and, if it's a formally-planned dance, the dance before and the dance after supper.)

Fashion Flashes

A STAR in any gathering is the beautiful linen dress. Black linen for a slim-skirted dress with a deep scoop neckline and almost no sleeves. Two rhinestone buttons glitter on the bodice and at the midriff is a deep inset of filmy black lace over nude pink linen.

COMING in to its own as a coating fabric is cashmere especially for smart travel wear. A real beauty is a checked, tone-on-tone cashmere coat, single-breasted, with huge patch pockets with curved flaps to match the curved collar. Beautiful in very light on charcoal gray and in deep cream or medium brown.

OUTSTANDING evening skirts appear in several colletcions. Many of these skirts are in colorful satins, and are worn with halter or portrait neckline tops. One exquisite skirt has dainty embroidery of delicate blue and pink flower bouquets on white satin. Another has embroidered leaf outlines in gold on deep cream satin.

GRAND OCCASION coats in black velvet imported from Italy look new and luxurious. Mostly the sleek lustrous velvet is fashioned into great coats that are slim through the torso, the waist very cinched and belted, the skirt with a low, modified flare. The linings sport embroidered floral themes on silk taffeta.

FIRMLY ENTRENCHED in the fashion line-up is the short-skirted, strapless top dress with matching cover-up jacket. A fine example is in sheer wool in chalk pink. The strapless bodice is of matching silk chiffon with bustline emphasized by shirring and embroidered in tiny pearls. The waistlength jacket has similar embroidery on the collar and has wide, push-up sleeves. Expensive but still a bargain since such a dress can appear perfectly at countless afternoon and evening occasions.

VERY RICH fabrics for occasion blouses appear in many new showings that are being ordered by store buyers. One house uses hand-woven Japanese silk, some designs hand-painted, others richly trimmed with velvet and glitter.

GAVEL PRESENTED

DEVIZES, Wiltshire. (AP) —A piece of wood from the United States White House slightly scorched by British troops when they burned the place in 1814, was presented yesterday in the form of a gavel to the British Army training centre here. Brig. Gen. W. P. Campbell, assistant chief of the U.S. Army, presented the gavel, once part of President Truman's collection.

SPINSTER'S SPITE

Autumn Period of Migration Less Spectacular Than Spring

Written For The Canadian Press
By PERCY GHENT

The nesting season over and the nestlings well able to take care of themselves, the bird migration southward starts with early autumn.

From hawks to hummingbirds, species after species will leave their Canadian breeding grounds for winter residence in Central and South America.

The exodus of birds in their millions from Canada is far more gradual and far less spectacular than their spring migration northward. One of Canada's best-known wild life authorities, Dr. W. W. H. Gunn, made a special visit to Point Pelee on Lake Erie last May to study the incoming wave.

What he saw and reported was dramatic—in his own words the spring influx was "the grandfather of all waves," and he has seen many of them. His estimate of song birds seen on a single day then was 50,000.

Says Dr. Gunn: "I have a picture of driving along the road near the end of the Point, watching an unending stream of sparrows and thrushes rising from each side of the road and settling back again a little farther from the road margin. The general pattern of this action was strikingly like the bow-wave of a fast-moving ship."

On two days in May, 150 species of birds were seen. It was estimated there were at least 100,000 white-throated sparrows — the "sweet, sweet, Canada, Canada" singers, and as many white-crowned sparrows.

Thrushes of various species, and colorful warblers by the thousand, were assembled on the Point, a single route of entry to Canada.

From there they would wing their way over the northern breeding grounds.

Now the return journey to the south is beginning—the second, annual miracle of migration, the wonder of which grows with deeper observation and study.

Cagy Coyote

Citizens of Banff amid the Rockies are so accustomed to seeing black bears, elk, red deer and an occasional moose taking in the townsites that they occasion little comment. Even a grizzly bear with her cub wandering along an outlying street raises only mild interest.

But even Banff folk were surprised this summer at the sight of a coyote, squatting by the roadside just out of town and on a regular "stand," awaiting motorists who hand out such delicacies as chocolate bars, cakes and candy. A coyote among the animal mendicants is something new, even in Banff.

FRANKFORD

BAND CONCERT

FRANKFORD. — Citizens of Frankford greatly enjoyed the Band Concert by the Citizens' Band on Sunday evening in the Memorial Park. A program which featured predominately sacred music, was well received by the crowd. Although the band has not had too much time in which to prepare their music, they are steadily improving, and undoubtedly will provide the village with a great deal of fine music. Bandmaster Butcher and manager Rose are to be complimented in their fine work thus far.

CARE OF CUT FLOWERS

We should realize that flowers are living, breathing things which thrive with proper care and fade with neglect. Always allow ample room in container and place flowers so that the stems are submerged over half their length. See that stems are cut on an angle so that water can flow freely through the stems. Change water daily. Keep in a cool place and avoid drafts. These directions will assure the best lasting qualities.

SUNSET AT BANCROFT

The sunset sky is all aglow,
A tree upon a verdant isle
Is mirrored in the bay below;
And o'er this quiet, summer camp
There broods a calm and peaceful air,
The beauty of this rural spot
Brings a content so deep and rare.

We lift our eyes unto the hills,
The hills enduring, staunch and strong,
And at the sight our spirit thrills
For they have stood the storms so long;
This camp, with the secluding hills,
Its peaceful calm and waters bright,
Seems to dispel our earthly ills
And bring to us a pure delight.

You, who are weary of the toil
The work and worry of the years,
Leave life's dull routine for a while,
Its boding ills and doubts and fears;
Seek then the Highlands of the North,
The North where peace and beauty reign,
For here you find your life's true worth,
And youthful joy and peace regain.

—Helen B. Anderson.
Riverside Camp, Bancroft.

Miss Nellie Arthur and Miss Clara Anderson, of Belleville, with Mrs. H. B. Anderson, Wellington, enjoyed a pleasant holiday last week at Riverside Camp, Bancroft.

Mrs. Alberta Smith is spending a few weeks with friends at Niagara.

Larks Appear Mystery Team In This Season's Big Four War

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes, with a sharp shake-up in both administration and personnel, appear to be the mystery team for this season's Big Four football campaign.

Practically from president down, he executive is new. Lew Hayman, who managed the business end and coached the team on the field, is strictly front-office now. There are only nine players on the roster from last year's squad.

The team has absorbed beatings at the hands of Edmonton Eskimos and Calgary Stampeders in exhibition games in the West.

But the 1952 Alouettes can't be written off by any means. The squad of 33 has nine new American imports, all of whom rated highly across the border. Their indoctrination into the Canadian game has scarcely begun.

Several McGill University graduated have joined the Alouette ranks. Four veteran players from the United States now are classed as Canadians under the four-year-rule. Only one player of the nine new imports must be dropped by Oct. 1.

The new coach, Doug (Peahead) Walker, is a stranger to the Canadian game. So is his assistant, Jimmy Dunn. Both yave been given help during the training season by coach Vic Obeck of McGill.

Walker was coach at Wake Forest College in North Carolina for 14 years. He served with coach Herman Hickman at Yale last season. Dunn, who was line coach at Yale, has seen coaching service also with Harvard and Brown.

One of Walker's problems seems to be strong replacements for his first string line. The backfield fares somewhat better.

The quarter-backing job is well looked after. Sam Etecheverry, triple-threat man from University of Denver, is ranked No. 1 at the moment. There is also Fran Nagle, from University of Nebraska, another newcomer and capable pass-thrower. Bruce Coulter of Toronto, now in his fourth season with Alouettes, is sure to stick.

The first-string line will possibly turn out to be this:

Charlie Hubbard, formerly of New York Giants, and John O'Quinn, six-feet-four pass-snatcher from Wake Forest, on ends.

Jim Staton, 240-pound giant from Wake Forest, and Marv Meirqwitz, ex-McGill, at middle wing.

Herb Trawick, American veteran with Als, now classed as a Canadian, and Ray Cicia, American from last year's team, at inside wing.

No. 1 centre man is Tom Tofaute, newcomer from North Caroline State, understudied by Chuck Anderson, no longer classed as an import.

Virgil Wagner, original Alouette import in 1946 and four times scoring champion of the Big Four, appears headed for another big year in the backfield.

Cliff Lumsden Wins Swim Marathon For Third Time at C.N. Exhibition

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Cliff Lumsden churned through 10 miles of chill water yesterday to claim his third Canadian National Exhibition marathon swim in four years.

The 21-year-old Toronto salesman's 4½-hour ordeal netted him $5,200. The two contenders—Jerry Kerschner of Columbus, O., and George Bevan of Winnipeg—who lasted little more than two hours, were left with severe chills and aching muscles.

The $2,500 second prize will send crippled Forbes Norris, Jr., 24, of Winchester, Mass., back for a second year of medical studies at Harvard University, Harvard, Mass.

Another former winner, Steve Wozniak, 36-year-old Buffalo, N.Y., truck driver, who won the water classic in 1948, dipped into the $9,500 purse. He collected $750 for finishing third. Veteran Tommy Park of Hamilton was fourth for $500.

Kerschner and Bevan were pulled from the water in the eighth mile; the 30-year-old Kerschner semi-conscious and "tired. . .tired," Bevan, 19, racked by a groin cramp.

Three Egyptian Channel swimmers, Hassan Abou Bakr, 31, Saied El Araby, 36, and Abdel Latif Abou Heif, 24, finished in fifth, sixth and seventh places. Pbakr and Araby collected $300 and $100. The three men from Cairo had earlier said they were not out to win the race just to compete.

Almost 10,000 persons, shivering in a cool north breeze which stirred the closed Lake Ontario course and sent water temperature down to 61 degrees, lined the waterfront all afternoon. Thirty-seven swimmers spilled in the water at the starting gun.

Lumsden, winner in 1949 and 1950, told reporters on the finish barge the prize money will go to buy a home. His fiancee, Joan Cook of Toronto, stood by smiling.

Michael Thatch, 26, of Chatham, Ont., entered the water coated with thick, black axle grease and was pulled out 1½ miles later. He said he was kicked in the stomach during the flailing start and developed a leg cramp soon after.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Pitching: Stu Miller, Cardinals and Bobby Shantz, Athletics—Miller, rookie righthander, turned in his third straight victory in pitching St. Louis to 3-1 three-hit victory over New York. Shantz registered his 22nd victory in pitching Philadelphia to 9-0 four-hit decision over St. Louis in second game of twi-night twin-bill.

Batting: Luke Easter, Indians—drove in four runs on homer and single to spark Cleveland to 6-4 victory over New York which enabled Indians to take over first place from Yanks.

Sport in Brief

STAMPS STRONG FOR '52

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary's once-vaunted Stampeders — cellar-dwellers in the Western Interprovincial Flootball Union for the last two years—this season are out to regain the lofty position they once held in the football world.

Stampeders, rulers of the roost in 1948 when they defeated Ottawa Rough Riders to bring Calgary its only Grey Cup, are embarking on something of a "make-or-break" campaign.

After gaining the final in 1949 only to lose to Montreal Alouettes, Stampeders have fallen on hard times and have nothing but a dismal record and a hefty financial burden to show for the last two years.

Signs of better things to come were noticed last fall when the team executive was completely reorganized. New and younger blood took over important positions on the board of governors and Les Lear was given a vote of confidence and a contract for his fifth season as coach.

Stampeders' 30-11 victory over Montreal in pre-season play indicates they'll be contenders in the west this year. The team, with 12 imports and a host of new Canadians, showed a fine, all-round effort. However, coach Lear was not entirely satisfied with the outcome.

"We can do better and will have to if we expect to go anywhere this year," he said.

TROTTER BREAKS RECORD

TORONTO (CP) — Ben Boy, owned by Miller Wray of Schomberg, smashed the Canadian record for two-year-old trotters when he covered the mile in 2.13 at Thorncliffe Raceway here yesterday. In breaking the record by two full seconds, Ben Boy wiped out a mark established by Roman in 1944 at Glencoe.

The $1,750 Vondale Cup for pacers was won by Richard Hal, owned by McWilliams Brothers of Dutton.

OTTAWA WINS GOLF

MONTREAL (CP)—E. D. Martin of the Ottawa Hunt Club yesterday won the Quebec senior golf championship with a four-over-par 76, one stroke better than P. S. Ross of Montreal Kaniwaki.

SUES FO R$124,800

HAMILTON, O. (AP)—George T. Becknell, Detroit race horse owner and trainer, yesterday sued the Ohio Sports Enterprises, Inc. for $124,800 damages as an outgrowth of his charges last summer that the tail of one of his horses was tied to the starting gate during a race meeting here. Ohio Sports Enterprises operate a race meeting here.

Riders, Larks May Play In Baltimore

OTTAWA (CP)—A post-season exhibition football game between Ottawa Rough Riders and Montreal Alouettes may be shaping up in—of all places—Baltimore.

Jim McCaffrey, Rough Rider president, said yesterday he likes the idea, and will ask Lew Hayman of the Montreal Big Four team to see whether Montreal will go along.

The proposal is reported to have come from the publisher of the Baltimore Sun after a Sun reporter—in Ottawa for an International League baseball game—wrote about the football fever in Ottawa and the Rider's coach, Clem Crowe.

Crowe was coach of the former Baltimore Colts in the United States pro circuit and would be a drawing card for any exhibition game there.

25 Pet Dogs, 2 Grandchildren Are Taken

PITTSBURGH (AP)—It's quiet in the home of Mrs. Edna Stone today—she has lost her 25 pet dogs.

The dogs were removed to the Animal Rescue League home after Humane Society agents and police visited the northside residence of the 64-year old woman yesterday.

Police also took two of Mrs. Stone's grandchildren to the juvenile detention home. They were Darlene Stone, 8, and nine-year-old David Stone Jr.

During the excitement a third grandson, 10-year-old Mark Stone, disappeared. Mrs. Stone said she had been keeping the children for her son, David, who is working in Canton, O.

Mrs. Stone was arrested on charges of resisting an officer. She said she paid a $25 fine to get out of jail. As for her dogs—and the complaints of neighbors who objected to their barking—Mrs. Stone said: "Anyone who has pets will know how I feel. I just love my dogs. . . The Humane Society took my two cats and two chickens, too. But perhaps it is all for the best. It cost a lot of money to feed my dogs."

ALS SIGN LAROCHELLE

MONTREAL (CP)—Bill Larochelle, former University of Western Ontario athlete and erstwhile member of Ottawa's Rough Riders, has been signed by Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four.

LAKE TROPHY TO TORONTO

TORONTO (CP)—Ken Candel of Toronto, representing the Lake Ontario Yacht Racing Association, yesterday won the Richardson trophy and the championship of the Great Lakes for R-class sloops, piling up a total of 12¾ points in the sailing competition. In second place and just one-quarter of a point behind was Dr. Adrien ver Brugghen of Chicago, racing for the Lake Michigan Yacht Association.

CONTRACT EXTENDED

ST. LOUIS (AP)— Eddie Stanky, freshman manager of the high-flying St. Louis Cardinals, was given a one-year extension of his contract yesterday as a reward for his work. Since his old contract carried through next year, the action means Stanky will direct the National League club through 1954.

Mawhenney, Canada's Hope In US Amateur Defeated 5-4

SEATTLE (CP)—A 47-year-old veteran, who last reached the finals of the United States amateur golf tournament 21 years ago, blasted Canada's last hopes for the title yesterday.

Jack Westland, whose last bid was blocked by Francis Ouimet in 1931, knocked off 23-year-old Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver 5 and 4 and qualified to meet an even younger opponent—22-year-old Al Mengert of Spokane, Wash.—in today's final.

Wins With Rally

A deliberate, business-like golfer from Everett, Wash., who is taking time out from his campaign for a seat in the United States House of Representatives, Westland overcame a two-hole deficit at the end of nine holes to blast Mawhinney in the afternoon round of their 36-hole semi-final.

Mengert ousted crooner Don Cherry 3 and 2.

Both matches were all even after a morning round played in weather that ranged from showers to a driving drizzle.

The chain-smoking Westland was two down to power-hitting Mawhinney after nine, but launching a spectacular run of long putts, got even going into the afternoon round.

Westland, almost as long a hitter, just as straight as Mawhinney of the tee and a lot more successful on the greens, went one up on the 32nd green.

Westland and Mengert have met before. Westland defeated the then 18-year-old Al for the Washington state title in 1948. Mengert beat him in the quarter-finals of the same tournament in 199.

Cancels Speeches

Westland, incidentally, cancelled his campaign speeches tonight and last night. But the night before the semi-finals the insurance executive-turned politician made three speeches.

Westland was only one over par for the 32 holes. This included his only poor hole, the 30th. Here he hit into the trap, banged over the green and then came back far off the pin.

His terrific putting included a 35-footer on the 10th, a 20-foot chip shot from the edge of the green on the 16th, and a 12-footer on the 31st that all but sank Mawhinney. Mawhinney at least three times saw his long putts hang by mere inches. Already hittery, Mawhinney twice hauled off and slapped the face of his recalcitrant putter.

Cleveland Indians Take Over First Place With 6-4 Defeat Of Yankees

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"SAY IT ISN'T SO!"

Rumors are rife along the rialto that the Belleville Hockey Association, will, like the Arabs of old, "fold its tents and silently fade away."

We sincerely hope that this is not true, as will thousands of hockey fans in this city and district.

These rumors, and we hope they are rumors, are to the effect that the junior "B" hockey club will not function due to the fact that Bill Cooke, "Mr. Hockey" for years in this city with Dick Beare, association secretary, have declared their intentions of retiring from the puck-chasing scene, due to business reasons.

But this should not be any reason for the BHA folding its tents. There are other people in this city, who, if they had the guts, could take over the reins and operate the association successfully.

We are informed from a highly authoritative source that Alderman Don McNevin, proprietor of fthe Glen Roy Creameries, has evinced interest in the senior "B" franchise. In fact it is learned that Alderman McNevin has already submitted a proposition to players in the city.

After the success of the 1951 edition of Belleville's junior "B" squad which was one of the best, if not the best, to represent this city in OHA circles, and went to the semi-finals against the Weston Dukes, it would seem a downright shame to see such a team cast to the winds so-to-speak, especially after the assistance and sponsorship given the squad by the Chicago Black Hawks.

Bob Wilson, of the Hawks Chicago business executive, and who was recently promoted to the position of chief eastern scout for the Hawks was in the city the other day with the full expectation of meeting with the same co-operation given him a year ago.

Wilson left the city a sadly disappointed man. He was told that Cook and Beare were "through with hockey" and that nothing had been done with regard to the Black Hawks-Belleville junior "B" team arrangements of a year ago.

Wilson was frank about the whole matter. He told Belleville representatives at a private meeting that the Hawks were willing to give Belleville the best they had to offer in players of Junior "B" calibre, or who would not be absorbed by the Galt Black Hawks, the Chicago National Hockey League's junior "A" team.

"Belleville is the Chicago Black Hawks Number 1 junior "B" team in its farm chain," Wilson told this reporter. "We operated here last year, sent you the best players available (Hector Lalonde, Bob Wilson, Henry Therrien and George Jacklyn) and while not taking any bows these boys helped Belleville to the high status it reached not only in the scheduled play but in the subsequent playdowns against Barrie and Weston."

"Mr. Bill Tobin, president of the Black Hawks, like myself, thinks Belleville is an ideal town, as far as hockey is concerned. We like it here. We think the people, as evidenced in the attendances at the junior "B" games last winter, are solidly behind the team. We have no trouble working with officials of the Hockey Association and we were distinctly proud of the youngsters who carried the Belleville junior banner throughout the season. Except for a minor difference or so, I firmly believe the junior "B" team would have won the provincial title. These differences, can perhaps be remedied this season, if and when arrangements can be made with the Belleville Hockey Association.

"We are ready," Wilson went on, "to assist Belleville with finances and players the same as we did last year. We want to see Belleville in there. We are ready to stand by it."

Just what will happen will not be known until after a meeting of the Belleville Hockey Association which has been called for Monday night. It is hoped that the way will be cleared to once again take advantage of the assistance and sponsorship of the Chicago Black Hawks and especially Chief Scout Wilson. In fact Mr. Wilson stated that the Hawks have scheduled an exhibition game here on October 3rd.

At the same time it should be stated that the Belleville Hockey Association has done and is doing a splendid job for hockey in this city. It took over the senior franchise last year at a minute's notice and with the assistance of a number of men interested in the kids operated a minor hockey league that made hockey history in this city.

To get back to the junior "B" set-up. For many years Bill Cook and a few interested hockey men, financed and administered the Belleville club. For years these men spent time and money with a definite lack of co-operation, financial and otherwise from the people of this city. They fought, argued and produced players but the public co-operation was pitifully lacking, particularly of industry and business.

Despite this, the fact remains that the Belleville fandom was worked to a fever pitch last year with the sensational showing of the junior "B" squad. And it seems a shame that because one or two key men have dropped out, or has stated they will drop out, that hockey of this calibre will drop out with them. We should know the answer on Tuesday morning.

The highlights of tonight's sports feast will be the renewal of the Belleville-Kingston Alcan softball fued. The CNR Diesels, league representatives this year after three straight playoff victories over Point Anne Cementmen are loaded for bear for tonight's contest. The Diesels, primed with pitching and boasting a heavier hitting lineup than last year's fallen warriors, are confident that they can knock over Pat Deasy and the Alcans. The joust is set for the CNR Recreation Field at 6.15. Glen Roy pee wee softballers take on Brooklin this afternoon in the first game of their best-of-three series for the eastern Ontario championship. They get under way at 4.00 p. m. at the Alemite Field. At 2.15 at the Fair Grounds Schwab's Little Giants meet Ottawa in the second round of the OBA pee wee playoffs with the eastern Ontario championship at stake. The Glen Roy Juniors, originally scheduled to meet Brockville in the second game of their series in the OASA Junior A playdowns tonight under the lights at the Alemite, advance into the next round by default. The Brockville entry apparently saw too much of the Glens last Wednesday when they took a 13-1 shellacking at home and decided that discretion is the better part of valor, and withdrew from the series. It is a left-handed compliment to the Glens and while it indicates the prowess of the locals it leaves the Glens generous sponsor hung out on the financial limb for expences for the trip to Brockville.

Luke Easter Drives in 4 Runs, Avila Makes 1st Triple Play; Cardinals Win Seven in Row

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland Indians are in first place today convinced they will win the 1952 American League pennant.

One reason for their bright outlook is a big victory over one of their chief stumbling blocks of the past—New York Yankees.

Cleveland turned back the Yanks 6-4 yesterday in the first game of a vital two-game series at Yankee Stadium and took over the top rung from the defending champions by one percentage point. This is the first time Cleveland has ruled the roost since June 7—and the first time since June 14 the Yanks are the pursuers instead of the pursued.

CUBS BEAT SOX

Chicago White Sox, fresh from three straight triumphs over the Yanks, extended their winning streak to four games by beating the third-place Boston Red Sox 4-1. In other American League games, Philadelphia Athletics captured a twi-night doubleheader from St. Louis Browns 5-2 and 9-0 and Detroit Tigers defeated Washington 2-0.

In the National League, the red hot St. Louis Cardinals defeated New York Giants 3-1 to stretch their winning streak to seven games.

The victory moved the Cards within three percentage points of the second-place Giants. Brooklyn's pace-setting Dodgers split a twi-night doubleheader with Pittsburgh, winning the first game 9-2 but losing the second 3-2. Cincinnati edged Philadelphia 3-2 and Boston downed Chicago, 4-3.

Luke Easter, Dale Mitchell and Bobby Avila were the leading lights in the Cleveland triumph.

Starts Triple Play

Big Luke drove in four runs on his 20th homer and a single. Mitchell cracked out five straight singles and Avila started the first triple play of the American League season.

Avila pulled his fielding gem in the fifth. He speared Hank Bauer's low liner, stepped on second to double up Billy Martin and fired to first to nail Allie Reynolds.

Veteran Joe Dobson tamed the Red Sox on four singles in posting his 12th victory for Chicago.

Philadelphia's sweep of the Browns enabled the A's to tie the White Sox for fourth place, six games back of Cleveland. Rookie Charley Bishop, with help from Bob Hooper, gained his first victory in the opener. Bobby Shantz, the majors' top winner, coasted to his 22nd win in the second game. Gus Zernial supplied the punch, driving in seven runs on a grand-slam homer and single.

Lefty Ted Gray bested Bob Porterfield in the pitching duel at Washington.

Third for Miller

Stu Miller, sensational rookie righthander, turned in his third straight victory for St. Louis: Miller limited the Giants to three hits and struck out nine. Enos Slaughter singled home Solly Hemus with the winning run in the eighth inning.

The Dodgers scored five runs in the seventh inning to win the opener at Pittsburgh. Relief ace Joe Black was credited with the victory, his 10th. Gus Bell singled home Dick Groat with the winning run of the after piece in the ninth.

Willard Marshall's two-run homer in the fifth provided Cincinnati with its margin of victory over Philadelphia.

Max Surkont posted his 10th victory in beating the Cubs. All four Boston runs were unearned. Hank Sauer clouted his 34th homer for Chicago and boosted his runs-batted-in output to 108.

Vic Cardell Decisions Dunn

HARTFORD, Conn. —(AP) — Vic Cardell, 145, of Hartford, won an unpopular 10-round decision over George Dunn, 135 1-2, of Edmonton, at Bulkeley Stadium here last night. Referee Hugh Devlin gave Cardell a one-point advantage in the final tabulations and that started a ringside rumpus that all but blew out the lights.

Although there were no knockdowns, Dunn had Cardell on the verge of a knockout in the second round with a left and right combination that sagged Cardell's knees. Cardell barely made it to his corner as the round ended. Cardell made a rapid recovery and kept out of trouble until he was himself again.

Ringsiders howled in protest when it was announced Devlin had given Cardell five rounds, Dunn four, and had called one even for a 29-28 margin. In Connecticut the maximum a fighter can earn in one round is five points.

Pitchers Injured

CINCINNATI —(AP) — Both starting pitchers became casualties in the game between Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia Phillies here last night.

In the bottom of the fourth inning, Willard Marshall hit a line drive that struck hurler Curt Simmons on the back of his right wrist. He was taken to hospital for an X-ray.

In the first inning, Frank Hiller of Cincinnati Reds suffered a broken nose when spiked by Richie Ashburn.

Hiller also suffered cuts around his eyes. He also was taken to the hospital for treatment.

Clip Clips Whip, Whip Whips Clip But 'His Nibs' Rules 'No Contest' Egad

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

The Whip clipped the Clip and the Clip whipped the Whip. Pat socked Fat, and Fat smote Pat. Then the Whip and Pat socked the Clip and Fat, and that was that.

Somewhere in the hodge podge of corpulence and swinging fists and men in blue, was a slim figure garbed in white named Samuel Gollop, who did decidedly more "golloping" around the ring than he did officiating.

However Samuel did hang around long enough to declare it was "No Contest" but both 'Is Ludshup, Lord Layton and William the Whip, pride of East York protested vigorously. Samuel shook his head like a tennis fan watching a world title match and that was that.

Ha, The Villain

Another interesting figure in this decisionless drama was one who looked suspiciously like Lou Pitrocia, one of the heavies of the rassling stage, who aided and abetted Lord Layton no end during the contest. Built like a flat-top, Louey poked the Whip forward, aft, amidships, and on two occasions nearly scuttled him while Athol did his baton act on the Whip's jugular.

But Louey, who was not playing cricket, egad, got a little too ambitious towards the end of the jamboree and an irate fan leaped to the ring apron, grabbed him by the scruff of the neck and dislodged him from his perch atop the Whipper's back just as the boys were enjoying a little sidegame of piggy-back.

Then the limbs of the law got in the picture. They too leaped to the apron, and as the fan quickly disappeared beyond the range of lights, they devoted their attention to poor Louey.

By this time the Clip and the Whip decided to give the front row pewsters on the east side of the ring, a few close-ups of modern behemoths in action and they did right well, tossing each other's torso from lap to lap like big hand balls.

Then 'Is Ludship figuring he could beat Time managed to struggle back into the ring, while the angry customers leered and jeered from downstairs. But it was too late. Samuel was operating on Standard Time, and besides, whose fault is it if the referee counts in pairs.

Help, He Cried

Now that angered 'Is Ludship and Powerhouse Louey no end. They proceeded to maul the Whip with Louey holding him upright while Athol judo'd his handsome noggin, throat and ribs. Then that dashing young man of the flying trapeze, bosom palsy of the whip, one Pat Flanagan flew into the ring with the greatest of ease, and proceeded to smite Louey between the eyes. Louey went down and as Athol looked down at the fallen gladiator, he met a solid sock from the Whip.

Both went down and commiserated with each other on the mat while the Whip dug up Camuel, the referee from somewhere and demanded he be given the decision. Samuel again went into his head-shaking act, and with many gestures, quivering of chins and facial grimaces indicated the records would not be tainted with such an exhibition.

Now by this time the Clip and Louey looking craftily from their spot on the mat, leaped to their feet and demanded the nod. They got it, Louey once more went down as the Flanagan fist smote him, then the Whip held up Layton while Pat administered another five-finger anaesthetic to the regal bloke.

Came the dressing room parade and angry fans swarmed about Layton and Louey. They tossed everything at 'em except Alderman Tice's rafters and even the law got in on the hit-and-miss parade. Lest we forget, the Whip won the first fall and Layton chopped the second.

The Masked Marvel won over Billy Stack in the opener with Pat Flanagan being awarded the decision in a thirty-minute battle with Jim "The Bull" Henry.

If One-Run Baseball Victories Count, Cards, Indians Are in, Says Talbot

NEW YORK (AP)—One hallmark of a pennant-winning ball club is the ability to stand firm in the clutch and squeak out victories in games where a single run is decisive. It is doubtful that any team ever reached the World Series without having won a husky majority of its one-runners.

With that in mind we have obtained figures from the Associated Press' statistical bureau on the one-run situation up to this point in both big leagues, and the only conclusion to be drawn from them is that St. Louis Cardinals and Cleveland Indians probably will meet in the big October play-off.

The Cards hold a sizeable edge over Brooklyn, their closest rival in the National League, in pulling out of the tight ones, and the Indians have proved themselves a bit stauncher in that respect than the runner-up Philadelphia Athletics in the American.

The won-and-lost count in the National League as this was written went: St. Louis 28-15; Brooklyn 22-12; New York 15-11; Philadelphia 18-18; Chicago 16-18; Boston 16-19; Cincinnati 14-21; and Pittsburgh 10-25.

In the American it was: Cleveland 22-14; Philadelphia 22-15; New York 18-13; Washington 23-19; St. Louis 21-17; Boston 16-15; Chicago 12-22, and Detroit 12-31.

More Thrillers

Note, among other things, that the American League, that oldtime sluggers paradise, now seems to be producing more close thrillers than the National, which once prided itself on that brand of entertainment, the totals above being American 146 one-runners, National 139.

If that isn't sufficiently interesting, observe that the top four clubs in the National League are those which have at least broken even when the chips were down.

Detroit and Pittsburgh may be cited as horrible examples of what happens to those ill-starred outfits which can't seem to buy a one-run triumph.

It is not difficult to see why Chicago White Sox have failed to repeat their stirring race of last season, nor why Philadelphia and Washington are up there making gestures at the American League favorites.

The Cardinals' great record must be set down as quite a tribute to Stanky's ability to juggle what was, up to recently, a shaky pitching staff.

Al Lopez of the Indians also has not been backward about throwing his starting aces in there to hold a lead in the late innings. If Boston Red Sox had been able to match the Indians in one-run wins the American League race really would be something to gawk at today.

Fergus Ousted By Toronto Yorks

Fergus bowed out of the playoff race in the Ontario Lacrosse Association's senior loop last night.

The Thistles lost their last chance to keep in the running for the post-season play when they were defeated by Toronto West Yorks 28-16.

In the only other game of the night, Hamilton defeated Owen Sound 9-2 in the final game of the schedule for the Crescents. Tigers have already clinched fourth place and the Crescents fifth.

At Fergus, Jim McNulty led the Toronto scoring with eight goals. Leo Teatro notched four with Bruce Webster, Clark Lyons and Ken Croft each scoring three. Big guns for Fergus was Bob Dobbie with four and Bob Gear with three.

In the game at Owen Sound Bill Ranking paced the Hamilton victory with three goals. Tommy Love scored two and Jack Gair, Jack Dorney, Plain McDonald and Merv McKenzie one each. Doug Gillespie and Norm Shorgridge scored for Owen Sound.

Sports Fare For The Day

There's plenty of sports fare for fandom of the city today.

In baseball circles Schwab's Little Giants play Ottawa at the Fair Grounds at 2:15 p.m. while this evening the Canadian Legion juveniles meet Trenton at 6:15 on the same diamond in the first round of the OBA playdowns.

At four o'clock the Glen Roy Peewee softballers meet Brooklin in the first of their best-of-three OASA peewee playdowns while the big game between Kingston and CNR Diesels starts at the CNR field at 6:15.

Birds, Bisons Make Strong Bids For Playoff Spots

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore Orioles and Buffalo Bisons, early-season disappointments, are making strong bids to qualify for a berth in the International League's playoffs.

The two teams swept doubleheaders yesterday as fourth-place Toronto was dropping a pair.

Kent Peterson hurled a one-hitter in the seven-inning opener for the Orioles as they defeated Ottawa ace Mario Fricano 1-0. In the nightcap, Baltimore was helped by five Ottawa errors and went on to win 5-3 behind Dick Starr. The sweep enabled the fifth-place Orioles to move to within 1½ games of Toronto.

Buffalo Bisons edged Toronto's Maple Leafs 4-3 and 2-1, the opener going eight innings. Frank Carswell decided the first contest as he led off the eighth with his 20th home run. Relief hurler Ray Shore was the victim of Carswell's smash. Milt Jordan was the winner.

Loses a Toughie

Johnny Hetki, who fanned 10 Bisons, lost a heartbreaker in the afterpiece. Toronto shortstop Bill Jennings dropped a pop fly with the bases loaded and two out in the fifth, to permit the only scores on Hetki. Hetki allowed only four hits. Wayne McLeland picked up the win as he gave up five safeties.

In other games, the pace-setting Montreal Royals split a twin bill with Springfield Cubs and second-place Syracuse Chiefs defeated their closest pursuers, Rochester Red Wings.

Montreal blasted across seven runs in the first inning of the first game, but couldn't hold its lead and lead and lost 11-10. The Cubs pulled it out with the help of six Montreal errors. Royals came back to take the second game 4-1 as Tom Lasorda went the route for his 13th victory.

Syracuse, helped by a wild fourth inning in which they scored seven runs on only two hits, defeated Rochester 10-7 in the battle for second place.

Yank Meets Dane Tennis Title For Canadian

TORONTO (CP) —Contenders for Canada's tennis singles crown Dick Savitt of Orange, N.J., and Kurt Neilsen of Denmark, will be on the same side of the net today.

The two aces, who meet in the final of the Canadian lawn tennis championships tomorrow, are paired in the men's doubles. So far they have defeated Dick Birch and Jack Little of Toronto by default and Rafael Ortega and Anselm Puente of Mexico in straight sets, 6-1, 6-3.

Today they face Austin MacPherson of Toronto and Joaquin Reyes of Mexico in the quarter-finals.

The game was originally scheduled yesterday but Neilsen was worn out from his five-set victory over the Philippine champion, Felicissimo Ampon. Should the Savitt-Neilsen twosome win, they will enter the semi-finals against another international team, Henri Rochon of Montreal and Ed Moylan of Trenton, N.J.

Also playing will be last year's doubles champions, Canada's Brenden Macken of Montreal and Lorne Main of Vancouver.

Fresh from their victory over Mexico's Gustavo Palafox and Francisco Arcocha, 8-6, 8-6, the two Davis Cup players await the winner of another quarter-final match—Don Fontana of Toronto and Ampon, who play Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., and Noel Brown of Los Angeles in an earlier match.

Doubles matches comprise most of today's draw but one singles event is of outstanding interest. Mexico's Melita Remirez meets last year's singles winner, Lucille Davidson of Lee Summit, Mo., to decide the women's championship.

Farmer Sportsman Relationship

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted sportsman, author and creator of Solunar Tables.)

Mark Twain once observed that while everybody complained about the weather, nobody actually did anything about it. For too many years that same general condition maintained in our farmer-sportsman problems. All hunters and fishermen talked about them but little, if anything actually was done to improve this vital relationship.

Having been an active fisherman and hunter for about 45 years, I naturally have met a great many farmers. Some of them have been good friends, with whom I have fished and hunted.

I have talked with thousands of them and I know how trying some people can be. They seem to forget that they are guests of the landowners when they fare forth with rod or gun. How most farmers have the patience to put up with some of the things "sportsmen" do is beyond my understanding. Often I wonder why all privately owned acreage isn't posted.

Of course, such things as camp fires getting out of control, roads and lanes blocked by cars, open gates, damaged fences, and so on, often can be charged up to ignorance. City-bred sportsmen are not familiar with farm usages. Such transgressions can be explained and, usually, forgiven.

But wanton damage, such as cutting wire, using fences for firewood, shooting livestock, and so on, ad infinitum, certainly cannot and should not be excused or forgiven.

While the deliberate troublemaker is very much in the small minority, he certainly makes things tough for the fellows who behave themselves. Thus, it is up to them to protect both the farmers' and their own interests. At long last, they are coming around to that point of view.

Private Drive

There is a farm near my home which is situated beside an excellent stretch of trout water. The road into this farm is a private one and goes no farther than the barnyard. It would be a simple matter for the farmer to place a gate or a barrier across the entrance to this road.

Yet year after year these long-suffering people put up with fishermen. They allow cars to be parked on the lawn and patiently they pick up lunch papers and trash after each busy weekend. If I have luck with my fishing I leave a mess of trout at the house, but most folks don't even bother to say thanks. I wouldn't stand for it for a minute.

Gradually the sportsmen's associations here and there about the country are formulating plans for the mutual protection of their own and the farmers' interests. Missouri, quite frequently a pioneer in outdoor affairs, has come up with a good plan which is sponsored by the Lee's Summit Wildlife Federation.

Signs are furnished to the farmers which limit hunting to a "permission only" basis. Also, farmers are supplied with permit cards which identify the bearers upon request. Thus, the farmer is not only in a position to control his own game-management problems; also, he can exclude vandals and game hogs through the simple process of refusing permits.

The sportsmen's association offers cash rewards for information leading to the arrest of persons damaging property, and they go along on the cost of lawsuits.

No Fee

Although provision has been made whereby a farmer can charge a fee for the privilege of hunting, none of the farmers have taken advantage of it as yet. They are content to limit hunting to individuals or small groups.

In addition, the association provides farmers with planting materials for use in developing better wildlife habitat on their lands. The plan has been well received and the association's membership is growing steadily, the new members coming from cities and suburban areas.

Minnesota approaches the problem from a slightly different angle. Each year they offer four awards to farmers who have achieved outstanding success as conservationists. These awards are presented at the annual Northwest Sportsmen's show in Minneapolis in a special ceremony and the winners and their wives have their expenses paid to and from the show.

By and large, farmers are good people, friendly and willing to co-operate. Only once, in over 40 years of hunting, have I been refused permission to hunt. This was done by a man whose cow had been shot during the previous week.

Plans Excellent

Over-all plans are excellent things and more sportsmen's associations should fall in line than have already done so. Just the same, it is a wise idea to take your own farmer-sportsman relationship under advisement well before the hunting season comes along.

You know where you like to hunt—all right, make friends with the owner or owners. A box of cigars or a bottle of spirits, for medicinal purposes, never come amiss; neither does an offer to pay for the privilege of hunting.

Once on a man's property, take care of it as though it were your own. And when the day is over, share your bag with the farmer. He likes to eat game just as well as you do.

Frankly, my sympathies are with the farmer. Make it a point always to ask for permission before you enter his property. Once you have his confidence he will be glad to see you the next time you come that way. As I say, farmers fundamentally are friendly people.

Guelph, Panthers Win Playoffs In Intercounty

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener Panthers, league leaders during most of the senior Intercounty Baseball League season, moved a step closer to the final playoff series last night.

The Panthers took a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven semi-final series with Galt by defeating the Terriers 9-3. The game which Galt must win to stay in the race will be played tonight at Kitchener.

Guelph Trims Sox

In the semi-final Guelph bounced back to ring up a 9-7 victory over Brantford Red Sox. Brantford leads the series 3-2 with the sixth game in Brantford tonight.

Winners of the semi-final series will meet London Majors, who succeeded in a protest of a league decision which stripped them of five victories.

Third baseman Bud Kimball gave Guelph its win with a homer with one on. Going into the fifth the Leafs were trailing 7-1 when Brantford committed three errors. Guelph hammered out two hits which, coupled with two walks, counted for five runs.

Pat Seeley evened the count in the sixth with a homer. He was walked in the eighth and scored when Kimball hit the game-winning blow.

Lew Fauth went the route to chalk up his second victory of the series. Frank Parker was the loser in a relief role.

At Galt, the game was even for the first seven innings. Dick Blanchard broke up the game in the eighth with a homer with Dick Welker on base to give Kitchener a 5-3 edge.

Panthers Run Wild

In the ninth, the Panthers scored four more on a walk, hit batter and four hits, including a double by playing-manager Don Gallinger.

The losing pitcher was Don Miller who was pulled in the fourth inning in favor of Bob McDonald. Kitchener's starter, Hal Johnson, made way for a pinch-hitter and Red Tellevi finished the game, giving up but two hits. Tellevi received credit for the victory.

CUNNINGHAM EASY WINNER

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Cunningham Jr., assistant pro at Toronto St. George's Golf Club, yesterday won the Canadian assistant professional championship and the Willie Freeman trophy. Cunningham, assistant to his father, took a six-stroke lead over his nearest rival in the morning 18 holes and coasted along in the afternoon to a 146.

Boyce's Peewees In Softball Final

Boyce's Garage won the right to enter the finals for the city peewee softball championship at Firemen's Park last night when they defeated the Rotary team 21-5 to win the series in two straight games. Boyce's will meet the winner of the Kinsmen, Booth's series for the title.

Restrick went the route for Boyce's giving up 17 hits striking out none and walking four. He also led the teams batters with three hits, with Follwell getting the same number.

Dever started on the mound for the Rotary kids and was relieved in the fifth by Howard. They yielded 19 hits between them, struck out two and walked nine. Alyea was top hitter with three.

The Kinsmen and Booth's play their second game on Monday night. Kinsmen are one game up.

STRIKE SLOWS PROJECT

OTTAWA (CP)—A group of 110 carpenters, striking for higher pay, are delaying completion of a secret radar station in the Ottawa valley, it was learned yesterday. The carpenters walked out Wednesday. The station is located in the Golden Lake district, northwest of Renfrew, about 40 miles west of Ottawa.

Frankford Edges Wooler 9-8 In Playdown Tilt

Frankford Merchants chalked up a 9-8 victory over Wooler last night in Frankford in the first game of the second round of the Intermediate "B" O.A.S.A. playdowns.

Farr went the route for Frankford to give eight runs off 12 hits.

McColl started for the losers allowing nine runs off 10 hits.

Austin led off for the Wooler team in the first with a double to left field. Istead singled advancing Austin to third and Austin scored on the catcher's error. Istead was left on at the close of the inning.

Hits Homer

Frankford went ahead in their half as Cosgrove hit a homer to bring in Rankin aboard first on a single to make it 2-1 for the home team.

In the third, Austin tripled, Leavitt drove him home as he tripled and Leavitt scored on a passed ball to put Wooler in the lead 3-2.

Curtis doubled in the fifth for Frankford to drive in Cosgrove aboard first on a single and tie the score 3-3.

In the sixth, Frankford leaped ahead with five runs. Cook was on, on a shortstop error, Dafoe advanced him to second as he singled and Cosgrove drove both men in as he tripled. Cosgrove scored on a pitcher's error that placed Ivan Istead on first. Farr doubled driving in Istead. Farr scored on a passed ball.

Wooler tied it up in the ninth as May gained second on a fielder's error. McMaster walked and Austin walked. Leavitt singled scoring May. Lou Istead doubled scoring McMaster and McColl's home run drove in Leavitt and Istead to make it 8-8 at the end of nine innings.

In the 10th Cosgrove singled and was forced out at second as Curtis was safe on a fielder's choice. Gilmore advanced Curtis to second as he was on a walk. Farr was safe on an error that scored Curtis for the winning run.

Richards, the Wooler short stop was carried off the field in the 10th as he made a sensational catch off the bat of Istead. While making the catch he collided with one of the fielders and suffered a badly sprained ankle.

Score by innings

Wooler	102 000 005 0—8	12	5
Frankford	200 015 000 1—9	10	5

AT NEW BELLE — Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis as bungling sky soldiers of Uncle Sam's Airborne Infantry, make a highly unorthodox parachute descent in this scene from the newest comedy, "Jumping Jacks," showing today for the last times at the Belle Theatre, with a Popeye Color Cartoon.

AT THE CAPITOL — Stanley Clements, star of "Jet Job," shuns the pleas of repentent Elena Verdugo, his co-star, who has lured him into a dangerous flight mission. The Monogram drama of daring jet pilots starts Monday at the Capitol Theatre for a two-day run. On the same program "The Atomic City," starring Gene Barry and Lydia Clarke. Both hits are first Belleville showings.

AT THE McCARTHY — Shelley Winters and Alex Nicol congratulate crooner Frank Sinatra when he hits the big time in Universal International's new musical, "Meet Danny Wilson." Nine popular songs are offered in "Meet Danny Wilson," and eight of them are sung by Frank Sinatra. Shelley joins Frankie in a duet, "A Good Man is Hard to Find," a musical highlight of the film, opening Monday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. The companion feature presents Ann Sheridan and John Lund in the hilarious comedy "Just Across the Street."

DRIVE-IN 'Trigger, Jr.'

Roy Rogers and his wild west show establish winter quarters at the ranch of George Cleveland, whose young grandson, Peter Miles, has an unreasoning fear of horses, dating from the the time he saw his mother trampled to death under her steed's hooves. Roy and Trigger's colt, Trigger, Jr., do much to alleviate the boy's fright. Meanwhile a bogus border, organized by Grant Withers, terrorizes the countryside, making the ranchers pay for protection and loosing a killer stallion on the herds of those who refuse. Rogers goes after the outlaws and eventually captures them, but not without the help of Peter who mounts Trigger, Jr., and leads a rescue party to Rogers when he is caught in the crooks' trap.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, AUG. 24, 1952.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Splendid vibrations from most planets today should strike a responsive chord in your charitable nature, urge you to aid neighbor and the unfortunate.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Don't wear down nerves and vitality—and thus eventually your good disposition—by trying to do too much in one day, by being anxious or hurrying.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—You born on the borderline of the two Signs Taurus and Cancer (on either side of Gemini) had better think twice before you speak to avoid arguments. Gemini can make today very worth while.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—This is a most auspicious time in which to do things you have wanted to for some time. But fit things in amicably for all. Avoid personal friction.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Generally fine vibrations, but so have many others now,—and there will likely be many suggestions on what to, and what not to. do. Be your congenial self; careful too.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Stop, look, listen—consider well all propositions. Don't be hasty making up your mind; note in what direction others lean. In pastimes, cooperate; in duties, the same.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Conserve energy these days; be relaxed in mind, too. Don't forget church.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Don't fax mind and body with too many afafirs; on other hand, remember carefully your obligations. Church services and family, on your first list.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Tomorrow's excellent aspect of your Jupiter urges you get some minor details out of the way for the coming week's bigger matters.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Be prompt and neat without being finicky; be happy, albeit serene and serious about those affairs that call for such.

January 21 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Your planet Uranus suggests looking over once again that planned schedule, trip or whatever you have in mind. Pray, smile, be cheerful.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Please take hint to Aquarius today. Your inclination and configurations, urge like treatment of day and affairs.

YOU BORN TODAY are big of mind and heart, but often disappointed at the seeming negligence of others who disregard little niceties. You are capable of control over self and others, could be a moving force for remarkable achievement.

Birthdate of: Robert Herrick, English poet; Aubrey Beardsley, artist.

WANTS NEW CITY HALL

TORONTO (CP)—Roland Michener, chairman of the city advisory sub-committee on the City Hall and court houses, said yesterday Toronto should build a new City Hall on a new site. The present City Hall, he said in an address, could be used as a court house or police headquarters.

TO BUILD 5,500 HOUSES

TORONTO (CP)—Reeve Oliver Crockford yesterday confirmed an extensive housing program including construction of 5,500 homes in suburban Scarboro. Construction of 2,000 prefabricated low-cost houses is planned by an unidentified Canadian industrialist, now in Britain. Another 3,500 houses will be built by Toronto realtors.

DEFENCE CONSTRUCTION (1951) LIMITED

TENDER

File #122-7-T2-17 Job #2111 Supply and Installation of Extensions to Water Distribution System, R.C.A.F. Station, TRENTON.

Sealed tenders plainly marked as to content and addressed to the undersigned will be received up to 3:00 p.m. E.D.S.T. Tuesday, September 9th, 1952, for the performance of the following work: the supply and installation of extensions to the water distribution system at R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, Ontario.

Plans, specifications and contract documents for this project may be obtained by prime contract tenderers at the address shown below. A deposit of $100.00 in the form of a cheque made payable to Defence Construction (1951) Limited is required with each complete set of plans, specifications and tender documents. This deposit will be refunded if the documents are returned in good condition within seven (7) days after the award of contract.

Each tender must be accompanied by a security deposit amounting to ten per cent (10%) of the tender total if such price is $500,000.00 or under and in addition five per cent (5%) of any excess of the tender price over $500,000.00. The security deposit will be forfeited in the event the successful tenderer refuses to enter into the contract on the basis of his tender when called upon to do so. Security deposits of the unsuccessful tenderers will be returned. A marked cheque on a chartered Canadian Bank and made payable to Defence Construction (1951) Limited or negotiable Dominion of Canada Bonds will be accepted as security deposit.

Sets of plans, specifications, etc. have been made available for the purpose of information to sub-contractors and material suppliers at the following locations: Belleville and District Builder's Exchange, Belleville, Ontario, and at this office.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR MONDAY, AUG. 25, 1952.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Very encouraging day for weighty matters, laborious and also more delicate and lighter work. Meetings between management and labor can be blessed with harmony.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Fine day to start new undertakings or carry to completion tasks already initiated. Science, artistry, skilled and unskilled labor under friendly stars.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Not all easy for brilliant work, new and original ideas perhaps but it is thoroughly promising period for well planned and executed business and personal affairs.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Perk up! This is your day surely for fresh gains, seeking new contracts, holding conferences, improving present status, aiming for higher goals.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—No cause to look glum. Pitch in early, and you can travel fast and efficiently. This is a time for accomplishing.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—If yours is not an all-out period for brain work, then don't over-press. Matters that don't require too much planning and manoeuvering should cause little trouble.

September 22 to October 23 (Libra)—Grand indications for your interests, for all worthwhile efforts, personal and business, professional and artistic.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—These are important days and each one of us has a share in our government, our country as a whole, our community. Fine rays generally.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Best planetary day for balance of month. It is for action, broad interests, able management of affairs, and pertinent care to the public welfare. Strive to achieve.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Don't fail to take advantage of the many opportunities for gain and advancement offered this generous week. Your Saturn position advises calmness, avoidance of strain.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Without going to extremes or inviting opposition you can do a good job today in whatever your duties, perhaps new obligations you may assume.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Grand day for forwarding family interests, for stretching out for new laurels, perhaps advancing your position, making smart contacts. Be happy.

YOU BORN TODAY are exuberant, generous, kindhearted, cheerful and entertaining. You have many fine qualities to fit you for whatever your position or occupation in life. Always keep God foremost in your aims and ambitions. Curb any tendency to domineer.

Birthdate: Jas. Lick, philanthropist (Lick Observatory); Francis Bret Harte, noted western author.

MARMORA

Marmora—Born in Mrs. Findlay's nursing home, Havelock, on Friday, August 15, to Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Chrysler, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Porilujko, accompanied by. Mr. and Mrs. M. Yosepenko, of Point Anne, are holidaying in New York State, this week.

Master Harley Farnsworth, of Belleville, is visiting his young friend, Ronald Smith this week.

Mrs. Melvin Johnson and young son of Eldorado spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. George Woodhouse.

Mr. H. W. Sabine and the staff of the Marmora Herald are taking their annual holiday this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gordon visited the latter's mother, Mrs. Ed. Wannamaker in Eldorado last Sunday.

Underneath The Bough

By Edna G. Robins

Harry Watson sat down in a comfortable chair in his wife's studio. He made no move to look at the portrait she had painted and he gave no indication that he had even glanced at it as he entered. Instead, he rather ostentatiously pulled his chair around so that his back was toward the painting.

"Will you have some tea, Harry?" his wife was asking.

Harry made a weak sound in his throat and nodded his head. Louise sighed and poured the tea Poor Harry. He had no imagination, of course. He knew nothing about art and he was afraid of what he did not understand.

But was this the reason for his actions now? Louise suddenly knew the answer. The reason he wasn't looking at the picture Louise had painted was that Harry was jealous—jealous of the art which had taken his wife away from him spiritually.

"How nice it is to be just by ourselves for a little while," she went on.

Harry's answer wa interrupted as the children rushed in with a wave of laughter.

"Where's the picture, Mother?" Eleanor asked immediately. Then she saw the portrait, "Oh, Mother, it's lovely! Isn't it Father?"

"Your father hasn't' looked at it yet," Louise said quietly. "I suppose he felt he needed his tea before he tried to criticize it."

"Why Father! You come right over here nad look at this beautiful portrait!" Eleanor ran over to Harry and, taking his arm almost pulled him out of his chair.

"Gee, Mom, it's swell!" was Ted's comment. "You ought to get a prize for that, sure."

Harry was staring at the portrait unhappily. Adele Miller's serious brown eyes stared back at him, from the canvas, as if defying him to say it wasn't good. He didn't try to say it wasn't good.

"It's very good," he said awkwardly. He cleared his throat. "Very good indeed."

"Good!" Eleanor exclaimed shaking her father's arm in exasperation. "Why it's simply splendid! And to think we've been nourishing a genuis in our midst and didnt even know it. How could you stand it, Mother, to have all that talent inside of you and not use it? I should think it would hurt to—to smother it."

"Sometimes it did," Louise replied gently. "But there were other duties that came first."

"You mean Daddy — and us. Well, I'm glad at last you had the chance to show what you can do. I think it's going to be wonderful to have a famous mother."

"Let's wait and see what the judges say when it's hung in the exhibit in the fall," Louise said. Her eyes were still on Harry.

Louise Weston's portrait of Adele Miller was entered in the art show held in the fall in Greenwich Village. Louise hoped that Harry would appear at the opening, but she had her doubts. Harry had his own opinion of Greenwich Village and it wasn't complimentary.

So Louise went alone. She found her portrait immediately and was pleased with its position. It was in a good light and was not crowded by other canvases.

The sheer simplicity of the painting seemed appealing and she hoped others would think so. It was just a picture of a sedate little girl in a rather quaint dress.

Louise examined her work critically. Then she smiled as she recalled Harry's surprise a few weeks ago when she received her first order for a portrait. And there had been a further surprise for Harry when he learned the sizable sum she had been paid to do the picture. No doubt this had made Harry all the more jealous of Louise and her painting.

The show rooms were beginning to fill with art enthusiasts. Louise thought Harry should be showing up—if he were to come at all—and she began to search for him. Harry would probably feel quite out of his element here. He wouldn't know where to look for his wife's work.

Louise drifted with the stream of people and finally circled the rooms and came back again to her portrait of Adele. A strange man was in the group in front of the painting. He examined the picture critically, nodding his head in satisfaction.

"Good, good," he said to a neighbor. "That's very good." The man leaned closer to the railing and squinted at the number. Then he hastily consulted his catalogue. "'Portrait of Adele by Louise Weston,'" he read. "We read. "We will hear more of this artist."

For the first time Louise noticed to whom the man was talking. It was Harry, a little smile glowing on his face.

"Yes, quite good, isn't it?" Harry said loudly, not attempting to conceal the pride in his voice. "As a matter of fact, I know the artist who painted it. Louise Weston. As a matter of fact, Louise is my wife.'

Sister States Martin Not Involved in Case

WINDSOR (CP)—Mrs. Nicholas Steigerwald said Thursday that her brother, Health Minister Martin, had nothing to do with her business activities, which have been reported to include helping Canadians emigrate to the U.S.

The Windsor Daily Star said Monday that a Detroit resident told of paying $75 to Mrs. Steigerwald for a false bank statement in connection with his application for a U.S. visa.

In her signed statement released through her lawyer, Lawrence A. Deziel, she said:

"Certain press releases made in connection with an investigation being conducted by U.S. authorities into alleged irregularities in the documentation of Canadian emigrants entering that country, have referred to me as the sister of Hon. Paul Martin, Canadian Minister of National Health and Welfare.

"This reference would suggest that he has assisted, advised or aided me in the conduct of my business dealings, or that he approved of them; such suggestion is entirely contrary to fact.

"While I have the greatest respect and admiration for my brother we have not been on close fraternal terms for some time past. Any suggestion that I have conducted my business affairs on the strength of his good name or influence, is preposterous and is without any foundation in fact. I sincerely regret that present circumstances have caused my brother undeserved and embarrassing notoriety which might have been avoided if I had accepted his earlier advice to me."

General Naguib Pays Flying Visit To Garrison

CAIRO (Reuters)—Gen. Mohammed Naguib paid a flying visit today to the Egyptian garrison at Gaza, southern Palestine, amid unconfirmed press reports that some British troops in the Suez Canal zone may be moved there.

Since seizing control of Egypt last month, Naguib has been touring every unit of the Egyptian Army.

Press reports have suggested that Gaza may be established as an alternative base for British troops in the Suez area to meet Egypt's wishes. There has been no official British comment on this.

In Cairo today, the militant Moslem Brotherhood Association called upon the government to shut down bars, cabarets and dance halls.

"Supreme Guide" Hassan Hodeiby Murshid declared in a formal note to Premier Aly Maher that the "evil influence" of such entertainment halls was "more disastrous than the occupation of the country by a foreign army."

Churchill's Office Denies Allegation Of Weekly Paper

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Churchill's office today denied that he had urged high Church of England authorities to permit his niece, Clarissa Churchill, to be married to Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden at a religious ceremony.

"There was no question of the Prime Minister pressing the Archbishop of Canterbury to take any action not in accordance with the principles of the church," said John Colville, Churchill's private secretary.

The Church of England does not permit its servic to be usd for the marriage of divorced persons. Eden was divorced two years ago. He married Miss Churchill in a registry office last wek.

Yesterday a small London weekly The Recorder, claimed that Churchill had asked the Archbishop, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, to permit a church wedding but was turned down.

Ding Dong Daddy Of D Car Line In Trouble Again

OAKLAND, Calif (AP)—Francis Van Wie, San Francisco's gift to romance, was behind bars today—accused of marrying wife No. 16 without divorcing No. 15.

But the 66-year-old ex-streetcar conductor didn't give up without literally stopping the show at an Oakland burlesque theatre, where he was appearing in an act billed "My True Love Life."

When two Los Angeles police officers, equipped with a bigamy warrant for his arrest, showed up at the theatre Wednesday night, Van Wie was nowhere to be found

But after a while Van Wie's manager, Walter Hale, appeared on the stage.

"This loveable, innocent little character is going to give himself up," he announced.

With that, the rotund Van Wie, better known as the Ding Dong Daddy of the D car line, appeared on the stage and blurted:

"All I can say—"

Fire Destroys Barn, Contents

TWEED—Fire broke out at the farm of Earl Graham west of Tweed on Thursday afternoon about 3.00 p.m. when a large frame barn with all its contents was totally destroyed.

Threshing was in progress all day and the machine had just been moved to his other barn on the other side of the road when the fire broke out.

The fire was believed to have started in a car owned by the hired man which had been placed in the drive shed beside the barn.

Fire spread so rapidly that men who were helping with the threshing had no chance to save anything but a few pigs that were in the yard beside the barn.

A thousand bushels of grain were destroyed.

There was a strong west wind blowing at the time and the fire fighters had to work hard to save the house.

Tweed fire fighters rushed to the scene with their equipment but the water supply soon gave out and water had to be brought from nearby wells.

MARSH HILL

MARSH HILL— Mrs. Charlie Ross spent a few days last week visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McMullen of Harold.

Miss Catherine Coulter, of Tweed, has been holidaying at the home of her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Berson Mitts.

Mrs. Frank Finkle is visiting with friends and relatives in Trenton, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Finkle and girls were supper guests Monday night of Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Finkle.

Representatives Of Unions Hold Secret Session

LONDON (Reuters)—Union representatives of 200,000 engineering workers today held a secret, second-stage meeting with a council of their employers to decide if workers will strike to back demands for wage increases of £2 a wek.

The claim has already been rejected by the employers, but the unions, many of them engaged in rearmament work, decided last week to put their case again before taking alternative action..

The Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions is handling the demands. It represents 38 unions and its excutive is split into left-wing and moderate factions. Strike action has been called by the left element, led by the Communist-run elctricians' union. Moderate executives are believed ready to consider a compromise offer.

Talks similar to today's will be held next Wednesday by representatives of 200,000 shipbuilding workers and their employers. A reply to 500,000 women workers in engineering trades, who also demand £2 a wek more, is still awaited.

Even if demands are granted, the workers are likely to encounter opposition from the government, pledged to keep wages steady in an attempt to stave off inflation. Labor Minister Sir Walter Monckton recently refused to approve raises for 1,500,000 distributors, though employers had agreed to grant them.

TELEGRAPHER RETIRES

TORONTO (CP)—W. H. Matthews, 65, has retired after 27 years as night supervisor of the Canadian National Telegraphs Union office.

Up to Palace To Invite Japs

TOKYO (AP)—A spokesman for the Imperial Household today said "it is up to Buckingham Palace to invite Japanese to the coronation" of the Queen next year.

"It is unthinkable," he added, "that we discuss arrangements before receiving an invitation."

An informed source in London had said that plans to have members of the Japanese royal family attend the coronation had been dropped at least temporarily because of British resentment over jailing of two British sailors in Japan.

Buckingham Palace has made no comment.

Japanese newspapers have mentioned Prince Takamatsu, Emperor Hirohito's second brother, as a likely candidate to attend the coronation.

Britain has demanded that the two sailors, sentenced to 2½ years each by a Japanese court on conviction of robbing a Japanese taxi driver of $4.76 worth of yen, be turned over to a British naval court. The Japanese court so far has refused to let the men go.

Man Arrested For Burning Cheek Of Girl With Iron

Sequel to Broken Love Affair Say Toronto Police

TORONTO (CP)—A red hot iron was pressed against a pretty girl's cheek in a sequel to a broken love affair, police said today.

They arrested William David Bell, 27, on a charge of wounding with intent to maim, disfigure or mar.

Rene Des Laurel, 32, an attractive redhead, said she broke off her engagement with Bell some time ago and returned his ring after he beat her up. They had previously planned to be married next month. Saturday night he went to her home and tried to renew the relationship.

Police say that when the girl refused to go out with him again, he picked up an iron and hit her on the head, knocking her to the floor. Then, police charge, he pushed the hot iron into her face.

Doctors say the girl's burns will heal.

25 Persons Killed In East Canada During Week-end

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Twenty-five persons were killed in week-end accidents in Eastern Canada. Thirteen died in traffic accidents and six were drowned.

The six eastern provinces claimed 33 lives last weekend.

This week-end Ontario counted 15 deaths, Quebec nine and Nova Scotia one.

A light plane crashed into a backyard in Toronto's crowded west-central section, killing both the pilot and passenger. An auto-truck collision in Quebec killed five persons.

Five Drowned

Drowned in Ontario: Robert Brooks, 36, of Detroit, in the Detroit River near Amherstburg; Stanley Hotz, 21, of Sarnia in Lake Huron; Susan Moon, 3, in the rain-filled cellar of a barn near Toronto; Ella Magdalen, 61, of Kitchener, in Hofstetter Lake near Kitchener; Thomas A. Rooney of Toronto in Lake Ontario near Belleville.

Killed in traffic: Albert McCauley, 41, of Rockland near Ottawa; Roy Godden, 38, of Hamilton near his home; Anton Matson, 65, near his home in Port Arthur; Velma Howald, 16, of Lucknow.

Russell Free, 55, was killed when he touched a live hydro wire while trimming a tree in front of his home in Barrie. Murray North, 14, was crushed to death when the tractor he was driving turned over at Florence, near London. Anthony Kozlowski, 47, was found dead at the foot of the basement stairs in his Toronto home. Jacqueline Masse, 20, of Windsor, was killed when a wrecked car toppled on her at the scene of an accident. Charles McKay, 38, and John Pretner, 30, of Toronto were burned to death when their light plane crashed in downtown Toronto.

Killed in Quebec traffic accidents: Dr. Francois Langelier of St. Simon, Mrs. Paul Emile Ploufe of St. Hughes and her three children, Francine, 11, Guy, 7, and Real, 5, at St. Hughes; Ludger Tremblay, 37, of Stoneham near his home; Richard Voisell, 9, and Ernest Lunn, 17, both of Montreal.

Bossey Walker, 6, was drowned when he fell into a water-filled quarry near his home in the Montreal suburb of Pointe Aux Trembles.

The body of Roderick MacDougall, 60, was found on the main railway track at Barrachois, N.S., 40 miles from Sydney. He was last seen getting off the train Friday night.

HELD ON BABY CHARGE

PORT DOVER (CP) — Walter Chomas, 40, wanted in Toronto with his wife Mildred, 24, on charges of abandoning an infant, gave himself up to police Saturday. Police picked up Mrs. Chomas in a Simcoe restaurant yesterday and took the couple to Toronto. They are said to be the parents of a four-weeks-old baby found alone in a Toronto hotel Thursday.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Warm air from Canada's prairies is rapidly over-running Northern Ontario today. As a result even as far north as Moosonee on James Bay temperatures are likely to jump to 85. In southern Ontario the transition from cool to warm temperatures has been gradual, but today will find the thermometer hitting at least 80 in most localities.

Above 90 temperatures have prevailed in southern Manitoba and Saskatchewan for the last three days and as a result harvesting has been coming along rapidly. Cooler air is gradually approaching these areas but another scorcher is anticipated In Winnipeg today, where a maximum temperature of 95 has been forecast.

Levels of Lakes Erie, Ontario Start to Drop

BUFFALO (AP)—The levels of Lakes Erie and Ontario have started to drop after reaching their season's peaks, according to the United States corps of engineers.

The average level of Lake Ontario for the first half of August was 248.45 feet, compared to 249 feet for the first half of July and 248.75 feet for second half, the engineers said.

The average level of Lake Erie for the same period was 574.2 feet, two-tenths of a foot below the July average, the engineers reported.

Alcoa's Alaskan Project to Cost $400,000,000

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (CP)—Aluminum Company of America's proposed $400,000,000 aluminum smelting project at Skagway was hailed today by Alaska's governor as the most "important event in the territory since its purchase from Russia."

Governor Ernest Gruening told reporters at McKinley National Park that Alcoa's project, which signals the birth of a modern new city in the Taiya Valley with an expected population of 20,000, overshadows the three greatest events in Alaska's history under American ownership.

"The three greatest events were Alaska's purchase in 1867, the discovery of gold in 1898 and the establishment of a pulp mill at Ketchikan, which is now taking place," Gruening said.

"The aluminum project is all out of proportion to those three events in economic contribution permanence," he added.

The smelting plant will initially produce 200,000 tons of aluminum annually.

It will take an estimated four years to complete, and hinges on the purchase of land and U.S. government approval.

Leon E. Hickman, vice-president and general counsel for Alcoa, announced the project Saturday. He said the plant will be privately financed.

Sources Say Reds Have Established Nucleus of Air Army in East Germany

BERLIN (AP)—Informed sources said today the Russians have established the framework for a full air army in East Germany. United United States airmen said they have information that the nucleus, including 700 jet fighters, has been so organized that it could be expanded quickly into a tough fighting force.

The unit, which operates from the Oder to the Elbe Rivers from 18 first-class airports, is listed by the Russians as the 24th Air Army. It includes transports but as yet has not been assigned heavy bombers.

The informants said the Russians now have here between 40 and 500 MIG-15s of the type operating in Korea. Upwards of 200 twin jets also fly daily over the Soviet zone, along with more than 1,000 more conventional-type fighters such as Yaks and PO-2s.

The 18 operational air fields are strategically placed to cover every strip of territory facing the west along the Baltic seacoast.

American officers said they regarded the creation of an air army by the Russians as good tactics rather than an imminent buildup for war.

T.L.C. TURNS DOWN CONSOLIDATION OF LABOR FORCES

Move Setback to Hopes Of Congress of Labor

WINNIPEG E(CP)—Canada's largest labor group, the Trades and Labor Congress, flatly turned down Saturday a move towards consolidation of Canadian labor forces.

The Congress blocked a resolution at its annual convention asking the executive to approach other labor groups and set up a general council for co-ordinating labor activities in the interests of "greater unity."

The move was a setback to hopes of the Canadian Congress of Labor for unification of Canada's 1,000,000 organized workers.

For some years the C.C.L. has been trying to work out "organic unity" of Canadian labor. There was a national committee of the T.L.C., the C.C.L. and the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor for a time last year. The T.L.C. pulled out.

Hits C.C.L.

President Percy Bengough of the 502,000-member T.L.C. said Saturday that the 350,000-member C.C.L. was trying to use the committee to "undermine" the Trades and Labor Congress.

He directed his complaints about association with other labor groups at the C.C.L. He had no complaint against committee activities of the 90,000-member Catholic syndicates from Quebec or against the 40,000-member railway running-trades brotherhoods.

But Jack Bruce of Toronto, Canadian chief of the Plumbers' Union, lashed out at the Quebec body, saying the Catholic Confederation raided T.L.C. union membership "with the aid of the clergy."

The labor-unity scrap was the last major debate of the six-day T.L.C. convention. The convention, in resolutions adopted, asked for: Nationalization and development of natural resources in the interests of full employment, on the ground that raw material export cuts down employment; certification of unions as bargaining agents for government workers; all-Canadian routing of east-bound gas pipelines; a national bill of rights; and a build-up of Canada's foreign trade.

In other action during the week, the Congress called for long federal steps towards social security.

The T.L.C. tramped on an attempt to have it ease up on its own tough internal policy on Communists but drew the line at asking for the outlawing of the Communist party in this country.

The anti-Red T.L.C. took the stand that asking the federal government to outlaw Communist parties—or any other subversive parties—might open the way to suppressions that could threaten freedom of expression.

A proposal that local unions be given more freedom in blacklisting employers they considered unfair to labor was rejected.

Retain Strike Weapon

Finally, President Bengough said Canadian labor will not give up its right to strike—a statement given no specific action but apparently given tacit assent by the convention.

Bengough was commenting on a suggestion by Labor Minister Gregg in a speech to the Congress that labor should go easy on strikes while democracies are in the arms production race.

The veteran Bengough said labor has certain rights and will continue to use them.

West Powers Appear as Badly Split as Ever With Moscow Over Treaty With Germany

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia and the western powers appeared as badly split as ever today on how to go about making a German peace treaty.

A Russian note proposing a big-four meeting on the problem by October seemed certain to be rejected by britain, the United States and France because of the conditions which Russia specified.

The Soviet note, handed to the western power ambassadors in Moscow Saturday, specified that the session should first discuss the peace treaty and the formation of an all-German government and only after that should it take up a western proposal for creation of a commission to investigate political conditions throughout Germany prior to holding "free elections."

Not Acceptable

Officials here and western diplomats in Moscow indicated that the Russian terms are acceptable. The reason is that the westerners think the Russians are putting the cart before the horse and doing it deliberately for propaganda purposes.

The Russian strategy in the long exchange of notes on German unity and peace which has taken place over many months is believed to be aimed at disrupting western plans to associate Germany with the North Atlantic Treaty defences. Measures for German rearmament and the formation of German troop units as part of a European army are well advanced.

The position of the western powers on the peacemaking question was set forth most recently in a note to Moscow July 10. The Soviet note Saturday was a reply to that. London, Paris and Washington are expected to start consultations on their next note in a week or so.

Essentially the western powers have taken the line that if the Soviet Union sincerely wants to unite East and West Germany under a single German government it must join with the west in holding free elections throughout the country. But preliminary to that the Kremlin should be willing, the west has argued, to join in setting up some kind of impartial commission to determine whether and how free elections can be held.

Want Treaty First

The Russian position appears to be the exact opposite of this procedure. The Russians listed as subjects for a Big Four session: First, consideration of a peace treaty; second, formation of an all-German government; third, all-German elections, and fourth, determination of a date for withdrawal of the occupation forces of the four powers.

One of the principal western arguments against the Soviet's sequence of subjects is that it would put the four powers in the position of dictating a peace treaty for Germany instead of negotiating one, since discussion of the treaty would precede the creation of a German government capable of negotiating for the whole country.

Eisenhower Tells Legion Soviet Plan of Conquest Puts U.S. In Greatest Peril of Its History

NEW YORK (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower said today that because of the Soviet master-plan of conquest "this nation today stands in greater peril than at any time in our history."

He called for a clear, strong warning to the Russians from the United States government.

"We must tell the Soviets with cold finality that never shall we rest content until the tidal mud of aggressive Communism has receded within its own borders," he said.

Eisenhower's remarks were contained in a speech prepared for delivery to the American Legion national convention at Madison Square Garden.

The general, a Legionnaire, flew to New York from Denver, Colo.; last night, and the New York speech was designed to step up his campaign as the Republican candidate for the U.S. Presidency.

The speech was billed as non-political, but it contained several passages that appeared to refer, directly, to some of the charges the Republicans are making against the Truman administration.

While he emphasized the danger to the United States posted by the Soviet menace, Eisenhower said he does not believe the Russians are ready, now, to kick off a Third World War.

"We still have time," he said, and he outlined a program designed to present counter-measures to the Soviet movement. They entailed:

1. Creating a security force "with such offensive impact that the massive potential of their blows will haunt the Kremlin with nightmares of punishment to be visited on Russia should it violate the peace."
2. "Greater co-operative unity with every nation in the free world that is prepared to stand with us. work with us, build with us, for the security of all of us."
3. A warning to Russia that the United States will "never recognize the slightest permanence in Russia's position in Eastern urope and Asia."

Cargo Plane Crashes

BERLIN (AP)—A four-engine British cargo plane crashed in the Soviet zone six miles west of Berline yesterday. The flight engineer was killed but the pilot and navigator escaped unhurt and returned safely to West Berlin.

British officials said the Russians agreed to let the British recover the plane wreckage, probably today.

The plane, a York, had been chartered by the Berlin city government and was carrying export goods to Hamburg.

BAND DIRECTOR DIES

MONTREAL (CP)—Maj. Archibald Streeter, 50, of Ottawa, director of military bands for the Canadian army, died Saturday night on a Halifax-to-Montreal train.

Financial Times Says Canada Rich in Materials

LONDON (Reuters)—The Financial Times today published a 20-page supplement—"Survey of the Canadian Economy."

In an editorial introducing the supplement, the Financial Times says:

"For the last 12 years, the Canadian economy has expanded in a way it would be hard to parallel in any other country at any time.

"The causes of this prosperity are apparent. Canada is a very large country enormously rich in raw materials. . . .It is a prosperity which depends primarily upon the high prices which are being paid for raw materials.

"The weakness of this position is that Canada depends so much upon the United States. ... .Canadians can never be freed from the fear of a slump in the United States."

The paper suggests that increased trade with the sterling area would promote stability and independence of the Canadian economy.

Allied Bombers Strike Hard Blow At Supply Area

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Allied bombers delivered a one-two blow at Communist supplies last night. Flying through stormy weather they hit a 40-acre supply area in Northwest Korea and pounded behind-the-front storage depots.

A rainstorm over Korea bogged down troops on the 155-mile ground front.

A dozen Japan-based Superforts fle wthrough moderate to intense flak in their first raid of the war on the 40-acre supply area at Anju, 100 miles north of the Red capital of Pyongyang.

Saturday night, the Air Force reported, Superforts raided the Supung rail yard near the Manchurian border. It said one of three Red fighters that challenged the bombers was shot down.

CLOSE CALL

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Five-year-old Jimmy Miller escaped injury by about five seconds when a pile of brick fell on the couch on which he had been sitting when the chimney fell through the ceiling Saturday as Mrs. John Miller slammed the rear door after putting out the garbage.

FOUR EXPLORERS, TRAPPED FOR NINE DAYS, RESCUED

Held in Sub-Alpine Caverns by High Water

MUOTATHAL, Switzerland (AP) Four weary underground explorers dumbfounded their rain-stymied would-be rescuers last night by walking unheralded and unharmed out of the sub-Alpine "Hell's Hole" caverns where high water had trapped them for 9½ days.

Today rescuers in the Breconshire hills of Wales tunnelled through nine feet of fallen rock and pulled out two 17-year-old boy scouts and their injured scoutmaster imprisoned 150 feet down in a cave yesterday. All three were taken to hospital and the scoutmaster, his legs crushed by the fall, was believed in a serious condition.

They were the second and third groups caught in European caves this month. Four men were rescued from 1,153 feet down in the Pierre St. Martin abyss of the Pyrennes Mountains, near the French-Spanish border, a week ago after a fifth man in their party fell 120 feet to his death.

No Excitement

The explorers here, Prof. Alfred Boegli, two 20-year-olds and a youth 18, calmly ate supper after their return last night, then left for their homes. Their plight had swamped this tiny mountain hamlet with visitors and resulted in one of Switzerland's most extensive rescue operations.

New rains yesterday brought threats of more water rises and temporarily halted the rescue efforts. Thus no one was on hand when the quartet walked from the cave and down the slope of Silberen Mountain to startle a crowd gathered in a cafe under rescue headquarters.

The explorers were held prisoner near here since Aug. 15 by water that rose suddenly in Hell's Hole, Europe's largest system of chartered underground caverns. Though they entered the caves for only a 24-hour exploration, they quickly realized their dangerous position and took every measure to conquer it themselves.

The party's leader, Dr. Boegli, divided their emergency rations into 21 daily portions of 400 calories for each man. When they started out yesterday, they left behind in the cavern enough food to last them two more weeks on that basis.

During their imprisonment, they carried on as though they were conducting normal cave explorations. They measuerd the rising and falling of the waters, checked water drippings and measuerd various caverns in the interior.

Take Turns Sleeping

The temperature stayed at about 42 degrees fahrenheit at all times. Every six hours three of the party gave their outer clothing to the fourth so he could sleep in comparative warmth. The other three went about their self-imposed tasks, moving vigorously to keep warm.

All were stiff and sore from exertion when they emerged and their hands were raw from continued climbing, but a medical examination was not considered necessary.

FIND LOST YOUNGSTER

BRACEBRIDGE (CP) — David Geugo, 3, missing since Saturday near Three Mile Lake, 19 miles northwest of here, was located yesterday after a 15-hour search by 20 persons. The boy did not appear to be affected by the ordeal. His face and hands showed he had been eating blackberries and he indicated he had slept, taking his shoes and socks off.

Drifting Alone on Frail Raft French Doctor Hopes to Make United States

CASABLANCA (AP)—Alone on a frail raft, French Dr. Alain Bombard drifted today toward the Canary Islands 500 miles southwest of here. With the United States as his ultimate goal, he hopes to prove that shipwreck victims can live on what they can find in the sea.

Bombard carried a box of army rations. He said the 24-day emergency food supply was a reserve mainly for the leg of the voyage beyond the Canaries and would be used only if he were caught in the circular currents of the middle Atlantic, where he might not be able to catch any fish.

Trouble dogged him and companion, a Briton, Jack Palmer, on the first leg of their trip from Monte Carlo through the Mediterranean to Casablanca. Their raft was wrecked in a storm off the Spanish island of Minorca and their equipment was lost.

Bombard said yesterday that family affairs had kept Palmer from joining him on the voyage to the Canaries.

Bombard has no radio aboard. He has a book on navigation.

Crippled Airliner Plunges Into Sea Off Sicily, 7 Killed

Crews of Fishing Boats Rescue 50 of 57 Aboard

TRAPANI, Sicily (AP)—A crippled four-engine British airliner plunged into the Mediterranean early today off this West Sicilian port but fishing boats saved 50 of the 57 persons reported aboard and recovered three bodies in a dramatic night-time rescue.

In London, the plane's operators said the plane carried 51 passengers, including four babies, and a crew of six. All were Britons.

British planes from Malta, Italian aircraft from nearby airfields and Italian naval craft from Trapani scanned the disaster scene about three miles offshore this morning for the missing persons—identified by Trapani port commandant Arnaldo Taddei as one of the plane's two hostesses and three passengers.

Taddei said all of the dead and missing were passengers except for the missing hostess.

Bound for Sudan

The airliner, a Hermes operated by the British charter firm of Air Work, Ltd., was under charter to the Sudanese government and was bound for Khartoum, capital of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. Officials of the charter firm said all the passengers were British civil servants, employed by the Sudanese government, and their wives and children, en route to the Sudan after home leave in Britain.

The 50 survivors were treated at Trapani's San Antonio hospital for shock and exposure.

A radio-equipped fishing boat gave the alarm when the plane crashed at 2:20 a.m. At least three other fishing boats and one small sailing craft joined in the rescue.

One boat, the Nuovo Pinuccio, brought in 46 survivors and one body.

The airliner had left Blackbushe airport, in Surrey county near London, at 8:15 p.m. Sunday.

Two New Clues Found by Police In Murder Case

MAXVILLE (CP) — Two new clues in the police investigation of the Aug. 16 slaying of Maxville business man Leonard Hurd were found yesterday.

Searchers found a .22-calibre rifle barrel and firing mechanism hidden in a deep ditch six miles southeast of here. A few feet away was the brown leather wallet which the victim carried when he was robbed of more than $1,000 and shot to death on a lonely road near this eastern Ontario town.

The articles were a few hundred yards from the spot where a highway work crew on Friday found a .22-calibre rifle stock and 75 rounds of .22 ammunition.

A week-long search has failed to turn up Henri Seguin, Cornwall, against whom a murder warrant has been issued.

Reeve William MacEwan of Maxville announced that a "substanial reward" will be paid any person who assists in finding the killer.

Inspector Robert Wannell of the Ontario Provincial Police yesterday denied a report that police are searching the Cornwall ship canal for the old-model coupe which belonged to Seguin.

ANXIOUS MOMENTS

LONDON (CP) — For three hours onlookers watched a four-engined airliner circle the field with 57 passengers aboard at London airport. The plane had developed under-carriage trouble and had to use up fuel before making an emergency landing.

2 Canadian Nuns Jailed by Reds Said Very Ill

HONG KONG (CP)—Three Australian fliers, released by Chinese Communists this month after 20 months in a Canton jail, said today two Canadin nuns jailed by the Reds appeared to be in serious condition.

The fliers said the nuns were sisters Saint Alphone Due Redempteur (Antoinette Couvrette), Ste. Dorothy, Laval Country, Qe., and sister Ste. Marie Germaine (Germaine Gravel) Ste. Pasteur, Champlain County, Que. They were sentenced last Dec. 2 to five years imprisonment on a Communist charge that they "murdered" 2,116 orphans.

The nuns were attached to the Immaculate Conception orphanage in Canton. Many of the homeless children brought there were in dying condition but the Reds seized on the situation as part of their anti-Catholic campaign and tried the sisters at a mob trial.

The airmen said the Canadians seemed to be suffering from malnutrition.

The airmen fell into Communist hands when their Catalina flying boat accidentally landed in Red waters in December, 1950.

Small Biplane Crashes in Yard, Two Are Killed

TORONTO (CP)—Two Toronto men were killed Saturday when their small biplane crashed into the backyard of a house in the crowded west-central section of the city.

The nose of the Tiger Moth plowed into the ground only a few feet away from the back room of the house where Mrs. Steve Babik and her three daughters were eating lunch.

The two men, Charles McKay, 38, the pilot, and John Pretner, 30, died seconds after the plane burst into flames, which, for a time, threatened to spread to nearby homes.

No one on the ground was injured and only two houses were damaged—heat and smoke from the burning plane blistered and blacked some paint.

Witnesses said the plane first appeared in trouble at about 500 feet. It spun four times, then seemed to straighten out before it swooped into the little back yard, about a mile from the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

After the initial shock—"it seemed as if the roof had come off." Ola Babik, 18, said later—there was a moment of silence. Then the plane burst into flames.

McKay, learning that Pretner, a former pilot in the Yugoslav Air Force, wanted to fly again, offered to take him up. McKay was a navigator with the R.C.A.F. during the war. Pretner's widow said it was the former pilot's first flight since the war.

CONSTABLE ELECTROCUTED

MERCHANT WAS NOT FOOLING WITH SIGN

Several weeks ago, a sign appeared in the window of a local store "Gone Fishing, Back Aug."

To prove he wasn't kidding, the merchant now has a new sign in the window, "We were not fooling, 43 inches long, 23 inches around and 30 pounds." Below the vital statistics, the store owner also has two pictures of himself holding the beautiful catch.

GIRL SLIGHTLY HURT IN ACCIDENT

Eleven-year-old Phyllis Fräser of R.R. 1 Corbyville suffered minor injuries Saturday noon when she walked into the side of a passing car when she attempted to cross a street near the bus terminal on Dundas Street. She suffered abrasions to the side of her head.

Grace A. Schultz, Ottawa, driver of the car, said the girl had walked out from behind a parked car into the side of her vehicle.

RESORT OWNERS REPORT FISHING GOOD LAST 10 DAYS

Resort owners of the district report fishing to have been exceptionally good in many parts of the area especially within the last ten days. Weather conditions have been perfect. Speckled trout are reported by conservation officers to be "hitting" in the Denbigh area while nice muskies, one 30-pounder and another 24 pounds, were caught in Moira and Stocco Lakes.

INTER-SERVICE SCHEME TO BE DISCUSSED

Lieut.-Col. G. W. MacGregor, commanding officer of the 9th Anti-Tank Regiment, will confer with his officers at a special meeting here tomorrow night with regard to an inter-service scheme planned to be held later in the year.

The meeting will discuss cooperation with Royal Canadian Navy and Royal Canadian Air Force units of the district.

TAGGERS COLLECT $322 SATURDAY FOR BOYS' CHOIR

Members of the Boys' Choir of the Canadian Legion in full uniform assisted other members of Choirs' executive in their tag day on Saturday to help defray expenses to the CNE at Toronto this weekend.

Christian Leggat, the treasurer of the Legion stated today that $322 was collected by the taggers and wished to express the thanks of the branch for the spledndi response of the citizens.

The choir will proceed to Toronto early Thursday morning and at 2.30 in the afternoon will appear in a concert foar 20 minutes at Island Stage between the government and international building. They will also appear at the ban shell revue at four o'clock and will give their last concert at the Art Gallery stage at five o'clock. On Friday the children will be free to enjoy the sights of the fair and will return home late that evening.

OFFICER SAYS DUCKS PLENTIFUL

City duck hunters who have already placed their stamp of approval on the open dates this year will welcome, Conservation officer John Shannon's report on ducks. Says the officer "ducks are plentiful in local waters where rice beds are present. It looks like a good season."

Gunners Hold Enjoyable Ball

Upwards of 200 gunners, their wives, sweethearts and guests enjoyed the second annual ball of the gunners of the 32 and 34th Batteries, member units of the 9th Anti Tank Regiment, RCA (ALI) at the main lecture room of the Bridge Street Armouries on Saturday night.

Special guests included Lieut. Col. G. W. MacGregor, MC, commanding officer of the regiment, and Mrs. MacGregor, Major Everett S. Fairman, second-in-command and Mrs. Fairman, Lt. or Joe Black, officer commanding the 34th Battery, Captain Harold Vaughan representing Major Bill Burgoyne, officer commanding the 32nd Battery, Lieut. Dick Burns and Mrs. Burns and Major Arthur Smith, regimental chaplain and Mrs. Smith.

Lieut. Col. MacGregor in a brief address complimented the gunners on the fine turnout and enjoyable evening.

The lecture room was tastefully decorated with balloons and festooned paper with the artillery colors of red and blue predominating.

The music for dancing was furnished by Bill Warham and his orchestra.

Spot prizes and dance prizes as well as handsome door prizes were given to the lucky guests by the gunners.

WO. Howard Kokesh was honorary chairman with Gunner Jack Mackay was general chairman with Bombardiers Jim Little, Vince Campbell, Don Seams and Scott rounding out the committee.

A buffet luncheon was served by the gunners at midnight.

Three Actinolite Persons Injured In Head-on Crash

Three actionlite persons are in hospital, one with a broken arm and the others with shock, as result of a head-on collision on No. 37 highway north of Tweed Sunday afternoon.

In hospital with a broken arm is Mr. John Clarke. Mrs. Clarke and Frederick Finlayson, 14, suffered shock.

Police reported that the northbound car collided with a southbound auto driven by Clifford Grenan, Toronto. The accident occurred on a straight stretch of road. Both cars were badly damaged.

Provincial Constable Bolyea of Madoc and Police Chief G. Spratt of Tweed, investigated.

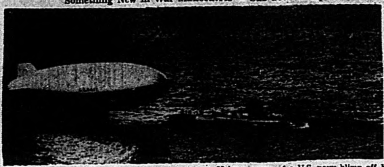
Something New in War Manoeuvres — Sub Tows Blimp



These two pictures show the progress of a strange 22-hour rescue of a U.S. navy blimp off Key West, Florida. The rescue started out as a dummy attack by the airship on the submarine Sea Poacher. Coming in too low on the attack, the blimp hit the ocean with its propellor blades and floated aimlessly until the sub attached a line and towed it to Boca Chica air station. The above photo shows the submarine and blimp as cable was attached to blimp's nose. Left, the blimp rides in the air again, towed by the submarine like a boy towing a kite. — Central Press Canadian Photos.

Navy Recruiting Unit to Visit City for Week

Today marks the beginning of "Navy Days" in the city. Mayor Haig has proclaimed the 26th of August to the 2nd of September as "Navy Days."

In the city are Lt. Commander E. B. Pearce of Ottawa and Lieut. D. B. Gill of Toronto. The two naval officers are in charge of the navy's mobile recruiting unit which arrived late last week.

According to Lt. Commander Pearce, the navy has been sending mobile recruiting units to most cities in Canada that do not have regular naval bases of their own. This is the first time any such unit has visited this city.

While the unit it here, Lieut. W. R. Whitman, who is specialist personnel selection officer, will be showing naval films and talking about the work of the navy before any group in town that is interested.

Max Matthews Elected to High Post in Assoc.

Max Matthews, chairman of the Parks Board, has been accorded the signal honor by the National Parks and Recreation Association of Canada, which met in convention at Windsor the latter part of last week. His name was put forth for election to the executive and although no city of under 75,000 had ever had representation on the executive, Mr. Matthews was not only elected to the executive but was nominated and elected as first vice-president of the association.

Mr. Matthews has taken an active interest in the Parks Board since his election three years ago. He is a past president of the Canadian Legion and still active in all branches of that work but he is most enthusiastic over the success of the parks situation in this city and he is looking forward to many more improvements for the enjoyment of all citizens.

There were three hundred delegates present at the convention and Mr. Matthews was accompanied by Commissioner Everett Liddle and secretary of the board, Orland Pinkston.

Blind of District Enjoy Picnic

The annual picnic was held for the blind of Belleville and district Thursday afternoon at the fair grounds. There were 35 blind and escorts present.

The program for the day was conducted by Mr. Everett Fairman, member of the advisory board for the blind. Also Mr. P. I. Timmins, field secretary from Kingston. A number of games were played, the winners being as follows:

Tallest blind person, Mrs. A. Alexander, 5'10".

Youngest blind person, Billy Stevens, age 7 years.

Lucky spot winner, Mrs. Hancock.

Refreshments were served after the games.

Stretch of Road Near Actinolite Being Straightened

Bringing No. 7 highway east of Actinolite up to standard required as a route of the Trans Canada, the Therrien Construction Company of Toronto has accomplished a great deal this summer in straightening and widening the 14-mile stretch of road which leads through the Kaladar huckleberry rocks district.

Starting immediately east of the junction of No. 7 and No. 37 highways at Actinolite, curves are being straightened, knolls are being cut off, mountains of rock are being blasted out of the hills and the valleys filled in. In one stretch across a low section the entire road bed is being raised about two feet.

All this is being done with only minor interruption of normal traffic flow. One way traffic is the rule where culverts are being extended and there is only one detour away from the original route of the highway. Here for a distance of a few hundred yards a detour for one-way traffic runs parallel to the highway route while a new roadbed is being blasted out of the rock.

A construction camp has been built two miles east of Actinolite where workers are housed and fed, while employed on the highway construction job.

Oil Storage Tanks Undergo Water Test

Water testing of oil storage tanks being built at Cannifton in conjunction with the Montreal-Hamilton oil pipe line which passes through this district, was commenced over the weekend.

First to be tested with filling by water will be five storage tanks which the British American Oil Company have completed. Other oil companies constructing storage tanks on the Cannifton "tank farm site" are Shell and McColl Frontenac, both of which have a number of units completed.

Sunday water was being pumped from the Moira River through long lines of hose for filling one of the British American tanks. Only one tank will be filled the water to be pumped from one tank to another for testing of other units. Although the welded seams of the tanks are X-ray tested at the time of construction, water testing is still necessary to check for any leaks.

The ten-inch oil pipe line which crosses through the Cannifton district is being built by the Trans-Northern Pipeline Company, a firm set up by the three participating oil companies. It is expected the oil pipe line will be ready for operation early this autumn.

Mayor Haig Lauds Efforts of Minor Ball Association

Wilma Walters, 6 Second St., Belleville won the first prize trip to Toronto at the draw held by the Belleville Minor Baseball Association at the Drive-In Theatre Sunday night. Second prize was won by Mrs. G. Bishop, 23 Earl Street.

Others winners were H. Heckshire, Trenton, M. Buck, Belleville, B. Wallbridge, Belleville; Mrs. John Barr, Trenton; K. Donabee, Batawa; N. Todd, Trenton; H. Onondyke, Wooler; D. Gibson, Plainfield and H. Kelleher, Belleville.

Youthful Jack Craddick, Belleville, won the baseball autographed by members of the Toronto Maple Leafs baseball club members, for selling the largest number of tickets.

The draw was conducted by association chairman Frank Grandame with His Worship Mayor McLean Haig, and Alderman Art Keegan officiating.

Mr. Grandame in a brief address, paid tribute to the many sponsors who have assisted greatly in bringing to Belleville the largest minor baseball organization of a city of its size in Ontario. He pointed out that the association administers some 16 teams comprised of 277 young players. He thanked all who have co-operated in any way.

Mayor Haig congratulated the association on its success this year, stressing the fact that the work being done in organizing and sponsoring minor baseball teams is a great aid in the juvenile delinquency problem.

The fine role being played by the association in this respect is worthy of comment and emulation by other communities, the mayor said.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Larry Buck, manager of the Drive-In Theatre not only for his co-operation in assisting with the draw but his efforts along minor baseball lines as well.

POLICE BLOTTER

For the second time in recent weeks the canteen at the fairgrounds grandstand was entered during the weekend but this time the night operators apparently had their efforts for nothing. Police investigating the matter said it appeared there had been nothing of value left in the place.

J. Rigby, West Moira Street, complained to police that a camera, an auto robe and a can of tobacco had been stolen from his car, while it was parked at the rear of Front Street stores.

Last surviving member of his family, Thomas Walsh, 83, native of Tyendinaga township, who died Saturday at the House of Providence in Kingston where he had been a patient for the past three years, was buried from the St. Charles Church at Read, Monday morning. Mass was celebrated by Rev. E. Briceland who also offered prayers at the graveside.

Born in Tyendinaga township, the son of the late Patrick Walsh and the former Ellen Shannon, he was a member of St. Charles Church at Read.

Bearers were Leo Lally, Francis Buckley, John Shannon, John Etan, Barkley Walsh and Daniel Coffey.

EDWARD MARSHALL HAWLEY

Edward Marshall Hawley died at his residence west of Crowe River on Saturday morning after a short illness. He had been a resident of the village for about eight years coming here from Bancroft in which district most of his life had been spent. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Castle Hawley and was born in Sheffield, Ontario. He was unmarried and spent many years in the lumber camps in the Bancroft area, being considered an expert in cutting trails. He possessed a keen sense of humor and was passionately fond of reading. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Damon King, Madoc, and three brothers, namely, Daniel, Marmora; William, Toronto and James, Marmora township.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon. Service at the home of Daniel Hawley was conducted by Rev. Kenneth J. Crawford, followed by interment in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

MRS. ALICA MARGARET BRANT (Shannonville)

After a lengthy illness, Mrs. Alica Margaret Brant, Shannonville, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday last and the funeral was held on Friday from her late residence to Christ Anglican Church. Rev. L. A. Page conducted the service and also the committal rites in Christ Church cemetery. The bearers were Kenneth, Vernon, George and Gerald Brant, George and Leon Marion.

The late Mrs. Brant was born in Shannonville 70 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Blanchard and has resided in that community all her life.

She was a member of Christ Anglican Church and also the Homemaker's Club. Mrs. Brant was well known and highly respected in the community.

Surviving are her husband, Herbert J. Brant, three sons, Herbert A. Brant and Carman Brant of Shannonville, Maurice R. Brant of Detroit, Michigan, five daughters, Mrs. Peter (Lydia) Marion, Mrs. Albert (Helen) Spencer, Shannonville, Mrs. Grace Crawford and Miss Evelyn Brant of Belleville, Mrs. Catharine Brant of Shannonville, two half-sisters, Mrs. Ethel Corby of Belleville, Mrs. Con Maracle of Shannonville also 16 grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

FIND MISSING YOUNGSTERS

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Two Ridgetown 'teen-agers, missing since they went to the Ridgetown fair Thursday night, were located late last night in Owen Sound. Provincial Police throughout Ontario had been looking for Jane Korycan, 14, and Robert Carron, 16. It was not immediately known how the pair reached Owen Sound, but it is believed they hitch-hiked.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices continued firm today in early afternoon stock market trading although industrials and western oils slipped from early strong positions.

Golds and base metals held early gains but industrials slipped below Friday's closing prices. Western Oils slipped in late trading.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,333,000 shares.

Steels were firm in the industrial list and papers also gained. Other issues were generally mixed or weak.

Leading base metal issues were mixed but a number of minor issues drew support. Camp Chibougami, Eureka and Opemiska gained while International Nickel and United Asbestos dipped.

In the western oils section, Federal Petroleum and Canadian Williston dipped but most other price changes were small. Devon Leduc, Security Free, Gridoil and Canadian Devonian gained.

Parliament May Be Asked to Break With Tradition

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament may be asked to break with tradition soon by debating legislation concurrently with the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne.

The government is understood to be considering this as one way to speed Parliament's work which has been keeping members in session anywhere from four to eight months.

Canada has followed the tradition that the throne-speech debate be completed before the Commons studies bills emplementing the government's legislative program. The legislation is forecast in the Speech from the Throne, read by the Governor-General at the opening of Parliament.

Debate Lengthy

Parliament approves this general outline by adopting an Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne. Debate on the Address generally stretches over a six- or eight-week period.

This debate covers a wide range of subjects. It gives members a chance to talk about particular problems of their constituency. The result is that they have a heavy load of work piled up on the legislative agenda for the remainder of the session.

It is understood that the government has laid down a deadline at which all legislation must be ready to go before Parliament.

This deadline is reported to be one month before Parliament assembles, scheduled for Nov. 20 this year.

If the government departments meet this deadline, the government may bring down its full legislative program a day or two after the Throne Speech is ready by the Governor-General.

Another method of coping with the heavy load of work in Parliamentary business is to split the session, calling Parliament together in November. After an adjournment for Christmas and New Year's, members probably could wind up business by the end of May.

Parliament will follow that plan this year. The present session, adjourned since early July, will be prorogued Nov. 20 and a new session started the following day.

This procedure is being followed to allow members to get through their work in time to attend Queen Elizabeth's coronation in June.

Straw Stack And Car Burn

A Thurlow farmer's straw stack and a motorist's car went up in smoke Sunday night when the motorist went to sleep at the bottom of the stack and woke up to find it afire.

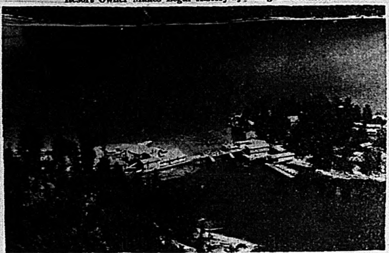
Norman Barriage, 12 Graham Street, city, told police that he had parked his car near the stack and had lain down for a sleep. He awake to find both the straw stack and the car afire. The straw stack, owned by Manley Mitchell, 2nd concession Thurlow, was destroyed as was the car.

4 Small Children Burn to Death

ATLANTA. (AP)—Four small children were burned to death in their home early today while their father was a work and their mother, police said, was "out on a drinking spree."

Police said the mother returned home drunk with two other women and a man after the fire was brought under control.

Resort Owner Makes Legal History by Suing Government



"Closed Because of Flood Damage" is the sign on this summer resort at Pine Cove, Ont., largest on the French River, a favorite fishing mecca of thousands of Americans and Canadians. Because of the flooding, owner Jean Rioux is entering a $100,000 damage suit against the Federal government's department of public works. It will be a case unique in Canadian legal records. Rioux claims that not only did the spillway built by the government to control the level of Lake Nipissing lower value of his property, but that the "destructive" operation of the spillway made it impossible to catch fish in the river. His lodge accommodated 1,200 guests. — Central Press Canadian.

Kingston Rink Tourney Winner At Local Greens

Skip Charlie Smart of Kingston made one perfect shot in the fourteenth end of his last game against Jack Lee of the Belleville Club and his rink won the trebles tournament held at the local greens on Saturday afternoon. At the time the shot was made, Mr. Lee was lying four with the game all tied up, when Smart with a perfect bowl, picked up the "Kitty" and carried it back to where two of his rink's bowls were lying and then Mr. Lee almost picked the "cat" with his second bowl but was a trifle narrow and the game and tournament was "in the bag" for the Kingston entry. With Mr. Smart were J. Rutherford and S. Dennis.

However the Belleville bowlers were also in on the prize money when Bill Holway, Ken Ashley and Gordon Watkin took down second prize after Gordon had defeated his brother, Austin in the third game. William Anderson, Orlo Smith and Perce Graham took the third spot while G. MacDonald, W. Wiggins and W. Kingston of Campbellford won the two-game high score with C. Silverthorn, R. Haker and W. Ormshaw of Trenton winning the one-high score.

There were 22 rinks in the tournament which included rinks from Kingston, Brighton, Trenton, Stirling and the local club. The greens were in perfect condition and the weather splendid for the fine afternoon of sport.

The women's section of the local club was not exactly idle during the latter part of last week when Mrs. W. Gilbert, Mrs. G. Watkin and Mrs. C. L. Hyde as skip won the two-game high csore at the Trenton tournament on Friday. There were three other rinks in play including Mrs. B. Humphries, Mrs. A. Lloyd, Mrs. L. Gerow as skip, Miss Margaret Fairbairn, Mrs. Nora Kyle, Mrs. H. Thompson as skip; and Mrs. J. A. Shaw, Mrs. C. A. Mott and Mrs. Harold Cross as skip.

At Deseronto on Thursday the two rinks that took part in the tournament in that town came home with prizes. Mrs. J. A. Shaw, Mrs. Nora Kyle and Mrs. C. A. Mott as skip won the tourney with the three-game high score while a rink of Mrs. B. Humphries, Mrs. A. Lloyd with Mrs. L. Gerow as skip succeeded in winning the two-game high count. The women report excellent bowling and a good time at both tournaments.

Several New Appointments Made To Collegiate, Public School Staffs

With school opening one week away, secretaries of the public and high school boards today released changes in the teaching staff line-ups for the coming term. Vacation marriages claimed four of last year's public school staff and the city's growing pupil population was credited with increasing the instruction roster.

Schools are scheduled to open for the fall term on September 2nd, and it is estimated that 2,450 students—100 more than last year—will enroll in the public schools.

Fresh from England where he attended Oxford University as a Rhodes scholar, Gordon Frazer, M.A., is an addition to the Collegiate teaching staff and will teach English and occupational history.

Replacing Miss M. Tamblyn, who has accepted a teaching position at Dresden, H. Cameron Tanner, M.A., former member of the Earl Haig Collegiate staff in Toronto, will head the science department. With the departure of H. Gough, to Hamilton, Miss Muriel Dixon, B.A., a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan and later a commercial studies specialist at the Sudbury Mining and Technical School, will join the staff here.

Another addition to the B.C.I. staff will be William M. Rice, B.Sc., a graduate of the University of Edinburgh and formerly a member of the high school staff at Prescott, where he taught mathematics, will teach vocational science to permit Cecil Heard, B.A., B.Sc., to give instruction to the overflow from the shop classes.

A graduate of McGill University where she received her Bachelor of Science degree, Miss Norma Abrahamson, former girls' physical instruction director at Arnprior, will direct physical training classes for Collegiate girls. She replaces Miss Nancy Redfern who has gone to York Memorial school near Toronto.

Miss Evelyn McNab, who received her Master of Arts degree at Queen's University and recently a member of the high school teaching staff at Almonte, is another addition to the staff and will teach social studies.

The following additions are made to the public school teaching staffs:

King George School: Mrs. R. G. Sine, Miss Joyce Toner and Miss Ruth Welbourn.

Prince Charles School — No changes.

Queen Alexandra School—No changes.

Queen Elizabeth School—Miss Evelyn Emerson.

Queen Mary School— No changes.

Queen Victoria School—Mr. Bruce Nichols, Miss Connie Reid, Miss Patricia March and Miss Evelyn Robbins.

Quinte Club Wins Esquire Golf Trophy

Ideal weather and playing conditions prevailed for the 10th annual final of the Esquire For Men trophy, symbolic of golf supremacy in the Quinte district. Going into the final round, Quinte were in third place behind Port Hope by 7½ points. However, yesterday saw the Quinte club take advantage of their home course winning 30 points out of a potential 36 points, and taking the trophy by a wide margin.

Here's the final standing:

	Points
Bay of Quinte	65
Port Hope Golf	59
Trenton Golf Club	51½
RCAF	40½

After the matches Mr. C. B. Morgan, President of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club presented several trophies and prizes.

Low gross for the three matches was won by Bill Rowden of Port Hope and Clarence Niddery of Trenton, both tied.

The low net trophy was also won by two golfers, Lloyd Lantz of Quinte and Sam Halbert of Trenton.

Prizes for the final match were won as follows:

Low gross, T. A. Carruthers with 77, 2nd low gross, B. Irving and C. Charlton tied with 78.

Low net, D. Ridley 68, 2nd low net, Ben Yanover.

Other prizes were won by J. Breffet, G. Bulger, H. Haynes, J. Deduke.

At the conclusion of the matches the golfers were entertained to lunch and invited to participate in the Trenton Open Field Day, next Monday, Labor Day.

Quinte Tennis League Results

A keenly contested open men's doubles and mixed doubles tennis tournament sponsored by the Bay of Quinte Tennis League was held at the Quinte Tennis Club courts on Sunday.

Semi finals, men's doubles: Ken and Tom Woodley (Holloway) beat Hank Filion (Trenton) and Bob Lucy (Quinte) 3-6, 6-0, and 6-4.

Joe LeComte and Bill McRae (RCAF), beat Ed McClay and Jack Houston (Quinte) 6-1, and 6-0.

In the finals, Joe LeComte and Bill McRae (RCAF), beat out Ken Woodley and Tom Woodley (Holloway) 6-2, and 6-0.

Semi finals, mixed doubles: Dan Cowley (Quinte) and Freda MacDonald (Batawa) beat Nick Cutchurian and Nancy Catley (RCAF) 6-2, 2-6, 6-2.

Don Hannah and Ann Armstrong (Trenton) beat John Black and Lou Campbell (Trenton) 6-2 and 6-0.

Finals: Dan Cowley and Freda MacDonald beat Don Hannah and Ann Armstrong 6-6, and 7-5.

Men's doubles, consolation: Bruce Page and Dick Morden (Quinte) beat Ivan Lockhart and Tony Cervimka of Batawa.

Mix doubles, consolation: Ivan Lockhart (Batawa) and Madge Cowley (Quinte) beat Hank Filion (Trenton) and Doris McLean (St. Andrews).

Kingston Defeated

Kingston Tennis Club played a return game against a representative Bay of Quinte Tennis League team at R.C.A.F. Trenton Saturday. Although a stiff breeze prevailed, some good tennis was played and the local club emerged victorious, nine matches to six with one match unfinished due to failing light.

In the men's doubles, the locals beat out the visitors three games to one.

The Trenton team was victorious three games to one in the ladies doubles.

The mixed doubles saw both teams come to a draw four games each.

Lindsay M. D's Criticize Way Hospital Run

LINDSAY (CP)—Doctors in the Medical Association here Saturday criticized the way a seven-man board of governors operates the Ross Memorial Hospital. They called for an immediate change in the board.

"It seems impossible to keep a superintendent of nurses in this hospital," the Medical Association said in a statement. "This fact alone indicates there is something seriously wrong with the management. . ."

The board offered to "turn the hospital over to the medical society" but said it will continue to operate the hospital until doctors can take over.

MANY FIREMEN OVERCOME

MONTREAL (CP)—Some 20 firemen were overcome by smoke yesterday as they battled a blaze which broke out in the Montreal Welfare Association Building in the west end. Thirteen required hospital treatment.

HORSE SENSE WITH JETS

Many will laud the courage and skill of a 21-year-old Royal Canadian Air Force jet pilot who successfully manœuvred his aircraft into a crash landing after the plane had run out of fuel. The pilot survived the crash, suffering a slight cut over one eye, but one wing was sheared from the plane and its nose and fuselage badly ripped.

Despite this airman's skill and courage, many have reason to wonder why he did not use some old-fashioned horse sense and make sure he had adequate supplies of fuel before embarking on his flying mission. During an actual military operation a pilot may be excused for misjudging his fuel supply, but to those on the ground, it appears that in this instance the pilot was negligent in not getting back to his base to refuel and prevent possible disaster. Even the driver of any old jalopy realizes that he must have gas to go from here to there. Any prudent driver checks available fuel supplies before embarking on a journey.

With no service stations in the clouds to replenish the tanks of these jets, airmen should be among the first to realize the importance of making sure adequate supplies of fuel are in the plane before leaving the ground.

There may have been some extenuating circumstances in this recent crack-up and if there were, the news reports failed to mention them. But when these aircraft fall out of the clouds into a farmer's pasture, possibly killing or injuring the pilot and wrecking the aircraft, somehow the lame excuse of "running out of fuel" does not make sense to taxpayers whose tax contributions are used to purchase and replace these expensive aircraft.

A TOUGH JAIL FOR THE TOUGH GUYS

Ontario is to have a new prison, located north of Port Hope and costing $1,500,000. This is the expensive outcome of the recent riot in the reformatory at Guelph — a destructive episode which showed clearly that our jail population includes an element (the authorities say ten per cent) who have made crime their career, who have no thought of reform, and on whom the kindly indulgences of our reformatory system are wasted.

The jail at Millbrook is to be, in effect, a small model of a federal penitentiary, with capacity for 250 prisoners. Prisoners sentenced to terms of two years and up go automatically to the penitentiary. Those with sentences under two years — often it is two years less a day — are a provincial responsibility.

The new prison will be for those men who are culls from the reformatories — persons who have shown an unwillingness to co-operate for their own good, who resent and combat discipline, who are ringleaders in disaffection and unrest. Mr. Foote, Minister of Reform Institutions explains that the jail will provide maximum security in cell blocks, not dormitories. Prisoners will not be pampered, and discipline will include corporal punishment, when it is necessary. The jail will have no frills, no recreation or training facilities — it will be a jail and nothing else for convicts who have shown (by such incidents as the Guelph riot) that they cannot be trusted with the privileges and the comparative liberty of Guelph and Burwash.

It is a pity that this step should be required, and this heavy cost saddled upon Ontario taxpayers, but there seems no alternative. The mere fact of the new jail's existence may have a restraining influence on prisoners in the reformatories. — (Ottawa Evening Journal.)

AN OLD NICKLE'S WORTH OF CANDY

There are some who believe the flowering of this nation was at its peak when a lad could get a big bagful of penny candy for a nickle. Along about 1910, a boy would stand before the flyspecked candy counter of the general store and plot his purchase carefully.

If a fellow had a nickel to spend, he had to choose among zanzibars, salem mints, derbies, barley sticks, cocoanut flags with pink and white stripes, sugar coated peanuts and a red bean pot, candy cigarettes, chocolate cigars, jawbreakers, Jackson balls, colts-foot rock, half hours, Gibraltars, candy buttons and hokey-pokies.

You could get licorice in strings, sticks, whips and pipes. The oldtime candy sticks and hard candies came in a wonderful assortment of fancy flavors: Orange, birch, horehound, wintergreen, sassafras, clove, lime, lemon, ginger, cinnamon, molasses and anise. It required serious cogitation before one decided on five of this, three of that, and six of another. A penny was real money, and, of course, a fellow wanted long lasting material. Something to tuck under the tongue in school helped pass the time away. Perhaps we'll never return to the economic standard of 1910, but we wish every modern boy could learn the value of money by contemplating penny candy. — (The Indianapolis Star.)

Almost $141,000,000 worth of paper boxes and bags are produced annually in Canada.

POWER OF PRAYER

Every religion in the world commands its adherents to pray. Whether it be the ignorant savage bowing before an idol or the most enlightened theist worshipping the one true God in a mystical experience, prayer is being offered up by religious adherents the world over.

The experience of prayers detached in an amazing fashion from all orthodoxy. Orthodox and unorthodox, conservative and liberal, theist and Christian, all believe in prayer. And prayers are everywhere answered. To say this is not to say that one religion is as good as another. No man is worth his salt who does not believe his religion is the very best religion in the world. The more we believe in our religion the more do we accomplish through prayer. God does not require uniformity of belief on the part of his children before He will answer their prayers, but He does demand sincerity, earnestness, and faith on the part of everybody. Without these, the words of our petition fall to the ground, dead as soon as uttered.

But if we really believe in the power of prayer, we can expect great results and see them come to pass. "Ask, and ye shall receive; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.",

'Army Not in Politics', Says Egypt's Strong Man, Naguib After Forcing Out Farouk

By L.S. CHAKALES

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt's strong man, Maj.-Gen. Mohamed Naguib, behaves in public like a man running for office.

But he isn't looking for votes. The Egyptian army's tanks and bayonets are ballots enough to keep him in office.

Son of an Egyptian police officer and a Sudanese mother, he is a pro-Soviet democrat. He likes people, thinks they are intelligent, patriotic and instinctively good. He doesn't have this feeling about the vast majority of politicians, though.

Naguib, a devout Moslem, told the attractive Mrs. Doria Ahafik, Islam's most energetic suffragette, that women can be used in the army driving cars, trucks and performing other types of services.

The army is not in politics, he has reiterated since his coup d'etat which led to Farouk's abdication July 26. Politics should be left to politicians, he insists. However he forced Farouk to accept the man of his choice—Aly Maher—as premier when he sprung his coup.

Naguib has said he is only interested in the reconstitution of the army on a level commensurate with its value to the nation.

However he's let it be clearly understood that the army has a great interest in the purge of the corrupt politicians and public servants from the Egyptian administration.

A Close Watch

He says the army will keep a close watch on how well the purge and social welfare programs get along. Colonel Mohamed Rashad Mehanna, a trusted adviser, was simply an army career man when the coup came about. In a week's time he was elevated to minister and then to the three-man regency council.

Naguib wanted one of his own men on the council, a certain way of keeping posted on what transpires at the highest political level.

Yet there has been no indication that Naguib is trying to dictate to Premier Maher's government.

Identity Secret

Of course, Gen. Naguib is not alone in the "army movement." He is surrounded by a corps of young senior officers. Their identity is kept highly secret.

Efforts to learn any information about them generally end in failure. It is generally agreed that the young officers group represents a good cross section of Egypt.

Naguib is stern, although not a martinet. British officers who have worked with him describe him as a man of integrity and ability.

After his successful coup, Naguib was riding down a principal street in his open car while thousands of persons cheered him and jammed around the vehicle.

He spotted someone in the crowd, got out and walked directly to an old woman struggling to get close to him. He leaned over and kissed her hand.

Father of three children, Naguib leads a simple home life. His salary is $287 a month. He lives within that salary. Soon after the coup he ordered all the fancy automobiles owned by the army for senior commanders sold. Jeeps are good enough, he said.

He speaks Italian, French and English. While a junior officer he earned two degrees at Fuad University.

Five times a day he turns toward Mecca and prays. During the holy month of Ramadan he rigidly holds to the rigorous fasting schedule which prohibits a Moslem from even taking a drink of water during the time the sun is in the sky.

Mass Immigration Opposed By New Zealand Government

By BARRY MICHAEL

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—Opposition to mass immigration has become stronger and more outspoken in New Zealond in recent Months.

Since the Second World War, both Labor and national governments have been promoting immigration although much less ambitiously and more cautiously than the Australians.

New Zealond has not the same urgent need for immigrants as the sparsely populated continent of Australia.

Although it has stepped up the inflow, the present government of New Zealand looks to immigration more as a means of solving production problems. Target figure, which has never been reached but may be this year, is 10,000 immigrants a year.

In recent months, a growing body of opinion has grown up in favor of closing the door of immigration.

Developments in Australia, rather than anything that has happened here, have made immigration a subject of urgent scrutiny in New Zealand.

Jobless Alarm

News of unemployment in Australia has alarmed the New Zealand trade-union movement, which has always been skeptical about the benefits of large-scale immigration.

The national council of the Federation of Labor, governing body of the trade-union movement in New Zealand, has warned of a worsening of inflation and present housing, school and hospital shortages.

The federation wants the government to end its policy of assisting non-British immigrants to come to New Zealand.

Immigration is not a clear-cut party political issue. It is unlikely, however, that the National government will make any sudden switch in policy merely because the Federation of Labor wants it.

But the government, if it continues to increase the rate of immigration of Europeans, will have to face opposition and criticism from other quarters.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TOGETHER

THERE ARE TIMES when I think that the word "together" is one of the most important words in the English language. It signifies so much. If people get along together they are happy. The curse of these times is that there is so much dissension. Small groups refuse to go along with larger groups, and the opposite is just as true. It is always an inspiring thing to watch people happily working together.

We enjoy travelling together with some one of our taste and understanding. We like to be with that one. There is such small satisfaction in enjoying anything alone, with no one else to share our love and enthusiasm. Together there is mutual joy. Together there is strength among all, no matter what the task may suggest. It's co-operation—plus.

In traveling, reading working—living, together is the big and all important theme. What a powerful organization for world peace and happiness the United Nations organization could be if every member worked harmoniously and happily together! This would positively mean no war—and the things that could be done for the benefit of all humanity would be astounding! There would be no cause for fear—only willingness and courage to make the most of one's life, and look forward to a just security.

I have long been fascinated by that brief poem by Robert Frost "The Pasture" in which the farmer turned to his wife and said that he was going out to feed the calf, but would not be long—and then he turned and said: "You come too!" How many have been the times when each of us has said as much. Together—you come too! That completes many a happy event.

There would never have been an American Declaration of Independence had not all those signers of the Declaration resolved upon standing together, come what would—and note what history has said about it. Nothing worth while is ever achieved without co-operation and a desire for universal service. In other words—sticking together!

Former Queen Objects to Censors Opening Her Mail

CAPRI, Italy (Reuters)—Princess Narriman, former Queen of Egypt, objects to Egyptian military censors making her personal mail public property.

The 19-year-old mother of King Ahmed Fuad said Saturday she read her mother's mailed admonition not to wear "abbreviated" swim suits in the newspapers two days before getting the letter.

The letter had been handed unsealed to the censor and its contents apparently had been handed over to the press, she said.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

HOW TO DESCRIBE YOUR COMPLAINT

There you go again, writes a reader, telling us not to mention such things as weak nerves or weak heart when we go to the doctor. What is a person supposed to do, just sit there like a . . . . ?

Keep your shirt on until the doctor is ready to begin the examination. What I told you again was simply that it was my purpose, not to ridicule or taunt, but to persuade readers who have either the "weak nerves" or "weak heart" obsession to undergo a physical examination and get the doctor's diagnosis or opinion, without mentioning or referring to "bad nerves" or "heart trouble".

Makes no difference whether your ailment is imaginary or real. When you consult a physician you should not try to help the doctor makes the diagnosis, nor should you try to impress the doctor with your exceptional insight or technical knowledge of medicine, or with your personal experience with great specialists.

Above all, don't allude to "my nerves" when you describe your complaint. Tell the doctor what you feel or do not feel or whatever causes you to seek medical advice. Or if you don't know how to describe your present complaint just say you want a general medical examination to determine the condition of your health.

If you imagine or believe there may be something wrong with your heart keep your assumption to yourself. Just mention the sensation or the change you have noticed, and leave it to the doctor to determine the cause of it.

Even though some "well known" doctor or specialist may have hinted or implied that your heart was "weak" or "bad" a year or twenty years ago, that is of no concern now, so please don't dig it up again.

It is surely wrong for one to infer from one's symptoms that the heart is weak or that there is any kind of heart trouble. A proper medical examination, including tests of the efficiency of the heart shows that there is nothing wrong with the heart in the great majority of such instances. Indeed, there are no particular symptoms or manifestations evident to the patient or to the patient's friends that show there is weakness of the heart or heart disease. Only by proper medical examination can heart disease be diagnosed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

See Spots Before Your Eyes?

For two years I have been seeing thread-like spots before my eyes, especially when I lie on the lawn and look up into the sky. Had eyes examined twice, but change of glasses did no good . . . .(H. M.

Answer—Have you $5. in your jeans? It will get you six bottles of Magic Spot Remover while the supply lasts. Seriously, brother, I hope you will share the discovery with me if you find anything good for what ails you. Every time I look for them those damned spots are before my eyes too.

WHAT SARCASM?

Never miss your articles and I even enjoy your sarcasm. Followed your advice and had diathermy treatment of tonsils instead of hospital operation. Never missed a day's work. I missed the boat, though, when I had pile operation in hospital instead of the injection treatment you recommend—I suffered more in the days after the operation than I had ever suffered from the piles. . .(I. F.)

Answer.—Maybe I was "too sarcastic about the pile atrocity. Anyway it will do no harm to any one with piles (hemorrhoids) to read the pamphlet on Piles, available on written request accompanied with stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Now is the glorious hour of the tomato. Now all across the land, citizens are going into their gardens, whether in city suburb or country village, and plucking a great big fat tomato in the dew of the morning, and carrying it in to breakfast.

Now in all the restaurants the true, the blushful tomato that grows within a half hour of each city and town is being served in lovely thick cold slices. The poor stiff anaemic tomato on which we have to subsist at other seasons of the year, the imported, the so-called hothouse tomato, is no more than a vague memory.

The fruit stores bloom with tomatoes. Housewives are carrying home the fat heavy baskets of them to make into ketchup, chili sauce and a beautiful variety of other pickles. You can walk the residential streets and smell the glorious odors in all that variety. This is the hour of the tomato.

But unseen by those who walk the shopping streets, undreamed of by those who go to the foot of the garden in the dew, or by those who feast upon the thick chill slices in the restaurants, are the vast acreages of tomatoes, a bushel to each plant, that are being harvested for the canning companies, to be used for soups, patent ketchups and tomato juices. It is this last, the tomato juice, for which The Packsack now wishes to give thanks. Canned tomato juice manages to capture the very atmosphere of the harvest moon, to be liberated away off next January or May, when lovers of this ruddiest of fruits can, by the exercise of a mere can-opener recapture the very essence of August.

Coming home from Italy in the war, I landed off a Dutch boat at the grim port of Gourock in Scotland. The dawn was sleety. We stumbled down the gangplank in to the chill freight sheds. There an American Red Cross kiosk was serving tomato juice. They handed each of us a whole can, opened. We had not tasted tomato or tomato juice for many months. Any who shared that experience will agree that it was the superlative moment of their lives.

Communists Protest U.N. Weapons

Most feared weapon in the U.N. arsenal in Korea is the napalm bomb which, on exploding sends jellied gasoline over a wide area. This bomb is exploding on Korea's "Bunker Hill," watched by U.N. troops preparing for assault. While protesting the use of napalm as a terror weapon, the Chinese Communists have also condemned a new fragmentation bomb which the U.N. is using in attacks on North Korean industrial targets. — Central Press Canadian.

Publisher Urges Formation of New Political Party

CHICAGO (AP)—Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, Saturday night urged formation of another U.S. political party, to be known as "the American Party."

McCormick a life-long Republican, in a radio speech urged his listeners to vote for neither of the two major party candidates for president — Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower or Democrat Adlai Stevenson.

"I think the American Party should nominate candidates for the presidency and the vice-presidency in 1956," he said.

"I swallowed Wilkie in '40, Dewey twice in '44 and '48, candidates foisted on the majority by sharp practice, but now... I will be imposed upon no longer," he declared.

He said Stevenson "is the nominee of the C.I.O., for which the present Democratic party is merely a false face, and which intends to destroy utterly private initiative and private property."

Taken Into Custody

PORT CREDIT (CP) — John Buehlow of Walkerton was taken into custody Saturday night after an 85- to 90-mile-an-hour chase along No. 5 highway for 20 miles.

Provincial Police found a .22-calibre rifle in the back seat of Buehlow's car. Five police cruisers took part in the chase.

The chase ended less than 15 minutes after it had begun when a cruiser forced the auto off the highway.

Port Credit is 15 miles west of Toronto.

Queen Mother Negotiating For Lonely Castle

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Mother Elizabeth is negotiating to buy a place of her own, a lonely, 400-year-old castle in the extreme north of Scotland, press reports say.

The castle is a crumbling ruin complete with turrets, dungeon, cannon and the ghost of a woman who starved to death in the dungeon centuries ago.

The Sunday Express reported that the Queen Mother went to see the place many times during a recent visit to the north of Scotland.

The paper said she is planning to rebuild it as a summer retreat now that the royal family's usual Scottish retreat, Balmoral, has passed to her daughter, the Queen.

The castle, named Barrogill, has no electric light, no central heating, no telephone and part of the roof was blown off in a storm last January.

It stands on the coast looking out over the Pentland Firth to the red cliffs of Orkney.

A SONG OF SUMMER

Sing a song of summer, busy birds a-wing,
Robins red and orioles, hear them carolling,
Roses, roses everywhere, white and gold and red,
Sing a song of summer, ere its days have fled.

Sing a song of summer, for the summers past,
That their glow and glamor may forever last,
Sing a song of summer, let each bear a part
Keeping summer gladness always in the heart.

Beige Cotton Redingote

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

THERE'S a very attractive air about a dress that borrows from the redingote and so manages to look more like a coat than a dress. This one is of beige cotton with a detachable white pique gilet, and has a single breasted closing over the bodice. Below the waist the skirt buttons on one side of the redingote, with buttonholes on the other side. There is an inverted box pleat.

Post Families Hold Annual Reunion Picnic

The annual picnic of the Post clan was held at Searles Beach at Oak Lake, with 100 signing the register. After all had enjoyed a banquet dinner, the gathering was called to order by the president, Mr. Bert Sharpe, who welcomed all, and stressed the great importance of such gatherings as it strengthens the bonds of relationship, friendship and love in this wide family circle.

During the business period, it was decided that the standing date for this all-important gathering be the 3rd Wednesday in July and gather at the same place (Oak Lake) in 1953.

This was followed by the treasurer's report (Mrs. W. J. Tufts), who reported after all bills were paid, a small balance in the treasury. The president then called on several for impromptu speeches, among these were, Mrs. Hazel Eley, Los Angeles, and Mr. Bert Post, Pico, California, both voicing how happy it makes one to be back among old relatives and friends, also telling of some of the beauties of their fair cities. They closed their remarks by asking all to come and see them some time.

Memorial Service

Mrs. Clifford Chambers, assisted by Miss Lamoine Post, of Eldorado, conducted a beautiful and impressive memorial service for those who had departed in the past year, the closing prayer which will long be remembered by all present, was offered by Mr. Bert Post, of California.

Letters were read from Mrs. Irwin, Morden, Man., and Mr. and Mrs. A. Demille, Oceanside, Calif., saying that distance kept them from being present.

A special welcome was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Post, of Apsley; Mrs. E. Landon, Coe Hill; Mr. Floyd and Mr. Milton Post, Peterborough, who were present for the first time.

Mrs. W. J. Tufts, the secretary, assisted by Mr. Milton Reid, presented suitable gifts to Mrs. Nellie Paget, Mr. W. H. Lee, Ted Post, Mrs. Hazel Eley, Miss Earla Moffot, Mr. Art Acorn and little Miss Shirley Post, and to baby Sherridan, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sherridan, Marmora.

The older folk spent a social time visiting while many enjoyed a swim in Oak Lake, after which the following sports program was ably carried out by Milton Reid and Don Post—girls' race, 12 years and under, Shirley Post; boys' race, 12 years and under, Don Rowe; girls' race over 12 years, Marilyn Reid; boys' race over 12 years, Dick Post; ladies' three-legged race, Marilyn Reid and Jean Post; men's three-legged race, Ted and Dick Post; girls' zig-zag race, Donna Post.

Several peanut and candy scrambles were enjoyed by all.

Under the sponorship of the Belleville Red Cross, 39 children ranging in ages from eight to 17 years successfully passed junior and intermediate swimming examinations and were presented with certificates issued by the Red Cross Society at the swimming pool this morning.

On hand to present the certificates was Graham Warren from Toronto. Mr. Warren is supervisor of water safety for the Red Cross for the Province of Ontario. The tests were conducted between nine and 11 a.m. today.

The children were broken down into two groups, 34 applicants took and passed the junior test. They were presented with a certificate and a pin. The remaining five, passed the intermediate test and received a crest, a certificate and a pin.

John Haggis, the local swimming instructor, received credit for the graduation class. He has spent long hours training the children with the assistance of "Red" Doran.

Mr. Warren spoke very highly of the graduating swimmers. He said it was a fine start and he hoped it would continue. Mr. Warren will return next year to examine other applicants.

Millionaire Peer Will Direct Coronation of Queen

LONDON (Reuters)—A poker-faced millionaire peer who inherited almost 50,000 acres of land and a magnificent castel at the age of nine now is one of the busiest men in Britain.

He is the Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshal of England, the man who directed the funerals of the last Etw kings, the coronation of the last King and the wedding of the present Queen.

This summer he began the biggest job of his career—planning the coronation of the Queen, the great pageant which next June 2 will be witnessed by hundreds of millions of people through most of the civilized world via radio, television or films.

The job falls to him, Britain's premier duke, because King Richard III nearly 500 years ago took a warm liking to an ancestor, the young Earl of Arundel, and made him Duke of Norfolk and Earl Marshal with the hEonor of standing at the royal right hand at the coronation and assisting in placing the crown on the royal head.

DUKE A CATHOLIC

Although the weddings, funerals and coronations he manages are closely associated with the Church of England and the nation is constitutionally sworn to accept only a Protestant monarch, the present Duke, like his forebearers, is a Roman Catholic.

As deputy chairman and supreme ceremonial authority of the coronation commission—the Duke of Edinburgh, husband of the Queen, is chairman—Norfolk is custodian of centuries of hallowed royal tradition.

Spectators in Westminster Abbey will see him only as a braided dignitary carrying the gold baton of office and looking magnificently important next to the Queen. But every stately manoeuvre during the drama of the coronation will have been planned by him in meticulous detail months before.

Preserving historical precedents and the ceremonial privileges of lesser peers should come as second nature to the 44-year-old Duke. He has been a full-fledged member of the nobility for 35 years. When he was 27 years old he had charge of the elaborate funeral of George V.

He succeeded to his title at the age of nine. When he came of age he inherited 49,900 acres of land—country seats in Yorkshire and Derbyshire, several square miles of real estate in Sheffield and the whole seaside town of Littlehampton, plus beautiful Arundel Castle in southern England, second in size and splendor only to Windsor itself.

That castle now is part of the Duke's bread and butter. Into its grey walls come 130,000 visitors every summer, many of them tourists. Their admission fees and the ice cream, tea and postcards they buy from the Duke's concessionaries help pay the astronomical taxes which have been stripping the nobility of much of its wealth in the post-war years.

Post Families Hold Annual Reunion Picnic

The annual picnic of the Post clan was held at Searles Beach at Oak Lake, with 100 signing the register. After all had enjoyed a banquet dinner, the gathering was called to order by the president, Mr. Bert Sharpe, who welcomed all, and stressed the great importance of such gatherings as it strengthens the bonds of relationship, friendship and love in this wide family circle.

During the business period, it was decided that the standing date for this all-important gathering be the 3rd Wednesday in July and gather at the same place (Oak Lake) in 1953.

This was followed by the treasurer's report (Mrs. W. J. Tufts), who reported after all bills were paid, a small balance in the treasury. The president then called on several for impromptu speeches, among these were, Mrs. Hazel Eley, Los Angeles, and Mr. Bert Post, Pico, California, both voicing how happy it makes one to be back among old relatives and friends, also telling of some of the beauties of their fair cities. They closed their remarks by asking all to come and see them some time.

Memorial Service

Mrs. Clifford Chambers, assisted by Miss Lamoine Post, of Eldorado, conducted a beautiful and impressive memorial service for those who had departed in the past year, the closing prayer which will long be remembered by all present, was offered by Mr. Bert Post, of California.

Letters were read from Mrs. Irwin, Morden, Man., and Mr. and Mrs. A. Demille, Oceanside, Calif., saying that distance kept them from being present.

A special welcome was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Post, of Apsley; Mrs. E. Landon, Coe Hill; Mr. Floyd and Mr. Milton Post, Peterborough, who were present for the first time.

Mrs. W. J. Tufts, the secretary, assisted by Mr. Milton Reid, presented suitable gifts to Mrs. Nellie Paget, Mr. W. H. Lee, Ted Post, Mrs. Hazel Eley, Miss Earla Moffot, Mr. Art Acorn and little Miss Shirley Post, and to baby Sherridan, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sherridan, Marmora.

The older folk spent a social time visiting while many enjoyed a swim in Oak Lake, after which the following sports program was ably carried out by Milton Reid and Don Post—girls' race, 12 years and under, Shirley Post; boys' race, 12 years and under, Don Rowe; girls' race over 12 years, Marilyn Reid; boys' race over 12 years, Dick Post; ladies' three-legged race, Marilyn Reid and Jean Post; men's three-legged race, Ted and Dick Post; girls' zig-zag race, Donna Post.

Several peanut and candy scrambles were enjoyed by all.

LONDON (CP) — The Home Office reports crime in England and Wales on the increase. With 524,506 indictable offences, last year's figures are higher than ever before. In 1948 the total was 522,684 compared with 283,220 in 1938.

Belleville Lodge Initiates Candidates At Madoc

On Thursday evening, the L.O.B.A., of Madoc, held their regular meeting in the L.O.L. hall, with Mrs. Adams, Worthy Mistress, presiding. After the general business of the evening 30 visitors from Belleville Lydia Lodge No. 350 were welcomed by the members.

Six candidates were reported in waiting for initiation and W.M. Adams declared all chairs to be vacated and asked the Belleville Lodge to carry out the initiation ceremony.

Worthy Mistress Violet Reid presided.

After this order of business was completed the Madoc ladies moved a hearty vote of thanks to W.M. Reid and her officers and congratulated them on the efficient manner in which the floor work of this initiation had been carried out.

A buffet luncheon was served by the Madoc lodies.

Under the sponorship of the Belleville Red Cross, 39 children ranging in ages from eight to 17 years successfully passed junior and intermediate swimming examinations and were presented with certificates issued by the Red Cross Society at the swimming pool this morning.

On hand to present the certificates was Graham Warren from Toronto. Mr. Warren is supervisor of water safety for the Red Cross for the Province of Ontario. The tests were conducted between nine and 11 a.m. today.

The children were broken down into two groups, 34 applicants took and passed the junior test. They were presented with a certificate and a pin. The remaining five, passed the intermediate test and received a crest, a certificate and a pin.

John Haggis, the local swimming instructor, received credit for the graduation class. He has spent long hours training the children with the assistance of "Red" Doran.

Mr. Warren spoke very highly of the graduating swimmers. He said it was a fine start and he hoped it would continue. Mr. Warren will return next year to examine other applicants.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He befriended and married her . . .she betrayed his trust

The man was over 50. The girl was in her late twenties. He was a widower. She was divorced from an abusive husband by whom she had had seven children, all of whom had been placed in homes.

Almost anyone could have predicted that, unless both these people were unusually mature, their marriage must sooner or later, and probably sooner, come to grief.

That is exactly what happened and this is the way it came about, as told by the husband, now 54, after two and a half years of marriage:

"The story is that three years ago my mother, at the age of 87, had an accident and I got this girl to come and help out. She was clean in everything, and a good cook and housekeeper. She did her job so well that I fell in love with her. After she left us, I kept in touch with her. She was not in very good health because of the treatment she had received from her first husband and presently she got sick and had to go to the hospital. I stuck by her until she got well, and this made me love her even more.

"Eventually she consented to become my wife, and we have now been married two years and six months, very happily up until a few months ago.

"Then she began meeting boy friends in beer gardens and coming home drunk. Things have grown progressively worse, till four days ago she didn't come home at all, and I do not know where she is.

"I have always tried to do everything I can for her. I love her so much that I have even been trying to arrange for some of her children to come and live with us, but I'm afraid this will fall through if she does not live right.

"Is there any way I can reason with her and get her to stop drinking and live as she should, or shall I let her go her own way? Do you think I have been too good to her? I just don't know what to do."

Far Apart in Age

Much of this tragedy, no doubt, can be attributed to the 24 years difference in the ages of these two. This husband is vidently a quiet, home-loving man, while his young wife wants a livelier life than she has with him. Because they are so far apart in age, they do not care for the same things, and because it is almost always the younger one in a December-May marriage who becomes dissatisfied and restless, it was she who went off looking for pleasures he could not find with him. Had they been closer in age, and so more congenial in tastes and interests, they could habe gone places and done things that might have kept her content. As it is, she got bored with their quiet home life and couldn't stand it any longer.

This is giving her conduct the most favorale interpretation.

The other possibility—even probability—is that she is a very unstable and irresponsible person, selfishly concerned with having a good time and with very little else. The fact that she seems to show so little regard for her children weights the scale in this direction. She must have known, of course, that her husband was unselfishly planning to bring some of the children back to her. If she had been at all interested in this project, as a normal mother would be, her whole thought would have been on getting her children back, and she would never have become involved in the kind of life she has taken up.

I am very much afraid that this man is stuck with a woman so far inferior to him in character that they are not likely to be able to get together on much of anything. True, she seems to have been satisfied with her married life for at least two years, but frustration was probably piling up in her all that time until it finally blew the valves of her endurance. If her husband had not been so good to her, she would likely have left him long ago.

Hard though it must be, I doubt if there is anything this man can do but wait to see if his wife returns of her own accord, and if she does, to have a complete showdown and find out just where each of them stands. My guess is that they are a completely mismated couple, and that the sooner he makes up his mind to this, the better. Then he can more easily see his way clear to what he wants to do about it.

Eskimo Girl Likes Civilization

Two-year-old Judy, centre, is wearing cloth clothes and seeing civilization for the first time. An Eskimo girl, she is the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Applewhite home in Brantford, Ont., after two years as missionaries in Baffin Land. Judy is bewildered by everything she sees but likes the light summer clothes better than the fur parkas she used to wear in Baffin Land. — Central Press Canadian.

Food for Thought

Quick and Easy for Two

By Mary Moore

Are there just two people in your house? Are you two girls who both have jobs? Are you a man and wife who both work? Are you a husband and wife team in which only the husband goes out to a job? Or are you that unique pair where only the wife goes out to work and the husband works at home and does the cooking—expertly? (Two pairs in the latter group write to me regularly as correspondents through the newspaper—they are happy about the arrangement too.)

Today's topic is beamed at you.

I think since shopping is not only time consuming, and the parking problem is rugged, it is a headache caused by constantly soaring prices such as a consequence it should be done only once per week—in one full swoop. Besides, workers haven't time to shop every day. This makes a medium-large or large size refrigerator a must. But a good refrigerator is a life-saver, a food saver, a waste eliminator, a workhorse, and a Gibraltar on which to lean in emergencies.

The meat order is your first consideration. This would be a sample meat order for two people of adequate income to have the meat they need and like: One-half pound chicken livers or calves' liver (see below); 1 1-3 lbs. ground beef to be made into 4 large meat cakes and used for 2 meals; 1 package frozen shrimp (see below); 1 4 or 5-lb. roasting chicken (weight depends on whether you are having guests for Sunday dinner); 2-3 or 1 lb. thinly sliced veal, 1 lb. bacon.

Roughly this is the 7-day plan. Freeze everything but the chicken. Roast it for Sunday. Have hot chicken roll for Monday (see below); 1 meat cake each is for Tuesday; Shrimps Creole (see below); makes a wonderful dish for Wednesday night; chicken liver omelette or calves' liver and bacon on Thursday; meat cakes for Friday (or adjust so that the shrimps come on Friday if it is a meat-fast day for you); and Wiener Schnitzel for Saturday. Sound like a good week's dinner program?

Remember the frozen meats should be taken from the freezing compartment at noon if you are home. If you do not come home at noon, if it is a small package it will defrost in the normal storage part of the refrigerator if placed there and left all day.

HOT CHICKEN ROLL

You will need 2 or 4 large soft hamburg rolls. Split and butter them. In top of double boiler heat 1 can condensed mushroom soup with 1-3 cup milk, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and 1 well-packed cup diced chicken. (When you don't have leftover chicken used canned chicken or veal.) Toast the buttered rolls under the broiler, then pour the chicken mixture over half of each roll, top with other half, pour more chicken over all.

SHRIMP CREOLE

To 2 tablespoons butter or salad oil add 1 onion chopped and 1 package frozen shrimp (or 1 can drained), 1 1-2 cups peeled fresh or canned tomatoes cut up. 1 shredded green pepper, 1 very finely chopped clove of garlic, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika. Simmer gently 20 minutes. Mix 1 teaspoon cornstarch with 1 tablespoon cold water and stir this into the mixture until thick. Serve over fluffy cooked rice cooked by adding 1 cup washed long-grain rice to 1 3-4 cups boiling water. 1 or 2 tablespoons butter and 1 teaspoon salt and cooking tightly covered over low heat until all water is absorbed.

CHICKEN LIVER OMELETTE

Wash chicken livers (1-2 lb. for 2 people) and cut each in 3. Saute in 2 or 3 tablespoons butter with 1-2 cut up green pepper, for 5 minutes or until just cooked. Remove from pan. Add fluffy omelette mixture and cook until bottom is set. Finish top off in oven. Fold over and place on hot platter. Open enough to tuck livers and pepper in fold.

WIENER SCHNITZEL

Ask butcher to slice you 2-3 or 1 lb lean veal as thinly as possible. Cut in serving pieces and dip in salted fine crumbs, egg diluted with 2 tablespoons water, then in crumbs again. Saute in butter until pale gold and curled and crisp. Serve at once. Spiced red currants are a good accompaniment.

Watch for more 2-people ideas next week.

GOOD MANNERS

Send your wedding gift before the wedding. . . don't take it to the reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are attending a wedding and reception one day soon, a church wedding at high noon, with a reception following at the bride's home. I am confused as to just when and how to present our wedding gift. That is, should I send it in advance of the wedding, or take it with me to the reception? In either event, please explain how to wrap it properly, and where to put the card.—J. H.

Do please, send your wedding present to the bride-to-be at ber home address. This is the correct thing to do. . . the customary thing to do. . . practical and sensible. If you send it conveniently soon before the wedding date, the bride-to-be will have time to enjoy its arrival, and. . . most important. . .she will have time to write you a thank-you note before the wedding, as she is supposed to do. On the other hand, if you take the gift to the reception hand it to the bride, this is an awkward procedure, for she may not have the opportunity to open it during the reception, and will feel that you may think she is not fully appreciative. Also this means that her thank-you note to you must be postponed until after her return from the wedding trip.

The best plan is to have the present sent from the store where you buy it, for practically all stores now provide especially attractive and appropriate wrappings, insure, and either deliver-or-mail the package. Or you, yourself, can buy very artistic wrapping-paper (white background, with silver or gilt design and ribbons, wrap it carefully, and enclose either your own "Mr. and Mrs" card, or on a plain white card write, "All good wishes from Philip and Jane Hall."

Bride to wear wedding dress and veil. . . but, when wedding is informally planned, men in wedding party may wear business suits

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My wedding is to be in the early part of September: a 2 o'clock church wedding: and I am wearing a white ballerina-length wedding dress and a short veil. Would it be at all proper for the groom, best man, and ushers to wear business suits, dark-blue? Or is it a 'must' for them to wear white jackets and black tuxedo trousers?—R. K.

It is a 'must not' . . .that is, it is not correct for the men in the wedding party to wear white jackets and black tuxedo trousers at an afternoon wedding. (White dinner jackets and black tuxedo trousers are evening attire, never correctly worn before six o'clock in the evening, at the very earliest.)

As you are apparently planning your church wedding to be on the side of informality, the men in the wedding party (father of the bride and father of the groom, too) may correctly wear dark-blue suits. With the dark blue suit: white shirt, stiff white fold collar, black shoes and socks, conservatively-designed four-in-hand tie or bow tie. (But all the ties should be four-in-hand, or all bow ties.) The men might wear white carnations, not too large, or white asters, or white or blue cornflowers.

Bride's cousin, a bridesmaid, wishes to give shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When the bride's two attendants are cousins of the bride, would it be correct for one of them to give a shower for her?—A. W.

Yes. Although, since she is a relative of the bride-to-be, (but not a member of the "immediate family") it would perhaps be better if she asked several of the bride's closest friends to join with her in giving the shower.

BEAUTY

Graceful to the fingertips.

To anyone who admires poise and loveliness in women, pretty hands that move prettily are objects of admiration. Some women use theirs with artistry. Note what ballet dancers do with theirs; their hands are almost as interesting as their nimble feet and slim, beautiful bodies.

It is taken for granted that feminine hands should be white and smooth, nails perfectly cared for, delicately tinted. But there is more to be thought of than that; there is the matter of gesture, behavior, pose of the fingers. The self-conscious girl is ever aware of hers, doesn't know what to do with them. Nervous girls have nervous hands that continually wave in the air. They are never still.

If you are interested in the peculiar manners that some hands have, keep your eyes open the next time you attend a party. The bad examples as well as the good ones will inspire you to notice just what you do with yours. It will be a good beauty lesson.

Nervous girls have nervous hands.

About the shape of the hands nothing can be done, though soft, pudgy ones can be slenderized somewhat by massage that is heavy enough to treat the surfaces and to strengthen the underlying fibres. If the fingertips are full and flat, press them lightly now and then, using a little cream.

Neat hand movements depend upon a flexible wrist. Some of the older good-looks aspirants may have hands and wrists that are muscle bound. This condition can be helped by soaking the hands in hot water, drying, massaging vigorously, then doing hand exercises—lifting the fingers up, sending them down, keeping the wrist in action.

Suppose you are sitting pretty, want to look your nicest. What about your hands? If you clasp them together in your lap, they will look thick and heavy. Put the palms fairly close together, entwine your fingers, petal fashion. Don't let your hands hang straight at your sides when standing. Put one on your hip, fingers pointing backward. Or clasp them together as you do when sitting. Little things, these, maybe not especially important but everything counts in the good-looks program.

CHEAP HOUSE

HALE, England (CP) —Builder Philip Oakes claims he can build a £2,000 type house for £650 by erecting a shell of metal sheets, joined by sliding rods and keys. Cheap filling like broken bricks, stones and rubble can be poured into the cavities to form an air-blanket.

YOUNG IN HEART

ALDINGBOURNE, England — (CP)—H. J. Osborne, 70-year-old retired window cleaner, has left here with his wife to live in Kenya. "I can still lift a gun and am looking forward to some sport when I get there," said Osborne.

Ammunition, Stock Of Rifle Found Near Maxville

MAXVILLE (CP) — An army pouch packed with 75 rounds of .22-calibre rifle ammunition together with the stock of a .22 rifle were found hidden yesterday beside a road about five miles east of this eastern Ontario town.

Provincial Police Inspector Robert Wannell of Toronto said a check of fingerprints will be made on the rifle stock to see if the find is connected with last Saturday's slaying of a Maxville business man, Leonard Hurd.

Police issued a warrant for the arrest on a murder charge of Henri eguin, 27, of Cornwall, sought since Hurd's body was found near here Saturday night in one of his own taxis. He had been shot five times with .22-calibre bullets.

RAWDON

RAWDON. — The directors of Stirling Agricultural Society held a business meeting last week to revise their prize list. One of the special prizes will be a $5 gift from River Valley Women's Institute.

What do millions of people own that...
1 helps break traffic bottlenecks?
Life insurance — because a large part of the money that people put aside in life insurance is invested in ways that help provide new roads and bridges . . . as well as new homes, stores, waterworks, power plants and other aids to better living.
2 aids science's battle against disease?
Life insurance — through several important medical research projects which are supported wholly or in part by funds contributed by life insurance companies. As a result, chances of living longer, healthier lives are being increased for all Canadians.
3 helps keep Canada strong?
Again—life insurance! The money set aside by millions of policyholders plays an important part in financing Canada's industrial economy. And this, in turn, strengthens it and provides essential support for the nation's defence program.
4 sends boys and girls to college?
This is another important job that life insurance does — while also providing money for family emergencies. Some other important uses: retirement income, mortgage repayment, business insurance.

Diesels Down Glen Roys 7-3 In Exhibition Tilt

CNR Diesels and Glen Roy Juniors, first round winners by default in the OASA playdowns, squared off against one another Saturday evening at the CNR Field, with the Diesels racking up a 7-3 win in nine innings.

The Diesels, who were supposed to meet Kingston Alcans in the first game of a best-of-three series in the first round of the OASA Intermediate A playdowns, found themselves without an opponent when the Alcans declined to fulfill their engagement Saturday night with the excuse that they were assembling an all-star team which would meet the Diesels Monday evening.

A long distance call to OASA secretary Frank Feaver, straightened out that little dodge and Alcans were advised that they would have to keep their appointment or forfeit the series to Diesels. They failed to show and were disqualified from the playoffs.

The Glens, who were supposed to meet Brockville Saturday night in the second game of their series, took the series by default when Brockville bowed out Friday.

The two squads then agreed to meet each other in an exhibition game in order to fulfill advertising committments that there would be a game and in order to keep in tip-top shape for the ensuing playoffs.

The game itself was a crowd-pleasing spectacle with the umpires entering into the spirit of the thing with some hilarious antics.

The Juniors opened the scoring in the fourth inning off Marty Halloran who had come in to relieve Al Adams who had blanked them for three frames. The Glens counted two runs on an infield single by Doug Hull, a fielder's choice, a single by Pete Green, a wild pitch, and a fielder's choice. They added another in the sixth on singles by Nolan and Degray, and an error at third base.

The Diesels collected five runs in the fifth on walks to Glen Young, and Marty Halloran, singles by Bill Corbett, and Dick Fitzpatrick, and a home run by Doug Sword into the long grass in deep left field.

The Diesels picked up two more tallies in the sixth on a walk to Glen Young, and a home run by Jack Wardhaugh.

Bob Hunter came on in the sixth with two out to relieve Bob Green, and turned in a sensational chore, striking out six of the seven men to face him over the rest of the route, and spearing Young's line drive himself for the other out.

Adams, Halloran, and Boyle worked three innings apiece as the entire Diesel roster saw action, with Halloran getting credit for the win.

Bob Green started for the Glens and was tagged for five hits, including home runs by Sword and Wardhaugh, for seven runs, and the loss.

The two teams will clash again Thursday night under the lights at the Alemite Field os a tuneup for their Saturday night dates with second round opponents in the playoffs.

The Glens will face Oshawa juniors under the lights at the Alemite at 8.30 Saturday night, while the Diesels will face the winners of the Peterborough-Whitby series at the CNR Field at 6.15 Saturday evening.

Sport in Brief

TORONTO (CP)—Shirley Campbell, 16, of Fergus, splashed through the Canadian National Exhibition's one-mile lakefront course Saturday to win the Canadian women's amateur swimming championship.

Another Fergus girl, 15-year-old Doreen Howatt, trailed her by 10 yards to place second.

Shirley covered the distance in 26 minutes and 44 seconds, almost a minute faster than last year's winner, Vivian King, 20, of Toronto.

Shirley is no novice in competitive swimming. She has travelled some 50,000 miels from coast to coast seacrhing for new honors and last year captured the Canadian amateur 400-yard free-style title in Vancouver.

She is listed among the entries for the women's world professional three-mile swim at the C.N.E. Wednesday but said following Saturday's race she has not yet decided whether to turn professional.

Hart Devenny, 20-year-old university student from Winnipeg, won the men's two-miel swim in 50 minutes and 45 seconds, well ahead of the field of 16 starters.

DANCER IN LIMELIGHT

Winning is Habit With Lumsden

Accepting the winner's cheque for the world's professional swimming championship has become a habit with Cliff Lumsden, 21., of. New Toronto. This year's 10-mile grind before Canadian National Exhibition crowds at Toronto netted the champ $5,200. It was his third victory in four starts. Mayor McCallum presented the cheque. — Central Press Canadian.

Little Giants, Ottawa Divide Honors Eastern Ont. Peewee Baseball Series

Ted Schwab's Little Giants and the Ottawa St. Anthony's peewee baseballers split the first two games of their Ontario Baseball Association Eastern Ontario championship round over the weekend.

Behind the fine hurling of Jackie Elliott, the Giants took the first game here on Saturday by a 9-2 count with the St. Anthony team coming back with an 112 victory on Sunday in Ottawa to square the best-of-three series. The third game is scheduled for Kingston on Wednesday afternoon.

According to reports from the Ottawa game, the playing field was anything but conducive to baseball. It appears the Giants have every reason to protest but sponsor Schwab and his assistants Coaches Frank Weir and Mark Storms decided to forego a protest and "win the series on the diamond."

Natty Uniforms

The Little Giants nattily garbed in new uniforms came up with an impressive display on Saturday. Elliott sparked the squad with a fine pitching four-hit effort, rapped out two hits including a double, struck out nine and issued but two walks. In addition he engineered a neat double play.

Aldridge, a righthander went the route for the Ottawa team giving up seven clouts, two of them doubles by Chick, walking nine and striking out seven.

The Giants spotted the St. Anthony's a run in the first then went on to win with one in the first, two in the second and three in each of the fourth and fifth innings. Ottawa scored their second run in the sixth.

The Giants showed a bad reversal of form in the second game played on a lineless diamond on Sunday. They came up with a performance that was not up to their usual with errors accounting for runs.

Kelleher started on the mound and gave up six runs then Jackie Elliott went in and was nicked for a quintet of markers. They gave up eight hits between them.

Ottawa scored two in the second, four each in the third and fourth and one in the fifth.

LaChapelle, a husky, 5.11 hurler was too good for the Giants, his fast ball whipping past them consistently. He held the Belleville team to three hits, two of them a double and single by F. Chick. Richard Hurst got the other.

Belleville scored one run in the fourth and the other in the fifth.

The scores:

Ottawa S. A.	000 110 0—	2	4	5
Belleville G.	120 033 x—	9	7	5

Aldridge and Moore; Elliott and Coe.

Ottawa S. A.	024 410 x—	11	8	2
Belleville G.	000 110 0—	2	3	5

LaChapelle, Moore; Kelleher (3), Elliott, Coe.

The teams:

Belleville Giants: Downes, Coe Hurst, Elliott, Rushlow, Walters, Dickey, Chick, O'Neill, Sopha, Schwab, Kelleher.

Ottawa St. Anthony's: Raymond, Post, Chiarelli, Budzi, LaChapelle, Moore, Donegan, Clarke, Aldridge, Riopelle.

Canada's Tennis Titles Divided Among Three Foreign Nations

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's tennis titles went to three foreign countries during the week-end with three of them being carried by Mexico by tiny Melita Ramirez.

The showing of the attractive 21-year-old girl, along with the 6-1, 6-0, 6-1 conquest by Dick Savitt of Orange, N.J., of Kurt Neilsen of Denmark for the men's singles crown, was the highlight of the week-long Canadian lawn tennis championship at the Toronto Tennis Club.

Miss Ramirez, who learned her tennis from her mother, defeated last year's titlist, Lucille Davidson of Lee Summitt, Mo., to win the women's singles championship Saturday.

She later joined Gustavo Palafax, top-ranking men's Mexican player, to take the mixed doubles crown. She teamed with a Canadian, Doris Ell of Toronto, to capture the women's doubles title.

The men's doubles final was shared by Savitt and Neilsen, the pair combining to overpower the California team of Art Larsen of San Leandro and Noel Brown of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3.

First Mexican Win

Miss Ramirez victories was the first time that any of the Canadian tennis titles had been won by Mexico.

In winning the women's doubles she and Miss Ell upset the defending champions, Miss Davidson and Doris Popple of Des Moines, Ia., 6-4, 6-4. In the mixed doubles final, Miss Ramirez and Palafox had little trouble in beating Miss Popple and Rafael Ortega of Mexico, 6-1, 6-2.

Savitt, the temperamental tennis ace who is one of the United States' best players, nearly blasted Neilsen from the court in breezing to his singles win yesterday. Before 1,400 spectators who paid up to $3 for a seat, Savitt never was extended as he beat the Danish Davis Cup star for the third time. He whipped him on grass at Wimbledon last year and at Newport, R.I., last week.

His game yesterday again was too powerful and too accurate for the Dane. He broke Neilsen's service nine times, won three love games and had three aces, including the point that decided the second set. Neilsen broke service only once and never showed the form that got him to the finasl.

The Savitt-Neilsen team fought its toughest match in a theer-hour its toughest duel Saturday against Henri Rochon of Montreal and Ed Moylan of Trenton, N.J.

Growls At Fan

Neilsen and Savitt came through with a 16-14, 12-10, 9-7 win with both teams agreeing to shorten the affair from a best-of-five to a best-of-three set match after splitting the first two. During the match Saviee, noted for his outbursts, told a fan to shut up and argued with one of the linesmen.

Larsen and Brown reached the final of the men's doubles by downing the 1951 titlists, Brendan Macken of Montreal and Lorne Main of Vancouver, two members of Canada's Davis Cup team, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

VITAL STATISTICS

LONDON (CP)—An advertisement in the personal column of the Times said: "Man and wife with car aged 39, 28 and 16, respectively, seek employment."

Decide 3 Titles In Canadian Junior Tennis

OTTAWA (CP)—Three Canadian tennis titles were decided during the week-end in the Canadian junior tennis championships.

One title went to little Phyllis Seganski, 11, of Hamtranch Mich., and the others to two Quebec provincial teams.

In the fourth day of the tournament today the juvenile boys' finals will be decided and the quarter-finals of the junior women's and men's, and boys' and girls' events should be completed.

Miss Seganski captured the juvenile girls' singles championship by defeating top-seeded Linda Wolf, 11, of Buffalo, N.Y., 6-0, 6-4.

Quebec Team Wins

The Quebec men's and women's team swept the interprovincial team matches Saturday. The men's team defeated a four-province western outfit with three straight singles victories. The Quebec women ousted Ontario in one singles and two doubles matches.

Team championships are decided on the best of two doubles and three singles matches.

Raymond Sankowski and Gerald Dubie, both of Hamtramck, will battle today for the juvenile boys' singles title.

Sankowski took his semi-final match with a 6-0, 6-0 win over Bob Armstrong of Hamilton, Ont. Dubie eliminated top-seeded Canadian Ken McReynolds of Montreal 6-1, 6-2.

Two junior men's singles entries moved into the quarter-finals yesterday. The remaining six quarter-final berths in that event will be decided today.

Third-seeded American, Joe Jacinto, of East Rockaway, N.Y., moved up when he ousted unseeded Jim Florian of Sydney, N.S., 6-1, 6-0. Dudley Johnston of Jacksonville, Fla., first-seeded American, downed John MacLean of Buffalo, N.Y., 6-3, 6-3.

Canadian Advances

Three players reached the quarter-finals of the women's singles. The top-seeded Canadian, Marriette Laframboise, of Montreal, who won the title last year, eliminated Lee Davenport of Vancouver, 6-2, 6-2. The other two junior women quarter-finalists are Carol Turcotte of Ottawa and Carol Wolf of Buffalo.

Miss Turcotte eliminated Irene Borecky of Basel, Switzerland, 6-4, 6-3. Miss Wolf downed Ann Stacey of Halifax, 2-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) —The U.S. college football season is approaching, and permit me to be the first to give all you fans the happy news that there is going to be more whistle-tooting this year than ever before.

Reason is that they've now decided to hang a whistle on every official on the field, from the head-linesman right through the referee. That means at least four whsitles where only one shrilled before.

The idea behind the influx of whistles is, primarily, to try to make a sharp reduction in the excessively rough play which became notorious last fall. It brought the game a good deal of unwelcome publicity.

"Its the main thing we've talked about at our meetings since last season," said a well-known eastern coach. "Please don't put me in the position of pointing the finger, but we know absolutely that some coaches have become mighty careless about what they teach their boys to do, and it is to our own interest to help the officials stop it."

Foul Watch

The men with the tooters—all four or five of them—will be expected from here on to get right in there and mingle on intimate terms with the performers. That includes the field judge, who in the past has been a quiet austere individual.

Each official, as we understand it, will have a given territory to watch closely, especially for infractions of the personal-foul rule and for defensive holding. Each will have something on the original powers of the referee.

Clipping will be called much more closely under the new instructions. In the past you might have watched three or four games without seeing it called once. It had to be a pretty open and shut case, with some offensive player diving deliberately into an opponent's hind end whose back is turned.

Bowling League Holds Annual Organization Meeting

FRANKFORD —The Frankford Bowling League held their annual organization meeting in the Legion Hall Thursday evening. A little better than half of the 96 members were present.

President, Francis Murphy, presided and outlined the business at hand. Election of officers was the first item of business, and the following officers were chosen: Division "A" — president: Gene Lohnes; secretary-treasurer, Wayne Arbuckle; Division "B" — president Selbourne Sharpe; secretary treasurer Jack Madill.

On handing over the chair to the new presidents-elect, Francis thanked the league executive and players for the co-operation they had given him in the past year, which was a very successful season.

Russ and Margaret Hogg were called up by Francis, and Ross Huffman presented them with a smoking stand on behalf of the league, prior to their departure to Montreal. Russ and Margaret thanked the league for the gift, and for the fun and fellowship they have enjoyed during the past two seasons. The Hoggs will be greatly missed in the league, where they have been a hard-working couple.

It was mentioned that bowling fees were likely to increase at the start of the new year, but until such time as an increase does come about, bowling fees will still be the same as last year, this 25 cents per game.

Captains Chosen

The teams were then asked to get together to choose captains, assistant captains and team names. It was suggested that all teams choose a man as captain, as has been the custom, and that this year, the assistant captains be ladies. This plan was followed and the teams and captains are as follows:

Division 'A'

Racketeers, capt. Ross Huffman asst. Ellen Farley; Curley's Crew, capt. Karl Austin, asst. Audrey Arbuckle; Outlaws, capt. Hugh Simmons, asst. Edythe Babcock; Jack's Jokers, capt. Jack Farley, asst. Doreen Carlisle; Jets, capt. Preston Chase, asst. Muriel Van Hedegan; Robbers; capt. Lloyd Hanna, asst. Mary Morrow; Hopefulate; capt. Bob Arbuckle, asst. Edith Henry; Gib's Gang capt. Gilbert Gilmour, asst. Joan McCrea.

Division 'B'

Screwballs, capt. Elmer Rogers, asst. Marie Kidd; Aristocrats, capt. Milford Macauley, asst. Alice Shrape; Kareless Kids, capt. Selbourne Sharpe, asst. Hazel Rogers; Merry Macs, capt. Earl Rogers, asst. Lucy Burkitt.

Change of Night

Lou Aziz, proprietor of the Bowlodrome spoke briefly to the league, and expressed a desire, if possible, to have the Monday night "B" Division switched to Friday night at 9:00. President Selbourne, and Earl Rogers, who has been responsible for the bulk of the organization work of the new league, contacted all members present at the meeting, and as many absentees as possible by phone, and all seemed in favor of the change. Division "B" will therefore, bowl at 9.00 Friday evenings, instead of Monday nights as previously planned.

The league schedule will begin on Thursday night, Sept. 4, as the following teams play: Curley's Crew vs the Racketeers on 1 and 2; Jack's Jokers vs the The Outlaws on 3 and 4; The Jets vs the Robbers on 5 and 6; The Hopefulates vs Gib's Gang on 7 and 8. will commence on Sept. 5, as the In the "B" Division, bowling Screwballs play the Aristocrats on 1 and 2; and the Kareless Kids tangle with the Merry Macs on 3 and 4.

Kingston Monarchs Blank Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH — Third-place Kingston Monarchs of the COBL blanked the leading Petes 4-0 here Saturday on a walk, single by Wally Stinson, doubles by Jerry McCormick and Joe Levandoski and Jack White's triple in the fourth inning. The loss kept the Petes from clinching top place.

Norm Harry hurled four-hit ball fro the victors while Ed Whitehill pitched the first four frames for Peterborough, Bill Dadson finishing up. McCormick, Levandoski and Stinson led the winners at bat with two for four each. Arn Dugan with one in two showed the way for the losers. Kingston reeled off two double plays.

Talent-Loaded Field Pushes Off On Week-Long Hunt for Golf Crown

Vancouver)cp)—A talent-loaded field, including 30 scratch players, today push off on the week-long hunt for the Canadian amateur golf championship.

Nearly all the players who competed Saturday in the Willingdon Cup inter-provincial team matches and Canadian junior championship are entered.

British Columbia, aided by a lame Bill Mawhinney, won the 36-hole medal play cup matches with a total of 587, six better than defending champion Ontario and 12 better than third-place Quebec.

Lea Windsor, 18-year-old Haligonian, captured the junior title with a 36-hole score of 152. John McClung of Edmonton and Jerry Knechtel of Kitchener, Ont., tied for second with 155.

Mawhinney, limping from a sore back which kept him out of the Americas Cup matches 10 days ago fired a two-under-par 70 over the Capilano course on his second 18.

Taken To Hospital

He collapsed after leaving the 18th green and was taken to hospital. His condition is good and officials said he will probably be able to enter the Canadian amateur. He has a bye toady.

Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener equalled the individual low record score of 138 in the Willingdon Cup matches set by Jimmy Robertson of B.C. in 1948.

Walt McElroy, who opens defence of his Canadian amateur crown tomorrow—he has a bye today—shot a 139, missing a two-foot putt on the last green. He had a 67 on the first round, low 18-hole score of the tournament.

BERNSTEINS BUMP

SHREWSBURY, England (CP) —Entering a local tobacconist's store, a New York sales manager, Arthur Bernstein, 68, bumped into a man coming out. It was his 60 year old brother John, whom he hadn't seen for 50 years. John was over from Chicago.

Birth: most dangerous experience of life

Too many newborn infants still die needlessly — or are crippled for life — because of oxygen starvation while being born. (Is free use of pain-killing drugs one cause?)

In September Reader's Digest, J. D. Ratcliff gives facts about the phenomena of birth that every mother should know, tells how the toll of death and damage among the newborn can be reduced — how mother, doctor, and hospital can help.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

LITTLE OF EVERYTHING

Protests, optimists, disappointments and victories plus a couple of eliminations rounded out a somewhat wacky weekend sportsfest.

The big story of the Saturday-Sunday holiday was the failure of the Kingston representatives to show up for their scheduled Ontario Amateur Softball Association first-round intermediate "A" playdown and their subsequent "toss-out" of future activities by the "boss" organization.

It seems a Kingston representative told OASA executive member Harry Knott that the game had been laid over till tonight with the sanction of the OASA secretary. This appeared to be slightly off the beam and the Kingston team was ordered to have a team at the CNR Field by 6.15 p. m. Saturday—or else. It was or else and the Kingston squad, but they were too badly disappointed. Don McNevin and Bill Spafford had their starry Glen Roy Juniors on hand and the kids hooked up with the Diesels in a smart exhibition tilt.

Back to the "disappointment," the OASA is to be commended story from Kingston it seems three or four players practically are indispensable to several teams down thataway, and they could not get away Saturday night due to City Baseball League commitments. Be that as it may. the Kingston Softball management should have abided by its OASA commitments, too. They have found out to their regret perhaps that the OASA is too big to be kicked around.

And here is another instance. Trudeaus Motors and a Kingston team battled in the second game of a best-of-three series Saturday night with the Trudeaus losing 10-4. But, the game is under protest, because the Kingston managemen given notice that their certificates were not available at the beginning of the first game, could not or did not produce them at this tilt. The game has been rightly protested.

Before getting away from the Diesels angle. Jim Ethier says his team will play the starry Glen Roy Juniors on Thursday night as a prelude to meeting the powerful Oshawa squad here next Saturday evening.

And still in that Diesel angle, we noticed during the game Saturday evening the "Ole Clucker," Herby Henn who was cackling along in the best competitive style on the third base coach line. They don't come any better than this guy. Always in the game, Henny plays from start to finish. Yeah, he told us three years ago he was through. He meant growing carrots. Every year sees the "Old Clucker" back there in harness and he is a distinct asset to any team, especially the current edition of the Diesels. Oneup, Hank. Or make it two.

Then there's one of the best softball catchers extant, in our opinion, and he's the perennial Alfie Rowbotham. This is supposed to be secret but after the first appearance of the Diesels against the Kingston "Saints" pen team, one of the "home town" moguls whispered. "Listen, bud, go outside and knock off a bank. We can use you on this team."

Then too, o nthe bench strength is sorrel-topped "Red" Culkin, starry outfielder of the 1945 junior provincial champs. Brother, this fiery-top can gallop miles and pull down anything but flying saucers. Then too, there's Jack Hunter, another distinct asset to the bench-warming crew. He's good too. These boys were inadvertently missed in our Diesels round-up last week, but they're just as part and parcel of the regulars as is the initial line-up.

We got a real kick out of the Schwabs Little Giants-Ottawa St. Anthony's first game on Saturday. As this is being written, the Schwabian Giants are in Ottawa battling in the second tilt. The result will appear elsewhere.

The thrill we got was to see the Giants gallop out on the field garbed in brand-new uniforms. The l'il fellas ran to their positions like veterans of a major league and later came through with a handsome 9-2 win.

What we liked was the Ottawa manager. He was eleven years of age and ran the team like a veteran. This is another evidence of the fine work being done in minor sport organizations. This little guy managed the team, acted as third base coach, arranged the "strategy" and did an all-round fine job. It was a good game throughout although draggy at times, but Jacky Elliott, Schwab hurler, came through with an outstanding performance. He tossed a four-hit game, blasted out a double and single and keyed a neat twin-killing. The Belleville Baseball Association would be wise to keep an eye on Johnnie.

There's always serious humor in sport. We hear that the Brooklin's youthful manager (and you can't beat this for optimism and good sportmanship) said after his team had been beaten by a 44-11 score in the Glen Roys-Brooklin peewee softball playdown, "Where do we play the third game, bub?"

MONARCHS HERE TONIGHT

Kingston shut out the Peterborough Petes 4-0 Saturday night to keep the Liftlockers from clinching first place and now the Redmen had better look to their second-slot laurels. Kingston was hotter than the south end of a firefly Sateve and they're here tonight for their last scheduled appearance with the Carsoneers. The Scruttons have a game or two to be played with the Petes and they could tie or oust our side with a straight string of victories. The Reds should be at full strength tonight and they'll have to be on their toes if they want to urn back the Monarchs.

Ted Schwab's gallant little peewees ran into a snag in that second game in Ottawa yestserday. The Bytown boys, after absorbing a 9 2 defeat here Saturday, produced a large size hurler and then proceeded to stand the Giants on their ears. Of course two bad innings with errors looming largely didn't help very much. The third game is being played in Kingston on Wednesday at 2.30 on the Cricket Field.

The Drive-in Theatre bantams were eliminated at Port Hope on Saturday by the Oshawa Dairy squad in a sudden-death game. The second game which was protested by Belleville was washed out by the OBA but the Oshawa team proved too good over the weekend. The score was 14-11.

Bronx Bombers Nip Detroit While Senators Scalp Indians; Giants Split; 'Bums' Nip Cards

BY JOE REICHLER

Know what's keeping the Yankees and Dodgers in first place? Pitching? Nope. Hitting? Nope. Then what is it?

It's the fielding.

Today, with fewer than 40 days to go, the Dodgers own a comfortable 8½-game bulge over St. Louis Cardinals in the National League race and the Yankees have a two-game edge on Cleveland Indians in the American.

And it hasn't been the Dodger hitting nor the Yankee pitching as much as their fielding that has been responsible.

Brooks Set Record

By completing a double play yesterday in routing the Cardinals 10-4, to snap St. Louis' eight-game winning streak, the Dodgers broke a league record, completing a twin killing in their 19th consecutive game. The American League mark of 25 was set by Boston Red Sox last year.

The Yankees yesterday came from behind to nip Detroit Tigers 4-2 and pick up a full game on the Indians who dropped a 16-inning 9-8 marathon to the Senators in Washington.

By way of comparison, the Indians committed seven errors and handed the Nats seven unearned runs. The Redbirds made three bobbles to pave the way for three unearned Dodger runs.

Two ninth-inning Giant errors gave Cincinnati two unearned runs and a 5-4 first-game decision. The Giants won the second game, halted at the end of seven innings by darkness, 6-3.

Bosox Move Up

Boston's third-place Red Sox moved within four games of the Yankees, sweeping a pair from St. Louis Browns, 2-1 in 10 innings and 12-1. Philadelphia's Athletics clung to fourth place by one percentage point, dividing a doubleheader with the White Sox. The A's came back to take the second game 5-1 after the White Sox had taken an 11-7 opening slugfest.

Philadelphia Phillies and Chicago Cubs split a twin bill as did Pittsburgh and Boston Braves. The Phils swamped the Cubs 14-4 behind Russ Meyer after Warren Hacker had outpitched Robin Roberts for a 3-0 Chicago decision. The Braves took a 10-inning 5-3 win with Ralph Kiner hammering his 28th home run to give Pittsburgh's rookie Ron Neccial his first major league victory in the opener, 4-3.

The Yankees erupted for four runs in the eighth after rookie Billy Hoeft baffled them with five hits and no runs through seven innings to overcome a 2-0 deficit.

A bases-loaded walk to pinch-hitter Johnny Mize with two out followed by Irv Noren's pinch double that cleared the bases gave Ed Lopat his sixth victory.

It took the Dodgers just two innings to cool off the Cardinals as Preacher Roe rolled to his 10th triumph. The Brooks broke through starter Joe Presko for three runs in the first and three more in the second to clinch the victory.

Earl Rapp's bases-loaded single off Early Wynn with none out in the 16th scored Jerry Snyder to bring victory to Washington. The Indians had forced the game into extra innings on Luke Easter's three-run homer in the ninth, his second of the game and his 22nd of the year.

Manager Lou Bodreau, in the role of a pinch hitter, drove in the Red Sox' winning run in the 10th inning of the opener with a squeeze bunt. Homers by Clyde Vollmer and Hoot Evers accounted for six Boston runs in the nightcap.

Glen Roy Peewees Swamp Brooklin Under 41-11 Score

By Jack Brett

Glen Roy pee wee's literally smeared the Brooklin, Ont., team at the Alemite field Saturday afternoon in a two and one half hour contest. Saturday's game was the first in the best-of-three OASA pee wee softball series for the eastern Ontario championship which saw the local P's cross the plate no less than 41 times against 11 runs for the visitors.

Oddly enough it was the visitors who got the only home run of the game. Roberts for Brooklin connected for a long hard one to left field in the ninth frame which sent him all the way around with no one on at the time.

Colbary hurled the first frame for the losers, relinquishing the mound to Duff in the second. Duff was followed by Hall in the third as the Brooklin P's strove to halt the local rush. Colbary was back on the mound in the fourth frame to finish off the game. Between the four pitchers, 41 runs crossed the plate off 23 hits.

Reid went the route for the Glen's allowing 11 runs off six hits. He walked eight and struck out 11.

Brooklin tallied a lone run in the first inning.

Three singles, a double and a walk were good for five runs as the Glen's came to bat in their half.

In the second, Brooklin made it 5-2 as another walk was good.

Glen Roy made it 14-2 as they crossed the plate nine times in their half of the second. The runs came off four walks three hits and one man was on, on an error.

Brooklin counted another run in the third.

Glen Roy, still going strong chalked up 11 runs in their half off four walks, six hits and one error, to make it 25-3.

In the fourth, a single, a double and a walk gave the visitors three more tallies.

The Glen's got one run in their half to make it 26-6. In the fifth the Glens increased their lead by three as the runners got on on walks.

Brooklin got one run in the sixth and Glen Roy made it 34-7 as they got five runs to finish off the inning.

The visitors pushed three runs across in the seventh to make it 34-10. Glen Roy added four more runs in their half for the 38-10 score.

In the eighth, Glen Roy got three more runs to complete their scoring.

Brooklin's final tally came in the ninth.

Brooklin: McCrystal ss; Lavanovitch c; Miller 1b; Roberts lf; Colbary p; Tran cf; Duff 3b; Johnston rf; Norish rf; Hall 2b;

Glen Roy: Lessels 3b; MacDonald ss; Bull rf; Scrimshaw rf; Young 1b; Reid p; Rowbotham 2b; McNiven lf; Clapp lf; Duggan cf; Reeves cf; Keller c;

United States, Canada Pro Golfers Meet for 1st International Title

By W.R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Sharp practice rounds put Canada's entry on edge today for the first official meeting between Canadian and American professional golfers for the team championship of the two countries.

Pat Fletcher, Canadian Professional Golfers Association title holder from Saskatoon, fired a one-under-par 71 yesterday over the Beaconsfield course where the two-day tournament will be played tomorrow and Wednesday.

Pat played his practice round with Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Gordie Brydson of Toronto, both a stroke over par in the leisurely-played threesome where a stroke or two, or an extra shot, didn't amount to a hoot.

Putting Good

Fletcher's putting was at its best. He dropped a 20-footer on the 15th green for a birdie three that eclipsed anything Leonard or Brydson could do.

Meanwhile, at the nearby Lashute course, Stan Horne of Montreal won the Lions Club tornament, a major affair hereabouts, and Jules Huot of Montreal Laval and a Canadian team member, finished in a third-place tie.

Bobby Locke, South African member of the Canadian team under the match regulations, took on Ken Murray, C.P.G.A. president, in a friendly match over at the Royal Montreal course.

The American entry was scheduled to fly in today after completion of the Fort Wayne Open, to be decided by an 18-hole playoff between Jim Turnesa and Jimmy Clark.

Locke, an honorary member of the Canadian Golfers Association, flew from England Saturday.

Three four-ball matches will be played tomorrow and six singles Wednesday.

New Trophy Up

The teams will compete for the International Golf Trophy, donated by John Jay Hopkins, honorary director of the C.P.G.A. and a member of the National Advisory Committee of the P.G.A. of America. He is a well-known industrialist in both countries.

Match play will govern but all holes and matches will be played out becase of prize-money bonuses.

The bonuses are: $300 for 72-hole low medal score; $75 for each 18-hole low medal—four of these prizes in all; $250 for any hole in one; approximately $400 will be divided among players scoring eagles and birdies at holes yet to be named.

Timbermen Tops In Lacrosse Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterborough Timbermen defeated Hamilton Tigers 22-9 Saturday to finish first in the Ontario Lacrosse Association's senior league for the second year in succession. They meet St. Catharines in the first round of the Eastern Canada playoffs Friday.

St. Catharines made sure of the last playoff position by edging Mimico Mounties in a nip-and-tuck game 14-13.

The Timbermen, led by Barry Whipper and Dootch Vifarelli with five goals each, dominated the game throughout, while Jack Dorney was the most effective Hamilton player, scoring four goals. Curly Mason counted three for Peterborough.

St. Catharines and the Mounties were 4-4 at the end of the first quarter, 8-7 to Mimico at the half and were 10-10 at the start of the final quarter. St. Catharines scored four goals in two minutes of the final quarter to give them their narrow margin. Max Wooly was top Athletic scorer with four and Bob Chard and Denny Peterson took three each for the Mounties.

Playoffs Announced

Chuck Rowan, league secretary, in announcing playoff dates, said if any games are rained out, they will be played the next night in the same town or city—Sunday excepted. All games will be played to a decision, he said.

Playoff dates for the senior series:

Series A (best-of-five series)

Peterborough versus St. Catharines: At Peterborough Aug. 29, at St. Catharines Sept. 1, Peterborough Sept. 3, St. Catharines Sept. 6, if necessary.

Series B (best-of-five series)

Mimico Mountaineers verses Owen Sound Crescents: At Mimico Aug. 27, Owen Sound Aug. 30, Mimico Sept. 3, Owen Sound Sept. 6, if necessary, Mimico, Sept. 8, if necessary.

Series C (best-of-seven series)

Toronto West York versus Hamilton Tigers: At Toronto Aug. 29, Hamilton Tigers: At Toronto Aug. 29, Hamilton Sept. 1, Toronto Sept. 3, Hamilton Sept. 5, if necessary, Toronto Sept. 8, if necessary.

Malcolm Hanover Is Pace Winner

TORONTO (CP) — Malcolm Hanover, owned by Ken McKinnon of Owen Sound, showed his supremacy Saturday when he won the $2,000 invitation pace at Thorncliffe Raceway.

Malcolm Hanover won the first heat with such ease that, on orders of the management, he was removed from the wagering pools in the second heat. He won both heats with his driver, Bill Simmons, simply looking back at the field.

The wagering winner of the second heat was The Diplomat, owned by Alex Parsons of London and Brantford. The Diplomat was nowhere in the first dash but finished with good courage the last time.

Westland New Golf Champion

SEATTLE (AP) — Jack Westland, a beaten finalist 21 years ago, became United States amateur golf champion Saturday.

The 47-year-old Everett, Wash. insurance man, turned back the repeated challenges of Al Mengert, 23, of Spokane, Wash., to win 3 and 2, in the 36-hole all-northwest final.

Westland shot superb golf throughout.

In 1931, Westland went to the final of the amateur championship and took a 6-and-5 beating from Francis Ouimet. Since then he hasn't been able to get past the third round until this year.

Westland is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress from his district and decided to play only because the tournament is being held in his home state. He even mixed campaigning with golfing, making speeches at night after playing during the day.

Quinte Pair Wins Golf Trophy

NAPANEE — Val Smith and Mike Aqueferedda of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club, captured the Branscombe Challenge Trophy today by defeating Jack Ford and Harold Webster of Napanee Golf Club, two and one, here.

Their best-ball score for 17 was a par 70.

The Port Hope Golf Club has challenged the Bay of Quinte pair for the trophy and the match will be played at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club next Sunday.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting: Irv Noren, Yankees—doubled with two out and the bases loaded in the eighth inning to drive in three runs and give the Yankees a 4-2 uphill victory over Detroit Tigers.

Pitching: Randy Gumpert, Senators—relieved starter Walter Masterson after Luke Easter had tied the score with a two-run ninth-inning homer and yielded but three hits in 7 2-3 scoreless innings until the Senators tallied in the 16th to defeat the Indians 9-8.

Red Sox Oust Guelph Terriers; Panthers Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Brantford Red Sox disposed of Guelph Saturday night and earned the right to meet London Majors in the next round of the Senior Intercounty Baseball League playoffs.

Brantford won its best-of-seven series with the Maple Leafs 4-2. Saturday night's score was 6-3.

In the other leg of the playoffs, Galt kept its pennant hopes alive with a 5-4 win over Kitchener. Kitchener leads the series 3-2 with the sixth game scheduled for Galt Tuesday.

London, who entered the playoff picture after an appeal was allowed by the league executive, will meet Brantford Tuesday night.

George Copeland pitched the Brantford victory. He allowed five hits, walked five and struck out seven. Guelph used three pitchers with Gumieniak charged with the defeat.

Guelph scored the first run of the game in the second inning on a single by Bud Boehm which drove in Bud Kimball, who had tripled earlier.

However, Brantford scored three runs in each of the fourth and fifth innings. Guelph had tied the game in the top half of the fifth with a pair of runs.

Kitchener scored one run in the first inning. Galt took a 2-1 lead in the third when a single by Rockburn, a walk to Mike Pontarelli and a two-run error by Ler gave the Terriers two unearned runs.

Kitchener came back in their half when Duncan led off with a single. He moved to second on Ler's sacrifice and scored on George Boniface's single. Boniface stole second, Rockburn walked Don Gallinger and Dick Welker to load the bases. Hughie McGillivray's single scored Boniface and Gallinger scored after Freddie Thomas flied out, giving Kitchener a 4-2 lead.

The Terriers ended the scoring in the fourth when they scored three runs. A single by Jowe Mack, walks to Schupp and Buddy Heximer put loser Mel Duncan in trouble.

Bisons' Carswell Hits Three Homers In Succession

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The easiest and quickest way to score is by hitting ball out of the park, and so the boys in the International League took out their home run clubs yesterday and used them unmercifully on the pitchers.

Frank Carswell, who hit only eight round-trippers all last year, blasted three homers in succession to lead Buffalo Bisons to a 12-7 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs. In addition to Carswell's feat, the Bisons belted three more to account for nine of their tallies.

The long-ball sluggers were Joe Erautt, Milt Zernia and even pitcher Milt Jordan chipped in with a homer. Eddie Stevens rapped his 24th homer for the Leafs and Pete Pavlick whacked another. Carswell's trio gave him 24 for the season.

The win put the Bisons only a half-game behind fourth-place Toronto.

Steve Bilko's first-frame grand-slam home run got Rochester Red Wings off flying as they defeated Syracuse Chiefs 10-7. Bob Holloman was the victim of the early spree, suffering his seventh defeat as against 13 victories. The Chiefs chased starter Jack Faszholz in the eighth while they were scoring four rns but Bobby Tiefenauer came in to save the game by serving a double-play ball to pinch hitter Johnny Welaj with the bases loaded and one out.

Vince Gohl and Jocko Thompson locked up in a southpaw duel which went 14 innings before Stan Jok slammed his eighth round-tripper to decide the contest for Ottawa Athletics 3-2 over Baltimore Orioles. Gohl, the winner, gave up only one walk, Gohl fanning six, Thompson eight. Lou Limmer accounted for the other A's runs with a two-run homer in the seventh.

Montreal's Royals behind the smooth-pitching Hamp Coleman downed Springfield Cubs 4-2. Coleman posted his ninth victory for the league-leaders, although he needed help from Jim Hughes to get the last out. It was Montreal's 16th victory over the Cubs as they concluded their season series.

The Kibitzer

When competition flares up in a bridge deal you have things to consider besides set rules. You must decide what pays best; a pass, a double for penalty, or a sacrifice loss.

East was dealer when the other side only was vulnerable in this spread of hands:

NORTH
♠A 9 7
♥9 8 7 5 3
♦A 9 3
♣4 2

WEST	EAST
♠K Q 10 6 5 4	♠J 3 2
♥J	♥10 6
♦5	♦J 10 8 6 2
♣A K Q 7 3	♣10 8 6

SOUTH
♠8
♥A K Q 4 2
♦K Q 7 4
♣J 9 5

An opening one bidder assumes two tricks in the hand of his partner. For each trick in excess of two, responder may raise once in number over the last partnership number.

This tells why north did not show his heart support at his first opportunity. He has a count of three tricks, two highs and a short in clubs. Enough for one raise in number.

When west bids two spades, it would be two raises if north bid three hearts to show his support. Rather than lie at once to his partner, north should pass and await a truthful opportunity.

When south bids three diamonds, the north bid of four hearts over the west four clubs is only one raise. He is thus able to show his heart support without misinforming his partner.

North lacks enough for any more raises. Over the opponent five spades, six hearts would go down. But the north two aces with what his opening partner must have will defeat five spades.

Five hearts will make. So, it pays east and west to take the sacrifice loss. Rule, as I say, is predigested judgment.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In 1941, radio actor John Deering was in the middle of a Hollywood program when he collapsed.

Thus began a remarkable story, one which finally appears to be having a happy ending. But Deering's life would have ended tragically, except for his courageous sister, Mrs. Betty Pruitt.

It took three days to diagnose the actor's trouble as a brain haemorrhage. The pressure in his head during those three days had done its damage. He was not expected to live.

He clung stubbornly to life and began to recover but couldn't speak.

A helpless figure, he was cared for during the first two years by the Motion Picture Relief Fund. After expending $11,000, the fund had to give up the case. Deering's sister took him into her home.

For eight years Deering did little more than exist. His sister never gave up hope.

One day she faced a $60 nurse's bill and had no funds to pay it. She whipped up some of her own special salad dressing and sold it to neighbors. She began merchandising the dressing to grocery stores, and earned the money to keep her family together.

Eight months ago, a doctor advised her: "Your brother has grown to rely on you too much. You must try a shock treatment; turn him out of the house."

She did and the treatment seemed to work. After wandering around Hollywood for a few weeks, Deering got a job as doorman at a radio theatre. Two months ago the theatre shut down for the summer and Deering despaired for his future. But then nice things started to happen.

AT THE McCARTHY — Crooner Frank Sinatra is mobbed by a band of bobby sox admirers in this scene from Universal-International's "Meet Danny Wilson," also starring Shelley Winters and Alex Nicol. Sinatra sings eight songs in the new film and his vocal offerings include many of the famous ballads which helped skyrocket him to fame almost a decade ago. The companion feature now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre presents Ann Sheridan and John Lund in the romantic comedy hit "Just Across the Street".

"King Kong" Returns in Amazing Screen Classic

When the primitive mastodonic ape, "King Kong", made his debut in the spectacular imaginative motion picture of that name a few years ago to crash to a spectacular death from the highest building in New York after finally releasing a beautiful girl to her rescuers audiences all over the world gasped at the daring conception which made a studio "prop" a thing of such realistic animation.

"King Kong" now returns to the screen after a retirement of several years to thrill the public again, as vigorous and awe-inspiring as ever. All the technical skill and resources which motion pictures can command were called into play to create the many imaginative scenes in the epic Merian C. Cooper production featuring Fay Wray, Robert Armstrong and Bruce Cabot.

King Kong and the other prehistoric animals, made to perform in mammoth size by the clever technical methods of the studios and their staffs amazed all beholders of this highly popular picture. Not only was the ape shown in fifty-foot stature, but also in corresponding proportions, such monsters of past neons as a Tyrannosaurus, giant sea serpent, huge pterodactyls or flying reptiles and a brontosaurus.

The unique film "King Kong" showing today on the Belle Theatre screen was produced from a story conceived by the late Edgar Wallace.

"The Leopard Man" co-starring Dennis O'Keefe and Margo is the 2nd feature attraction.

The first evening show starts at 6.30 p.m. Come early!

STUPENDOUS! STARTLING! WEIRD! STAGGERING!

Nothing can approach this show-of-the-age! . . . The strangest story ever conceived by man!... Adventure to make you wonder if it's true.. while your very eyes convince you that it is!

DEFENCE CONSTRUCTION (1951) LIMITED

TENDER

File #122-7-T2-17 Job #2111 Supply and Installation of Extensions to Water Distribution System, R.C.A.F. Station, TRENTON.

Sealed tenders plainly marked as to content and addressed to the undersigned will be received up to 2:00 p.m. E.D.S.T. Tuesday, September 9th, 1952, for the performance of the following work: the supply and installation of extensions to the water distribution system at R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, Ontario.

Plans, specifications and contract documents for this project may be obtained by prime contract tenderers at the address shown below. A deposit of $100.00 in the form of a cheque made payable to Defence Construction (1951) Limited is required with each complete set of plans, specifications and tender documents. This deposit will be refunded if the documents are returned in good condition within seven (7) days after the award of contract.

Each tender must be accompanied by a security deposit amounting to ten per cent (10%) of the tender total if such price is $500,000.00 or under and in addition five per cent (5%) of any excess of the tender price over $500,000.00. The security deposit will be forfeited in the event the successful tenderer refuses to enter into the contract on the basis of his tender when called upon to do so. Security deposits of the unsuccessful tenderers will be returned. A marked cheque on a chartered Canadian Bank and made payable to Defence Construction (1951) Limited or negotiable Dominion of Canada Bonds will be accepted as security deposit.

Sets of plans, specifications, etc., have been made available for the purpose of information to sub-contractors and material suppliers at the following locations: Belleville and District Builder's Exchange, Belleville, Ontario, and at this office.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Curtain Lifted On Private Life Of Ex-King Farouk

CAIRO (Reuters)—Egypt's new regime yesterday lifted a corner of the curtain which shrouded the private life of ex-King Farouk to reveal a bizarre glimpse of the royal household, rivalling the mystery and treasures of the Pharoahs.

For more than four hours newspaper men tramped the deserted corridors, drawing rooms, bedrooms and salons of Farouk's winter palace at Kubbeh, on the outskirts of Cairo.

They gazed as the strange collection of wealth and bric-a-brac with which the pudgy playboy monarch had surrounded himself and his court before his exile a month ago.

Vivid and inexplicable contrasts were provided by exquisite and costly works of art stored in underground vaults side by side with garish and badly-executed drawings of a pornographic type.

Northern Electric Club Holds Annual Picnic

A large enthusiastic crowd enjoyed the second annual picnic of the Northern Electric Club held at Memorial Park, Tweed on Saturday.

Frank Grandame, president of the club, formally welcomed the members and their families and acted as chairman during the afternoon's proceedings. E. S. Booth and H. R. Varvoe, representing the company also spoke a few words of welcome and formally opened the picnic.

Official civic welcome was extended to the club by Mayor Clarence Graham in a brief address.

A large program of sports including races and contests was run off with the Northern Electric Ladies softball team defeating Picton McFarland Maids 12-11 in an exhibition game.

In the bean-guessing contest Mrs. Frank Grandame and Doug Bone were tied for first prize with a guess of 1,700. On the "guess off" Bone won with an estimate of 1,600. The jar held 1,664 beans.

Bus transportation for the picnickers was furnished by the Rawson and Juby Bus Lines.

The program was held under entertainment chairman Earl Vandervoort.

Skill Saves Pilot's Life in Crash

Pilot Officer R. J. Childerhose of St. Boniface, Man., right, tells RCAF officers how he stayed with his Sabre jet when it crashed at Almonte, Ont. The ship was almost a total wreck but the pilot escaped with only a gash on his head. Refusing to parachute when he ran out of fuel while flying with other jets from Uplands air base in Ottawa, Childerhose brought his plane down on a farm field at 100 m.p.h. — Central Press Canadian.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking in back of the sporting page, and ma said, When you're through with the paper, William, I want to take a look at Marks and Marcus's dubble page ad for their semmy annual store-wide sale. But there's no hurry, take your time, she said.

Okay, you can have it soon, pop said, and ma said, I dont want to rush you, Im not thinking of buying anything in the sale, in fact I really dont need anything.

Then for Peet sake why reed the ad? pop said, and ma said, Oh, just for its news value, I told you I wasn't in a hurry.

I'll lend you the paper so you can get it over with, pop said. If I expect to get the paper back all in one piece, Id better find the ad for you, he said.

Which he did, saying, here it is. Yee gods what an assortment of stuff. There's pictures of everything including the kitchin stove, 4 models in fact. Say, some of these items are intristing. Here's a nifty looking razor blade sharpener that runs by electricity, only 8 dollers. It's based on a new sistem, he said, and ma said, I dont care if it's based on the Rock of Gibralter, if you come bearing another razor blade sharpener through the frunt door, I'll go out the window.

Say, here's something a home cigar rolling machine with 3 munths supply of genuine Havanna tobacco, only 32 dollers, pop said. According to this it would pay for itself in less than a year, he said, and ma said, What a gassly thought, William, I told you I was in no hurry to look at that ad. Just go ahead and reed your paper in a normal way, she said.

Which he did.

It was my lunch hour and I sat there on the sun-warmed granite shoulder abutting the massive steps of the Art Museum, my back to a marble lion, reading La Rochefoucauld's "Maxims." I had just come to the one that goes "if we judge love by its results, it is more like hatred than affection," and was turning this over mournfully in my mind when I looked down and saw David.

I noticed David because of his unusually well-chiseled , nose, forehead, and chin, and because he had a crown of exuberantly curly blond Scandinavian hair. He reminded me of Velazquez's painting of St. John in the Wilderness.

He had left his truck, an immense silver diesel-engined semi trailer, parked at the curb with motor idling. The exhaust rattled the quiet noonday air with a monotonous blatt-blatt-um, blatt-blatt-um.

The prospect of a truck driver spending his lunch hour in an art museum intrigued me. After perhaps half an hour he emerged from the towering doors, and I tried to read on his countenance the soothing and uplifting effect of art.

In front of his truck, he spat precisely into the gutter, and climbed in and roared off with a blast that shook the neighborhood.

Two days later I dropped by Gallery 8 to see an exhibition of photographs that had just opened, and there was David again. He was studying each picture silently, intently.

It must have been about a week later that I finally met him. I was standing in a movie line. I found I could forget Kathy quite satisfactorily for hours on end if I just had a movie to look at, so I took the habit of going to two and sometimes even three a day, never caring what the movie was about or who was in it. after about six weeks this craze spent itself, to be replaced by the I'll-work-until-I-drop interlude.

This movie line was about a block long. And David happened to be standing just back of me. I nodded and he said, "Mister, haven't I seen you somewheres before? Your face is mighty familiar."

I said yes, my name was Hector Fielding, and I taught in the school that was connected with the Art Museum.

There the matter would have died had I not asked what his name was. He told me it was David Carlson, and we shook hands.

I asked how he liked the photograph exhibit, and his face lighted! If I had the time, I'd take me a course in photography somewheres. I just got myself a decent camera. Had to give seventy bucks for it, second-hand."

Once inside the theatre, we sat next to one another, with the unspoken consent of two lonely people. When the picture had spun its cycle we walked out onto the street. A chill wind had sprung up; papers and grit were blowing about.

"Wanna go somewheres and get a cuppa coffee?" asked David.

I didn't want to sit in some greasy-spoon with flies and raw fluorescent lights overhead and the ubiquitous juke-box. So I said hastily. "Why don't we go up to my place? We'll have a drink, and I'll show you my book of Steichen photographs."

He looked astonished, then accepted with such shyness and yet obvious delight that I felt like a heel, because I was feeling patronizing, and here he was—such a good guy.

We bailed my little rattletrap of a convertible out of the parking lot, and I drove home to the apartment which I shared with a brilliant young refugee interne named Karl Simon. It was only a few blocks from the Museum, in one of those old mansions that has been cut up into segments. My apartment was on the fourth floor, in what used to be servants' quarters. I had a big fireplace in the living room, and a fire escape opening onto narrow back street. Otherwise it had drawbacks, including low water pressure and a bedroom whose ceiling followed the slant of the roof.

I had built bookcases all over the place, with blank spaces here and there for bits of sculpture. Pictures everywhere— some of my own work and a few reproductions. And drapes of oatmeal-colored Indianhead.

Karl was at the hospital as usual; his working hours were inhuman. I handed David the Steichen book, put the record-player to work on the ballet music from "Faust" and, went into the kitchen to mix drinks. I felt constrained to be friendly and see that he enjoyed himself, since I had invited him with such inner condescension. I hated myself for being a snob.

When I returned with the tray he was staring around the room, with the same intent, lenging look that he had in the picture gallery, as though he were trying to devour and memorize every object.

We discussed Lana Turner and new cars and cameras and power tools, and then I ran out of gas. I pointed out which was the bleu cheese and which the Gorgonzola, and refilled our glasses and wondered irritably how soon he'd leave, since I wanted to go to bed.

He said he'd been driving a truck ever since he was 18. Before that he bused dishes and worked in a box factory. He quit high school after the 10th grade because he hated school and wanted to earn his own money. That was all the information he volunteered.

"What's this here for?" he wanted to know, picking up a little gold statuette of a runner.

"Won it when I was on the track team at Lincoln High."

"Lincoln High! That's where I went!"

"I was before your time. I'm sure. I'm 29 now. Had college and a year's study in New York and three years in the air force after I left Lincoln."

Finally he said, "Well, guess I better hop on my freight," and rose. When he got almost to the door he stopped, before a copy of Renoir's "Little Girl with Watering pot." One of my favorite paintings—you know the one—a sunny faced little girl in a blue dress and white apron standing among flowers. The distillation of clean air and sunshine and guileless behavior. David turned his greasy cap in his hands, his face almost reverent.

In a rush of companionableness I thrust the Steichen book into his hands, saying, "Here, you didn't have a chance to study this. Take it home and look at it. You can drop it by when you get through."

I had given him an excuse for another visit.

The next afternoon when I came home I found my mother sitting in my room. She had been living in California, working as a decorator's assistant ever since my father's death. Since her last letter had given no indication that she intended coming East for a visit, I was astounded to see her.

"Hector dear! I'm just barging in for a couple of days. I'll not put you out—I can sleep on the couch. Then I'll go on to New York and have a week just playing and looking."

We spent the evening catching up on what's-become-of and he-married and she-had-a. Two months ago I had written Mother a one-line postscript: "Kathy and I have made a final and irrevocable break."

"Haven't you lost a good bit of weight lately, dear?" she asked suddenly massaging her chin and looking carefully at the pink jar in her hand. I thought: Here it comes.

"Yes, quite a bit, I suspect."

"Where is—I mean to say, is she—"

"New York," I said shortly, and lighted a cigarette.

"Well," said Mother. "Well." And was silent, making little circular whirls at the corners of here eyes.

Presently she tried again "what about that house you—"

"Sold it. Got my down payment back, though. So I wasn't out much money."

She sighed deeply. "Well, I can see you don't want to talk about it. I begin to realize what you must be going through. I wish I could help. But sometimes one can be healed of a suffering only by experiencing it to the fullest. After all, the best thing one can do when it is raining is to let it rain."

Communists Biggest Economic Showcase Being Dusted Off For a Whirl at World Trade

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN (AP)—Communism's biggest economic showcase is being dusted off again for another whirl at world trade.

It is the Leipzig Fair, created by German fur traders more than five centures ago, patronized by Saxonian kings, marveled at by foreign lands as German enterprise grew in international importance.

Now it is a rank display of Red propaganda.

Ever since the Second World War, the poverty-stricken Soviet zone has been trying to put Leipzig's fairs back into the business limelight. Despite what help the Russians and the satellites would give, the fair never has quite made the grade.

This year's fall fair, scheduled for Sept. 7-17, is not expected in Western commercial circles to be any exception. The East German managers admit that only seven Western countries have applied for exhibits at the fair—Great Britain, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Switzerland, Austria and Morocco.

Business men maintain that so long as the arrogant East regards its currency as equal to the Westmark, the tag on any item bought through the Leipzig Fair exhibit is bound to be a fairly high price.

No amount of tub-thumping by Gerhart Eiseler, Red propaganda chief, has disguised the fact that business was poor the last two or three years and that the Communist world simply did not have enough wares of new or startling variety, ready for delivery.

Cold Water

Registration of only seven western countries so far has been like a dash of cold water to the Communists. It is particularly discouraging viewed from the expense involved in maintaining Leipzig Fair "offices" in 43 countries.

The 28 halls will be dominated, as a result, by the Soviet Union, Red China, East Germany and the satellite lands. Fair managers say it will have the latest machinery from the Soviet Union, including threshers, lathes, power shovels and drill presses. Silks from China, tapestries from the Balkans, machine tools from East Germany, and Chinaware make up the bulk of the exhibits planned.

East zone poster painters already are hard at work plastering Leipzig with signs bearing the legend of this year's theme song: "The construction of Socialism." The theme alone demonstrates how much of an all-East party it will be.

One of the more blatant acknowledgements that Leipzig is growing into a show window for the East only is the attitude toward the Western press. Last year, for the first time, the Communists refused to permit Western journalists to visit the fair. There have been as yet no invitations in sight for this year's fair.

One of the big aims of the fair this time is to impress East Germans with "the successes of planned Socialism." Unable to see anything else for comparison, the isolated East German may be impressed by any collection of goods.

Two Men Rescued After Plane Shot Down By Mistake

Bomber Dives Into Sea When Struck by Rocket

ELGIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (CP)—The Navy reported today a minesweeper has picked up two surviving crew members of a B-17 bomber shot down by a new-type jet fighter into the Gulf of Mexico yesterday.

The naval air station at Pensacola said it picked up a radio message from the minesweeper Seer saying that it came across the two unidentified men in the storm-tossed gulf.

The radio message said the two men were in a life raft and that they came aboard the minesweeper under their own power.

All eight crew members on the bomber had been listed as missing.

A rain storm which churned up waves 15 feet high during the night moderated only slightly during today.

The B-17 was sent spinning into the Gulf in flames yesterday by a rocket fired by mistake by an intricate automatically controlled jet fighter.

One crew member who parachuted into the water in his life jacket waved and smiled to the crew of a passing flying boat. A life raft was tossed to him. Minutes later the area was pounded by a terrific rain storm, and the man wasn't seen again.

An all-night search of the debris-littered waters by ships and planes failed to bring any rescues. The crash scene was about 50 miles south of Panama City.

The rocket was fired by the pilot of an F-86D, the air force's newest all-weather fighter undergoing tests.

The air force said the pilot, Col. Arthur R. Debolt, 39, of Columbus, O., apparently mistook the B-17 "mother" plane for a radio-controlled drone, following about 1½ miles behind.

Can't Explain

Debolt, overcome with grief at the tragic error, was unable to explain how it happened. He saw the hit plainly on his radar screen and figured it was scored on the drone.

"I just can't believe I hit the wrong plane," he said. "I don't know how it happened."

Another B-17 "mother" plane escaped being hit, and guided the drone back to the base.

The air force has been testing the 650-miles-an-hour F-86Ds for several months here. An air force spokesman said the F-86D operates automatically to the extent that once a target comes within range of its radar the electronic equipment locks on to the target and guides the fighter into the attack.

The pilot retains control of the firing mechanism, however, and can refrain from firing his rockets until he has positively identified the target, the spokesman said.

Chairman Agrees Lindsay Hospital Is Overcrowded

LINDSAY (CP)—H. T. Johnston, chairman of the board of governors of the Ross Memorial hospital here, yesterday agreed with Lindsay doctors who recently charged the hospital is overcrowded. However, he said the overcrowding was often due to the fact that the doctors sent some cases not really in need of hospital care there.

The doctors said the hospital has only half enough beds and facilities, far too few qualified nurses, should be under the supervision of a business administrator instead of a superintendent of nurses and should have a voting representative of the town on the board of governors.

Built to accommodate 5 adults and 14 children, the building has held as many as 96 adults in recent months.

He said that despite doctors' criticisms, the hospital will continue to accept all patients. The nearest alternative hospital is at Peterborough, 25 miles away.

The hospital was donated to the town in 1902 by James Ross, Montreal millionaire, in memory of his parents.

Russia Running Far Behind West In Production

LONDON (AP)—Russia still is running far behind the west in industrial production, a study of the newly-announced Soviet five-year plan indicates.

Many Western European observers believe optimistically that Russia is fully aware of the west's industrial supremacy and for this reason will be content to wage a cold war instead of a hot one.

Britain's Weekly Economist said that judging by Russia's new five-year plan, announced by Moscow last Wednesday, "it looks as if the Russians are planning not for peace or for war but for what the west calls cold war."

The Daily Telegraph suggested: "Since Soviet production, with that of the satellite states, will be considerably less than that of the 'capitalist' world, it is unlikely that the Soviet government will embark on any adventures which might involve it in a war."

But the Economist warns:

"It must never be forgotten that the Soviet economy can switch resources from civil to military production, from consumer goods to industrial equipment with a speed, ruthlessness and secrecy that no government in the free world could hope to match in peacetime."

B-29 CRASH KILLS 7

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Seven members of a B-29 crew were killed yesterday when their plane crashed and burned at Barksdale Air Force base across the Red River from here. The plane was attempting to land with one dead engine.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: After four days of torrid ninety-plus temperatures across the prairies, it appears from today's weather analysis for these regions that a break in the heat wave is close at hand. However, another very warm day is anticipated for Ontario with temperatures generally ranging from 85 to 90, except for those areas where off-lake breezes will help to moderate an otherwise hot blast of air.

A developing disturbance north of Lake Winnipeg is expected to draw cool air into northwestern Ontario Wednesday, however, it will take at least 24 hours and possibly longer before moving over central and southern regions.

WESTERN FARMERS BEGIN TO HARVEST BUMPER CROP

How Many Bushels To Acre Is Question

REGINA (CP)—The man in the country isn't talking politics or football or summer vacation today. He's talking about whether his crop is ready to cut and how many bushels he's likely to get to the acre.

Travel through vast stretches of rural Saskatchewan and talks with the man driving the tractor in the field give a sample of the thoughts of the farmer, Saskatchewan's most impotrant resident.

He's not mad at anybody.

His gripes are being carried away by the warm breezes blowing across his fields of thick, waving grain.

No Price Complaints

He may wonder a bit about where he will store his crop, but he doesn't seem to have too much complaint about the price.

One farmer near Mortlach, west of Moose Jaw, said he is getting along pretty well. Of course, he has a fair amount of land and maybe a smaller farmer wouldn't find things so good. Still, he thought, a farmer like that would be able to get along too.

The grain man near Canora said farmers he met were not too unhappy about prices. After all, he said, you have to consider the ability of importers to pay.

The man on the tractor near Kamsack thought machinery prices were too high. But then, he knew some farmers who paid more than the list-price just to get scarce machinery first.

Some farmers thought labor pushed its wage demands too strongly and thereby pushed up prices.

An agriculturist at Swift Current thought farmers were secretly pleased about grain prices. They knew they were going to have to take less sometime but they hoped this didn't occur too soon.

Cattlemen Satisfied

A livestock man collecting stock out of Kelvington said cattle raisers weren't too disheartened by present payment levels. Some of them thought last year's prices were too high.

One farmer said it hadn't rained in his district for a number of weeks at one time during the growing season. How many bushels would he get to the acre? About 25, he said.

What about rural de-population the experts talk so much about?

The pioneer near Lloydminster said the towns along the line would never change much. They wouldn't grow appreciably.

The farmer near Nipawin said there wasn't much sense in a strictly grain farm, even though it might let you live in town.

His view: "A farm isn't a farm without cattle."

The farmer near Montmartre said he was living in town now. He hoped, though, to get buildings on his land and move out there. Wanted to be closer to it, he said.

A symptom of a move back to the land? Nobody could tell, but at least it was an indication the movement was not all one way.

Skunk Pet

Elmer, a three-month-old skunk owned by Mrs. S. Evans of Winnipeg, reaches for a bit of cheese offered by three-year-old Danny Mason, a young playmate. Elmer also likes gooseberry jam, bread and milk. Mrs. Evans says Elmer is clean, housebroken and doesn't sharpen his claws on furniture or climb curtains. And, more important, Elmer has been deodorized. — (CP Photo.)

Young Pilot, Blood Blinding One Eye, Crash-Lands Plane In Field, Three Men Injured

RIVERTON, Man. (CP) — An 18-year-old bush pilot, blood blinding one eye, crash-landed his crippled seaplane in a farmer's field last night after barely missing the residential section of Riverton, 86 miles north of Winnipeg.

Three men in the aircraft, owned by Riverton Airways, were injured. Six other occupants escaped injury.

Pilot Bob Shinnie nursed the plane over the business area with a pontoon dangling loose. Passengers threw luggage and the plane's seats overboard to lessen the weight. Then Shinnie brought the plane in on its one good pontoon. The plane overturned and broke in halves when it hit.

Injured were William Pruden, 47, of Winnipeg, a compound fracture of the right leg and a fractured left hip, and Walter Saunders, 41, also of Winnipeg, a fractured right shoulder. Shinnie was cut over the left eye.

The plane was returning to Riverton from Norway House with construction workers aboard.

Shinnie said a down draft over a lake about 60 miles from here forced the plane sharply down. A pontoon clipped the water, breaking a strut, and Shinnie was smashed against the control panel, blood from a gash blinded his left eye as he fought to regain altitude.

Shinnie said he hadn't tried to land the crippled aircraft on water because he feared he and his passengers would be drowned.

Five Riots in U.N. Camps Cause Death of Red Prisoner, Wounding of 40 by Gunfire

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—One Communist prisoner of war was killed, 40 wounded by gunfire, and 12 injured in five riots in United Nations prisoner-of-war camps since Aug. 11, the United States Eighth Army said tonight.

Disclosure of the incidents came in three separate announcements, several hours apart, after a Communist Peiping radio broadcast had charged that 15 Koreans were killed and 40 wounded in an undesignated U. N. P. O. W. camp Aug. 15 last year.

In an incident last Saturday, one Red P. O. W. was killed and 12 injured in enclosure 10 on Koje Island "when a U. S. rifle company was forced to restore order," the Army report said.

Two prisoners of war were shot and wounded Aug. 19 on Koje. The Reds were creating disorder during the evacuation of P. O. W.s to make room for hospital patients.

Thirty-eight prisoners on Koje were wounded by small pellets—none seriously—Aug. 11. The guards fired into demonstrating Communist prisoners with riot guns after the prisoners replied to tear gas grenades with a rock barrage.

Two days later in another Koje compound guards used tear gas in breaking up a military training and marching demonstration.

Then Aug. 15 guards on Cheju island marched into prisoner pen 3-A behind a screen a tear gas grenades and forced the prisoners to lower and burn Communist flags.

A spokesman for Maj.-Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, commander of U.N. P.O.W. camps, said "there is no more reluctance" about going into prisoners pens and restoring "order and discipline."

The spokesman said leaders of the Cheju incident were placed in solitary confinement.

Fire Destroys Grain Elevator, Two Men Sought

PHELPSTON (CP)—Hundreds of district residents rushed to this village early today to battle a fire which destroyed a large grain elevator and threatened the Canadian National Railways station and a number of houses.

Meanwhile, provincial police searched surrounding roads for two men wanted for questioning in connection with the fire. Two men were seen leaving the elevator in a car shortly before the fire started.

Flames from the 40-foot grain elevator roared 200 feet into the air, witnesses said. The building, reported to be valued at about $60,000, collapsed shortly before 1 a.m.

Fire departments from Elmvale and Phelpston and a pumper from Barrie joined with volunteers in an effort to save the station. They were hampered by lack of water.

Balloons, 17 Miles Above Earth, Gathering Data on Cosmic Rays

OTTAWA (CP)—Seventeen miles above the earth balloons equipped with complicated apparatus are gathering scientific data on one of the mysteries of the ages—cosmic rays.

National Research Council scientists here say the rays are not really rays in the common sense. They are particles of matter smaller than atoms, but charged with billions of volts of energy.

They are believed to come from the sun or the stars, and travel at speeds approaching that of light—186,000 miles a second.

Little is known about them.

For the last three years scientists here and in other countries have been sending up free balloons equipped with photographic and geiger-counter equipment in an attempt to learn more of the rays' secrets.

Dr. Eric Pickup, 38-year-old British scientist in charge of cosmic investigations for the Council here, said that although the particles have energies beyond anything yet produced by man, it is doubtful if they can ever be harnessed for man's use. Some way would have to be found to focus them in a steady stream down to earth.

The balloons used are of rubber and about six feet in diameter. On reaching the stratosphere, they expand to about 35 feet and then burst, dropping their equipment by parachute. The ascent takes about two hours and the balloons float around in the stratosphere five to six hours before they begin to fall.

From impressions on their photographic equipment, scientists measure the intensity, speed, composition and other data about the cosmic particles.

Sometimes the balloons are never seen again. But many farmers pick them up in their fields and report them to the Council.

Recently, Dr. Pickup said, a cosmic investigation balloon sent up from the Ottawa laboratories was tracked by radar across the United States border where it eventually came down after being investigated by United States Air Force planes.

FORMER BRINK'S WORKER ADMITS $65,000 THEFT

Used Duplicate Key To Rob Armored Car

WASHINGTON (AP)—Police announced today a 26-year-old former employee of the Brink's armored car service has admitted that he rifled a company car of $65,000 yesterday. The money has been recovered.

Police Inspector Jeremiah Flaherty identified the man as Ray Eugene Farmer and said he has been charged with grand larceny.

Flaherty said Farmer entered the parked, unguarded armored car at noon yesterday by using a duplicate key he had in his possession for some time.

The four-man armored car crew was lunching at the time of the robbery.

Flaherty said Farmer hurried to Glen Echo Park in nearby Maryland and buried the $65,000. He said Farmer covered up the money with dirt which he found in the bag he took from the Brink's car.

The arrest was made, Flaherty said, because of a "hunch" by the Washington police chief, Robert V. Murray.

Murray recalled that Farmer, who worked for Brink's from 1946 to 1949, once beloiged to a gang of youths who showed up with a number of Brink's uniforms and, when arrested for another crime, told police they had planned to attack one of the company's armored cars.

So police went to Farmer's home last night and took him to headquarters. After an all-night questioning session, Flaherty said, Farmer admitted the robbery and took the police to the amusement park and dug up the money.

It was all there, all $65,000 of it.

Flaherty said that while Farmer took the loot in small bills, he passed up another $200,000 in large denomination money.

The theft was not reported to police until almost two hours after it occurred. Melvin A. Goodspeed, local manager for Brink's, said the guards had reported the theft to him promptly, but he had delayed notifying the police until he could check all collection points on the possibility a money pick-up had been overlooked.

Small Bills Taken

Police said the $65,000 was all in $5, $10 and $20 bills. One official said the fact the untouched $200,000 was of large denominations indicated the thief or thieves may have feared they could not safely pass such currency.

Brink's was the victim of the biggest cash haul in United States crime on Jan. 17, 1950, when Hallowe'en-masked bandits held up employees in the firm's armored car stronghold in Boston and escaped with $1,219,000. The case is still unsolved.

Later the same year—on May 12—four gunmen ambushed three Brink's guards in a carpet factory at Thompsonville, Conn., and fled with a $15,000 payroll.

A few months ago in Danvers, Mass., while three guards were having coffee in a drugstore, thieves looted an armored car of the U. S. Trucking Co. of $681,000. No arrests have been made to date.

MIXUP COSTS ONE LIFE

Canberra Bomber Breaks All Records In Speedy Flight

Double Crossing in Single Day First in History

ALDERGROVE AIRFIELD, Northern Ireland, (Reuters) — Britain's Canberra jet bomber, completing the first flight across the Atlantic and back inside one day, crossed the finishing line here today at 4:39 p.m. BST, 11:39 a.m. EDT.

The jet bomber flashed across the ocean and back in slightly more than 10 hours.

The double crossing in a single day was the first in history.

The sleek black Canberra also smashed all previous records for a west to east passage as it streaked home from Gander, Nfld., western terminus of the epic flight.

The homeward flight from Gander took only three hours, 24 minutes. The outward crossing, slowed by headwinds, took four hours, 41 mintues. The three-man crew spent about two hours at Gander refueling.

The whole trip of 4,145 miles took 10 hours, fixe minutes, including the stopover at Gander.

Timetable of Trip

This was the timetable of the bomber's trip, in terms of British Daytime Time which is five hours ahead of Eastern Daylight:

6:34 a.m.—Left Aldergrove.
11:15 a.m.—Arrived Gander.
1:15—p.m.—Left Gander.
4.39 p.m.—Reached Aldergrove.

The plane fought 100-mile-an-hour headwinds on its east to west flight, but was helped by them on the trip home.

Over 600 M.P.H.

The average speed on the home leg was just over 600 miles an hour. The 2,072.79 mile flight took three hours, 24 minutes. The flight from Northern Ireland to Newfoundland required four hour, 41 minutes. That was almost 40 miles an hour slower than the east-to-west record of 483.91 miles an hour established last August in the same plane by the same pilot—Wing Cmdr. Roland Beaumont of the R.A.F.

The new west-to-east record was easy to establish. For more than 15 years the record has been 20 hours, 29 minutes, set by the Americans H. T. Merrill and J. S. Lambe in a Lockheed plane. Many commercial planes have made better times, but not under official timing conditions.

French Forces Capture 476 Rebels

SAIGON, Indo-China (Reuters)—French forces have captured 476 Vietminh prisoners in one of the most aggressive French attacks in the last four months of the Indo-China war.

The attack, launched in an area about 25 miles northwest of central Vietnam's capital city of Hue, also resulted in 43 Vietminh troops killed and at least 30 wounded.

French forces lost 15 killed and 27 wounded.

TO TRAP BEAVER

TORONTO (CP)—Beaver have multiplied so rapidly in the Bay of Quinte area that this year trappers will be licensed to help keep control of the numerous colonies which have become a nuisance. Harry G. Lumsden, biologist, lists 3,427 live beaver houses this season, not counting those on private property which the owners do not want touched, compared with 600 in 1947.

RCAF Launches Search for New Fighter Plane

OTTAWA (CP)—The R.C.A.F. is understood to have launched a search for a new fighter plane to enable Canada to keep pace in the international race for supremacy of the skies.

Chances are it will be a supersonic jet capable of speeds beyond 750 miles an hour, that it will be bigger, more complex and substantially costlier than those Canada now has in use.

The R.C.A.F.'s two modern jets, the CF-100 Canuck and F-86E Sabre, are considered capable of protecting Canada and her allies for another three to five years. Then something better will be needed. Thus the R.C.A.F. is after a plane that could be in production around 1956.

By then, Russia, may well have jet bombers to throw at North America. Fighter defence consequently will have to be stepped up.

The Sabre and Canuck are generally considered to be in what is known as the subsonic class.

Reported China Plans to Move Troops Into Tibet

NEW YORK (AP)—A New York Times dispatch from India reports today that Communist China plans to move 200,000 troops into recently conquered Tibet as a part of a long-range drive to dominate India and other neighboring states.

(Official sources in the Indian capital of New Delhi described the report as "most improbable" in view of the difficulty the Chinese are reported having in feeding their small garrisons now in Tibet. These forces are estimated at 10,000 men.)

The Times report also says, however, that the Chinese Reds thus far have been unable to gain real control over Tibet despite a year of military occupation.

Real power in the Himalayan mountain land is held by an anti-Communist secret "people's committee," the dispatch says. recommendations of this committee are followed by the country's spiritual and temporal titular ruler, the 17-year-old Dalai Lama.

The Times dispatch, datelined from Darjeeling in the southern Himalayan foothills, says the information came from "unimpeachble sourses in closest touch with affairs behind the Himlayan barrier."

CLAIM 15 PRISONERS DIE

TOKYO (AP)—The Communist Peiping radio today claimed without confirmation that 15 Korean war prisoners were killed and more than 40 wounded at an Allied prisoner of war camp Aug. 15. The location of the camp was not given. The Red account did not say how the prisoners were killed. There was no immediate comment from United Nations Command headquarters.

London Theatre Critic Getting Tired Of False Canadian Accents in Films

LONDON (CP)—You've all seen it happen. The American hero (or heroine) of the film set in Britain unbends at some point in the story and explains away his (or her) accent by saying it's all due to a Canadian upbringing.

It's a script writer's trick to foist an un-English voice on English ears.

Well, it happened once too often for movie critic Leonard Mosley of the Daily Express. Advised that Hollywood's Alan Ladd was to play a Canadian paratrooper in "Red Beret," a story of the famous British parachute regiment, Mosley exploded.

"For the last time, I repeat—I'm sick and tired," wrote Mosley, "of having a Hollywood type lurking around every turret, cockpit and machine-gun post where the Union Jack waved during the war."

Sure, says Mosley, there were lots of Canadians in the parachute troops.

"But why pick a Hollywood actor . . . to play the lead? British directors seem to believe that Canadians and Americans have the same accent.

"They should hear the comments of Canadians on that."

HIRAM LINDELL IS HURT IN COLLISION

Hiram Lindell, R.R. No. 6, Belleville, was treated by Dr. Bob Young for scalp lacerations, and was admitted to Peterborough hospital for observation, following a collision in Peterborough with a car driven by Herbert A. Thompson.

The Lindell car went 45 feet after the impact, breaking down a highway sign, then went another 21 feet and broke down a sign on a church lawn.

Considerable damage resulted to both cars.

CRYSTAL BEACH MAN HELD FOR CAR THEFT

Charles Hallett, 25, of Crystal Beach, was apprehended by provincial police on No. 2 highway near Bayside on Monday and has been charged with car theft.

Early yesterday the car was reported stolen at Crystal Beach and police throughout the province were notified. Constable F. K. McCarten spotted the licence number of the allegedly stolen auto as he was patrolling the Trenton-Belleville highway and apprehended the driver who is being returned to Crystal Beach to face charges.

DRIVER, TO AVOID COLLISION, HITS HYDRO POLE

Forced to choose between striking an oncoming car or a hydro pole at the side of the street, John Rigby, Moira Street, yesterday chose the lesser of two evils and bumped into the hydro pole causing about $100 damage to his car.

Rigby was proceeding north on Yeoman when at Catherine another car veered around the corner and headed directly for his car. Rigby swung right to avoid the approaching car and bumped into the hydro pole.

The other driver failed to stop and Rigby was unable to obtain the licence number.

District Governor Everson Visits Rotary Club

Stressing the necessity of regular attendance, Stanley F. Everson district governor of the Rotary clubs in this area, told Rotarians yesterday, "You can not have a Rotary club without compulsory attendance." He was guest speaker at the club's meeting in the Hotel Quinte.

The governor has the job of visiting other clubs in his district and speaking to them. Only recently returned from the northern clubs, Mr. Everson told of the "pattern" which seems to be in evidence at all Rotary clubs.

"Each man, each Rotarian, has a personality of his own which is affected by the work he is engaged upon," the speaker said, "this personality, the Rotarian brings to the club with him may be different but through all my travels to the clubs, I percieve a common personality in members of Rotary clubs, both in the far north and in the south of this province."

The governor congratulated the club on the work it has done with the crippled children's project. He urged them to look around them that there was a great deal of work which might still be accomplished.

The district governor was introduced by the mayor and thanked by O. H. Scott.

Five Hogs Die As Sudden Fire Destroys Barn

Five hogs nearly ready for marketing were lost in a farm blaze which Monday afternoon completely destroyed a frame barn on the farm of William Logan on No. 2 Highway just east of the city. The pigs were owned by John Holloway, tenant in the farm house, who used the barn to house his pigs.

The fire was discovered shortly after two o'clock by Holloway as he left the house to pick cucumbers in the garden. An hour later only the embers of the building remained.

"I saw smoke coming from a corner of the barn as I left the house," Mr. Holloway said. "I grabbed a pail of water and attempted to put it out but it was no use."

The flames raced through the dry straw and in no time were rolling out through the roof of the structure. City firemen were called but when they arrived on the scene smoke and flames were rolling 40 feet into the air.

Mr. Holloway's futile attempt to put out the fire made it impossible for him to save his hogs which were housed in a shed outside the stone basement of the barn. When he finally thought of the pigs it was too late but with the help of firemen he was able to save one pig which was pulled out of the fire. The pig was badly scorched and later was slaughtered for meat.

The barn had been used by Belle Beverages to store cases of empty soft drink bottles. The intense heat melted the glass which formed crazy patterns as it ran molten down the barn foundation.

Two Fairmiles To Arrive Here For Navy Days

A five man recruiting team arrived in Belleville today to await the arrival of two Fairmiles which lifted anchor at Hamilton last night and are expected to arrive here early this evening to spark a week-long recruiting drive for the Royal Canadian Navy.

Heading the recruiting team is Lieut. William R. Whitman, recently returned from Northern Ontario and Quebec where many volunteers were attested for service in the navy. Assisting the recruiting officer is Petty Officer Y. Tremblay, interviewer; Chief Petty Officer A. Champagne, assistant recruiting officer; Leading Seaman M. Luchine, driver, and Able Seaman Paul Posiak, medical assistant.

Appealing to young men between the ages of 17 and 25 years and ex-servicemen and tradesmen up to 29 years, the recruiting officer said that applications from Belleville volunteers would be finalized here. Following attestation, they would be sent to Kingston for outfitting and later to Cornwallis where they will undergo five months basic training. Should a volunteer be accepted who wishes time out to take care of personal matters, he said, leave-without-pay could be arranged for periods up to six weeks.

The recruiting station has been set up in the Bridge Street Armories and interviews will be held daily until Sept. 2.

Police Cruiser Forced Off Road, Two Arrested

It doesn't pay to hog the highway at any time and this is especially true when the oncoming car happens to be a police cruiser.

Monday O.P.P. Constable G. McNutt was patrolling No. 33 south of Frankford when an oncoming car forced him off the highway and onto the shoulder of the road. Braking his car to a stop he turned and overtook the other car.

As a result Fred Hill, Marmora, was charged with drunk driving, while a passenger in the car, Ross Loveless of the same village, was bocked on a drunk charge. Both men will appear in magistrate's court Thursday.

Classes Crowding Auditorium As 1270 Students Registered

With 1,270 students registered for the fall term, every available inch of space at the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School is being utilized, Principal George Currie said today.

Student congestion is such that two classrooms are being arranged in the school auditorium where desks are being installed and temporary partitions erected.

The school opens on September 2 with special opening exercises scheduled for the auditorium.

Principal Currie announced that the officers of the school will be open every day this week to Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The principal's office will register any student who has moved into district lately and also those who have changed their minds, and are returning to school.

Students of grades 11, 12 and 13 of the general course who were promoted but conditioned on one or more subjects, will have mixed time tables. These students are advised to call at the guidance office at the school this week to get their time tables made out at a time when they can expect individual assistance.

One Auto Every Five Seconds In 16-Hour Period Here Friday

How many cars, trucks and buses do 12.4 vehicles per minute add up to during a normal day of traffic?

Any member of the city traffic department will tell you it adds up to endless traffic problems with countless traffic jams every day in the downtown section of the city.

And according to Police Chief Walter Probert traffic congestion is inevitable despite measures introduced in an attempt to alleviate the trouble.

Last Friday police took a traffic count on Dundas Street at Church Street and during the 16-hour period from 7:00 in the morning until 11:00 in the evening, just 11,907 vehicles passed one given point. This breaks down to 744.18 per hour or just over 12.4 vehicles per minute.

The majority of these vehicles passed through the main intersection of Bridge and Front Streets with traffic up and down Front Street adding to the conjestion.

"That's just too many cars for the space they have to travel in," commented the police chief. "And the proposed four-lane highway north of the city is apparently still much in the future."

Belleville Hockey Association 'Bigger and Better' in 52-53 Season

The Belleville Hockey Association will function again this year "bigger and better than ever," President Jack N. Yanover announced this morning.

The announcement came following a special meeting held here last night which dispelled rumors prevalent a few days ago that the organization might disband this season

Manager Cook Back

Manager Bill Cook, who announced his retirement from the junior "B" management due to business pressure, a few days ago, reconsidered and will again assume the managerial duties.

The association did, however, decide to "split" the secretary-treasurer's job. Dick Beare, who has "held the fort" since the inception of the organization will again act as treasurer. A secretary will be appointed at a future meeting.

The association decided to continue its "tie-up" with the Chicago Black Hawks, and arrangements will be made with the Arena Commission, if possible to have ice ready in Memorial Arena on October 3rd when the Hawks are scheduled to play an exhibition game here.

A meeting of the association will be called immediately after Labor Day when minor hockey questions will be discussed and other pre-season business brought before the panel.

Annual Program Track and Field Set for Friday

Recreational director Lloyd Doran announced today that the Belleville playgrounds annual track and field day will be held Friday of this week unless postponed until Saturday because of rain.

A full program of running, jumping, and throwing events will commence at the East Hill playground at 10.00 a.m. Friday morning, and will continue through to 4.00 p.m. with an hour and twenty minute break at 11.40 for lunch.

In addition to the track and field events, there will be horseshoe pitching contests, relay races, volleyball, checker tournaments, and a contest for the best decorated bicycle.

Winners in each event will receive crests, while the Bob Blaind Trophy will be presented to the playground with the highest total point score.

Playground supervisors will report for regular duty at their respective grounds at 9.00 a.m. as usual and will escort children to the East Hill playgrounds for the day's events. Children, however, will not be escorted back to their own area.

Playground supervisors will act as inspectors, field judges, and scorers for the day's events.

Expect Potato Prices to Drop Here Saturday

With potatoes selling at $3.75 per bag in Toronto and $4 in Ottawa, gardeners on the farmers' market here today expressed the view that there would be a sharp drop in the local price by Saturday when harvesting of late potatoes gets under way.

Asked why the price here remained at $5 for a bag of potatoes while Toronto and Ottawa consumers were charged considerably less, one truck gardener admitted that farmers were taking advantage of the current area shortage "because no potatoes were coming in."

Potato offerings on the market today were slight.

CHILD DROWNED IN CREEK

NAVAN (CP)—Two-year-old Ray Moffett wandered away from his playmates on his father's farm yesterday, toppled into a small creek and was drowned. Navan is 15 miles east of Ottawa.

PROCLAMATION

IN ACCORDANCE with a request made by The Department of National Defence (Navy), I hereby proclaim August 26th to September 1st, 1952 as "Navy Days" for the City of Belleville and I would respectfully request that it be observed as such by all citizens.

McLean Haig, O. B. E.,
Mayor.

Most of Village Residents Trucked Off to Camps

PERMATANG TINGGI, Malaya (AP)—All but a handful of the Chinese residents of this north Malaya village were trucked off to detention camps yesterday after defying a four-day British ultimatum to inform on a gang of Communist terrorists.

Weeping in the drenching morning rain, 66 of the 79 villagers were carted off to an unknown destination, leaving their belongings behind. There was no explanation as to why 13 were left.

All of the villagers had remained tight-lipped, refusing to fill out written questionaires or to tell whether they knew anything about the Red guerrilla gang responsible for two recent murders, robberies and other crimes in the vicinity.

The ultimatum was handed to them last Thursday by British High Commissioner Gen. Sir Gerald Templer.

Earl Alexander Sells One Home, May Buy Another

LONDON (CP)—Field Marshal Earl Alexander, former Governor-General of Canada and now Britain's Minister of Defence, has sold one of his two country homes and is planning to sell the other.

The Nightingales, at Chalfont St. Giles, Buckinghamshire, surrounded by 10 acres of parkland, has been purchased by G. C. Vandervell, prominent London financier. The estate was bought by Lord Alexander during his viceregal term in Canada. While on holiday here last year he spent much of his time remodelling and redecorating the place.

The other property, a 16th century farmstead at Chobham, Surrey, is known as "Copyhold," and was acquired earlier this year before he accepted the post of Defence Minister. He has found, however, that the place is too small to serve as a permanent residence for his family.

Lord Alexander is searching for another country estate and meanwhile will live in his London house, in the exclusive Belgravia district.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Base metals gained strength in early afternoon stock market trading today as other sections drifted downward.

Industrials and western oils slipped steadily from the opening but golds gained until early afternoon. Base metals improved after a weak opening.

Trading broadened in early afternoon to cover a fairly wide list of mining issues but volume fell below last week's more active sessions. Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,158,000 shares.

Industrials showed a majority of declines as foods and utilities turned mixed after a strong opening. Banks continued strong and miscellaneous industrials slipped.

Golds were mixed after a firm opening as profit-taking skimmed earlier individual advances. Senior golds and holding companies were firm but junior producers and prospects slipped. Donalda and Preston traded extensively for penny gains.

Base metals recorded a majority of losses but the exchange's index rose as leading issues advanced. Falconbridge gained but Silver Miller slipped in heavy trading. Western oils continued yesterday's decline.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP)—Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Egg market prices eased for A large but held firmly for other grades. Quotations for eggs in fibre cases were: A large, 59-60 cents; A medium, 51-52; A small, 35-36; grade B, 39-40; grade C, 27-28. Wholesale to retail: A large, 65-66; A medium, 55-56; A. small, 40-41; grade B, 45-46; grade C, 34-35.

Butter prices were: first grade, 58 cents tenderable, 57¼-57½ cents nontenderable, second grade not established; western, 58¼-58½ cents.

Gen. Clark Denies Troops Causing Crime Wave

TOKYO (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark, United States and United Nations far east commander, today denied that U. N. troops are causing a crime wave in Japan.

In a public reply to a letter from the Japan Federation of Bar Associations, Clark said:

"As I personally make it my business to keep informed about the behavior of my men, I can assert with authority that we are not in the midst of a growing crime wave.

"On the contrary, there has been a speedy drop in crimes and incidents."

The Federation had made a public request for stricter discipline for U.N. forces in Japan because of "repeated crimes" by U.S. personnel.

Clark said U.S. forces—which number more than 50,000 at any one time in Japan—committed only 64 offences against persons in May, 62 in June, and 41 in July. He said the totals included such petty cases as pushing and shoving.

U.S. crimes against property—again including minor offences such as window breaking—were 55 in May, 44 in June, and 30 in July, Clark said.

New Financial Lure Offered Korean Veterans

OTTAWA (CP)—Cabinet has approved a new financial lure to try to keep Korean veterans in the army.

From now on a Korean veteran will be able to draw a discharge gratuity whether he stays in the army or leaves it. Hitherto the gratuity went immediately only to those who took their discharge and those who remained in uniform would only get it sometime in future years.

Several thousand special force men still are making up their minds whether to quit the army.

The gratuity runs to about $280 for a corporal with one year's service in Korea. It consists of 50 cents a day for each day plus two weeks pay and allowances for each six months overseas.

Peterborough Man Fined $4,750 For Evading Tax

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Charles S. Levine Mon., was fined $4,750 and costs or 18 months for evading $5,131.12 in income and excess profits taxes in 1944 and 1946.

Levine, proprietor of a George Street dress shop, pleaded guilty when arraigned a week ago.

He faced 10 charges of income tax evasion and attempting to evade compliance with the income war tax act.

Doctor Reports Amazing Results Of Brain Surgery

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—"Literally amazing results" with brain surgery to treat mental disorders were reported yesterday by Dr. G. H. Stevenson, superintendent of London's Ontario Hospital.

Dr. Stevenson said that of 119 lobotomies performed at the hospital the 50th patient was formally discharged yesterday after a six months trial period. Another 25, he said, are on that trial period.

Only one patient has been readmitted, Dr. Stevenson said.

The lobotomy is a relatively new form of brain surgery designed to sever connections between the front part of the brain and the remainder. The front lobes are believed to be the seat of certain emotions which may produce unhealthy mental conditions.

All of the lobotomies have been performed at the hospital, he said, by Dr. Charles Drake, neurosurgeon. No deaths have resulted and not one of the patients has been made worse by the surgery, he said.

Father Slays Invalid Daughter

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A retired grocer stabbed his 18-year-old invalid daughter to death with a butcher knife yesterday and later explained to police: "I couldn't stand to see her suffer any more."

Police called the slaying of Adela Moskal a "mercy killing." Detective Charles Sapp said John Moskal related that while his wife was out shopping, he led the girl into the bathroom and plunged the knife twice into her breast.

"Before my baby's birth," Sapp quoted the 57-year-old father, "my wife injured herself by falling against the corner of a counter. The baby was never normal. . ."

Moskal is being held for investigation of murder.

Secret Talks Over Pakistan Are Opened

GENEVA, Switzerland (Reuters)—Secret ministerial talks aimed at solving the five-year-old dispute between India and Pakistan over the status of Kashmir began here today.

Delegations of the two countries—led by defence minister Gopalaswami Ayyangar of India and Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan, Pakistan's foreign minister, met for their opening discussions.

Dr. Frank P. Graham, United Nations mediator in Kashmir, is presiding at the talks, which will center on the deadlocked issue of demilitarization — the difference over the number and character of forces to be left on each side of the cease-fire line.

Demilitarization is a necessary preliminary to a plebiscite by which the people of Kashmir would decide to which country they should accede.

Toolmaker Says He Paid Woman $75 for Statement

DETROIT (AP)—A Windsor toolmaker testified yesterday that he paid Mrs. Nicholas Steigerwald $75 to get a false bank statement for use in his application for a United States visa.

The testimony came from Lawrence E. MacKinnon, 35, charged with fraudulent entry into the United States, MacKinnon testified at his deportation hearing.

Mrs. Steigerwald, who operates a visa-expediting office in Windsor, is a sister of Paul Martin, Canada's Minister of Public Health.

When the U.S. government disclosed last week that Mrs. Steigerwald was under investigation in the current visa investigation, Martin said he had warned his sister on several occasions to cease certain practices.

U.S. immigration men here are investigating a suspected visa racket in which false statements are reported to have been obtained for aliens seeking entry to the U.S.

One Canadian alien has been ordered deported after admitting he used fraud to enter the U.S.

Immigration men say they have 100 such cases under investigation.

They are appealing the single deportation order to determine whether it will stand as a precedent for other cases.

65 Indicted, Effort to Smash Smuggling Ring

NEW YORK (AP)—Sixty-five persons were indicted yesterday in a move to smash a $500,000,000 yearly gold-smuggling racket.

The federal indictment said: "Unless this nefarious trade is stopped our financial structure will be undermined by the siphoning off of large reserves of our gold supply."

The racket consists of the legal purchase of gold at $35 an ounce by persons claiming to be jewelry manufacturers and the resale of the gold at huge profits in foreign black markets, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Louis I. Kaplan.

The grand jurors said regulations for enforcement of the United States gold laws are ineffective and federal authorities are "lax in their enforcement."

The accused, if convicted on all counts, face sentences ranging from five years in prison and $10,000 fine up to 100 years and $210,000 fine.

Among those indicted is Salvatore Sollazzo, sent to prison as a "fixer" in the recent college basketball scandal.

Kaplan said the gold was smuggled to Belgium and Holland, sold at eastily twice the U.S. price and the profits used to buy diamonds which were smuggled to America.

The prosecutor said one smuggler concealed four pounds of gold in a length of salami and another was seized carrying a cane made of the finest gold but lacquered to appear like mahogany.

One automobile sported five solid gold hub caps coated with nickel and another had a solid gold front bumper painted black, said Kaplan.

Explosion May Have Killed Crew Of Mystery Ship

ST. John's, Nfld. (CP)—The crew of the fire - destroyed schooner James Jones rowed quietly ashore during the night and allayed fears they might have perished in an explosion.

A source here reported the crew rowed ashore at Cabot Island, 30 miles from Cape Bonavista on Newfoundland's eastern extremity. There were no immediate details, but one source said the crew abandoned the ship after she caught fire. They rowed more than 50 miles to shore and apparently were all fit when they landed.

There was no word as to how many were in the crew but small coastal packets of this size carry from eight to 20 men.

Splintered, unburned wood was found in the area where the vessel, probably a coaster, went down in a cloud of smoke and steam. There was no sign of survivors nor personal effects.

Coast Guard officials received messages from the Newfoundland coastal freighter Blue Prince which found the smouldering wreckage some 40 miles east-northeast of Cape Bonavista.

The Prince described the vessel as "about 70 tons and 75 feet long, with black hull and copper bottom." Fire had burned all distinguishing marks and the craft sank before a thorough investigation could be made.

Work Progresses On Beautifying Sen. Fraser Park

Trenton (Special)—Senator W. A. Fraser looks with pride at the spacious park area at the waterfront where workmen are preparing to add another 250 feet to the breakwall, extending it to the west toward the Cooperage property. There are plans drawn to make this part of Trenton a beautiful showplace where Trentonians and visitors can pause under spreading shade trees in the cooling breezes off the bay. Already tourists from across the line talk about the beauty Senator Fraser Park affords. Rehabilitation of the waterfront is under the guidance of the local Parks Board.

HOLD MESS PICNIC

Members of the Sergeants Mess at Station Trenton entertained some 150 children at their annual picnic at Cedardale Beach on Saturday. Young and old alike took part in sports and games and each child received one or more prizes. W/O. Cable and Sgt. Samain emerged champions from the piggy back fight although the competition was rough and not exactly abiding by Queensbury rules or any other rules at times.

Picnic officials were: W/O. John Silver, M.B.E., master of ceremonies; W/O C. F. Barlow, prizes; W/O. Flewelling, W/O. Nicholson, Sgt. Gilbert, race officials.

LAD SUFFERS SCRATCHES

Six-year-old Tommy Way of Trenton suffered a few scratches when he fell from his tricycle running out into the path of car driven by Ernest Pearse of Fergus. There was a town bus stopped at the corner of Canal and Front streets. As the car was passing the bus the boy on the tricycle shot out from behind it. Mrs. Pearse and Mrs. George Collier of Glen Miller were passengers in the car.

SOME QUESTIONS UNANSWERED

Now that Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, who is an authority on more than one subject, has issued a dictum, no right-handed, sword-bearing bridegroom need be any longer in doubt about on which side of his bride he should walk when leaving the scene of the marriage ceremony.

Just after the wedding of Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden and Churchill's niece, Clarissa Spencer Churchill, in a London registry office, confusion arose as to whether Mr. Eden should leave the building and greet the throng on the bride's left or right side.

Eden, probably a trifle flustered, asked Churchill for a ruling. Said Churchill: "You have her on your left side, so you can keep your sword arm free, old boy."

That's the version of the occurence given by the United Press. The Associated Press claimed that Eden, in his confusion, asked advice of James D. Holiday, the registrar who had just performed the ceremony. The Associated Press quoted Holiday as saying: "On the right side of the bride, so your sword arm is free."

Did Eden address his question to both Churchill and Holiday? If so, both press associations should have chronicled the fact. If he questioned only one, then one of the two press associations must be misinforming us.

But even when this error or misunderstanding is reconciled, there are still other important questions left unanswered. What if the groom is left-handed? A left-handed swordsman with a bride clinging to his left arm is as much handicapped as a right-handed swordsman with a bride clinging to his right arm.

Besides, there are other types of bridegrooms who should be considered and who are ignored in this ruling. For example, what of the fellow who depends upon his "bow of yew, strong and true," to defend himself and his bride from the kind of people that Shakespeare would have called "idle loons" or "naughty varlets?" A bowman must have his bow strung and both his holding-hand and his drawing-hand free if he is to go into action immediately.

What of the axeman, the spearman, the halberdier and the various other folk who need two hands to wield their respective weapons? Supposing the bridegroom were a clergyman, forbidden (by mediaeval ecclesiastical law) to shed blood, but permitted to crack the skulls of his enemies with a lusty, two-handed bludgeon called a mace?

Until we are given a definite ruling, we are going to assume that, when a bridegroom who depends upon a two-handed weapon is accompanied by his bride, he should walk in front of her, with both hands free, while the bride trots along in his wake, toting his misericorde, his extra sheaf of arrows, or some other secondary part of his equipment.

"IT IS AN ILL WIND . . .

From Calgary comes word that D'Arcy Exploration Company Limited will open an office in that city. D'Arcy Exploration's men are already on the job. "We are interested in the oil prospects of western Canada and will study them through our Calgary office," said P. T. Cox, the exploration manager. Mr. Cox also stated his company will "study" the vast oil sand deposits of northern Alberta. (These oil sand deposits contain vast quantities of oil, but so far no one has succeeded in finding economically feasible methods of extracting the oil from them.)

At first glance, there is nothing noteworthy about a new oil company starting operations in Alberta. There are many there already. But D'Arcy Exploration Company Limited is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company — the same outfit whose properties were "nationalized" by the government of Iran not long ago and whose tribulations have been frequently publicized in the press.

Thus it would appear that there is something to be said in favor of nationalization, after all; that is, there is something to be said for the nationalization of an industry in some faraway place if the process results in that industry transferring its activities to Canada. We are, in fact, in favor of this kind of nationalization — the kind of nationalization, we emphasize, which causes its victims to transfer their assets, their techniques and their executives to Canada.

We hope D'Arcy Exploration thrives in sunny Alberta. We predict it will have no trouble with the Social Crediters. They are dead against anything like nationalization or socialization.

LOSS

'Tis this I think of those away:
They grew to be a part of me,
And should I have to grieve today
The weaker I'd be left to be.

Though faith and courage keep me strong,
This truth I've learned as time went by:
When skies are gray and days seem long
I need what loving hearts supply.

There is so little self in me.
So much of others I have known
That what I've done and grown to be
I could not have achieved alone.

At a special meeting of the city council it was decided to construct asphaltic concrete pavements with concrete curb and gutter on Station Street from the upper bridge to Bettes Street and also on Highland Avenue from Bridge Street west to Dundas Street west. The council also awarded to W. J. Donohue the contract for the construction of a sanitary sewer on Geddes Street from Evans Street to College St.

Miss E. Henderson and Miss F. Lawrence have returned home after a hiking trip of two weeks to Toronto and Niagara Falls.

A baby carriage left in front of a store on Front Street yesterday afternoon started on a trip without a guiding hand and the result was that the infant in the carriage was dumped into the mud on the road. A passerby noticed the incident and hurried to the rescue of the child which was besmeared with mud and was a sight to behold when handed to the horrified, mother.

"Poularity in Belleville" said an ex-alderman, "is a fleeting and uncertain thing. There is no accounting for how you gain it and how you lose it. "Something like hay fever," suggested a listener, but the former alderman did not notice the interruption. "Now there's Alderman So-and-So," he went on. "I never could see where he got his popularity. I sat in the council with him and he supported the things for which the rest of us were condemned. Yet at the next election we were all turned down and he was elected with a fine majority." "Do you think that the Municipal Reform Association will do business at the old stand this fall?" he was asked. "Mark my words," said the ex-alderman solemnly, "if the Municipal Reform Association puts a ticket in the field next January, they will be smashed worse than the tombstones in the old Dundas Street burying ground." And he walked off leaving the listener shuddering with horror.

Fleas and Chopsticks

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

If Communist charges that the Allied forces in Korea were resorting to germ warfare had not in the first place been so deadly serious that some of our own people thought there might be some truth in them, they might have been dismissed at once as a practical joke. Now that the "evidence" has been presented in the form of photographs showing children picking up infested fleas with chopsticks, we can relax a little and regard the charges as a contribution to the gaiety of nations.

There is little to laugh at in the actual conditions of international affairs and especially in the factual reports of the Korean war. But we can turn with relief to what Arthur Bryant describes as "the tireless efforts of the Dean of Canterbury" in broadcasting the "choicest fables and legends from Red China and the Soviet Union! For no one surely, since Hans Andersen, has given us anything so whimsical and full of fantasy as the story of North Korean children picking up fleas with chopsticks."

Song of the Flea

Before I saw the pictures, the idea that anyone could pick up a flea with a chopstick struck me as "extremely funny," as the Oxford Englishman would say. I have never seen a flea in Canada, but it is or was a ubiquitous insect in the Old Country, and it was no respector of persons. The flea in classic literature. In Goethe's Faust there is a song about a flea which begins:

"Once on a time there was a king
A lovely queen had he—
But dearer far than queen or son,
He loved a big black flea."

The English mathematician, Augustus de Morgan, immortalized the flea with the classic couplet:

"Great fleas have little fleas upon their back to bite 'em
And little fleas have lesser fleas, and so ad infinitum."

Tragic stories have been written of all-night hunts for one of those little nocturnal vampires. It has been estimated that, in proportion to its size, a flea could jump over the loftiest skyscraper in New York. Just when you think you have got him under your hand, he is biting you on the back of your neck! The mosquito is the only other night pest comparable to the flea, but he does not get under bed clothes and he does give you some warning of his approach as he hovers, singing, about your ear. If you cunningly wait for him to stop singing, and can judge approximately where he has decided to feed, you have a good chance of swatting him with a lightning slap—which, however, may hurt more than a mosquito bite. But you can then turn over and resume your slumber—until you are awakened by his serenading at your other ear.

I cite these common experiences as examples of the extreme difficulty of catching a flea by hand, for they go to expose the absurdity of those pictures which are said to show North Korean children picking up fleas with chopsticks. But apart from the impossibility of such a feat, it is unlikely that parents, if they had any thought for their children, would allow them to be exposed to attack by such deadly insects. We should present our tsanks to the propaganda fction factories at Moscow for their entertainment, and ask them if they have any more funny stories.

15 Generals In Iranian Army Are Retired

TEHRAN (AP)—The high brass of Iran's 120,000-man army was thinned Saturday by the retirement of 15 generals, including one dismissed from the military governorship of Tehran after his troops fired on rioters here July 21.

Many other officers were reported, without official confirmation, to be marked for retirement by the Nationalist government of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, who now is his own defence minister.

The former military governor who was retired was Lt.-Gen. Alavi Moghaddam. His troops fired on rioters during clashes reported to have caused the death of 35 or more persons. Blamed by Nationalists for the bloodshed, he was dismissed from the military governorship the following day.

American Oil Expert Talks With Mossadegh

TEHRAN (AP) —W. Alton Jones, chairman of the Cities Service Oil Corp., of New York, has arrived at the invitation of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh A government spokesman said Jones will see if he can put Iran's rich oil industry back into operation.

Reliable informants said Jones already has talked with Mossadegh. They said he intended to go to Abadan for an inspection tomorrow.

The world's biggest refinery at Abadan has been shut down since British authorities pulled out last October following Iranian nationalization of the properties of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

In New York, a spokesman for the Cities Service Company, the parent company of which Jones is president, said his mission in Iran was to mediate, and that the company had no financial interest in the situation.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LET YOUR LIGHT SHINE

We need more magnifying glasses.

Hot as the sun sometimes gets, its direct rays never set anything on fire. But let us hold a magnifying glass so that the rays are focused on something inflammable and we will soon have a blaze.

The heat was there all the time but it lacked the strength necessary to burn until it was concentrated and focused.

That is why we need more magnifying glasses. There are always a few leaders who make magnifying glasses of themselves —who let God's power shine through them and focus it on the human affairs around them That is the secret of great Christians who are able to accomplish so much. We need more of them.

Note that the magnifying glass does two things. It lets the light come in, and it sends it out again. Both these functions are essential to the Christian. Unless he lets God's' spirit and strength shine into him, he can do nothing. But he must not stop there: the light must shine through him to others. Christianity is not a fait of solitude, but a faith of fellowship.

"Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in Heaven.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A Canadian business man just home from England had a particularly important conference with a London business man, and they met at Grosvenor House, the famous hotel, and carried out their interview in one of its lounges. When the meeting was ended to the great satisfaction of both, the Londoner as host, suggested that he would like to entertain the Canadian for the evening. The Canadian, happy to have the business well and profitably done, was not in the mood to set out on any round of entertainment, but he asked the Englishman what he had in mind.

"Well, Ill tell you," said the Londoner, "I suggest we have dinner here, and then come and sit in the lobby. There has been a royal garden party at the palace this afternoon, and the hotel will be filled with distinguished personalities. Let's just sit and speculate on them, as they pass by."

Thus, after a good dinner, the two sat enjoying as delightful an evening's entertainment as could be devised. The formally dressed throngs in the lobby offered no end of food for thought and speculation. One of them was a dark, swarthy gentleman with a great black moustache, and a uniform so loaded with medals and decorations that his coat sagged off his left shoulder. He might have been a nabob or a shah or at least grand vizier. He had been at the garden party.

He strode into the lobby of Grosvenor House and flung himself down in a couch in one corner of the lobby, in view of our two businessmen. He summoned a waiter and gave an order. The waiter failed to understand the mighty man's commands. There was much talking, gesticulating and a little raising of voices. The waiter got the head waiter. The potentate grew more vociferous.

After about 10 minutes of commotion, a manager came, and following another spell of spirited discussion and gesticulation, the mystery was solved and the waiters rushed away to execute the command.

"I say," said the Londoner, "let's have the same thing he ordered."

So they called their waiter and told him to bring two of the same thing the bemedalled Sultan had asked for.

In due time the waiter returned with two cups of China tea.

SPURIOUS HEART TROUBLE

In the good old days of health columning real doctors sometimes envied my racket. "You mean because I make a living without working?" No, not just that, but the privilege of saying exactly what I think without fear or favor.

Hum-m-m. Come to think of it, working conditions were more satisfactory in the good old days. Some changes, I suppose, are inevitable as the world rolls along. For instance we put a radio in the mill where the slaves process the mail—so they could hear some great speech or other. We forgot to remove it afterward, and presently the production declined to a new low and the incoming mail piled up on us. We found the slaves were listening to all the favorite programs, and pausing with every station break to discuss them. So we removed the radio. Immediately the second best worker and one of her helpers walked out. No explanation. They just quit without a word. In applying for unemployment compensation they certified that they had quit because working conditions were unsatisfactory.

In the green book Nerves and Nutrition (25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope) I forgot what parlous times these are and classified victims of "neurasthenia" or "bad nerves" as Class A and Class B neurotics — one class using their "weak nerves" to impose upon relatives, friends and the world, the other class having some actual ailment, whether of the nervous system or not. In my naive way I thought that might help people who are under the nervous misapprehension to obtain a better diagnosis of what really ails them and take the right remedy or treatment without further preoccupation with "nerves."

I was greviously wrong. Class A neurotics hated me for my teaching and Class B neurotics didn't seem to understand what I was driving at.

Had to delete that chapter from the green book.

Now I'm trying to decide whether it will do more good to interpolate a chapter on spurious heart disease in the booklet about heart ond artery troubles (C V D, 25c and s.a.e.) or to pussyfoot around the subject. I'll be grateful for any suggestions readers may offer, but please remember, my only concern is about the overall effect on the health and happiness of the public and I don't give a huh about any other aspect of the problem.

A talk about Iatrogenic Heart Disease was printed or at least released for publication in this column a year ago — iatrogenic means produced by the doctor. You know, some bumbling charlatan in ethical clothing listens to the heart or feels the pulse with a frown, a shake of the head or some muttered remark—and the patient goes away with the conviction that he or she has a "weak" heart or some vague "heart disease."

Still worse, the charlatan thinks aloud or even tells the poor victim how many notches his or her blood pressure is, and worst of all persuades him or her to have an electrocardiogram made and interprets it as proof of real heart disease, whereas we know that abnormalities in the electrocardiogram occur for example in cases where the only fault is perhaps insufficient daily intake of vitamin B.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOD'S GREAT ACRES

I can conceive of no one becoming acquainted with the forrests, streams, valleys, and the intricately beautiful creations in all nature, and then not having an inward and continuing reverence for all of God's great acres.

I came across an interesting statement by George Borrow, in his book on "The Bible in Spain." He said: "I have always found in the disposition of the children of the fields a more determined tendency to religion and piety than amongst the inhabitants of towns and cities; and the reason is obvious: they are less acquainted with the works of man's hands than those of God."

How anyone can look the simplest flower in the face, or take a glance into the heavens at night, and not be an ardent believer in the Creator of it all, is a mystery to me. Man does many wonderful things—but he gets all his tips from God, whether he acknowledges it or not. He can make a telephone, a radio, a television set—but Nature, God's creation, had all the ingredients awaiting him. And to save his life, man could not make a natural rose!

The more we look out upon nature, and note the endless evidences of a divine mind that has worked it all out, the more solid our faith becomes—even the faith of a child—for the wonders are presented on every hand. Happy is that one whose vision is good and whose heart is tuned to catch the harmony and beauty in which all nature abounds.

Nature never gets discouraged. She takes her defeats and wounds in order. She binds up her own wounds, as you have so often noted in trees. And nature keeps replenishing. Note the great number of small trees scattered everywhere in a forest. Little children, awaiting their turn at life. And the abundance of these small trees is so that the strongest may survive. The more you study nature the more you are amazed at the knowledge that awaits anyone with an open and anxious mind to learn.

What a privilege it is, and what an opportunity, for each one of us to become in tune with the Infinite! No matter how old this earth may become there will always be something new to be explored!

Water Hemlock Grave Menace To Livestock

TORONTO—This week a weed has has been chosen which constitutes a menace to livestock rather than to crops. In making this statement, C. H. Kingsbury, Fieldman for the Crops Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture points out that each spring a number of cattle are poisoned as a result of eating the roots of Water Hemlock. The losses substained from this poisoning make it well worth while for cattlemen in affected areas to search out this weed and destroy it.

Water Hemlock, or Cowbane as it is sometimes called, is usually found on wet marshy land, along ditches or stream banks. This relatively tall plant may grow six to eight feet high. The leaves are usually divided into three parts while the individual flowers are small and grouped into white flat-topped clusters. Mr. Kingsbury states that when Water Hemlock is pulled out or dug up a group of tubers will be found at the base of the stem. These are somewhat similar to Dahlia tubers in appearance, and are the part of the plant which poisons livestock.

Not Difficult to Control

He says that Water Hemlock is not difficult to control if time and trouble are taken to search out the plant — and cattlemen should take this time to go over their pastures as they cannot afford to leave it growing. The surest way of killing small patches of Water Hemlock is to dig or grub it out—roots and all—and then burn it. Mr. Kingsbury points out that no part of the plant should be left where cattle can get at it.

However, he adds that in large patches, further spread can be prevented by mowing it before it goes to seed.

As far as chemical control goes he states that 2,4-D will kill the tops of Water Hemlock and when used repeatedly at the rate of one pound of acid per acre, it will also kill the poisonous roots.

In conclusion, Mr. Kingsbury says that most of the trouble from Water Hemlock poisoning of cattle occurs in the early spring, when pastures are short. Indeed, if the trouble is to be avoided next spring, now is the time to look for the weed and destroy it. By so doing, trouble from this source will be avoided seven to eight months from now.

WEDDINGS

CONNOR—McCAIG

The marriage of Katherine Margaret McCaig, Reg.N., daughter of Captain and Mrs. Samuel H. McCaig, to Glenn Foster Connor, Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Howard Connor, of Tweed, took place in St. Michael's Rectory, Cobourg, Saturday, August 2nd. Rev. G. J. Maher officiated. The rectory was decorated with white gladioli.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white Chantilly lace over ice blue satin in ballerina length, with full skirt and white velvet sash. She wore white mittens. Her fingertip veil was held by a pleated satin headdress with pearl embroidery, and she carried white gardenias and stephanotis.

The bride's attendant was her sister, Joan, as maid of honor, wearing a ballerina-length gown of bronze and white nylon marquisette. Her flowers were bronze poms and stephanotis.

Mr. Douglas Connor, of Toronto, was groomsman.

At the reception at Fielding House, the bride's mother received in a dress of Cobalt blue crepe with inserts of rosepoint lace, and accessories of navy blue. Her corsage was buff Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother was in powder blue crepe afternoon frock with navy accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

During the reception, Miss Carol Connor, of Tweed, accompanied her brother, Mr. D. H. Connor, as he sang "Until" and "Through The Years".

For her travelling costume, the bride chose a chartreuse dress, navy duster coat with navy accessories and corsage of white gardenias.

On their return the happy young couple will reside at 37 Strathearn Road, Toronto.

Out-of-town guests were present from Alliston, Chatham, Chicago, Ill., Hamilton, Orillia, Ottawa, Port Hope, Peterborough, Rochester, N.Y., Toronto, Tweed, and Waterloo.

BEDAL—DILLMAN

The wedding of interest took place in Brampton, Ont., when Miss Catherine Marie Dillman became the bride of Mr. Carl Lee Bedal, of Richmond. in Grace United Church, in a ceremony performed by Rev. R. Davidson, Saturday afternoon at four o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Dillman, of Brampton, and Mr. Bedal is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bedal, of Brighton, Ont.

For the occasion the church was decorated with gladioli, palms, and candelabra, and Miss Jennie Milner played the organ music. Mrs. C. Corkett was the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Mrs. Claude Watts, of Toronto, as matron of honor, and Mrs. Gordon Proctor, of Newmarket, and Miss Beryl Hunter, of Toronto, as bridesmaids. Little Miss Nikki Watts, of Uxbridge, was flower girl.

Mr. Keith Bedal, of Ottawa, was best man and the ushers were Mr. Claude Watts, Mr. Ed. Gibson, of Toronto; Mr. Willis Glenn, of Arnprior, and Mr. Bruce Brugnell of Peterborough.

The bride chose a gown of blush satin, embroidered with lace and seed pearls. A matching cap held her fingertip veil of Chantilly lace, and she carried a cascade bouquet of orchids and roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Yellow Briar Inn, Brampton, later Mr. and Mrs. Bedal left for a honeymoon in Muskoka.

Trevelling the bride wore a toast-colored wool suit with dark brown accessories, and a corsage bouquet of roses.

On their return they will make their home in Richmond.

Wonderful Woolknits

Open Letter

TO MOTHERS OF
LITTLE GALS FROM
5 TO HIGH SCHOOL AGE.

How does your daughter grow? With naturally curly hair? If so, we'll cut her hair in a style that will be trim and tantalizing. If not, we'll cut her hair to a perky length and give her a baby-soft permanent wave. No more putting it up every night or after every rainstorm. This plan is not only helpful to you, but good for your child. Most little girls are coquettes at heart. We'll wager a child who looks pretty as she can will be smart as she can—and happier — in school.

SPECIAL AUGUST 20th. to 30th.

Women's Activities

TRINITY W.A.

On last Wednesday afternoon Madoc Trinity United W.A. members enjoyed a pleasant outing to the summer home of Mrs. Arthur Parks, Moira Lake. Twenty-five were present. Mrs. Tanner conducted the opening exercises and general business.

Mrs. Bert Devolin had charge of the worship period which included the repeating of 23rd Psalm, the singing of several appropriate hymns and readings. "The Teamster's Sermon" by Mrs. Hulin, "Borrowed", by Mrs. Bennett, a motion song by Marlyn Devolin, "Climb up the Mountain" and a Bible quiz.

Mrs. Gawley took charge of the program with several members assisting: Mrs. Storring, a reading "When We Have to We Can"; Miss Holmes "I Know Something Good About You"; "Hereby Hangs a Tale", by Mrs. Fred Fleming. and "Guests In the House", by Mrs. Gawley, concluding with a quiz.

The remainder of the time was spent in piecing quilt blocks, and in games.

An enjoyable social hour was spent with a bountiful pot-luck luncheon being served cafeteria style.

Thanks were extended to Mrs. Parks by all present for the pleasant afternoon.

4TH SIDNEY W.M.S.

The regular meeting the 4th Sidney W.M.S. was held in the church hall, Wednesday afternoon with nine members and four children present.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. H. Gray opened the meeting giving the meditation on the means of grace as given in the August Monthly, assisted by Mrs. Lloyd. Prayer of Thanksgiving for God's Love by Mrs. Lloyd.

Mrs. Tufts read the hymn "Thanks to Thee our Heavenly Father", which had been used at the closing service of the Lauback Literary compaign at Dondi, Africa, in February, 1950.

The treasurer's report given was most encouraging for this part of the year.

The lesson on Africa was used, with Mrs. Gray giving the reading, "I Remember Africa" as written by Virgil Sly. This was so well told of what he had seen and felt that one could almost visualize travelling with him.

"The United Church Missions in Africa", written by D. H. Gallagher, author of "Along African Trails", was read by Mrs. S. Lloyd.

Mrs. F. Tucker followed with a resume of "Along African Trails". This gave a good insight of the study book to be used in the missionary work this year. These lessons proved interesting and the members felt it a good start toward the study book.

A social half hour was enjoyed over refreshments.

Bee With Honey

Carol Emery, 9, of Victoria, B.C., is honey to this pet bee which crawls on her face and arms and doesn't fly away. Carol and her sister Linda, 7, nursed the bee while its broken wing mended. They feed it on a honey and water nectar and the bee is an inseparable companion. — (CP Photo.)

WHITE'S W.A.

Mrs. George Bilham opened her home on Friday, August 22, for the regular meeting of White's Woman's Association, with 11 members, three visitors and five children present. The president, Mrs. Floyd Dudley, presided.

Mrs. Jim Palmer was in charge of the devotional service with Mrs. W. A. Jeffery as pianist. All joined in singing "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind." Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson read a poem entitled "Ballad of Good Counsel", by Chaucer. Mrs. Palmer read the Scripture, Matthew 6: 5-15, which included "The Lord's Prayer". She then played a transcription of "The Lord's Prayer" sung by 36 Negro voices with out accompaniment and the "Hallelujah Chorus" by an English choir. These selections and comments were much enjoyed.

One member paid dues. The third cooking sale brought in $20.72. A sale is planned for Saturday, August 30.

Societies invited include, Johnstown, Wesley, Centenary, Aikens, King Street Church, Trenton, Grace Church, Trenton, Carmel Centre, Holloway Street Church, Belleville.

The program was taken by Mrs. Albert Jones with readings, "Marry The Girl", and "She Makes You Welcome", by Mrs. Ernest Curtis and Mrs. Walter Jones.

A contest, "Times of Year" was won by Mrs. W. A. Jeffery, who tied with two other ladies.

Mrs. Ernest Curtis moved a vote of thanks to the hostess.

After the meeting closed the hostess served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Public Health Specialist Now Visiting Canada

MONTREAL (CP) — Isadore Denike might be called a roving reporter, but she's as much at home with bandages and medicine as with paper and typewriter. She's a public health specialist from Washington, D.C.

Miss Denike's assignment is to tour as much of the world as she can, learning about health systems and methods and reporting back to the American Nurses Association.

She is director of student health services at Freedman's Hospital in Washington, and has a master's degree from the University of Minnesota.

Travels Widely

Whenever she comes across an idea that could be used back home, out comes the typewriter and off goes a report to Washington. She has already visited Mexico, Spain, Germany, France and England.

At present she is taking a look at the way Canadians approach health problems. She says Canadians do things "much the same as at home."

But she has found that standards of public nursing differ widely from country to country. Sanitation in Mexico is still primitive, she says. In Britain they are as up-to-date as anywhere, with maternity work especially well-advanced, but there tradition is still overemphasized, she thinks.

Britain, however, has a lower infant death rate than Canada or the United States, she said, because there nurses are trained as midwives and there is an active program of pre-natal care for all prospective mothers.

BOY DIES OF WOUND

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her sister vanished with a married man.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A year ago my sister left home, leaving her three children with my mother, to go with a man who had two children of his own.

I wish I knew something to do that would make my mother stop grieving, for she is breaking her heart over this. If my sister would only write and say she was all right, it would take such a load off my mother's aching heart, but the two of them just seem to have vanished. I am sure things could be straightened out if we could only locate her, but we have searched everywhere, and my mother has come to believe that she is either dead or in fear of the man she went away with.

I am sure my sister is sorry for what she has done. Do you think some day she will come back? All of us are sick with worry about this terrible situation.—A. D. S.

Dear A.D.S.:

I think it is very likely indeed that eventually your sister will either return without warning, or get in touch with you some way. Most experience with such cases tend to show that this is usually what happens.

In the meantime, have you though of applying to the police department in your city, or engaging some private firm whose business it is to make a quiet but thorough search for people who have disappeared? The latter, I would think, would be preferable, as the search could be carried on very unobstrusively that way.

It might be a very good idea for you to do something like this, as it would certainly ease your mother's mind to be taking some definite action rather than merely going through the nerve-wracking business of simply waiting for something to happen.

This young man is a poor risk

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For almost four years I have been going with a young man of 23. I am 19.

For the first three years he seemed to care a lot for me, but during the last five months he seems to have changed. He gets mad over almost everything I say, and he keeps accusing me of being interested in other boys. Every time he gets a payday he goes out drinking, and he is not very reliable about keeping a job. He was out of a job for four months, and he expected me to give him money whenever he asked. He has a job now, but I don't know how long he will keep it.

We had been planning to marry, but now I'm not too sure I still love him enough, so please give me some advice.—D. L.

Dear D.L.:

All of us have faults, but it's important, when one is considering marriage, to think about whether the faults of the other person are the kind which will be likely to threaten the success of a marriage.

If you look at this young man's faults from this point of view, do you think a husband who drank up his pay, who was inclined to be jealous every time his wife looked at or spoke to another man, and who didn't hold a steady job, would be a very pleasant person to live with? I don't.

If your friend has attractions that offset these serious faults, you certainly haven't mentioned them, and as I look at it, these liabilities of his are too great to be offset by any charms he may have, anyhow.

I think you had better wait awhile and see if you can't find a young man who would be more dependable, mature and less selfish than this one.

GORE

GORE—There was a fine representation from here at Picton Fair on Wednesday and Thursday and all pronounced it 'better than ever before.'

Gore has three couples who have celebrated their golden weddings; Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Brickman; Mr. and Mrs. Willie Fox and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Pulver. To all 50-year-old married couples who were present the Picton Fair played host and each was presented with a rose.

Mrs. S. Munroe, Crofton and Mrs. E. Fox, Belleville, have each enjoyed a recent holiday with Mr. and Mrs. W. Fox.

Mrs. L. Price, Selby, was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Melvin Pulver and Mr. Pulver.

Mrs. Lamb, Albury, visited Mr. and Mrs. Mac Hubbs and family. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Cronk, Wellington and Mr. B. Lowe, Kemptville, spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Morris Pulver.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Green and children spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Green, Peterborough.

Mrs. James Price, Mr. W. Price and daughter, Marilyn of Perth, were tea hours guests of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Pulver on Tuesday.

Local members of Centre W.A. attended their August meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ronald Giles.

Threshing is completed for the season and the tomato harvest is on.

Food for Thought

Readers Call The Tune

By Mary Moore

The ever-increasing food prices and the constant demands of union bosses being met time after time temporarily despressed me. But I'm feeling more optimistic this, and for a very sound reason. I vow every second housewife in Canada must be doing her own canning and pickling. Or so it seems from the letters I receive from you.

All power to you Canadian girls for taking the reins into your own hands.

You will find the pickle recipes you all want so much in Thursday's and Friday's and Saturday's papers this week. But I'm using today's column to answer some questions that are not about pickles.

QUESTION:

I enjoy your column . . . the little personal touch completes it and makes it good reading. We have 2 adopted children. . . we lost our own years ago. . . we love them both and have dreams of the future. . . at our town fair the ladies have a tent. . . they served 2,000 meals last year. I have been asked to make the coffee.. . . could you help me a little. They have 2 large boilers they keep just for coffee. . . how much water to how much coffee? When do you take the bags out and do you put them in after the water is boiling or when it is cold. . . best to you and yours. . . my motto is chin up, face the sun, never look back at the shadows . . . we are never too old to learn.—Mrs. John N. M.

ANSWER:

COFFEE FOR 100

Allow 2 1-2 lbs. finest grind coffee and 5 gallons water. Divide the coffee in halves. To 1 1-4 lbs. add 1 beaten egg and enough cold water to moisten it—about 2 1-2 to 3 cups. Pack this loosely into triple cheesecloth bag or regular cloth coffee bag and drop into 5 gallons freshly boiling water. Keep just below boiling point for 20 minutes. Remove coffee bag and add another fresh one made up like first one with egg and cold water. Simmer 10 minutes longer, then boil gently 5 minutes. Remove second bag. Add 1 pint cold water and 1-2 teaspoon salt if desired. Keep coffee hot but much below boiling point.

All power to your courage Mrs. John N. M. and good luck at the fair.

QUESTION:

Would you please send me a recipe for a flaky dough which is made with yeast and used to make fancy cakes etc. Also a flaky dough for fancy cakes without yeast.—Mrs. G. H.

ANSWER:

I am giving you the recipe for Butterscotch rolls—for I think this must be what you are referring to—or a yeast sweet bread similar to it. The dough is rolled very thin, then treated with butter and sugar and rolled like a jelly roll, and raised and baked. When eaten it gives the effect of flakiness.

BUTTERSCOTCH ROLLS

(And Swedish Tea Rings)

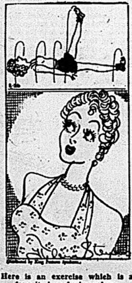
Sponge: To 1-4 cup lukewarm water add 1 broken up cake of compressed yeast and 1 tablespoon sugar. Stir and let stand until it foams up to nearly fill measuring cup. Scald 1 1-2 cups milk then cool to lukewarm. Add to softened yeast, mix well then stir in 2 1-2 cups sifted bread flour. Cover and let stand in warm place until it is light and full of bubbles. Then beat it until it is smooth. Cream together 1-2 cup butter and 1-2 cup sugar and beat into the 2 or 3 eggs. Beat this into the beaten sponge. Beat in 1 1-2 teaspoons salt and 1 cup sifted bread flour. Beat very well until smooth, then sift in enough sifted bread flour to make a soft dough, that can be kneaded readily—do not add too much flour for it will make roll heavy. You must judge this yourself. Knead until smooth. Round up the dough, place in greased bowl, cover and let rise preferably at 82 deg. Fahr. until doubled.

When risen turn out on floured board, roll to 1-4 inch thickness 15 inches wide and any length. brush with butter, sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon, roll up like jelly roll, cut in 1 inch slices. Butter bottom and sides of muffin tins generously, sprinkle with brown sugar place rolls cut side down in them. Let rise until more than doubled. Bake about 25 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr., but do not burn. Turn out of pans at once. Watch next week for flaky dough without yeast. For Swedish Tea Ring add raisins or currants or nuts to butter and sugar, form in slashed circle and bake as Butterscotch Rolls.

BEAUTY

Roll your hips away!

When Missus Hippy tries on frocks before a full-length mirror, she wonders how and why she ever let herself take on a spread amidships. She recalls her younger days, when she was slim and neat when curves were where they should be. She did what many heavyweights have done. When the bathroom scales reported an extra ten pounds or so, she thought they didn't matter. After all, she felt well. Why join up with the diet-takers? Why bother to exercise? Just too much effort. Somebody should have warned her.



Here is an exercise which is a favorite in reducing salons.

Father Time is no friend of the woman whose measurements have gone out of bounds. Fat cells multiply especially if you go on feeding them, which happens where one likes lots of butter on one's bread, piles sugar in tea or coffee, cant' keep one's fingers out of the candy box. It is senseless. Why be so completely governed by appetite? Over-indulgence in the good things of the table is bound to build adipose tissue. Lack of exercise is a factor. A youthful figure is as great an asset as a pretty face. Also, the heavyweight moves in slow-going traffic.

If you would delete those extra inches from hips and waistline, you must strengthen and tighten muscles that have lost tone and relaxed, become convenient tenements for fat cells. Before starting on this project, take careful measurements. Then, when you observe that a half-inch has vanished from the total, you will be encouraged to continue your reducing efforts.

Here is an exercise that is a favorite in reducing salons. It not only trims down the mid-section, but has a favorable effect upon the thighs. It pulls hard on the muscles extending from the waist to the calves. Don't expect immediate results. You've been a long time building that adipose blanket; you can't expect to dissolve the fatty tissues in a hurry.

Lie on your back on the floor. Lift the right foot as high as you can; then, stretching your leg full length, roll to the left. Touch the floor with your toes at the farthest possible point. You will feel a muscle pull from the waist to the calves of your legs. Six times. Then lift the left leg and roll to the right. The pressure against the floor will start the fat cells on the road to dissolution.

MARMORA

MARMORA—Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay McCarey, Cairine and Robert of Windsor, spent a few days last week with Mrs. McCarey's father, Mr. Robert Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Stone and family are occupying part of Herbert Coleman's residence.

Mr. W. J. Cottrell officiated at St. Bartholemew's Church, Bannockburn, on Sunday morning.

Laxative Slave
regains youthful regularity

"For two years I was troubled with constipation," admits woman in West Hill, Ontario. "Then I started eating ALL-BRAN regularly. No trouble of this kind since!" If you, too, suffer from irregularity due to lack of dietary bulk, why not try toasty Kellogg's ALL-BRAN? It's helped thousands to regain youthful regularity. High in iron and protein, it's not habit-forming. And the only type ready-to-eat cereal that supplies all the bulk you may need. Eat ½ cup every day; drink plenty of liquids. Kellogg's is so sure you'll like ALL-BRAN that if you're not completely satisfied after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg's, London, Ont., and get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

GOOD MANNERS

Special Invitations, Semi-engraved for Wedding Anniversary Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My husband and I are so happy about our 25th wedding anniversary (which is to be quite soon) that we would like to have the invitations to the party we are giving to celebrate the occasion something a bit special. I bought some of the large, white Informals, semi-engraved cards, the kind that "request the pleasure of your company" . . . this engraved, as well as "on" (for the date) and "at" for the hour. Was it all right for me to buy these? Are you correct?

2. How can I indicate on these that it is our wedding anniversary? The hour is to be 7:30 . . . would I take it for granted that the guests would know how it is to be dinner (buffet), or should I include this? Also, as it is most important that I know how many are accepting, may I write "R.S.V.P." on cards of this kind?

1. Yes . . . this is an excellent and most convenient type of card to use for just this kind of occasion. And these invitations will indicate the importance of the occasion, and suggest that you would like to have your friends dress in compliment to the occasion.

2. Write the years above your names. The card like this, to include the details you asked about:

1927—1952
Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith request the pleasure of your company at buffet dinner on Friday, October, 18th at 7:30 o'clock.
R.s.v.p.

Notes: Including the years on the invitations, 1927-1952, means it is an anniversary party. It would be practical, I think, to include the kind of occasion . . . buffet dinner. And yes, R.s.v.p. is correct on these cards . . . but only the first initial is capitalized. And if it is necessary to give your address, write this opposite the R.s.v.p.

Courtesy Definitely Does not Require Hosts Staying from Church

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I read your answer the other day to the reader who asked the proper procedure concerning asking guests about going to church, that is whether they would like to go to the hosts' church or to one of their own denomination, if the denomination differed. Your answer was helpful to me, too, for that problem came up in our house the very next weekend. Now I have another question on this church-procedure: When house guests are not interested in going to church, and we either know it before they come to visit us, or they tell us when the subject comes up, is it discourteous for my husband and me, who are regular church-goers, to go to church and leave our guests for this hour and a half or two hours? Hostess

Not a bit discourteous for you and your husband to leave your guests . . . naturally they would understand. I just couldn't imagine a guest who wouldn't understand!

MARMORA

MARMORA—Mrs. H. J. Neath and daughters, Shirley and Sandra and Mr. Joseph Neath left on Friday on an aerial trip to England to visit relatives there.
